Pension for Victim

The house of representatives yesterday voted a pension of $100 a month for life to Washington youth who was crippled by bullet fired by a dry officer. (Story on page 4.)

Chicago dry bureau will take charge of all federal enforcement activities in Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin under the regrouping of prohibition machinery under the department of justice, which takes effect July 1.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—Whether the Wickersham commission will continue its activities after July 1 and with what limitations was uncertain today after a subcommittee of the senate appropriations committee approved a plan to give the commission $50,000 for an inquiry into prohibition only.

Yesterday, as the result of a point of order raised by Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.], the house eliminated from the second deficiency bill a $250,000 appropriation asked by the commission for the purpose of proceeding with its criminal law studies during the next fiscal year. The bill went to the senate subcommittee today with the appropriation stricken out.

By a vote of 6 to 1, the subcommittee agreed to submit to the senate an amendment replacing the $250,000 with $50,000, with the prohibition restriction. The result of such a restriction would be that the commission would be compelled to drop its inquiry into judicial procedure, prisons, juvenile delinquency and a number of other subjects upon which its experts are working.

Jones Wants Larger Sum.

Senator Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash.], a militant dry, cast the only vote in the subcommittee in favor of replacing the full $250,000 appropriation without restrictions. Senator Jones said he did not think the committee should be halted when only half way through with its job.

Those voting for the smaller amount and the restriction were Senators Hiram Bingham [Rep., Mass.], Lawrence C. Phipps [Rep., Colo.], John B. Kendrick [Dem., Wyo.], Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], and Lee S. Overman [Dem., N. C.].

No word has been received from members of the commission or from the White House in behalf of the commission's appropriation but it was believed that the administration may take a hand.

Clancy Attacks Bill.

The Wickersham commission's bill to curb liquor smuggling by unifying and extending the federal border patrol services was attacked today by Representative Robert H. Clancy [Rep., Mich.] as a repressive measure which will cause "a wave of fierce indignation" in the border states.

The border patrol measure, one of a half dozen bills recommended by the Wickersham group to tighten prohibition enforcement, provides not only for the consolidation of the border prohibition, customs, and immigration forces, but also revises regulations dealing with movements of American citizens across the Canadian and Mexican borders.

Mr. Clancy objected in particular to the wiping out of the provision in the navigation laws exempting yachts under 15 tons burden from customs inspection when they visited contiguous countries and have not purchased dutiable merchandise.

Representative Clancy also objected bitterly to the bills' provision requiring compulsory registration of all American citizens who cross the border, declaring that it will cause unfriendly relations with Canada and Mexico by "hampering and restricting innocent travel."

ENLARGE BUREAU HERE

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—Division of the country into twelve prohibition administrative districts has been definitely decided upon as one of the first reorganization steps to be taken by the department of justice when the dry enforcement bureau is transferred from the treasury department on July 1.

CHICAGO CRIME UNDER CONTROL, ALCOCK SAYS

Chief Praises Police for Week's Work.

$55,825 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,825 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle, Tribune reporter. The information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street, telephone State 3729.

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock announced yesterday, after six days as head of the police department, that "Chicago is a good city and the police are masters of the crime situation."

He was looking over daily reports of crime and police activity for the last week. He said they made him proud of the accomplishments of his 6,000 men and that the reports belied the reputation given Chicago "because of a few spectacular murders due to prohibition."

"I want the men to continue to give Chicago the best that is in them and they can be assured I will be looking after their interests," Alcock said in explaining a few of his recent orders. One of these orders was that every member of the department, including detectives, must have a uniform within ten days.

"I don't want to inflict hardships but it is necessary that every member of the department have a uniform for use in an emergency," Alcock said. "Riots or strikes make it necessary sometimes for even the detective branch to be put in uniform on a few hours' notice.

"Fight for Chicago's Name."

"I'll be fighting for the men in matters pertaining to their wages and conveniences and I want them to be fighting, not for me but for the good name of Chicago. I want them to be neat and clean and to maintain a military bearing at all times.

"They can buy the blue uniforms inasmuch as after this summer the khaki uniform will be discarded and the Sam Browne belts are to go, though I want the police to wear their revolvers outside instead of in a pocket."

Alcock said major crimes have been few in the last week and the detective division has been able to give considerable time to investigation of the murder of Alfred Lingle, TRIBUNE reporter, and the only other recent murder chargeable to gangsters—that of Lorenzo Juliano, alcohol chief of the southern part of Cook county, whose body was found on Friday in the city of Blue Island.

Trace Blanket to Oak Forest.

At the inquest into Juliano's death yesterday it was disclosed that the blanket wrapped about the head of the dead man had been taken from the Oak Forest infirmary. Records of that institution showed that in 1921 a boy named Louis Juliano had been a patient there because of bone tuberculosis. He was discharged in 1926 and returned again in 1928 and was discharged again a few months later.

Constantine Juliano, a brother of the slain man, said the boy was not a relative, but that another of his brothers, Joseph, had been a patient at Oak Forest and had died there in 1921. Because of the mystery regarding the blanket detectives of the state's attorney's office were considering a theory that Juliano might have been slain because of some family trouble.

Hunting a Stolen Still.

The Blue Island police said they were informed that some one had stolen a still from Juliano a few months ago and he had been hunting it until his death. The finding of grease and oil on his clothing suggested that possibly he had found the stolen still and was killed when he tried to take possession of it, the police said.

The police of Robinson, Ill., yesterday were holding two men as suspects of the Lingle murder. Sheriff C. H. Wallace arrested them yesterday after a gun battle. They gave the names of Michael O'Neil and Thomas Julian. They said they had never been in Chicago, but papers on O'Neil contradicted his statement. They had burglar tools in their possession, Sheriff Wallace said.

SILENT ON INQUIRY

State's Attorney Swanson said yesterday he had nothing to reveal about the progress of the investigation of the murder of Alfred Lingle, TRIBUNE reporter. He said he deplored publicity naming persons who may or

DIVES IN POOL AND PULLS OUT DROWNING MAN

Submerged for more than three minutes in the bathing pool at Cermak park, Lyons, John Harshbarger, 32 years old, 3820 Grove street, was at the point of drowning last night when two swimmers accidentally discovered his plight and rescued him.

Harshbarger, who cannot swim, was wading with his 5 year old daughter on his shoulders when he lost his footing. Two members of a picnic party plunged into the pool and saved the child but, in the confusion, overlooked Harshbarger.

He had ceased to breathe and was unconscious when Laddie Novak, 2537 South Ridgeland avenue, Berwyn, student at Armour institute and holder of a Red Cross life saving medal, touched him with his foot as he swam by. Novak dove and with the aid of Arthur Kozelka, 3209 South Crawford avenue, brought Harshbarger ashore. He was taken to the Oak Park hospital, in a serious condition.

PARALYZED, HE LIES ALL NIGHT ON RAIL TRACK

South Bend, Ind., June 21.—[Special.]—For five long hours—made trebly terrible by the dark of night—W. T. Mitchell, West Allis, Wis., lay paralyzed here, his head resting on a railroad rail, fearing any moment a train might come.

Mitchell was unable to call for aid. A war veteran, he became ill while walking along the Lincoln highway, staggered from the road and fell on the railroad track. The blow on his head, as it struck the rail, paralyzed him.

It was not until he lay in the South Bend hospital that Mitchell learned the railroad on which he lay was the old South Bend, St. Joseph and Southern, over which no train had passed in seven years.

WATCH YOUR $10 NOTES, IF ANY; BOGUS ONES OUT

Washington, D. C., June 21.—(AP)—The secret service tonight issued a warning that an "extremely dangerous" counterfeit of a $10 note of the Kansas City Federal Reserve bank was being circulated. The bill is a counterfeit of the bank's 1928 series. It bears check letter "J," face plate No. 2, back plate No. 29, and is signed by H. T. Tate as treasurer of the United States and by Secretary Mellon. It bears the portrait of Hamilton.

Wrests Gun from Bandits and Fires as They Escape

Wresting a pistol from one of two armed men, whom he found robbing the till of his grocery at 4207 West Madison street, James Solick routed the pair by firing three shots, one of which drilled the windshield of the sedan in which they fled. Apparently unwounded, the robbers escaped with $200, which the grocer's sister, Anna, had handed them.

Warn of Rising July 4th Tolls After Boy Dies

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Twenty years ago July Fourth was a glorious one with a burnt offering to the goddess of liberty, missing fingers, blinded children, smoking ruins of homes, and an appalling death list. Gunpowder and cannon crackers were the first requisities of an appropriate celebration. Concerted effort throughout the country over two decades brought the casualty list down to 2 per cent of what it had been. Now there is evidence that in Chicago the pendulum is swinging back to the former mark.

On Friday the city had its first fireworks fatality of the year when 10 year old James R. Robinson Jr. died of tetanus at St. Anne's hospital. The infection developed after a toy gun exploded in his hands on May 13. Statistics of the last few years would indicate that it will be surprising if July 5 arrives this year without further deaths from fireworks.

Figures on Casualties.

An illustration of what has resulted from the "safety first" activities for July Fourths since 1909 may be taken from the figures compiled for the country up to 1917:

	Dead.	Injured.
1910	131	2,792
1911	57	1,546
1912	41	947
1913	32	1,131
1914	40	1,466
1915	30	1,135
1916	30	820
1917	5	196

Chicago's records for the years since 1917 demonstrate the tendency toward a return to the perilous "insane Fourth."

	Dead.	Injured.
1918	None	4
1924	1	6
1925	5	15
1926	None	10
1927	1	60
1928	6	46
1929	3	*28

Prompt Treatment Imperative.

Tetanus developing from powder burns constitutes one of the gravest of July Fourth hazards, health authorities warn the public. To prevent lockjaw these safeguards should be used:

1. Every wound should receive prompt and thorough treatment.
2. Wounds should be cleansed thoroughly.
3. A doctor should be consulted immediately.
4. Antitoxin should be administered if necessary.
5. Gunshot wounds and those produced by blank cartridges should receive prophylactic treatment with antitoxin.
6. Don't take chances.

Antitoxin treatment may be obtained by Chicagoans in emergencies, at the Iroquois Memorial hospital, 23 North Wacker drive.

DOERBERG, Germany, June 21.—(AP)—Ernst Ebe, German glider pilot, was killed today when his machine fell from a height of 200 feet.

TWO BANDITS KILL LAUNDRY DRIVER; ROB TWO OTHERS

Two young gunmen, riding in a green roadster and preying on laundry drivers, climaxed a series of three holdups yesterday by killing a driver who resisted. Their victim, John Woody, 725 West 25th street, employé of the Grand laundry, 3037 Calumet avenue, died at the Jackson Park hospital.

The robbers began operations about 3:20 p. m. when, in the rear of 7152 Cornell avenue, they held up Carl Anderson, driver for the Drexel laundry, 932 East 43d street, who handed over $50. Their next victim, stopped at 91st street and Hoyne avenue, was C. S. Polson, 5918 South Aberdeen street. He lost $20.

Woody, held up as he made a delivery at 8043 Rhodes avenue, grappled with one of the team while the other rummaged for his wallet. With a curse, the gunman pulled the trigger and, as Woody fell, both fled without robbing him.

Bullet from Boy's Target Range Wounds Neighbor

Frank Kellen, 22 years old, was watering plants is his father's greenhouse at 2339 Greenleaf avenue yesterday morning when a bullet shattered the greenhouse glass and struck him in the head, inflicting a serious wound. Later the Rogers Park police found in the basement of a residence at 2330 Lunt avenue, in the rear of the greenhouse, a target range on which John Bates, 13 years old, admitted he had been shooting a rifle. The police decided not to hold the boy until surgeons at the St. Francis hospital, Evanston, had removed the bullet from Kellen's skull.

No-Stop Flight from Sunrise Until Sunset

MEXICO CITY, June 21.—Col. Roberto Fierro, Mexico's new air hero, completed his nonstop flight from New York to Mexico City at 5:05 p. m. today [6:05 Chicago time]. Leaving Roosevelt field early this morning he covered the distance of 2,200 miles in 16 hours and 35 minutes, clipping ten hours from the time made by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh between Washington and Mexico City in December, 1927.

Col. Fierro made a clean landing in the mud of Valbuena field, while thousands, waiting to greet him, went wild over the feat of the man who, since the deaths of Capt. Emilio Carranza, killed while trying the same flight two years ago, and Col. Pablo Sidar, is looked upon to carry Mexican aviation to new honors. Arnulfo Cortes, a mechanic, accompanied Col. Fierro.

War Planes Meet Flyers.

Shortly before 5 o'clock this afternoon Col. Fierro appeared through the mist in the valley of Mexico, accompanied by several war planes which had gone out to meet him. By this time the crowd had become so dense in and about the grandstand and landing field that soldiers were called to keep the crowd in order. But the mob broke through the lines and swarmed the field. It was necessary to clear the field before Col. Fierro could land.

As soon as Col. Fierro's plane came to a stop the crowd rushed to Fierro, carrying him and his mechanic away on their shoulders.

At 4:40 p. m., shortly before Col. Fierro arrived, one of the escort pilots, who missed the nonstop plane, returned and circled the field. The crowd below set up a great cheering, believing it was Fierro, but the colonel did not arrive for almost half an hour afterward.

Fogs Endangered Flight.

President Ortiz Rubio, Secretary of War Amaro, and other high army officers greeted Col. Fierro when he stepped out of his plane. Col. Fierro said he had anticipated making the flight in 16 hours. He flew a Lockheed Sirius monoplane, a duplicate of that used by Col. Lindbergh on his recent cross-country flight.

Col. Fierro said he ran through heavy mist and fogs in crossing the mountains between Tampico and the valley of Mexico, and at times it was impossible to see land. He followed a route from Roosevelt field by Montgomery, Ala.; New Orleans, Brownsville, Tex., and Tampico. Col. Lindbergh required 27 hours and 10 minutes for his nonstop flight from Washington to Mexico City.

UP FOR 248 HOURS

The endurance plane City of Chicago," had been aloft 248 hours at 12:40 a. m. today and a note dropped by John and Kenneth Hunter, copilots, read "Everything okey." Albert and Walter Hunter, in charge of refueling, reported they had made 82 contacts. Miss Irene Hunter, sister, is doing the cooking for the flyers at Sky Harbor. The plane passed the half way mark Friday. The endurance record is 420 hours.

ORDER POLICE TO NOT PET HOOVER'S "ONE MAN DOG"

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[UP]—Pat, the only police dog in the White House kennels, is to be a "one-man dog," and President Hoover is to be the man.

Pat has become friendly with members of the White House police, and with one officer in particular. On one occasion the dog failed to heed Mr. Hoover's call when the officer was nearby, and today the order went out that all policemen were to refrain from petting the dog.

It was explained by Lawrence Richey, White House secretary, that a police dog traditionally was a "one-man dog," and that it would never do to have Pat become attached to some policeman and refuse to obey his master. . . .

Mr. Hoover always has been particularly fond of police dogs, and Pat, recently presented to the White House, is the first one to be honored by the President's attention since his favorite, King Tut, died nearly a year ago.

Highland Park Youth and Girl Auto Accident Victims

Delton, Mich., June 21.—(AP)—George Collins Jr. and Miss Jeanette B. Kendall, 19, both of Highland Park, Ill., were killed in an automobile accident near Prairieville today. Alden Fork of Memphis, Tenn., and Miss Marian Collins, sister of George, were injured.

FIGHT ON NAVAL TREATY GOES TO SENATE MONDAY

Opposing Reports to Be Made.

Seek House Action

Republican house leaders will call a caucus on Tuesday to frame a program for veterans' legislation. They hope to obtain a bill suitable to President Hoover, pass it and adjourn.

Should Mr. Hoover veto the bill, the adjournment is off, as congress will be held in an effort to override the veto.

The house also must deal with the rivers and harbors bill, the Hoover border control bill, unemployment bills, and the railroad consolidation resolution.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—The senate on Monday will receive two reports on the naval treaty. One, the majority report from the foreign relations committee, will urge ratification. The other will urge rejection of the pact.

But the senate will take no action this session. That will go over to the special session.

The majority report will come from Chairman William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho]. The minority report attacking the treaty as unfair to American interests will be submitted by Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.].

Senate leaders expressed the opinion that sixteen committee members will vote to recommend senate ratification, with four or five in the ranks of the opposition. Once voted on by the foreign relations committee, the naval treaty will remain on the calendar until the special session of the senate is called by President Hoover.

Will Seek Amendments.

Attempts to amend the treaty to permit the United States a larger percentage of 8 inch gun cruisers and to clarify ambiguous sections of the pact are slated to be made, both in the foreign relations committee rooms and on the senate floor. A tentative checkup of the opposition to the treaty in its present form made by administration supporters indicates that at least thirteen and possibly more than twenty senators will be found in the ranks of the opposition when debate begins.

Those considered certain opponents of the treaty are Senators Johnson, George H. Moses [Rep., N. H.], Arthur R. Robinson [Rep., Ind.], Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.], Frederick Hale [Rep., Me.], Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], and Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.].

Robinson Talks on Radio.

While administration leaders expressed confidence of early ratification of the pact, once it reaches the senate floor, there was no letup today in the drive to win popular support of the pact. Another of the series of radio addresses, begun a week ago when Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson denounced the treaty opposition and defended the pact, was broadcast over a nation-wide hookup today. Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], minority leader and one of the two senators on the American delegation to the London conference, was the speaker. In a thirty minute talk he minimized the criticism directed against the treaty and asserted its provisions "are desirable and effective from every standpoint which an American can occupy."

It was learned that President Hoover may broadcast another treaty address if such a step is considered advisable.

Senator Robinson stressed the assertion that the nation with ships built has a great advantage at a naval limitation conference over one which has only a paper program.

Inferior in Cruisers.

"Following the Washington conference of 1922 Great Britain and Japan carried forward large construction programs in all auxiliary craft so that when the London conference assembled, the United States navy was notably inferior to the navies of Great Britain and Japan with respect to cruisers," Mr. Robinson said.

"In destroyers our tonnage materially exceeded that of either of the other powers, but practically all of it was constructed hastily during the war. No destroyers have been laid down by the United States within the last ten years, while both Japan and Great Britain have had steady continuing programs, with the result that the large proportion of their destroyer tonnage is new and superior compared to our own. The treaty limits the United States and Great Britain each to 150,000 and Japan to 105,500 tons.

Improve Submarine Ratio.

"Our delegates entered the conference at a disadvantage with respect to sub-sea craft. We had submarines built, building and appropriated for Dec. 31, 1929, 69,510 tons, while Japan had 77,842. Japan entered the conference with a ratio in her favor as compared with the United States of 10 to 12. Under the treaty the United States, Great Britain and Japan receive parity at 52,700 tons.

"It would seem that the arrangement for the United States with respect to submarines should be regarded as satisfactory in view of the tonnage possessed by Japan at the time of the conference meet.

"It is with respect to cruisers that the principal opposition to the treaty arises. Members of the general board and others maintain that the division of cruisers into two subcategories, and the acceptance of only eighteen 8 inch cruisers for the United States to fifteen for Great Britain [particularly in view of the fact that two of ours are not to be completed during the life of the treaty] constitute a sacrifice of the safety of the United States and such disparity between Great Britain and our country in cruisers as requires the rejection of the treaty.

Says United States Gained.

"It is difficult to comprehend such an argument. It should be remembered that when the conference met Great Britain had four times, and Japan two times, the tonnage of the United States in cruisers actually in commission.

"From a position of inferiority the United States passes, during the life of the treaty, to a place of marked superiority in the 8 inch cruiser subclass.

"The net difference in cruiser tonnage to be possessed by Great Britain and the United States will be 150,500 in favor of Great Britain. Considering the fact that the treaty gives us the advantage already mentioned in 8 inch cruisers this difference is trivial."

PLAN SPEED IN HOUSE

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—With difficulties surrounding veterans' legislation continuing to be the principal factor making plans for adjournment of congress doubtful Republican house leaders today proposed a party caucus to be held Tuesday. The purpose is to line up the Republican membership behind a program for approval of a modified veterans' bill which will receive President Hoover's signature and facilitate prompt adjournment.

The senate is scheduled to pass the bill on Monday. But house leaders want to modify it as they are convinced that in its present form it would be vetoed by Mr. Hoover.

In that contingency, the house leaders will refuse adjournment and attempt to pass it over the veto.

Seek to Reduce Cost.

Plans for a caucus were discussed in a meeting of the Republican steering committee. The program remains somewhat tentative, awaiting action on Monday by the senate where an effort is being made to amend the compensation provisions of the veterans' bill in such a way as to reduce the cost, so as not to threaten a deficit in the treasury.

In the light of the situation affecting the veterans' bill and other legislation Speaker Longworth said that it is by no means certain that congress can adjourn next week. The speaker's pessimism is not shared by senate leaders.

Numerous problems confront both houses. The house plans on Monday to concur in senate amendments to the rivers and harbors bill and anticipates no serious difficulty.

The house has numerous other matters which are awaiting attention, including the administration border patrol bill, the Vestal copyright bill, the Wagner unemployment bills, and the senate railroad consolidation resolution.

WORLDRELATIONS TO BE TOPIC AT ROTARY MEETING

Trade Practices Will Be Discussed.

International relations will form one of the most important subjects for discussion at the Rotary International silver anniversary convention which opens in Chicago tomorrow. It will be taken up from a personal rather than a political viewpoint.

Prince Iyesato Tokugawa, president of the Japanese house of peers, whose daughter recently married the brother of the Japanese emperor, is to talk on national aspirations and their effects on international relations. Sir Henry W. Thornton, president of the Canadian National railways, will speak on the importance of commerce and industry international relations, and Admiral Mark Kerr, British naval and air force officer and author, will have for his subject, "The Interdependence of Nations."

Officials to Be Guests.

Tuesday evening will be devoted to international, state, and district dinners. Plans for a banquet for three hundred have been made for the Spanish-Portuguese speaking group. Canadian Rotarians will hold district dinners. Governors Meyers Y. Cooper of Ohio and Louis L. Emmerson of Illinois will be guests at other affairs. The British empire dinner will be held Wednesday evening.

Harry H. Rogers, Tulsa, Okla., banker, president of Rotary International in 1926-'27, will review the record of the organization. The subject of his address is "After a Quarter of a Century of Rotary—Where Are We?"

After the program of formal addresses each morning there will be informal group discussions in the afternoon. These assemblies start on Tuesday with a series of 100 meetings, each one for Rotarians of the same occupation. All the Rotarians engaged in some branch of the woolen industry, from the sheep raiser to the retail clothing merchant, will meet in one section.

Hold Business Practice Parley.

A conference on business practices which will bring together five Rotarians from each country, to discuss the mechanics of international commerce, is expected to be one of the most interesting meetings of the convention.

Just before the closing formalities on Friday there will be a symposium on the Rotary activity in different parts of the world in promoting international understanding and good will. Heer W. De Cock Buning of The Hague will speak for the Rotarians of Europe. Judge John Wu of Shanghai, China, will be the spokesman for the far east. Peter E. Souddah of Jaffa, Palestine, will speak as the representative of the near east. Louis Machado, retiring president of the Rotary club of Havana, Cuba, will be the spokesman for Latin America.

Europe's Group Arrives Today.

The European delegation, which numbers about 175 from Great Britain and Ireland, 30 from Italy, 15 from Holland, 15 from Czecho-Slovakia, and 5 from Austria, will arrive in Chicago this afternoon.

Two candidates are actively in the field for the presidency of Rotary International for the term beginning July 1 next. They are Raymond J. Knoeppel, New York attorney, and Almon E. Roth, Palo Alto, Cal., controller of Leland Stanford university.

ABSENT VOTERS CAST BALLOTS ON TRACTION BILL

Voters who intend leaving the city before the traction referendum July 1 have been visiting the offices of the election commissioners in the city hall to cast their ballots. Yesterday, Maj. Gen. Milton J. Foreman escorted his sisters, the Misses Blanche and Agnes Foreman, to the office, where they voted prior to a trip to Europe. Boetius Sullivan, Democratic politician, preceded the Foreman family by two days, aiding his wife, sister, and brother-in-law in voting before they left for Europe. The election commissioners said that those leaving town could cast their votes in person not later than Saturday and by mail not later than Wednesday.

Start Enrolling 20,000 Rotarians for Convention

First arrivals for convention of Rotary International, which opens tomorrow night, being enrolled in foyer of Peoples Gas building yesterday. More than 20,000 delegates and their wives will be in attendance.

Better Transit Up to Voters, McDonough Says; Political Economist Criticizes Car Ordinance

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Ald. Joseph B. McDonough, chairman of the nonpartisan committee favoring the proposed transportation ordinance, replied yesterday to the columns of criticism of the ordinance. He said:

"If you want better and more transportation vote for the ordinance at the referendum on July 1. If you don't, vote against it. The proponents of the ordinance pledge Chicago transportation. The opponents promise nothing.

"The issue is clear. The critics of the ordinance advocate delay or no action at all. They ask the public to wait for municipal ownership or something else in the future. They have expressed doubts about this and fears about that, but none of them have promised adequate transportation for Chicago within any reasonable time. They have no agreed plan or program.

What Proponents Promise.

"The advocates of the ordinance promise $200,000,000 in improvements, which include 300 miles of surface lines extensions, 100 miles of elevated track, 1,000 new surface cars, 1,000 elevated cars, large saving in travel in nearly every section of the city transfers between the surface and elevated lines for the present price of a ride on the elevated, and home rule over local transportation.

"If the public wants these benefits it should vote for the ordinance. Otherwise its vote should be negative."

150 Groups Indorse Plan.

Ald. McDonough said that last Sunday 68 organizations—labor, civic, and business—had indorsed the ordinance. The number has now risen to 150, he said. The following table shows all three sides of the city represented in these groups, including 15 with city wide membership, and the total membership claimed:

	Groups.	Members.
North side	52	14,420
West side	45	11,650
South side	38	41,345
Building Trades council	1	125,000
Civil legion	1	21,960
Other city-wide	13	16,400
Totals	150	230,775

Among the new indorsements of the ordinance by organizations are the following made public by the McDonough committee:

- Arcadia Women's club.
- Arcadia Terrace Garden club.
- Ravenswood Improvement association.
- Kiwanis club of Ravenswood.
- North Center Lions' club.

The opponents of the ordinance put out a criticism of it yesterday by Paul O. Douglas, professor of political economy at the University of Chicago.

"While the ordinance purports to give the companies a terminable permit," says Prof. Douglas, "it gives them in reality a perpetual franchise. Here it should be noted that the city is not given the power either in legislation or in the franchise to terminate the occupancy of the city streets by the traction companies for misuser or nonuser.

"This is a crucial defect in the whole setup which has been pointed out over and over again."

Calls Valuation Too High.

Prof. Douglas says that "one of the grave defects" in the ordinance is the lack of automatic amortization. Regarding another point he says:

"The valuation figure of $260,552,000, which is attached to the lines, is grossly in excess of the real value of the properties upon either the basis of the original cost less depreciation or the reproduction cost less depreciation. When combined with the provision that the new company must receive a 'reasonable return' it makes an appreciable increase in fares inevitable."

On another topic in the ordinance Prof. Douglas says: "There is no surety that the promised $200,000,000 worth of extensions will be constructed. The chief argument which is advanced in favor of the ordinance is that it will enable extensions to be undertaken. Car riders are told these will reduce the riding time, real estate owners that the land values will rise, and workers that unemployment will be reduced."

Sees Year's Delay in Work.

Prof. Douglas says that "at the very outside, work cannot be expected to start for almost a year."

He declares that the company can get the state law changed so that it will not have to make the promised extensions.

All these objections have been urged by other opponents of the ordinance. Prof. Douglas adds another:

"It is a grave defect in the ordinance that it does not provide for the abolition of the elevated loop."

BYRD'S HEROES, EXPLOITS DONE, NOW HUNT JOBS

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—With the plaudits of the national capital still echoing in their ears, most of the members of the Byrd antarctic expedition returned from Washington to New York today and immediately tackled the problem of getting back into the routine of ordinary life.

To most of them the problem is first of all one of finding a job. At the very moment when they are being hailed as heroes, many of them are thinking intently about how they are to earn a living. The bulk of them have served with Admiral Byrd for no salary at all, or for nominal pay which was sent to their families.

Give Facts on Ability.

To meet the need Capt. Ashley C. McKinley, adjutant of the expedition, began yesterday distributing questionnaires to those who want jobs. These questionnaires, containing full data on each man's training and past record, together with data on what he did with the expedition, will be filed at headquarters for the information of employers.

Capt. McKinley pointed out that the members of the expedition were volunteers who had been chosen from among 15,000 applicants and, that they included men trained in many varieties of work. Among them are seamen, carpenters, machinists, engineers, radio operators and surveyors.

"Some of the men feel precisely as most of us did when we got home from the war," said Capt. H. H. Reiley, Admiral Byrd's personal representative.

Byrd Back in Virginia.

Richmond, Va., June 21.—(AP)—"Dick" Byrd came back to old Virginia today to receive the welcome of a conquering hero.

Thousands of Virginians cheered and shouted themselves hoarse as the man who conquered the icy coldness of the polar skies stepped upon the soil of his native state. Through solid walls of friends and citizens Rear Admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd rode in triumph and acknowledged the tumultuous greeting with salutes and modest bows.

Tired but happy, the admiral retired after the ceremony to "Laburnum," home of John Stewart Bryan, who was also his host after his north pole flight, for a dinner with his immediate family, before accepting a sword of honor, wrought in gold and silver, as the gift of his native state.

With him were his mother, Mrs. Richard Evelyn Byrd; his wife, Mrs. Marie Byrd; Mrs. Harry Flood Byrd, and his brothers, Harry and Tom.

MANIAC HURLS FIVE TO DEATH OFF A PRECIPICE

Kills Family, Then Self in Sight of Crowd.

New Haven, Conn., June 21.—[Special.]—Raymond C. Spang of Ansonia, Conn., hurled his wife and their four children over the face of a 400 foot cliff here today. An hour later, while firemen and police tried to rescue him from a ledge half way down, he dived head foremost to his own death. Spang had escaped from the Brooklyn State hospital last night after going there nine weeks ago for a nervous breakdown.

The trip to West Rock park with his family was a junket in celebration of his return. He drove in a borrowed car up to the summit, which commands a view of Long Island sound and the surrounding countryside.

There was no one in that section of the park at the time, 10 o'clock in the morning. The Spangs left the car and went to a little rock ledge at the brink of the sheer drop down the rough face of the cliff.

Kills Youngest Child First.

From the story of witnesses who saw the latter part of the tragedy, it is believed that Mrs. Spang and one of the two boys wandered back from the edge, behind some trees. While they were out of sight Spang seized his youngest son, Donald, 4 years old, and threw him far out over the edge of the cliff. The little body whirled through the air and came to rest on the broken rocks at the base.

Boys playing baseball in a diamond not far away thought the child had fallen. While they and other onlookers scanned the heights to see where the body had come from they saw Spang seize Helen, 10 years old, his oldest child, and throw her after her brother. By this time the neighborhood below was in turmoil. All eyes were turned to the cliff in impotent horror while Spang dispatched the rest of his family and ended his own life.

Struggles with Wife.

Lorraine, 7 years old, was the third to go. Mrs. Spang had heard the screams of Helen and came running back to try to save Lorraine. She battled with her husband, much lighter in build, he prevailed and Lorraine's body was tossed over the brink. It caught in a tree about 100 feet down.

The watchers below saw Mrs. Spang and Raymond, 5 years old, disappear from view as they ran back from the edge. In a moment Spang was after them. The police are convinced that there was a struggle in the brush wood as Mrs. Spang fought vainly to save her oldest boy and herself. But their bodies soon came plunging down the precipice. Raymond's body caught near that of his sister, Lorraine.

Police Arrive too Late.

By this time the first policemen, sent in answer to dozens of telephone calls, were on the scene. They were too late to do anything.

Spang scrambled over the edge of the cliff climbed down to the two children whose bodies had lodged and who presumably were still alive.

While a policeman fired a shot at him and William Hague, a drug store manager, empied four shotgun shells in his direction he dislodged the little bodies one at a time, raised them above his head and heaved them as far out as he could.

Then he continued his scramble down the face of the rock. At a point approximately half way down he slipped, and paused on a small ledge. There he sat flinging loose pieces of stone at those below who were trying to reach the bodies of his wife and children.

Talks to a Fireman.

Rudolph Berube, a fireman with a rope slung around his waist, was lowered over the edge and down the face of the rock to within a few feet of the maniac. Spang told the fireman that he had thrown over his family, but he declined to be rescued from his perch.

Finally, grinning broadly, he arose, took off his left shoe, and tossed it over the cliff. Leisurely he crossed himself and then poised as a swimmer might on the brink of a pool. He flexed his knees, threw his hands above his head and in a graceful swan dive launched forth. There was a murmur of horror from the crowd. Spang's head struck a jutting rock, he tumbled, a broken thing, to the base of the cliff.

A War Veteran.

Spang was 35 years old. He was well known in Ansonia, his home town. He had been employed as a filing clerk.

Spang enlisted in the army May [illegible], 1917. He was honorably discharged on Feb. 27, 1919, serving at Camp Devens, Ayers, Mass. He did not serve in France. In 1919 he was married to Gertrude Carey of Ansonia, a school teacher.

DROWNS CRIPPLE SON, THEN ENDS HIS OWN LIFE

Jacksonville, Fla., June 21.—[U.P.]—Louis Weis, 54, shot and killed himself today after apparently taking the life of his son, Francis, 15, a paralytic, by leaving him to drown in a bathtub.

Duval county authorities accepted the theory that Weis carried his helpless son to the second floor of the Weis home, placed him in a bathtub full of water, and left him. The boy was physically unable to struggle to safety.

Mrs. Weis, on the main floor, heard a pistol shot, and found Weis dead on the living room floor, a bullet in his brain. She called neighbors, but not until several hours later was she told that the son, too, had met a violent death.

Weis was formerly a wealthy real estate operator, but had recently met financial reverses.

SEIZE BOY AFTER THEFT.

[illegible] Ioosta, 13 years old, 710 West [illegible] place, was arrested after a chase in the Woolworth 5 and 10 cent store yesterday at 219 South State street, where he had taken $4 from a cash register. He was taken to the Juvenile Detention home.

OFFICIAL POPULATION OF WASHINGTON IS PUT AT 1,557,540

Seattle, Wash., June 21.—(AP)—Complete official figures for Washington give the state a population of 1,557,540, a gain of 200,919 over 1920, or 14.73 per cent. Twelve of the 39 counties show decreases.

Duluth Total, 101,231.

Duluth, Minn., June 21.—(AP)—Duluth's population tonight was announced as 101,231 by Clarence O. Tormoen, district census supervisor. The population in 1920 was 98,917.

Texas Near 6,000,000 Mark.

Dallas, Tex., June 21.—(AP)—A Texas population of nearly 6,000,000 was the prospect tonight when the Associated Press compiled census returns from 225 of the 254 counties. The 225 counties which had completed their returns showed 5,097,457 residents, as against a total for Texas of 4,663,228 in 1920.

Superior, Wis., Loses 3,500.

Superior, Wis., June 21.—(AP)—Superior has lost more than 3,500 residents in ten years, 1930 census figures revealed today. The present population is 36,091.

MAN AND WOMAN SAIL DORY FROM BERMUDA TO U. S.

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—In an incredibly small boat with a single sail, Erie Johnson, 24, of Bermuda, and Miss Florence Smith of Grand Manan, N. B., sailed into port late Friday night and announced that they had come from Bermuda in sixteen days. The small but sturdy fifteen foot dory in which Johnson and his one woman crew navigated northward with only hope and a small pocket compass to guide them, seemed none the worse for rough weather today and they announced that in a few days they would set out again for Grand Manan, near the entrance of Passamaquoddy bay.

WOMAN HURT IN FALL DIES.

Mrs. Laura Cyman, 30 years old, 8820 Saginaw avenue, died at the South Shore hospital yesterday of injuries received in a fall in the back yard of her home.

Berwyn Now Tenth

Berwyn was boosted to tenth place among Illinois cities yesterday by a recount of census figures in Kane county, which gave Aurora's final population figure as 46,568. The preliminary total for Berwyn is 47,070. Aurora's population represents a gain of 10,171, or 27.9 per cent.

PARIS TO EXPAND; POPULATION WILL EXCEED 6,000,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 21.—The first step toward the amalgamation of a greater Paris, with more than 6,000,000 population, was taken today following the chamber of deputies' unanimous vote on Premier Tardieu's plan for handling of the operation.

Hitherto the ancient and obsolete fortifications, hemining in Paris with a ring of steel and masonry, prevented the capital from expanding and absorbing suburbs. Since the war, when fortifications proved useless for the larger cities and the government decided on their demolition, another obstacle, political this time, was injected against the expansion of Paris.

Many of the suburbs are inhabited chiefly by factory workers and are hotbeds of communism. These communities have refused to join greater Paris and special legislation was necessary for their absorption.

Two hundred and forty thousand dollars was allocated by the government to prepare for a greater Paris.

TWO TRAINS HIT AUTO; HUNDREDS FLEE IN PANIC

Motor Car Catches Fire in Crash.

Two persons were seriously injured and several hundred were trampled and badly frightened in a panic following a freak accident between an automobile and two Chicago, Aurora & Elgin trains yesterday at the 25th avenue crossing in Bellwood, a western suburb. The injuries were received in a rush for the train exits when a machine stalled on the railroad right of way and caught fire after being wedged between the trains.

The injured are Gordon Nielson, 13 years old, 727 North Taylor avenue, who was taken to the West Lake hospital, and Mrs. Louise Rudolph, 1715 North Mayfield avenue, who was taken to the Oak Park hospital. At least ten others were treated for minor injuries by physicians at the scene of the wreck.

The accident happened when Mrs. Sarah Robins, 50 years old, of Bellwood, stalled her automobile after driving on the tracks while the crossing gates were being lowered. Seeing an approaching east bound train, she and her son, Allen, 15 years old, jumped from the car and ran back to safety.

The train carrying some 100 Chicago bound commuters, struck the sedan, dragged it several hundred yards down the track and tossed it into the path of a west bound train, which had been chartered by 350 members of the Oak Park Episcopal Evangelical church.

The machine burst into flames after coming into contact with the third rail. As the fire flared up the occupants of the two trains scrambled for safety. Women screamed, windows were smashed, and passengers were knocked down in the excitement. One woman threw her 3 year old child out a train window.

Dorothy Ford, 10 months old daughter of Mrs. Elmer Ford, 2910 Gideon street, Zion, died at the Victory Memorial hospital in Waukegan yesterday from injuries received in an automobile accident last Thursday at Kenosha road and route 173, one mile north of Zion.

Three deaths in Cook county yesterday raised the 1930 motor toll to 425. The victims:

Anthony Harris, 16 years old, a Negro, 4704 South Wabash avenue. Killed in a collision of two autos at 47th and State streets.

Donald Niemonczyk, 5 years old, 4219 Melrose street. Killed when he ran into the car of Frank Veck, 3819 Eddy street. Veck is being held for the inquest.

Fred Haberman, 34 years old, 4210 West Adams street, was picked up unconscious in the street and died soon after being taken to the county hospital. He is believed to have been the victim of a hit and run driver.

EASTGATE ENCOMIUMS
Question: "Why Have You Selected This Hotel as the Place to Live?"
I've moved about a good deal since coming to Chicago, but I know a really good thing when I see it. That's why the Eastgate Hotel is to be my permanent address. With its courteous management, delightful lobbies and dining room, its cheerful service and homey atmosphere it leaves nothing to be desired.
Miss Julia Hayes, broadcasting over WBBM
The convenience of the Eastgate appeals to me. A short walk takes me to my office; yet right here I have tennis, swimming, riding—all the summer sports I love. Top that off with a comfortable bed in a clean, quiet room, up where the Lake breezes blow what could be completer?
Mr. Frank Ryan, President, The Ryan Co.
For the young woman in business, the hotel home is the ideal mode of living. It relieves you of domestic detail and provides an atmosphere of refinement, and an opportunity to meet interesting people. I have found these things and more to make life at the Eastgate a pleasure.

VOTE PENSION TO MAN MAIMED BY DRY AGENT'S GUN

May Set Precedent for Similar Cases.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—Setting a new precedent in the government's dry law policy, the house today voted a pension of $100 a month for life to George Charles Walthers of Underwood, Wash., who was paralyzed in 1923 by the bullet of a federal prohibition agent.

The house action, marking the first definite move by either house of congress to compensate a victim of a prohibition shooting evoked widespread speculation upon the possibility that it will be a forerunner of scores of other payments in similar cases. Two other bills for the relief of survivors of dry law victims are on the house calendar and several others have been introduced.

Amount Is Reduced.

Although the Walthers bill was passed without a record vote, it was preceded by a sharp debate precipitated by a charge of Representative Ross A. Collins [Dem., Miss.], a dry, that it was wrong to pay as much to an alleged bootlegger as to a disabled soldier. Collins succeeded in amending the bill to reduce the payment to Walthers from $150 a month, the amount recommended by the claims committee, to $100 a month. He then withdrew his objections and the bill passed as amended. It now goes to the senate.

The bill authorizes the secretary of the treasury to pay the sum of $100 a month to Walthers "during his natural life in full settlement of all claims against the government" with the reservation that no part of the payments shall go to attorneys or agents.

According to the report of the house committee, Walthers, who was 19 years old at the time of the shooting, is now completely paralyzed below the waist and confined to a wheel chair. He is being cared for by charitable persons in Portland, Ore.

Two Versions of Shooting.

Two versions of the shooting were reported to the committee. Walthers in an affidavit stated that he started for a walk with a friend, Reuben Quanstrom, through a path in a woods near Underwood and as he turned around to see if his friend was following, he heard a shot and fell, feeling the bullet entering his back. The shot was fired by Prohibition Agent John Montgomery.

As reported by the prohibition department, Walthers and another man had set up a still in the woods, and both Walthers and Quanstrom were carrying empty kegs toward it. Several agents had surrounded the still and as the two men approached ordered them to halt. Agent Montgomery said that he stumbled over a log and his gun discharged accidentally. The house committee held, however, that even if the latter story was true, "the prohibition agent with reasonable precaution could have prevented the alleged accidental discharge of his gun."

Neither Walthers nor Montgomery were prosecuted, although several investigations of the case were started and dragged on for several years.

Mellon Withdraws Protest.

Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon protested against passage of the relief bill, but in a later communication said he would not interpose an objection.

Representative Franklin F. Korell [Rep., Ore.] sponsored the relief bill and vigorously defended it when it was taken up today.

"In view of the statement of the secretary of the treasury I think we should know if we are recognizing the principle of compensating a bootlegger," said Representative W. H. Stafford [Rep., Wis.]. "Was he an accomplice in bootlegging?"

Korell replied that "all of the evidence tends to show that he was not." Chairman Ed M. Irwin [Rep., Ill.], of the claims committee added that he was "on suspicion only."

One of the two other bills pending in the house for relief of victims of dry law enforcement provides for an award of $5,000 to the heirs of Jacob D. Hanson of Niagara Falls, N. Y., who was killed when shot by a coast guardsman.

Child Gives Clew to "Tape Bandits"

Mrs. Kathleen Patterson and her 4 year old daughter, Louise, who caused arrest of four men on "tape robbery" charges. The child told police how men who called on her mother practiced binding each other with tape. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Set $25,000 Bond

Harry Lewis, who was trapped by a 4 year old child, was held in bonds of $25,000 by Justice of the Peace Samuel Sorenson of Lake Forest yesterday on charges of having taken $10,000 in jewelry from the Lake Forest home of Stuart J. Templeton in a robbery last January. His arrest followed the story of 4 year old Louise Patterson that Lewis, with three other men, had frequently come to the home of her mother, Mrs. Kathleen Patterson, to play a "prisoner game" in which they practiced binding and gagging each other with adhesive tape.

This method was used in the Templeton robbery and also in the raid on the Charles M. Richter home.

Senator Baird Marries Former Partner's Widow

Toledo, O., June 21.—(AP)—United States Senator David Baird Jr., of New Jersey and Mrs. Francis H. Smith were married here at 6 p. m. today in the home of Mrs. Smith's neice, Mrs. Linwood A. Miller, wife of the president of the Willys-Overland company. Only the members of the family witnessed the ceremony.

The senator's bride was the widow of his former business associate in Camden, N. J.

An erroneous Associated Press service dispatch, under date of June 19, and published by The Tribune, stated that Senator Baird and Mrs. Smith were married on that date.

STUDENT CHIEFS URGE REPEAL OF PROHIBITION LAW

Young Catholics Express Personal Views.

A half dozen young men and women leaders in Catholic colleges and universities sat around a council table yesterday in the Palmer house and voiced their disapproval of the prohibition law. They were among the 2,300 students attending the Students' Spiritual Leadership convention of Catholic youth which closes today.

The group, all members of the resolutions committee of the convention, after drafting convention resolutions having to do with Catholic educational problems, then turned to an informal discussion of prohibition. In voicing their opinions, however, they made it plain that such were not to be interpreted as the attitude of the convention, but as their own conclusions.

Comments on Student Drinking.

"I think we all stand individually with the Crusaders in their attitude toward prohibition," declared John Lane, Fordham university student. "Prohibition has done nothing to lessen drinking among students. On the contrary I believe it has brought about more drinking. I think, too, it is a duty to repeal the prohibition law because it placed power money into hands where it should not be—the lawless element, and it brings a disrespect for all law and a widespread corruption of public officials."

Don Ranney, John Carroll university student, was the next.

"I, too, stand with the Crusaders in their intention to support the constitution and prohibition as long as it is a part of the constitution," he said. "But we should do all in our power to remove the law from the constitution."

Loyola Graduate Hits Law.

William Conley, Loyola university graduate this year, was of the opinion that the only way to do away with drinking is on the initiative of the individual and not by legislation.

The woman's viewpoint was expressed by Josephine Sanguinet, Visitation academy, St. Louis, who as a Catholic woman, thought drinking "is too personal a question for legislation." She was also of the opinion that drinking is done by a small minority of students, and is not done to a mentionable extent in Catholic colleges.

LIMITS WORK OF LAW ENFORCERS TO PROHIBITION

Senate Committee Is for Curtailing.

ministration officials said that the new district lines will follow roughly the boundaries of the ten Circuit court judicial districts. At present there are 27 administrative districts in the United States and its insular possessions. Of these twenty-seven administrators, twelve probably will be taken over by the attorney general's office. A dozen others will be enrolled under Dr. James M. Doran, the new commissioner of industrial alcohol.

Chicago District Enlarged.

Officials said today that the Chicago district will be reorganized to include all of Illinois, Wisconsin, and Indiana, which make up the seventh judicial circuit.

No decision has been reached, it was said at the department of justice, as to whether E. C. Yellowley, the present administrator will be retained at Chicago. Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary in charge of customs, coast guard, and prohibition, said that Yellowley will be placed in the industrial alcohol division if his services are not desired by the department of justice.

Transfers All Arranged.

Dr. Doran and Assistant Attorney General G. A. Youngquist, who will assume the mantle of "dry czar" on the first of next month have virtually completed a division of the forces in the present prohibition unit. About 2,200 of the dry bureau will stay with Dr. Doran as employés in the industrial alcohol branch.

Howard Jones of Mr. Youngquist's legal staff looms as the most likely selection for the new post of prohibition director.

FEDERAL PROSECUTOR SAYS DRYS BUNGLED CICERO STILL RAIDS

Assistant United States Attorney Daniel Anderson yesterday declared that prohibition agents bungled the job of raiding twenty-four Capone alcohol distilleries in Cicero bungalows last week. Eight prisoners, all alky cookers, were taken in the raids.

Mr. Anderson, who prosecutes liquor cases in the federal courts, called attention to what he termed the blunder of the dry agents in view of the fact that he supplied information which started the raids, culminating in the wrecking of twelve stills on Friday night.

"An anonymous letter was sent to me giving the addresses of five places where stills were said to be running," said Mr. Anderson. "Instead of conducting an investigation with a view of determining who the real operators of these stills were, the agents proceeded with the raids. As a result, they arrested a few cookers who were paid by the week to tend the stills, and the owners were not molested."

In the raids on Friday two prisoners were seized with the twelve stills. These were arrested at 3404 South 58th avenue during the first raid. It is believed that a booze syndicate information system functioned at this time, for no attendants were found with the other stills, although the apparatus was still hot, indicating recent operation.

Mr. Anderson said that if enough agents had made the raids so that two or three men could have entered each bungalow simultaneously, at least the attendants of each still could have been apprehended, if not some of the owners.

Prohibition agents yesterday seized a 100 gallon still and a large quantity of mash in a garage at the rear of 570 North Lockwood avenue. Tony Mucie was arrested and will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Walker tomorrow morning.

KILLED IN AUTO WRECK.

Paris, Ill., June 21.—[Special.]—Homer Perisho, 29, was killed last night near St. Bernice, Ind., when an automobile overturned.

CHICAGO CRIME UNDER CONTROL, ALCOCK REPORTS

may not be under suspicion and he asked for coöperation from the newspapers in printing only authorized statements issued by him.

"We are hopeful of success in this case providing all agencies help us instead of hindering us," the prosecutor explained. "It may harm our investigation if what we are doing becomes generally known. This case requires unusual secrecy for the reason that gangsters don't ordinarily look to the newspapers to see who is under suspicion. They know. Because Lingle was a newspaperman his killers would naturally look to the papers to find out how close they are to detection and that is what we are trying to avoid."

Coroner Herman N. Bundesen joined with State's Attorney Swanson in the refusal to discuss developments in the investigation and the request for coöperation in keeping the criminals uninformed.

Sees Need of Crime News.

"Premature disclosures may be a deterrant to the solution of most crimes," the coroner said, "and in this investigation we ask that clues, names of suspects, names of witnesses, and other information be not broadcast.

"It should be emphasized that the publication of criminal news should not be discouraged. The best guarantee against corruption in criminal inquiries is that the public should learn, through the newspapers, when justice miscarries. The law wisely provides that trials of criminals must be conducted in public. But it was never intended that investigators striving earnestly to track down a criminal should be illustrated.

There's No Mystery About Alwart Bros.' Low Coal Prices
Merchandising ideas applied to the coal business — tremendous volume, cash prices and efficient business methods, are the reasons for Alwart Bros. lower prices. Whether your needs are large or small, these same savings are yours.

Highest Quality Only
We are in a position to command the cream of the output of the leading mines. We handle coal of the highest quality only. Select it carefully at the mines, prepare it ourselves and assure our customers of complete satisfaction.

Terms if Desired
While we feature low prices, particularly on cash purchases, where terms are desired Alwart Bros. customers can buy coal on deferred payments and still purchase at lower prices than elsewhere.

Prices Are Lower Now
Coal prices are at low ebb now. By ordering at this time you can take advantage of low mine prices and save even more than at other times. During 1929 Alwart cash customers—more than 28,000 in number—were able to save close to $300,000 on their coal purchases. This year we expect to provide even greater savings. JUDGE DECLINES TO CONVICT FOR JUST ONE DRINK ys' Trivial Prosecution Disgraces Law.

pokane, Wash., June 21.—[Special.] nited States District Judge George Bourquin, whose headquarters are Butte, Mont., and whose work em- s now and then cases in the of Washington also, has some s on the present habit of this republic in pursuing the humble der against the noble experiment some words of sympathy for the al district attorney driven to lice court methods" by the dry rcement authorities at the capital.

The case with which Judge Bour- n was dealing was that of the d States of America against Gust. lkis. The judge's decision, ren- ed on March 3 last, dismissed De- dant Mulkis after a trial sur- nded by the mighty power and jesty of the federal government. e charge was that Mulkis was ght by the United States govern- nt pouring for himself a drink from half pint pocket flask of a friend. o was jointly a defendant.

The Decision.

The decision of Judge Bourquin was follows:

"In a small cafe prohibition agents rved defendants pouring libation the shrine of Bacchus, a drink of isky by Mulkis for himself poured m the other's pocket flask, contain- g about one-half pint, a 'treat' and t a purchase.

"Arrest followed, and on arraign- nt it is submitted to the court ther Mulkis is guilty of unlawful ession as charged.

"The offense, if any, is too trivial engage the time of the prosecutor the court, or even that police rt which federal courts now largely . If every petty infraction, mere um prohibitum, of the rules of duct, the laws of the land, is per- uted and punished, few, if any, will ape enrollment in the category of victs; and who will be left for pers of jails and penitentiaries?

"Trivial prosecutions are generally obscure persons, and avail little to confirm Cato's famous dictum visit ridicule and reproach upon and courts and impair respect for h, to engender bitterness, resent- t, defiance, violations, and ulti- te repeal. Even the noble experi- t may not withstand too much of like.

Advice 3,000 Years Old.

"Some 3,000 years ago the 'wisest n' admonished that 'there is a hteous man that perisheth in his hteousness. . . . Be not over- h righteous. . . . Surely there not a righteous man upon earth t doeth good and sinneth not.'

"Although this old rascal may have impelled to an alibi for his own s immoralities and idolatries, none less is there wisdom in his philos- y. Multiplying peoples necessarily ltiply laws, and none can escape ation of some of them. Hence, folly of too much righteousness, much zeal in pursuit of the small nder, while those of magnitude go

"All sound commentators upon e and its remedy adhere to this losophy. In his famous works hop warns that government must t assume the full corrective func- ns of the Deity, unless a public d be done'; that trivial and more less technical offenses better pass noticed, and a prosecutor 'should cline bringing them to the attention the court, should decline either to titute or to carry on the prosecu- n. For if he carries it on, he not ly wrongs an individual, but he ngs the law itself, and the commu- y which seems thus to sustain it, disgrace. He wrongs the public.'

Judgment Not Free.

"Of course, Bishop had in mind secutors free to exercise that good gment and sound discretion which theirs. Certainly he would have shocked and indignant by district rneys robbed of these their pre- atives necessary to administration the law, and by their distant and re or less sensitive, if not nervous, periors coerced and reduced to ap- ages of enforcement agencies who tate what and whom shall or shall t be prosecuted.

"Yet this latter is the demoralizing unhappy state of federal district rneys today, is the wretched and ficient status to which administra- n of the law has been reduced.

"That the trivial must be ignored vividly illustrated by the Volstead t [27 U.S.C.A.]. It is a conservative imate that this law is transgressed million times a day. The federal urts are clogged with prosecutions ed thereon, though in number only 860 per year—immeasurably less an one-half of 1 per cent. Tinker machinery as you will, it cannot made adequate for all.

"Accordingly, until prohibition be re generally accepted, any success enforcement must be found in the verse of Cato—a net to hold the g fish, though the little fish pass rough. So, invoking the maxim, De inimus non curat lex, the order is ulkis dismissed."

JUDGE GEORGE M. BOURQUIN

TRIO, SENTENCED IN 1925 FOR VOTE FRAUD, CAPTURED

Three convicted election official were rounded up yesterday by James McQueenie, special deputy sheriff employed by the Citizens' association, which has sought the trio ever since they were sentenced to six months in jail in 1925 by County Judge Jarecki. They were convicted of election fraud.

George Herzog, alias Fred Nehring, was captured at 2648 Argyle street. Then Charles Miminger, alias Charles Newman, was discovered in the county jail, awaiting trial on a robbery charge. The third, Walter Lutz, alias William Burke, was seized in a raid on the garage of State Representative Lawrence O'Brien at 1016 North Wells street.

The men were taken to the Warren avenue police station and O'Brien appeared with a writ of habeas corpus signed by Superior Judge Peter Schwaba. Their freedom, however, was refused, because the Illinois Supreme court had upheld their sentence, and they were locked up in the county jail.

The three men were judges in the 42d ward, O'Brien's ward. William J. Connors, Democratic politician, who signed their appeal bonds, also was surety for O'Brien on his indictment by the federal government for evasion of income taxes.

Big Guns Smash Village to Thrill Crowds at War Show

'Mid the rockets' red glare, bombs bursting in air, the thunder of anti-air craft gun of latest pattern, trench mortars, field artillery, and the popping of fire crackers, the battle fo Château Thierry was reënacted last night at Soldiers' field.

It was the thrilling climax to the opening program of the military tournament staged by the United States army for the benefit of the Army Relief society. Although the old village crumbled under bombs and shells, and cavalry and infantry conquered it with victorious yells and much smoke and noise, the French village will rise swiftly from its ruins and will be ready for another fall today and every day until June 29.

Boys' Cheers Ring Out.

The first program was curtailed somewhat. It was something between a Fourth of July celebration, a circus, and a demonstration of guns at the army games at Aberdeen, Md. There was excitement enough to please the boys, thousands of whom were on hand to lift their shrill cheers over the battlefield. Every one was glad to see the "dead" soldiers rise and join their comrades at the end of the play. There was a touch of grimness in it, and the many veterans present were carried back in spirit to the days and nights on a real battlefield.

Italy shared in the glory with Uncle Sam last night, for the Italian veterans and their children took part in the celebration and the blazing faces of Mussolini and King Victor were thrown on the fire screens at the end. The little Italian girls in gay dresses, dancing under the colored lights, gave a strong contrast to the stern scenes that preceded and followed their act.

Polish, British, Scandinavian, French, Czecho-Slovakian, Belgian and German veterans and their marching societies and bands are to take part in other programs. They all marched up the avenue to the field last night to see the celebration, their flags making a bright scene along the lake front.

The night was still and warm, and the smoke from the screens and from the guns hung over the field so long that the maneuvers of artillery and cavalry were hidden at times from the big audience.

Opened with Parade.

The tournament was opened with a grand parade and review of all the participating units. The most colorful were the cavalry, troops A and B of the 14th cavalry at Fort Sheridan furnishing the entertainment. They are hard and defiant riders, taking their horses through barricades of fire and over human hurdles.

The infantry drills furnished a lesson in American history. Army uniforms from the days of the revolution through all the wars to the present were shown by the various companies of the 2d infantry from Fort Sheridan. A six gun battery from the famous 3d field artillery gave a fast driving drill and artillery demonstration, working behind a thick smoke screen part of the time and shaking the ground and stands with the thunder of their guns. Company B showed machine guns in action.

Planes Provide Spectacle.

The most spectacular part of the show was furnished by the aircraft, which combined with the ground forces in attack and which had aerial battles of their own. Sixty of the army's fastest fighting planes roared over the field, sometimes so close to the crowd that the pilots could be seen. Many of the pilots were members of the Ninety-fourth pursuit squadron, the forerunner of which was the famous Lafayette Escadrille. They drilled in the air as the infantry and cavalry drilled on the ground, swooping in and out of sight in intricate formations where the mistake of one pilot would cause a smash of some kind.

After dark three planes appeared which alternated in red, white, and green as their colors, and as a climax one plane looped and wove over the field dropping tails of fire which mingled with the rockets.

Tanks and many new devices were shown in action, but the army cannot get along without the old mules, and a part of the show was a race between cook wagons drawn by mules.

Beneath the stands many exhibits were on view, including one of firearms from the revolution to the present day.

"I'LL KILL NO MORE," MANIAC TELLS NEW YORK

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—In another fantastic note carrying on the romance of an international secret society trying to recover stolen documents from "traitors to the cause," the man who boasts that he committed two murders in Queens promised today that he would kill no more.

The letter undertook to explain the meaning of "V 3 X," the cabalistic signature the killer has used in his communications to the police, but the explanation was as bizarre as the rest of the missive's contents. His mission ended, the author said, he was returning to Russia and the headquarters of the "Red Diamond," the probably mythical group that, he said, dispatched him on his mission of death.

The note was mailed in Brooklyn Friday morning and turned over today to Capt. Herbert Graham, commanding the detectives engaged in the hunt for the murderer of Joseph Moyzynsky and Earl Sowley, both of whom were shot dead as they sat beside young women in automobiles parked in lonely lanes in Queens.

ALL THINGS ADD TO SUCCESS OF RAVINIA OPENING

Program Seen as Defense of Opera.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Everything went into a pleasant conspiracy to make the 1930 Ravinia opening exactly what its most ardent adherents could have hoped for, a clear night that was warm, but not too warm, an opera that is one of the most interesting of recent lyric works, a performance that went beyond all praise, an audience that had snapped up the last available seats days before and consequently overflowed into the walks and grounds, and finally the presence of Otto H. Kahn, financier, patron of the arts and operatic enthusiast.

It was the eighth time in eight successive years that he had made a trip of 2,000 miles to hear a performance at Ravinia, so Mr. Eckstein told the audience in introducing him. He, in his answer, said it was worth the trip.

"I get a thrill out of the performances here such as I find in few other opera houses in the world," was the way he put it.

Performed in Superb Fashion.

Because the opera was "La Campana Sommersa," and, because it was performed in such superb fashion by Elizabeth Rethberg, Giovanni Martinelli, Mario Basiola and the rest of the gallant crew, with Gennaro Papi conducting in his most masterful manner, Mr. Kahn found a theme for his remarks. It was, in effect, a defense of opera.

"It has become the fashion among the intelligentsia," he said, "to say that opera is groggy and approaching its end. This is the attitude of superior persons, superior because they no longer feel the emotions that affect you and me. The real test is whether opera can convey feelings of beauty and emotion, and by test opera is amply vindicated. Germany is at present more interested in music than any other country and Germany brought out something like seventy new operas last season."

Turning to another argument to the effect that radio, television and moving pictures would one day knock out opera, he pronounced that the talk of those of little faith. "They may, and I believe that they will, prove valuable auxiliaries," he said. "Many of the Wagner librettos are really moving picture scenarios. It would seem as though Wagner foresaw the moving pictures, as though he conceived of the possibility of putting on his own works by other means than the painted canvas and lights of his time. But no mechanical devices can ever surpass the magnetism of personality or can hope to take its place.

"To all such superior persons the final answer is a trip to Ravinia."

Story Is Fantastic One.

In fact, it was a performance to gladden the soul of all those who believe in opera. The story is a fantastic bit of folk lore, with elves and nymphs and half human beings mixing into the affairs of real humans. The music is an interesting and at time exquisite presentation of that sort of atmosphere. Perhaps from necessity it is not much more, at least there is little place for the set aria or the conventional chorus. But it is worth the time and trouble to hear the lovely singing of Mme. Rethberg in her not quite human rôle, or the superb virility of Mr. Martinelli as the bell caster, never more the artist than he is in this part. Or the sad croakings of Mr. Basiola as the frog man will command your attention, or the beautiful witch of Julia Claussen—beautiful as a performance, that is.

The smaller parts were cast with just as much attention to detail and just as well performed: Margery Maxwell, Lola Monti-Gorsey, and Ada Paggi in one group, Virgilio Lazzari, Louis d'Angelo, and Lodovico Oliviero in another; Mme. Monti-Gorsey doubling in another part, Marek Windheim as a faun, Philine Falco as a neighbor.

This was the kind of performance that makes opera stand for something, and over it all brooded music of fine imagination if without the power to stock long the memory.

So the new Ravinia season is off to an excellent start.

SOCIETY ENTERTAINS AT OPERA OPENING WITH BOX PARTIES

The audience at the gala opening of the Ravinia opera season last night was in festive summery attire and spirits. The pale tinted sheer frocks of the women, worn with the short summer evening jackets of shimmering silk, made an effective picture against the park-like setting for the performance.

Box guests of Louis Eckstein, deus ex machina of the opera, and Mrs. Eckstein included Otto Kahn, Mme. Lucrezia Bori, Edward Johnson, and Edward Zeigler. Mrs. Frances Johnson was hostess in Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick's box, with Mrs. Waller Borden, Miss Elizabeth Hoffiin of New York City, James Keeley and Alfred Shaw. Mr. and Mrs. Bernard A. Eckhart, Mr. and Mrs. Percy B. Eckhart, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Mason, and Mrs. Ferdinand Wiegand were others who had box parties.

Others present included Julius Rosenwald, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Morrisson, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Scudder, the Misses Colvin, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Black, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Hill, Mrs. William B. Hale, Mrs. Tiffany Blake, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. Ettelson, Mrs. Peck Mathiessen, Mr. and Mrs. John F. L. Curtis, Frederick T. Haskell, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred T. Carton.

SAYS EVIL SIGNS FOR TARIFF FAIL NOW AS BEFORE

Secretary Lamont Points to Past Record.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—[Special.]—Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont today asserted that the new tariff law will not retard "the amazing growth" of American foreign trade. Despite the scores of protests registered against the high duties in the new act by foreign nations, Mr. Lamont expressed the opinion that the United States will continue to buy from and sell to the nations of the world vast quantities of products in increasig volume.

The Secretary's Statement.

"I have been asked, 'What effect will the new tariff have on our foreign trade?'" Secretary Lamont said.

"Some light on this question may be gained from the experience after the passage of the tariff act of 1922; that act raised the level of duties, as compared with the Underwood act, much more than has been done in the present revision. As many protests were received from foreign countries as have been received in the present year; and there were just as many predictions of disaster to our foreign commerce.

"What actually happened; in the seven years under the 1922 tariff act, our total imports increased 41 per cent. Imports of manufactured goods from Europe rose from $340,000,000 in 1922 to $581,000,000 in 1929, or by 45 per cent. These gains were not due to increased prices of commodities.

Exports Also Increase.

"During the same period, our exports of finished manufactured goods, the class most affected by the tariff of foreign countries, increased practically 100 per cent. Every year following the enactment of the 1922 act showed a marked gain until the present year.

"It is obvious, of course, that the reductions in imports and exports which began in the latter part of last year are not to be attributed either to the discussion of our tariff or its enactment. There has been a recession in business and a reduction in prices throughout the world. Other countries, as well as ours, have seen their trade in both directions decline during recent months.

"Much has been made of the protests presented by various foreign nations during the course of the tariff discussion. There is nothing new in this. Every country, including our own, shows concern when other countries propose increasing their tariffs.

"Those protests which actually apply to the act as passed and which relate to changes of duties of possible real importance to the protesting countries amount to probably not more than 10 or 12 per cent of our total imports.

"Perhaps the most important feature of this tariff bill is the new flexible clause. The old one did not work very well. The present clause is more effective, in that the commissioners have greater latitude at arriving at differences in costs of production as a basis for adjusting rates. If a foreign country believes that any of our tariffs are unduly high and prevent competitive shipment into the United States, it can present its case to the reorganized tariff commission which, in collaboration with the President, has the power, if the complaint is justified, to rectify the rates.

New in Tariff Procedure.

"This new proposal for dealing with such cases by a semi-judicial body is unique in the world's tariff procedure. No other nation has offered to us a similar opportunity to present our case where, as often has happened, we have believed its duties were unduly high and discriminatory against us. This plan should enable us to meet in a fair manner outstanding cases involving foreign interests.

"Considering then these things:

"1. The steady growth for many years of both exports and imports, in spite of increases in previous tariffs;

"(2) The relatively small percentage of our imports to which protests of our foreign friends apply; and

"(3) The availability of a workable, flexible clause to adjust unfair situations;

"We believe the new tariff law will not retard the amazing growth of our foreign trade. It should be remembered also that four-fifths in value of our imports consist of goods which are either free of duty or unchanged or reduced in duties under the new law."

HOOVER MOVES BACK TO REMODELED OFFICE, ALL NEWLY FURNISHED

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—For the first time since the executive offices were remodeled following the Christmas eve fire, President Hoover worked today in completely equipped new surroundings. Brand new furniture, carved out of buried Michigan maple, was installed in his private office.

The desk is of unusually large size, being eighty-four inches long. It was made from the most carefully selected woods, picked for their beauty and grain. It is plainly designed, of a dark brown color with an antique finish. Its makers told White House attaches it would not need to be replaced for at least another one hundred years.

MODELS OF PARIS HIDE CUTICLE AT 'FOUR ARTS' FETE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 21.—The Quatz Arts ball tonight broke traditions and, instead of being held in the Etoile district with the time honored march up the Champs Elysees, was staged in Exposition hall at the edge of the city.

The decision to the change of the scene of the festivity was the result of a notification by Prefect of Police Chiappe, saying he would not stand any more parades of nude artists' models and their friends through the exclusive part of the city, especially in the neighborhood of the Etoile, where the unknown soldier is buried.

He also said he would not permit the historic rites of naked merry makers of both sexes bathing in the Place Concorda fountains on the return parade to the Latin quarter at 7 o'clock in the morning as previously.

The organization committee also changed its policy making the Spanish Moorish era of 1492 as the costume period. Heretofore the period has always been Babylonian, Greek, Roman, or some other era when costumes were remarkable for their brevity, and when the nude was recognized as the proper style.

This year's costumes were more ample with plenty of draperies to hide the cuticle, which is another surrender to the police rule that decency must be observed.

During the dinner hour tonight the revelers started riding around town, sitting on top of taxis clad in Moorish costumes and waving fearful weapons, picks, axes, scimitars, and shielding fair companions, who were singing and waving to passersby.

SUES $35,000 HUSBAND FOR PHILANDERING

Separation Asked of Roy Wahlgren.

Roy Wahlgren, president of the Riggs Optical company, 60 West Superior street, was sued for separate maintenance in the Superior court yesterday by Mrs. Helen Wahlgren, 826 Judson avenue, Evanston. The bill, drawn by Attorney Nicholas Socrates of the law firm of Socrates & Davis, charges misconduct with a woman named as Josephine Brown, a former employé of Wahlgren.

The Wahlgrens were married Jan. 12, 1916, at Council Bluffs, Ia., and separated Jan. 4, 1928. They have a son, Donald, 11 years old. The bill alleges that for the last nine years Wahlgren has carried on a romance with Miss Brown. He is said to have written many letters to her declaring his love for her and to have given her large sums of money.

In July, 1927, Mrs. Wahlgren avers that she persuaded her husband to drop his affair with Miss Brown. Subsequently he suffered a nervous breakdown and Mrs. Wahlgren is said to have nursed him back to health, despite indifference and mistreatment on his part. On his recovery the following January, the bill alleges that he deserted his wife .

Mrs. Wahlgren states that her husband receives a salary of $35,000 as president of the Riggs Optical company, of which $18,500 is in cash and the balance is applied to the purchase of stock. He is also said to have a third interest in the Optical Service Company of New York.

In February of 1925, the bill declares, he entered into a contract with the Bausch & Lomb company to purchase $850,000 worth of stock of the Riggs company, depositing $100,000 worth of stock as collateral and insuring his life for $500,000.

Mrs. Wahlgren states that before the separation he promised her a half interest in the $100,000 worth of stock to procure her a $90,000 insurance policy payable to her, and to pay her $600 a month for the support of herself and their child. The bill declares that he has refused to carry out the agreement and is paying her only $500 a month.

The bill asks that Wahlgren be enjoined from disposing of his holdings and that he render a strict accounting of them. Mrs. Wahlgren declares that her husband is unfit to have the custody of their child and petitions the court to award the care of their son to her.

FAHY IS FINED $500 FOR JURY PAY CARD FRAUD

CRIMINAL COURT.

Willie Black, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Clemons White, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge D. J. Normoyle.

One fine of $500 was the result of a prosecution of a group of six men, two of them court officials, who were charged with embezzling money from the county treasury by means of issuing fake jury pay cards. Ronald Fahy was found guilty in a verdict of a jury returned yesterday morning in Judge John J. Sullivan's Criminal court, and he was fined $500.

Frank Bollin, former clerk in the courtroom of Judge John P. McGoorty, was acquitted by the same jury. The cases against the other defendants had been dismissed before the end of the trial because Assistant State's Attorney John L. Murphy was unable to connect them with the alleged conspiracy.

John J. McLaughlin, personal bailiff of Judge McGoorty, was among those thus freed. It was pointed out by Attorneys Benedict Short and Harold Levy, who represented him, that his name was not even mentioned during the testimony.

FIND PNEUMONIA CAUSED DEATH OF FOUR CHILDREN

Completion of chemical and bacteriological analysis of organs of four children in the family of Benjamin McKittrick, 2431 West Lexington street, who died during the last week from causes which baffled county hospital physicians, yesterday disclosed that the death of each child was caused by pneumonia following whooping cough. Dr. Paul Schmidt, coroner's chemist, and Dr. R. G. Jaffe of the county hospital made the report. The condition of a fifth McKittrick child, Kenneth, 8 years old, was slightly improved yesterday, hospital authorities reported.

DETROIT RECALL VOTE HEARING IS SET FOR MONDAY

Mayor Wins Point in Move to Oust Him.

Detroit, Mich., June 21.—[Special.]—An order to the city clerk and his staff to show cause Monday morning why they should not be restrained from calling a special election for the recall of Mayor Bowles was issued today by Judge Arthur Webster in Circuit court on application by Louis J. Columbo, attorney for the mayor.

At the same time, Thomas C. Wilcox, police commissioner; Frank Dohany, street railway commissioner; Mayor Bowles, and John Gillespie, commissioner of public works, united in alleging "enormous and monstrous" frauds.

The election commission had checked 68,892 signatures at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, of which number 56,357 were found to be legitimate, while 12,535 were ruled out. Two-thirds of the latter were ruled out because of improper listing of ward and precinct numbers.

Seek Halt Use of Public Lands.

Legal action to restrain John Gillespie, commissioner of public works, from using public funds in his fight to prevent a vote upon the recall of Mayor Charles Bowles, will be sought through the injunction medium, Monday morning, by a group of business men and manufacturers, it was authoritatively stated today.

Frank H. Dohany, member of the street railway commission, and Louis J. Columbo, attorney for the mayor, who drew up the petition for a restraining order in the name of several "taxpayers," filed the petition at the county clerk's office this morning. Colombo is from Henry Ford's legal counsel.

Text of Recall Petitions.

The text of the recall petitions follows, in part:

"We, the qualified electors of the city of Detroit, petition for the recall of Charles Bowles as mayor of the city of Detroit because:

"1. He has tolerated lawlessness by law enforcement agencies.

"2. Destroyed efficient public service through dismissal of faithful employés.

"3. Threatened success of municipal ownership by attempted increase in car riders' fares and unwarranted discharge of Street Railway Commissioner Couzens.

"4. Made people 15 pledges before election and again at inauguration; kept none.

"5. Hindered the police commissioner, Harold H. Emmons, in his enforcement of the law by taking control of the vice squad from his jurisdiction and later discharged him for enforcing the law while the mayor was out of town."

Firemen Win 68 Hour Battle to Revive Baby

NEW CRAFT WILL FLY VERTICALLY FROM GROUND

Helicopter Passes First Test Successfully.

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—There is a weird looking craft out at Curtiss field, Long Island, that is going to get a flying test shortly. Squatting in its hangar today it resembled an aviator's dream of a four leaf clover. There are four separate movable planes attached to the ship, each driven by its own propeller, but all powered with a single Pratt & Whitney Wasp motor mounted horizontally in the center of the contraption.

They call it a helicopter and it is the result of four years of intensive research and expenditure of $250,000. Maitland B. Bleecker, a young inventor, contributed the research and Curtiss-Wright corporation the cash. The important difference in the Curtiss-Bleecker craft and the helicopters of the past is that Mr. Bleecker's ship has been declared theoretically sound by leading aeronautical engineers.

Differs from Real Helicopters.

The true helicopter is a flying machine which lifts itself vertically off the ground, hovers over a given spot, flies in any direction at will, and descends to a safe landing without forward motion. Helicopters have risen from the ground and flown, but none has ever satisfactorily combined all the requirements that make for a practical flying machine.

Several days ago it was taken from its hangar for a ground test, which it passed successfully. Its inventor wanted to fly it direct from its berth. He said it would be possible to take off on the floor of the hangar, lift two feet, and then fly horizontally out of the door. Horizontal flight is not accomplished by the use of conventional propellers but by inclining the machine in the direction desired. Curtiss officials, however, ordered that the ship be towed out, as too much money had been expended in building it to risk an accident.

Once outside, the ship did everything expected of it except to fly. There was a leak in the oil pipe that kept it on the ground.

The machine is the most radical departure from the conventional airplane ever attempted on an important scale in this country. In only one respect does it resemble the Cierva autogiro which has been flown successfully. Both ships have four large revolving wings. There is a fundamental difference in design. The Curtiss-Bleecker craft wings are made to revolve by the pull of their individual propellers, whereas the rotation of the wings of the autogiro is the result of the force of the slipstream from the central propeller.

In the Curtiss-Bleecker machine the propellers are driven through a gear and shaft arrangement from one central motor. To each of the wings are attached outrigger booms, mounting small elevators or tail surfaces, making each unit really a small airplane consisting of a power driven wing with a tail which can control the angle of incidence of the wing at any point.

Pilot in Constant Danger.

In this four bladed craft a constant flight direction is obtained by a cam which keeps changing the position of the tail surfaces as the moving wings reach a given position in their rotation. Other flight control is obtained by changing the angle of attack of the wings themselves. It was the rotating action of the wings and the ability of the individual propellers to drive the wings which were studied at the first public exhibition of the plane.

The greatest drawback, heretofore, to the success of helicopters has been the fact that the pilot and his passengers are in greater danger if the motor should stop than they would be in an airplane of conventional design. When the helicopter's motor stops the windmill planes cease to revolve and it comes down like a stone.

12 RACING BOATS ARE UPSET DURING STORM; TAKE 36 FROM WATER

Cold Springs Harbor, L. I., June 21.—[Special.] — Twelve racing sloops with a total of about 36 men, women and children aboard them capsized in Long Island sound in a sudden squall of almost hurricane force this afternoon. All of the sloops' passengers and crews were rescued, but ten of the vessels sank and two others were carried ashore by the tide.

The men, women and children were picked up by the crews of three power boats and other craft and brought to the Cold Spring Harbor Beach club, officials of which reported that none of them were the worse for their experience.

The sloops were participating in the weekly Saturday afternoon races of the beach club. They had reached a point opposite Oyster bay, about the half way mark of the course, when the freak squall, accompanied by a blinding hail storm, closed in on them before their crews had time to lower their sails.

The race had started in fair weather that gave no indications of the approaching storm. Thirty minutes later all the men, women and children in the boats were clinging to the rigging of their capsized racers.

In Court as Disorderly, He's Revealed a Robber

Charles Boyd, 29 years old, of Carbondale, Ill., appeared before Judge Samuel Heller yesterday on a charge of disorderly conduct. George Seery, 71 years old, awaiting trial on a charge of intoxication, suddenly yelled, "That's the fellow that robbed me of $6 and my pipe last night. I just saw him smoking it." Boyd was searched and Seery's pipe and money found. His fine was increased to $100.

GERMAN INVENTION SAVES DEAF PEOPLE EMBARRASSMENT.

A German scientist has recently perfected an instrument making it possible for deafened persons to hear instantly. This device, accepted by recognized authorities, saves embarrassment on the part of the wearer in that it is so small as to be practically unnoticeable, thus taking attention away from the wearer's infirmity. Ten cent flashlight unit cells operate the Universotone. This German invention is being distributed in the United States by Dr. Hugo Lieber. One of his experts, D. Farber, is in Chicago at this time at Suite 1812, 59 E. Madison. Deafened persons are invited to call and hear for themselves the remarkable qualities of the Universotone or to write for complete details.—Adv.

WIFE SUES WIFE FOR ALIENATION; ASKS $100,000

There was filed yesterday the praecipe of a suit in which Mrs. Mary G. Webb, 411 South Francisco avenue, asks $100,000 damages of Mrs. Agnes Palmer, 11322 South Irving avenue. Mrs. Webb charges Mrs. Palmer with alienating the affections of her husband, Ernest Eli Webb.

According to the suit Mrs. Webb found Webb and Mrs. Palmer in Mrs. Palmer's home on June 9. Webb, she avers, fled out the back door and reached home in a pair of pyjamas not his own.

Mrs. Palmer's husband is described as a wealthy inventor, 75 years old, with an annual income of $50,000. Palmer is said to be living with a daughter. Mrs. Palmer is said to have two children by a former marriage. Mrs. Webb is childless.

BOMBAY POLICE CRACK HEADS OF 500 IN RIOT

Many Women Hurt Trying to Protect Men.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BOMBAY, June 21.—More than 590 Nationalists were wounded and 350 were sent to hospitals, including ten women, during a series of police charges on the Esplanade Maidan this morning as 15,000 natives tried to march in review before Pandit Nehru, acting president of the All-India Nationalist congress. The savagery of the police attack exceeded any since the Nationalist revolt developed, while the populace was further inflamed by the presence of troops, who stood ready to respond to a police call.

Only the disciplined refusal of the Nationalists to attempt violence averted what is generally believed would have been a slaughter since authorities were prepared for any eventualities.

Call 30 Day Strike.

Within an hour after the riot all Indian shops were closed with revolt leaders calling a month's cessation of business activities to protest police action. Witnesses say that the brutalities of the police equaled that of the Wadala and Dharsana raids a month ago.

Today's clash occurred as result of the defiance of the magistrate's order forbidding the use of the esplanade for the review. The police and troops massed at sunrise, while the Nationalists began assembling before 7 o'clock for the rally under the direction of the "war council." Pandit Nehru and other members of the congress witnessed the attack from a driveway. Government officials are determined to brook no further defiance of the laws following today's incident, which may bring the campaign to a crisis. The "war council" approved today's rally after receiving word of the court's edict.

At 7:45 o'clock captains and volunteers from all parts of Bombay entered the esplanade. This was a signal for the police charge personally directed by Commissioner Healey. Five hundred policemen, some mounted, took part in the charges, using clubs. Many natives fell under the horses' hoofs.

Women Try to Save Men.

Among the volunteers were hundreds of women in orange colored garments. Police made three charges. Ten women required hospital treatment. Five are still there. These women formed a cordon around a group of Sikhs, when police attacked. They, with the Sikhs, were ridden down, and at least five were badly injured. The Sikhs held firmly to their positions and practically every one was hurt.

After two more charges the esplanade was cleared. The Nationalists attempted to parade but were dispersed. The "war council" met again tonight and proclaimed Mahatma Gandhi's drive will be carried on.

A striking feature of today's defiance of the law was the thorough preparation by the "war council." Stretcher bearers and hospital equipment, including surgeons and nurses, were on the scene, and first aid was followed by the rapid removal of the victims to the hospitals.

Hundreds of Shops Close.

Within an hour hundreds of native shops throughout the city were closed. Numerous foreign business houses closed when Indian employés deserted. The stock exchange closed early, its members themselves forming a parade, which the police suppressed without violence.

Volunteers attempting to enter the Esplanade Maidan marched behind the Nationalist flag, singing national songs. Each group, accompanied by women, held firmly until it was ridden down by mounted Sepoys. One foreigner asked the women if they were protecting the men, to which the women remarked:

"We are here to defy the magistrate's order."

The streets are filled tonight with natives in homespun. Speakers at massmeetings tonight counseled nonviolence, telling the people not to yield before troops or police.

There will be a great demonstration on Tuesday for the denunciation of the expected findings of the Simon commission.

AUSTRIAN FACTIONS UNITE IN DEMAND FOR UNION WITH GERMANY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, June 21.—East and central Europe, already seething over the return of Carol to Rumania and the agitation to bring the Hapsburgs back to the Hungarian throne, gave another manifestation of unrest today when the Austrian Socialists and Fascists, forgetting their differences for the moment, staged a demonstration at Klagenfurt in favor of a union of Austria and Germany, which has been forbidden by the peace treaties.

The demonstration was held on the occasion of the first anniversary of the founding of the Austrian and German Peoples' union of Carinthia, and the tenth anniversary of the plebiscite. Jugoslavia claimed southern Carinthia and occupied it, but the plebiscite in 1920 was in favor of remaining with Austria.

Dr. Karl Renner, the first Austrian chancellor, declared at the demonstration that it was the unanimous wish of the Austrian people to join with Germany.

Y. M. C. A. LEADER REPORTS BIBLE STUDY INCREASE

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Bible study is showing a marked increase in Chicago. This fact was attested yesterday by Ralph Stiles, religious work director of the Central Y. M. C. A. at 19 South La Salle street. He reported that 25 per cent more loop business men have joined Bible classes under Y. M. C. A. direction this year than a year ago. Mr. Stiles said that 6,400 men are enrolled in classes under his direction this year, as compared to 4,900 last year. In the classes maintained at the loop Y. M. C. A. headquarters, providing opportunities for business and employed men, university groups and lay workers, chief interest lies in the practical application of Bible teachings to present day problems.

The greatest interest, according to Mr. Stiles, is in experimental religion. He declared that men today care little about theological subtleties, and that more students are asking: "How can the universally accepted teachings of Christianity be applied to current problems?" The problems most frequently discussed in connection with Bible teachings are crime, politics, industrial relations, race prejudice, war, and the makeup and divisions between the churches.

"The Man of Galilee as a human personality is the central theme of the new religious interest, according to the instructors," Mr. Stiles said. "The effort to answer honestly 'What would He do?' in the present crime crisis in Chicago is a real concern of the students, as well as the question of how Christ would face Chicago politics."

EXPERT EXPLAINS ILLINOIS INCOME TAX AMENDMENT

Tells Proposed Changes in State Constitution.

For the information of readers interested in the exact character of the proposed amendment to the Illinois constitution to be submitted to the voters of the state for approval next November THE TRIBUNE has had the following analysis of the proposal prepared by Attorney Joseph B. Fleming. Mr. Fleming, a member of the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming & Martin, is a recognized specialist in the field of constitutional law.

BY JOSEPH B. FLEMING.

The so-called "income tax amendment" affects sections 1, 2, 9, and 10 of article 9 of the state constitution of 1870.

For the purpose of comparison we quote sections 1, 2, 9, and 10 as they now stand, and as they will read after amendment. The present section 1 reads:

"The general assembly shall provide such revenue as may be needful by levying a tax, by valuation, so that every person and corporation shall pay a tax in proportion to the value of his, her or its property—such value to be ascertained by some person or persons, to be elected or appointed in such manner as the general assembly shall direct, and not otherwise; but the general assembly shall have power to tax peddlers, auctioneers, brokers, hawkers, merchants, commission merchants, showmen, jugglers, inn keepers, grocery keepers, liquor dealers, toll bridges, ferries, insurance, telegraph and express interests or business, vendors of patents, and persons or corporations owning or using franchises and privileges, in such manner as it shall from time to time direct by general law, uniform as to the class upon which it operates."

First Proposed Change.

If amended this section would read: "The general assembly shall have power to enact laws to provide revenue. All real estate for the imposition of taxes shall be in one class, except that mineral lands and land devoted to reforestation may be in different classes."

It will be noted that section 1, as it now reads, requires that property, both real and personal, shall be taxed in proportion to its value. This standard is reiterated in subsequent sections of the present article. That requirement serves to raise a serious doubt as to whether a valid income tax law could be enacted under the terms of article 9. The Supreme court of this state has never passed on the power of the legislature under this article to pass such legislation.

Probably one of the purposes of the proposed amendment is to remove any doubt under this article with reference to the validity of an income tax law. Amended, section 1 would be general in its terms; witness, "The general assembly shall have power to enact laws to provide revenue." In short, the amended section would omit entirely the ad valorem requirement. The quoted sentence seems broad enough to include both general and special tax legislation.

Revisions in Section 2.

The present section 2 of article 9 reads: "The specification of the objects and subjects of taxation shall not deprive the general assembly of the power to require other subjects or objects to be taxed in such manner as may be consistent with the principles of taxation fixed in this constitution."

Section 2, if amended, would read as follows:

"If a tax is imposed upon incomes the state shall not receive more than fifteen per centum of the proceeds thereof, after deducting the cost of collection, except by the affirmative votes of two-thirds of the members elected to each house of the general assembly. And unless otherwise provided by a similar two-thirds vote, the remainder shall be distributed among the several counties in the ratio which the total collected from taxpayers of each county bears to the total collected from taxpayers of the whole state, and the amount allocated to each county may be further divided among the county and other municipal corporations within or partly within such county as the general assembly may from time to time by general law direct. Other taxes collected by the state may be distributed in whole or in part among the counties and other municipal corporations in such manner as the general assembly shall direct by general law."

Apparently the broad power sought to be conferred by section 1, if amended, induced the omission of section 2 as it now stands. The purpose of the proposed amended section 2 is quite clear—namely: to secure to each county and municipality its equitable share of the revenue should an income tax law be enacted. The last sentence of the amended section 2 seeks to broaden the equitable distribution of revenue derived from other sources of state-wide taxation.

Amendment of Section 9.

Section 9 of the present article IX. reads:

"The general assembly may vest the corporate authorities of cities, towns, and villages with power to make local improvements by special assessment, or by special taxation of contiguous property, or otherwise. For all other corporate purposes all municipal corporations may be vested with authority to assess and collect taxes; but such taxes shall be uniform in respect to persons and property within the jurisdiction of the body imposing the same."

Section 9, if amended, would be as follows:

"The general assembly may vest the corporate authorities of cities, towns, villages, sanitary districts, park districts, and other municipalities with power to make local improvements by special assessment, or by special taxation of contiguous property, or otherwise. For all other corporate purposes all municipal corporations may be vested with authority to assess and collect taxes."

Differences Are Cited.

The only differences between the provisions of the present section 9 and the proposed section 9 are: [1] "Sanitary districts, park districts, and other municipalities" are added specifically to the group of local governments which may impose special taxes or special assessments for local improvements; and [2] the omission of the provision that general taxes "shall be uniform in respect to persons and property within the jurisdiction of the body imposing the same."

The probable further effect of the amendment of this section would be to remove any limitation upon the power of the legislature to pass an income tax law which might inhere in the language, "but such taxes shall be uniform in respect to persons and property."

Section 10 Is Discussed.

Section 10 of the article as it now stands reads:

"The general assembly shall not impose taxes upon municipal corporations, or the inhabitants or property thereof, for corporate purposes, but shall require that all the taxable property within the limits of municipal corporations shall be taxed for the payment of debts contracted under authority of law, such taxes to be uniform in respect to persons and property wthin the jurisdiction of the body imposing the same. Private property shall not be liable to be taken or sold for the payment of the corporate debts of a municipal corporation."

If amended, section 10 of the article woul read:

"Except as permitted in section 2 the general assembly shall not impose taxes upon municipal corporations or the inhabitants or property thereof for corporate purposes, but shall require that taxes be levied by municipal corporations for the payment of debts contracted under authority of law. Private property shall not be liable to be taken or sold for the payment of the corporate debts of a municipal corporation."

The Principal Change.

The present section 10 and the proposed section 10 read substantially the same. The changes in phraseology are unimportant, except as to the omission of the following language: "such taxes to be uniform in respect to persons and property within the jurisdiction of the body imposing the same." The words here omitted are substantially the same as omitted from the proposed section 9, and with like effect.

Section 10 by the amendment would be liberalized to permit the general assembly to provide for the distribution back to the local governments of revenues derived from taxes levied and collected by the statet.

No attempt was made by the general assembly to submit any amendment of the language of the remaining sections of article IX. sections 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 11, 12 and 13.

Will Show Coat Worn by Chief Rain-in-the-Face

A coat worn by Chief Rain-in-the Face, Sioux Indian, whose men took part in the massacre of Gen. George A. Custer and his 276 soldiers at the battle of the Little Big Horn river in Montana, will be exhibited by the Chicago Historical society this week. It was 54 years ago Wednesday that the general made his stand.

SENATORS HEED CHICAGO'S STORY OF FINANCE ILLS

End Hearing on Pleas for Strawn Bills.

Completing its survey of Chicago's financial situation yesterday, the Mason state senate committee is reported to have been so deeply impressed with the desperate fiscal condition of the city and county that it will carry a favorable report on the Strawn relief bills to the upper house of the general assembly. It was believed that the bills would go over without serious objection.

It also was forecast that Senator Victor P. Michel, Republican, Peoria, may take the leadership among the downstaters in sponsoring the measures as a result of the testimony of a dozen state and county officials who predicted dire things if the bills are not passed.

Tells of Health Needs.

Yesterday's witnesses before the committee gave the same stories that were heard Friday. Dr. Gottfried Koehler, assistant commissioner of health, told how vital the bills are to the program of keeping Chicagoans well, and mentioned the shortage of funds already existing in the department.

Dr. Koehler followed South Park Commissioners Michael L. Igoe, the Democratic leader in the house of representatives, and Philip S. Graver.

"We have already laid off 25 per cent of our employés on the board," Igoe told the committee, "and those not laid off are working six days a week for five days' pay. The Century of Progress exposition in 1933 is to be held on south park territory and if we are to help with it we must have money."

Wright Urges Passage.

President Warren Wright of the Lincoln park board voiced as urgent a recommendation that the legislation be passed as quickly as possible and was especially emphatic on the bond issue for repair of the outer drive which was damaged by storms last year. He fears a recurrence of this damage if the repairs are not made quickly.

President Caldwell of the board of education said if the schools are forced, by lack of funds, to remain closed next fall, Chicago's children will be thrown out on the streets where they may fall in with bad associates. He dwelt on the impressionable minds of the young and said it was impossible to predict what may happen to Chicago's school system if the finances called for by the relief bills are not made available.

Yesterday's session closed the hearing of testimony and tomorrow the committee will argue some technical legal questions brought forward by the bills. Senator Lowell B. Mason, chairman, and his committeemen will report to the senate at 4 p. m. Tuesday.

ASK HOUSE TO ADOPT SENATE CHANGES IN WATERWAY MEASURE

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—Concurrence by the house in all senate amendments to the rivers and harbors bill will be asked on Monday, Representative S. W. Dempsey [Rep., N. Y.], chairman of the house rivers and harbors committee, announced today, as a means of avoiding delay of a conference. Concurrence in senate amendments will mean that the Chicago water diversion provision of the Illinois waterway paragraph as adopted by the senate on the motion of Senator John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] will be included in the final measure without further change, requiring army engineers to construct the Illinois waterway to use as little water as possible and holding diversion from Lake Michigan to maximums specified in the Supreme court's decree pending further action by congress.

DEPUTY TAKES THEFT SUSPECT.

Jack Austin, alias Lambert, arrested here on Wednesday on charges of automobile theft filed by the authorities of Spartanburg, S. C., was turned over to a deputy sheriff from that city yesterday. In his pocket was found a picture of Romola Remus, daughter of George Remus, wealthy Cincinnati bootlegger.

SCIENCE VISIONS DAY WHEN BRAIN WILL REDUCE FAT

But Until Then Diets Are Needed, Doctor Says.

A center in the brain comparable to an incinerator control, functioning to regulate the disposal of such food as is not converted into energy, may be the means eventually of controling obesity, Dr. Russell Wilder, chairman of the department of medicine in the University of Chicago, said in a university lecture yesterday.

He based his statement on an accumulation of experiments in America and Germany, begun a few years ago, he said. They pointed to the functioning of such a mechanism, probably in the midbrain. The exact area, however, is not yet known, he said.

Brain's Control of Body.

"We now know that brain centers automatically govern the body heat and the amount of water in the body tissues, and it seems probable that the maintenance of normal weight is regulated by some such factor," Dr. Wilder said.

"The ability of the body to get rid of the extra food intake through this so-called incineration factor is the reason that thin people can eat heartily and yet stay thin. Fatness usually indicates an abnormal functioning of this factor."

A Warning on Diets.

Until it is discovered just how the incineration center works, and how it may be influenced, however, diets must be depended on to control obesity, Dr. Wilder said.

"I have little patience with young women who seek to emulate Greta Garbo or Constance Bennett by dieting to the point where they endanger their health through weakness, anemia or vitamin deficiency," he said. "The loss of two pounds a week for the first 15 pounds, and one pound a week thereafter, is the maximum reduction rate that is safe."

More than 1,500,000 FRIGIDAIRES are in use

More than 100,000 of them are in Chicago

A few of the thousands of Chicago buildings equipped with Frigidaire

628 Frigidaires are installed in the Marshall-Field Garden Apartment Houses, Segel-Sedgwick-Blackhawk and Hudson aves., Chicago. Estate of Marshall Field.

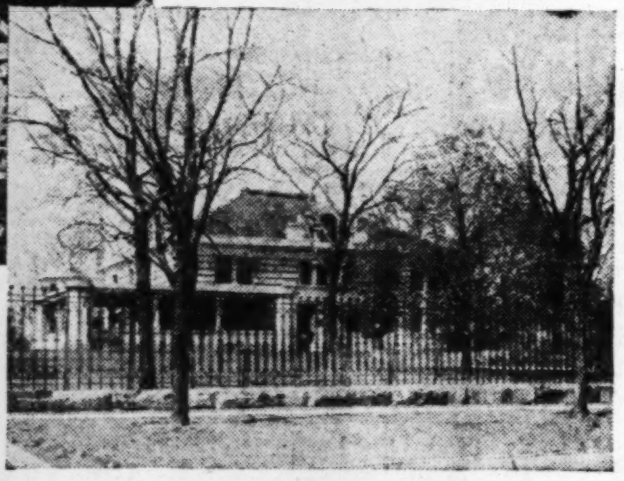
1426 Ridge Ave., Evanston.



278 Frigidaires in 1100 North Dearborn Bldg., 1100 North Dearborn St., Chicago McNally & Quinn, Architects.

96 Frigidaires in 5000 East End Bldg., 5000 East End Ave., Chicago Carroll-Schoendorf-Boenicke, agents.

59 No. Washington St., Hinsdale

In thousands of Chicago homes like these you will find Frigidaire

For every type of building--- from the towering apartment to the modest home . . . the majority choose Frigidaire

WHY?

Chicago builders who buy electric refrigerators by the hundred have chosen Frigidaire by an overwhelming majority. Thousands of home owners, to whom an electric refrigerator is a major investment, have chosen Frigidaire in preference to all other makes.

Why? Why this decided preference for Frigidaire on the part of buyers in every section of Chicago and throughout the world?

Investigate and you will see.

You will discover that Frigidaire offers a combination of features found in no other electric refrigerator — features that make a tremendous difference in the satisfaction experienced by users.

And Frigidaire Is Easy to Buy

With all its advantages, Frigidaire prices are so low and terms are so liberal that anyone can now own a Frigidaire. In fact, you can buy any model for as little down and as little a month as it will be convenient for you to pay.

Why not visit one of our showrooms at once and have a demonstration?

FRIGIDAIRE ALONE offers all these features

1. The famous "Cold Control," which reduces freezing compartment temperatures to zero.
2. Cabinets all porcelain-on-steel—a finish that will not scratch, rust, peel or blister.
3. The Hydrator, which makes even wilted vegetables fresh again.
4. Elevated Food Shelves, which make stooping unnecessary.
5. Super Power, which maintains constant low temperatures with effortless ease.
6. Quiet starting, quiet running, quiet stopping.
7. A smooth, flat top which serves as an extra kitchen shelf.
8. A motor that runs but a few minutes each hour at a cost of but a few cents a day.

ICELAND GREETS U. S. DELEGATION TO ALTHING FETE

Band Plays, Choir Sings as Ship Steams In.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, June 21.—The populace of Reykjavik stood all last night on the waterfront in the rain waiting to welcome the second contingent of Americans and Canadians coming for the celebration next week of the thousandth anniversary of the althing, the oldest parliament in the world.

Nearly 300 arrived early this morning aboard the Canadian Pacific liner Montcalm. The first contingent of 300 arrived a week ago aboard the Cunard liner Antonia. A third contingent is expected next week on the Polonia. In addition, visitors are pouring in from Europe, particularly from the Scandinavian countries. Reykjavik's population has been almost doubled.

Housing Is Serious Problem.

Housing the visitors is a serious problem. The largest and most modern hotel, the Borg, has been taken over by the government for distinguished visitors and the few other hotels in the town are crowded to the doors. The Antonia party has been housed in the new home for old folks, which was given to the city of Reykjavik by American Icelanders and which is hardly finished. The Montcalm party is housed in a new hospital, which is also hardly completed.

The American official delegation, led by Senator Peter Norbeck of South Dakota, consists of Congressman O. B. Burtness of North Dakota, F. H. Fljozdal of Detroit, Prof. Sveinbjorn Johnson of the University of Illinois, and O. P. J. Jacobson of St. Paul.

The senator and congressman condemned the fact that the United States is not represented in Iceland, not even by a vice consul. Americans needing help and advice are thrown on the charity of the British consul.

Opportunity for Trade.

It is also pointed out that America is losing a worth while trade opportunity. Iceland's foreign trade is worth $70,000,000 annually, equally divided between import and export, and practically all imports come from Great Britain. The only American goods are automobiles, and that is only because British cars are too low slung for the bad Icelandic roads.

The Montcalm was met this morning several miles out to sea by the whole Icelandic navy, consisting of two fishery protection boats with an armament of two one-pounder guns each. These carried a delegation from the althing, headed by the speaker, Asgeir Asgeirsson; the mayor of Reykjavik, professors of the university, most of the leading men of the town, the town band, and a choir, which sangs Icelandic songs.

TAXICAB OWNERS ASK STATES FOR UTILITY STATUS

A resolution calling upon the various states to enact legislation which would make taxicabs a public utility was adopted yesterday by the Taxicab Owners' association, whose annual convention closed last night at the Sherman hotel. W. W. Cloud of Baltimore, Md., reëlected president of the association, said a campaign would be started immediately to obtain protective legislation for taxicabs in 43 states.

The resolution declared that protective legislation is necessary to overcome unfair competition due to the introduction of rates below the cost of operation. The resolution urged that the new legislation require that taxicabs be placed under the control of state or city utility commissions; compel the showing of public convenience and necessity before additional cabs are permitted to operate; require that taxicabs furnish evidence that they can indemnify the public against loss from accident; provide that all charges be based on taximeters, and insure that a minimum and maximum rate be designated.

8 CHICAGO BOYS SAIL FOR NORTH WITH M'MILLAN

Wiscasset, Me., June 21.—(AP)—The schooner Bowdoin sailed at 3 p. m. today on its seventh trip from this port for the far north.

Commander Donald B. MacMillan, veteran arctic explorer was at the helm. Included in the crew were eight Chicago boys, the youngest but 10 years old.

After stopping at Reykjavik, Iceland, to attend the 1,000th anniversary of the parliamentary government that Iceland created, the Bowdoin will sail around the coast of Iceland. From South Greenland the ship is scheduled to proceed to Indian Harbor, Labrador, and then home, arriving here after the middle of September.

CHICAGO WATER OFFICIALS STUDY DETROIT FILTERS

Hope to Put System in Service Here.

BY STANLEY ARMSTRONG.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., June 21.—[Special.]—Two members of the Chicago department of public works yesterday were led through Detroit's nine acre filtration plant, which is housed under one roof, and over a 45 acre plot where a supplementary plant is under construction to show them Detroit's method of serving 1,900,000 persons in its metropolitan area with clear and filtered water. The two officials were Loran D. Gayton, city engineer and O. B. Carlisle, engineer assigned to filtration design.

Engineer Gayton was fortifying himself with data on the design and cost of filtration plants as a part of his program to familarize Chicagoans with the advantages of a water supply that has no chlorine taste nor floating foreign particles. He and Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe intend to determine the attitude of Chicago voters on $60,000,000 worth of filtration plants at a referendum to be held in connection with the November election.

Rapid Sand Filter Process.

Detroit uses the rapid sand filter process, according to D. C. Grobbel, secretary of the Detroit board of water commissioners, who was host to the Chicago officials. From an intake in the Detroit river the water flows into a mixing basin where a solvent form of alum is sifted into the stream through hoppers. This stream goes into large basins where the alum coagulates all solids. Then the water is directed into 80 basins where it sifts through four feet of sand, from which it comes crystal clear and ready to be pumped to homes.

"And you know," said Mr. Grobbel, "our raw water before it is filtered is better than the water used in Chicago."

The chlorine taste has been a source of complaint in Chicago. In Detroit the filtered water is treated, as an additional safeguard, with one and one half pounds of chlorine per one million gallons. Chicago's water receives an average of four and one-half pounds of chlorine for the same amount of water.

Erecting Another Plant.

The Detroit filtration plant, which has been in operation since 1923, cost approximately $6,000,000. Twenty miles away from this plant and ten miles away from the raw water supply Detroit is erecting another plant.

"We will copy the Detroit plant in general design," said Mr. Gayton after the inspection. "As the land needed for the location of four filtration plants in Chicago would be prohibitive we will plan to place them along the lake front, probably at Wilson and Chicago avenues and 14th and 73d streets."

JURORS ACQUIT DR. RONGETTI IN WOMAN'S DEATH

Dr. Amante Rongetti, who was once under a death sentence for murder by abortion, was acquitted by a jury yesterday in Judge Martin J. Isaacs' Criminal court on a charge of being responsible for the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Palumbo of Bellwood. His defense was that she died from an appendicitis operation rather than from an abortion as was charged by the state.

The acquittal verdict was reached after three ballots. The jury first stood 7 to 5 for acquittal, it is reported, but after more than three hours the five jurors favoring conviction agreed to acquittal.

Dr. Rongetti several years ago was sentenced to death for the murder of Loretta Enders, unwed mother, and her new born babe. However, he was granted a new trial by the Supreme court and the second time was convicted of manslaughter. This conviction also has been reversed and a new trial was granted.

"We are asking for a speedy trial on the Enders case," said Attorney William Scott Stewart, who defended Rongetti. "We feel confident now of an acquittal in that case."

PUBLIC SCHOOLS GIVEN CLEANUP WEEK AWARDS

Awards for noteworthy work in the recent cleanup and paintup week sponsored by the Association of Commerce were given representatives of schools yesterday. Announcements of the winners were made by John C. MacGregor, chairman of the association committee for cleanup week, at a meeting in the National Academy of Art, 230 East Ohio street.

The major winners were: Harrison Technical High school; Tilden Technical High school, second; Bowen High school, third. In the poster contest Marion Pruyn, Austin, won first place and Madeline Kravavica, Lindblom, second place. Tilden Technical High won the first award for its set of pictures showing conditions before and after the campaign, and Lindblom High school was second. Certificates of award were given to sixteen elementary schools. Major winners were given silver cups and the others money awards.

GOOD ROADS PUT MICHIGAN'S JOYS IN REACH OF CITY

Chicago Folks Motor to Resort Region.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harbor Springs, Mich., June 21.—[Special.]—Before good roads, and that was only a few years ago, this northern Michigan region was a summer resort country enjoyed almost exclusively by the rich. They came here by yacht or train. Today good pavements and automobiles have brought the cool lakes and woods hereabouts within a day's drive for Mr. and Mrs. Jones and their kids from Chicago's west side.

The distance is a little more than 400 miles. School is out. The families from the metropolitan district may be seen on the Michigan highways, rolling northward in cars burdened with tents, baggage, pets, and cottage housekeeping equipment. The Tribune road car arrived here this afternoon on the third day of a trip with the Michigan Tourist and Resort association and the West Michigan Motor club.

Washed and Cooled Air.

The air is washed and cooled from its trip across Lake Michigan with the prevailing westerlies. It's sterilized by the sunshine of the last three days and occasionally perfumed by fields of ripe clover, or meadows of freshly mown hay, or the shades of pine forest.

The highway, U. S. Route 31, gives occasional views of unsoiled Lake Michigan beaches, tree bordered inland lakes where live game fish, and rolling hills of woods that have grown tall and thick since the virgin timber was cut two or three decades ago.

In Traverse City, where Mrs. J. Ogden Armour and 49,000 others have summer homes, the motor party was told of a trail through the town that was followed by Indians and fur traders in the early days. Its present $2,000,000 cherry crop, with the tourist business, has taken the place of lumber as the main support of the community.

An Intoxicating Legend.

At Elk Rapids, on East Traverse bay, a story was told of a schooner with 170 barrels of prewar [civil war] whisky lying under water somewhere off the shore. Its existence is the favorite local legend.

Capt. Hi Robinson, described as a burly mariner who could wrap his mustache around his neck, was smuggling a ship load of liquor from Canada during the civil war. An Indian princess signaled to him that the revenuers were waiting for him in a fast cutter. He came about, was pursued and he scuttled his vessel and swam ashore, making his escape in the woods. That's the story.

Charlevoix was visited. The town, a popular summer home center, is named after Pierre Francois Xavier de Charlevoix, a Jesuit missionary, who explored the territory in 1721 to place it under the French flag.

Memorial to Friendly Tribes.

At Petoskey, on Little Traverse bay, a marker is erected to the memory of the Ottawa, Huron, Chippewa and other friendly tribes who moved here about three or four centuries ago after being driven westward by more aggressive and stronger redmen. There are a few small settlements of these Indians, living near here, farming, Indians living near here, farming, fishing, and making souvenirs for tourists.

FROM SANTA CRUZ, TENERIFE, CANARY ISLANDS

Santa Cruz de Teneriffe is an idyllic seaport, the capital city of the Canary islands, and the scene of the landing action in 1797, when Lord Nelson's arm was shattered by a cannon ball. Miss Christien Kerl, an aged missionary, is stationed there and recently wrote to her Oak Park friend. "She has been there for twenty-five years," Mrs. Rice comments, "to convert the natives and has had a pretty hard time of it. She loves her work and wants to die there without coming back to this country at all; although she was 50 years of age before she went to the Canaries."

Life in the Canaries, or Fortunate islands, as they formerly were called, is calm and uneventful. Semi-tropical, the temperature varies hardly thirty degrees during the year, and at its height does not exceed 82 or 83 degrees.

LONDON CENSOR BANS U. S. NEGRO RELIGIOUS PLAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 21.—"Green Pastures," Marc Connelly's play, will be banned from the British stage, the lord chancellor refusing to grant a license for its performance in a public theater.

The play was sent to the lord chancellor by Maurice Browne, who stated today that he felt he owed it to the play and the theater as a whole to submit it. In doing so he said he realized that "Green Pastures" contravened the modern British theatrical custom. At the same time he stated that it reëstablishes an old one by its beautiful and intensely moving treatment of the religious theme.

It is improbable that it will be acted by a private society as the play demands careful production and a big cast of colored actors.

Tries Suicide Four Times in Night; He'll Recover

Charles Cavewood, 65 years old, of Hammond, jumped in the Calumet river last night to drown himself, but it was only 3 feet deep, and the only result was that he lost his shoes in the mud. He then journeyed to a park and slashed his wrists. A physician revived him and sent him home. En route Cavewood tried to leap in the path of a passenger train, but a crossing watchman saved him. An hour later he was found unconscious on the sidewalk, having swallowed poison. He was taken to a hospital and will recover, physicians said. Cavewood was despondent, according to the police.

Let your tooth paste pay it

If it can't pay it all, it can pay part of it—for Listerine Tooth Paste at 25¢ saves you about $3 per year per person over dentifrices in the 50¢ class. If there are seven in the family, the saving is $21 a year.

Judges of value

acclaim this modern tooth paste at 25¢

Do you know of one good reason why you should pay more than 25c for a quality tooth paste?

We don't; and we have been studying tooth pastes of all kinds for 20 years. We have learned that all are basically alike—and that, at 25¢, should leave ample profit to the manufacturer.

In Listerine Tooth Paste we offer a dentifrice of outstanding quality—one in every way worthy of the Listerine name. That you can obtain it at 25¢ is due to our ability to buy ingredients in quantity, and to modern production methods which eliminate every unnecessary expense. Why not switch to Listerine Tooth Paste for one month and let it prove its own merits?

Note how swiftly but how gently it erases discolorations and tartar. See how its mild polishing and cleansing ingredients penetrate those hard-to-get-at crevices between the teeth and remove decaying matter. Note that wonderful feeling of health and invigoration that comes to your mouth after you have used it. Then reflect that these benefits are yours for $3 a year—about half of what you usually pay. INTEGRATION OF NATIONAL DEFENSE.

Integration of the arms and agencies of national defense has become the main military problem of the modern day. The mechanization of war, with its new specialties and new inventions, its increasing technicalities and expertism, has brought about a situation like that in civil life and industry. The requirements of one line or instrument demand the enthusiastic attention and study of its operators. Specialists are thus developed, each in his watertight compartment, with no time or power to integrate his and the other elements into one defensive system. A general organization built to do one thing and serve one purpose—namely: victory in war—disintegrates thus into an assemblage of poorly correlated parts and pieces.

Today the air attack works out its methods and machinery. The anti-aircraft forces work out theirs. But what the other one is doing or can do neither of them knows. The navy makes its plans with small consideration of the army, and vice versa; the infantry pounds along on the old lines with small concern for the new mobilities of tanks. Today, says B. H. Liddell Hart in the Yale Review, the flying boat is a greater potential threat to seaborne commerce than ever was the U-boat, but few consider it in our defensive plans. And the war that generals always get ready for, says H. M. Tomlinson, is the previous one.

After the great war was over the blue prints of a tank, designed in 1912, says Hart, and more advanced than the actual machine of 1916, were unearthed in the pigeonholes of the British war office. On those plans the authorities had written, "The man's mad." And so it goes. The generals and the military and naval experts are often stone headed. With a few exceptions, such as Gen. Summerall's vigorous efforts to accommodate the military forces to modern mechanism, their work is dated on the dead, outmoded past. They too often will resist the introduction of new arms and methods that upset traditions and their plans. They wholly fail to organize together into one defensive system the diverse and powerful specialties that have come in modern times.

With air and underwater warfare, with tanks and motor cars, with gas and new machine guns, with new weapons and with new technique, war is no longer what it used to be. It demands new methods, new knowledge, and a new psychology of handling and defense. The mechanization of warfare imposes the necessity for reorganization and the integration of our entire defensive system.

Eventually one department of defense closely coördinated within itself will be an administrative and economic necessity if America expects to win her future wars. The various arms can no longer operate independently of each other, nor can they afford always to compete with each other for appropriations and prestige. To preparatory schools for naval, army, and air officers a third school should be added to which all officers should go. This should be a school of national defense embodying all three.

The infantry, says Hart, will regroup itself into two fighting parts with separate tactical functions—one a close fighting part, composed of semi-mechanized infantry, and the other a mobile fighting part, composed entirely of armored fighting vehicles. The artillery of the future will comprise two main classes—first, light guns, mounted in tanks and absorbed into their organization; second, heavy tractor drawn artillery which, like the siege engines of antiquity, will be brought up only when the enemy is found in a fortified position.

The implements and methods of war will change with the growth of science and industrialism. Already they have changed. The nation that is able to use them in an integrated, balanced system in the next war will be victorious.

THE AMERICAN DOLLAR IN THE EUROPEAN POCKET.

Ambassador Edge in France has tried to reduce the French irritation caused by the tariff. He says Americans trade in French luxuries and will not be stopped when they want a thing by the thought of higher duties. He may or may not be persuasive. Self-interest will control the conduct of other nations in their dealings with the United States and the new imposts.

It wasn't a wise thing to give the world a new issue against this country by acts which were not required at home. Europe was a bit at a loss for a quarrel with Americans. Nothing much could be done any more with the league of nations, the world court, Sacco-Vanzetti, or German reparations. Even the debts had quieted down and it was getting harder to find the American devil in the troubles of other peoples. The new tariff now serves the purpose. Its critics in Europe and in American countries will not limit themselves to its economic realities. They will use it for the cultivation of ill will which spoils markets.

The most regrettable effect may be that upon Canadian relations, and it may not help to remind the Canadians that if they had agreed some years ago there would be a lot of free trade between the two nations. Now American agriculture gets the protection which chiefly disturbs Canada. Complaining nations may be reminded that the United States offers them two advantages which they obtain nowhere else on such a scale. Their trade balances are not made up entirely of goods sold. On their credit side they have the profits from the American tourist trade and they have the remittances which immigrants still make to their old homes. The first of these is not negligible by any means. It is a product of American prosperity, curiosity and desire for recreation.

The tourist trade can be affected by ill will or good will. It may be impossible to organize it here on a definite basis for reciprocity or retaliation, but gradually it will shape itself that way. International boycotts may have unexpected kickbacks in them.

ROTARY'S SILVER ANNIVERSARY.

This week Chicago is host to some 20,000 Rotarians representing the sixty-three countries in which that remarkable organization has been established. They will celebrate the twenty-fifth or silver anniversary of the founding of the club, which was born in Chicago Feb. 23, 1905. From that modest beginning the organization has spread about the world and, besides growing within itself, has inspired other similar organizations, comprising in all some 600,000 professional and business men and women in about 6,000 clubs.

Chicago may well be proud that such an influence for business ethics, for good citizenship, for friendly coöperation at home and abroad sprang from the practical idealism of Chicago men and has gained the respect of like-minded people so widely. The movement has been profoundly constructive and its influence is steadily widening and deeping. The idealist deprecates much that is belligerent and selfishly narrow in the intense but invigorating competition of modern life, and the spirit of Rotary emphasizes the greater possibilities of human comradeship and friendly rivalry. In spite of cynical detraction, Rotary is a force for better living, for the true economy of human effort, for a more humane and stable civilization. Its membership and that of the organizations its example has brought into being represent the sane and solid character on which society is founded, the qualities in modern civilized mankind which insure social stability and progress.

UNEQUAL REPRESENTATION.

The Rock Island Argus, according to a recent editorial reprinted the other day on this page, thinks that Chicago should accept a limitation of representation. Twelve states, it asserts, have placed limitations on large cities within their border, and Illinois should do likewise.

This demand for unequal representation is inconsistent with the basic democratic principle of American government. It is supported by the theory that human beings living in large cities are inferior to those who live outside of them. The superiority cannot be proved and is in fact nonexistent. The cities have their low grade citizenship, and so has the country. Virtue and vice, intelligence and ignorance are not sectional and good citizenship is as prevalent in great centers of population as in small. There is no consideration of political or social welfare which justifies giving twice the legislative force to a farmer or a small town voter that the resident of a large town has.

We suggest that Rock Island has not given much support to the assumption underlying the Argus' remarks, nor does the persistent nullification of the constitution by the downstate representatives seem to us a very luminous example of the superiority of the political conscience outside the large cities.

CRIMINAL ALIENS.

Judge Harry Miller remarks that "the government could do much to eliminate crime conditions if it would act with much more speed in deporting" criminal aliens. He asserts there are a lot running about Chicago, and we think a thorough investigation would verify the assertion. We do not overlook the fact that the problem of keeping criminal aliens from entering a country with thousands of miles of border is not an easy one, but it is easy compared to the problem of preventing a hundred and thirty million people from getting a drink. Yet that is what our government is expected to accomplish. While the government has such a job on its hands it will not have much energy left to keep criminals from slipping in, and the temptation to slip in meanwhile has been intensified a hundredfold by the rewards promised to law breaking and the increasing ineffectuality of the law enforcing machinery, now staggering under an impossible task. A vicious circle and a lesson in the science of government.

POLITICS IN THE GUARD.

Though the appropriation for the artillery range near Camp Grant was voted by the last legislature, the issue is by no means closed, as suggested by Gen. Keehn. Fortunately it is not. The matter seems to be an affair of Gen. Keehn's, despite his citation of military opinion in favor of the range. Genuine military judgment is opposed to the project on sound military considerations, and the men of military training and experience who may have been moved to give a perfunctory acquiescence to the plan would not care to defend it before any independent tribunal of military judgment. Political and personal considerations, as we have said, are confusing and deteriorating guard policy, and this is only another illustration of that deplorable fact. It is inevitable if civilians without military education or experience are given high position in the organization that money which should be spent to make the guard efficient as a military body will be wasted on projects which do not conduce to military efficiency, but are put through by political pull for personal prestige. That the head of the military establishment of Illinois should be a civilian who was elevated for purely political reasons without the slightest preparation for so responsible a post, even through service in the late war, was a scandal in guard history which could not fail to demoralize the organization and open the way to its military degeneration. The artillery range project is important, not merely because it is a military mistake, but because it is the product of political and personal domination of guard affairs.

AMERICAN HEROES

ETHAN ALLEN

A Brief Review of His Contribution to Our Country

(The articles of which the following is the fifth are intended as five minute sketches of early Americans of particular achievement and distinction, each flashed briefly against the background of the times and conditions in which the subject made his contribution to the nation. Their names may be well or may be little known now to the generation which has inherited the benefits of wise, laborious, and, in many instances, heroic work.)

(Picture in Rotogravure Section.)

ETHAN ALLEN was a real bucko, of almost gigantic stature and strength, with a florid idea of freedom as the fortune of the brave and no pale idea of himself. He was a frontiersman in a country in which the revolution came as an incident of good or bad consequences as might happen. The Green Mountain boys had their guards up in both directions. They were at war with New York in defense of their New Hampshire land titles when the revolution happened along. They had their own republic during it, and even Washington suspected that they might let a British army in, although they had swarmed over Burgoyne and had destroyed two of his armies, two expeditions of Brunswickers invading their country.

Allen was already an experienced rebel with a New York price on his head when the firing began at Lexington and continued at Concord. That did not clear up Vermont's troubles, but it brought a short truce in its private war and gave its mountain boys a new vent for their activities. Allen led them in a dash for the fort at Ticonderoga, across Lake Champlain, where an unsuspecting garrison deep in the wilderness had no reason to be on guard.

This story makes his renown. He broke in at night with part of his expedition and, flourishing his sword over the sleepy eyed commander, delivered the famous demand for surrender in the name of "the Continental Congress and the great Jehovah." This has its doubters, on the ground that no one ever in war said what was ascribed to him, but it was just what the bucko would have said and the only disputed point is whether he added "by God."

His legend leaves him waving his sword over the head of Capt. Delaplace, but his great experiences lie outside his popular reputation and at Ticonderoga they had just begun. After the capture of the Lake Champlain fort a systematic American advance was undertaken against Canada. From Ticonderoga the confident American revolutionists prepared to leap spread eagle into the province, to rally the French Canadians for freedom and make a clean sweep of British rule. It was a rash adventure, with all its elements undependable. It would have been difficult work for a well equipped army. In the end the intrepid invaders reached the walls of Quebec but their failure there was their disaster. Allen had gone well in the front of the progress north along Lake Champlain and the Richelieu river, advancing by St. Johns and Fort Chambly upon Montreal. Ticonderoga was still singing in his blood when he was deluded into a dash against Montreal. It proved notable as an almost single handed attack and brought the robust hero to grief. He was not supported as he expected to be. He involved his small and unstable following in an inextricable position and was taken prisoner. Then life actually began to unfold for the frontiersman, and his ingenuous record of it belongs in literature as much as in history.

He was a prison ship victim for two years and eight months. If the Tower of London was to have any severed heads of these newest rebels there was every chance that Col. Ethan Allen would give the first one. He was shipped to England, in irons part of the time, with the men taken with him in front of Montreal. The huge man was in a Canadian woods costume and it was thus he was delivered to the gaze of the English of high and low degree curious to see what strange people were in revolt across the sea. They could not have had a larger eyeful than the colonel from the Hampshire grants, and a stout but canny soul he proved to be in his extremity. He had reconciled himself to execution but not to insult.

The English knew of Ticonderoga. It had been in their wars with the French. They had lost an army there to Montcalm. One of their best liked nobleman, George Augustus Lord Viscount Howe, had been killed near there in the flower of his youth. It was the scene of the great ghost story of Duncan Campbell of Inverawe, major in the Black Watch, who died there of wounds, as forewarned by an apparition at home. And in the powerful figure of Col. Ethan Allen was to be seen the rebel who most contumaciously had captured the stronghold and his majesty's troops with it.

He was landed at Falmouth and taken to Pendennis castle, where he was a popular circus for a few weeks. His appearance, as he described it, was in "a short fawn skin jacket, double breasted, an undervest and breeches of sagathy, worsted stockings, a decent pair of shoes, two plain shirts and a red worsted cap." A friendly gentleman whispered to him that the betting in London was he would be hanged. The castle commander sent him breakfast and dinner, with wine, from his own table. Clergymen engaged him in argument. He said he had studied divinity but was a conjurer by profession. A gentleman had a servant offer him punch, which he refused to accept in such fashion. The gentleman then would offer it to him but would not drink with a state criminal. "However I took the punch and drank it all down at one draught, and handed the gentleman the bowl; this made the spectators as well as myself merry."

To a young gentleman who said the Americans could not bear the smell of powder he replied that he would gladly prove the contrary on the spot. "Such a rebel as they were pleased to call me it is probable was never before seen in England." That, it would seem very likely, must have been true and the government, having the colonel in England, did not know what to do with him. There was Whig talk of a writ of habeas corpus for him, and to avoid that test of just what was going on in the colonies the ministry sent the prisoners to sea again and back to America.

Allen's narrative is a text of prison ship life, amusing, because at times he could not help being; horrible, because its brutalities generally were; but it is to be noted that the prisoners, in the voyage to the Cape Fear river in North Carolina and then to Halifax, survived the scurvy almost as well as the crew. Nevertheless, they were all nearly dead.

From Halifax Allen was transferred to New York, where he saw the horrors of the prisoner life there, himself paroled with the freedom of the town. He records his sympathy and indignation, but shrewdly protected himself as well as he could from too aggressive interest in behalf of the miserable men taken in American misfortunes along the Hudson.

After two years and eight months experience he was released by exchange. The skies temporarily were brighter. Burgoyne had surrendered. Allen visited Washington at Valley Forge and having been received with "peculiar marks of his approbation," went home to Bennington, where he was saluted, as one returned from the dead, with fourteen guns—"thirteen for the United States and one for young Vermont," the orphan state which wasn't in the Union.

Thereafter his interest was largely in the private war with New York and he seemed in that cause to nibble at British intrigue, but Washington's espionage service found him sound at the core. Vermont was not to be swallowed by New York and the boys of the Green mountains saved their lands to join them in the Union as the fourteenth state.

CANCER OF THE LIPS.

DRS. ELLER and Anderson tell us that much cancer of the lips, tongue, gums, and cheeks would be averted if people knew more about the forerunners of cancer, accepted certain signs as indications of impending cancer, and acted in accordance with proved plans.

Syphilis of the mouth is very likely to eventuate in cancer. Many a physician has been blamed for diagnosing syphilis of the mouth and eventually having the case prove to be one of cancer. The probability is that the physician was right. Such cases are often syphilitic for months before they become cancerous. Proper syphilitic treatment, promptly begun and faithfully carried out, should cure the local syphilis and prevent cancer. The treatment of such cases should be with mercury and bismuth and not with arsenic preparations. Arsenic, either locally or internally, is a potent cause of cancer. To give arsenic to a person with syphilis of the mouth adds more to the danger of cancer than it removes.

There is a disease of the cheeks and tongue known as leucoplakia. A great many people know this to be a red flag indicating that cancer is waiting around the next curve. There are some who are unduly afraid of leucoplakia and others who are not enough so. A person who finds a leucoplakia patch in his mouth should go to a dentist and have his teeth put in safe condition. He should quit the use of tobacco and he should make daily use of simple cleansing mouth washes. This is all most will require to cure up their leucoplakia and to ward off the danger of mouth cancer. There are a few exceptions.

Warts on the tongue should be looked on with suspicion. They commonly develop on the top of the tongue, rather toward the back. They should be thoroughly removed or they should be left alone. Of the several conditions which cause burning in the mouth, or sore tongue, this is the only one that has any relation to cancer.

There is no likelihood that cancer will precede a leucoplakia patch, a fissure, or a sore in smoker's tongue, but the relationship of smoking to cancer of the mouth is so evident that a wise smoker who develops smoker's tongue will either quit tobacco or will greatly reduce his allowance.

A crack on the lip which persists for a long time is likely to be either syphilitic or cancerous. This suggests that such persisting cracks should not be neglected.

DUE TO AN INFECTION.

H. R. writes: Every once in a while I get a sore on my lower lip. It is a fever sore or cold sore. It is pussy and stays more than a week, then gradually dries and disappears. My general health is good and I am not troubled with the general illnesses. Can you advise what to do?

REPLY.

This is called herpes. It is due to an infection with a herpes virus, or with some microbe such as the pneumonia coccus. It is customary to touch up such sores with spirits of camphor. I could tell you, theoretically, how to prevent herpes, but not how to put the theory into satisfactory practice. The common advice given is to change the diet, overcome constipation, and to lead a more active life.

GAIN PEACE OF MIND.

G. M. writes: The symptoms of my stomach trouble are as follows: Every night for four years I have been bothered with a bad dream. When these dreams reach their climax I awake with terrible beating of the heart, the left leg commences to ache, and the head becomes very heavy.

What is it? Is it gas? Is there any cure for it?

REPLY.

Try eating a very light supper. Peace of mind is an even better preventive. Sometimes organic diseases cause these symptoms.

ON THE FENCE QUESTION.

Chicago, June 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you please tell me which is the fence to a lot facing east?
H. M.

The wording of the fence act indicates that the legislature had agricultural properties primarily in mind. Section 2, for example, provides that a fence "sufficient to turn stock" shall be legal. Although the applicability of this wording to urban property is open to some question there is no express exemption and we regard the act as applying to division fences between city lots which are inclosed on their other boundaries, so that adjoining owners must contribute equally to the cost and repair of each such fence.

113TH AND PERRY AVE.

Chicago, June 11.—[Friend of the People.]—Is it compulsory that public utilities repair damage done to streets that they have dug up?

They have made some repair at 113th and Perry avenue and left the street in a very bad condition.
C. R.

Repairs have been made to the street pavement at 113th street and Perry avenue and conditions complained of have been remedied.
JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Deputy Superintendent of Streets.

LANDLORD RENEGES.

Chicago, June 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have a lease on my apartment, Chicago Real Estate board form B lease, which has a clause written in by landlord, "Individual icebox to be installed on or about May 15, 1930." This has not been done or any reason given for not doing so.

1. Since landlord has broken this lease can I move to another apartment and not be liable for balance of rent, as lease has eleven months to run?

2. Is there a city ordinance as to when a tenant shall have hot water, as I have to heat pans of water in which to wash? Hot water is supposed to be furnished, as this is a 17 apartment building.
J. L. E.

1. It is not clear that the breach is sufficiently serious to warrant your moving out. It would be preferable for you to notify him that if he does not act by a named date you will get the box and sue him for the costs.

2. No. If the lease or the circumstances are such as to place the obligation on the landlord, then he must furnish hot water in reasonable quantities and at reasonable hours.

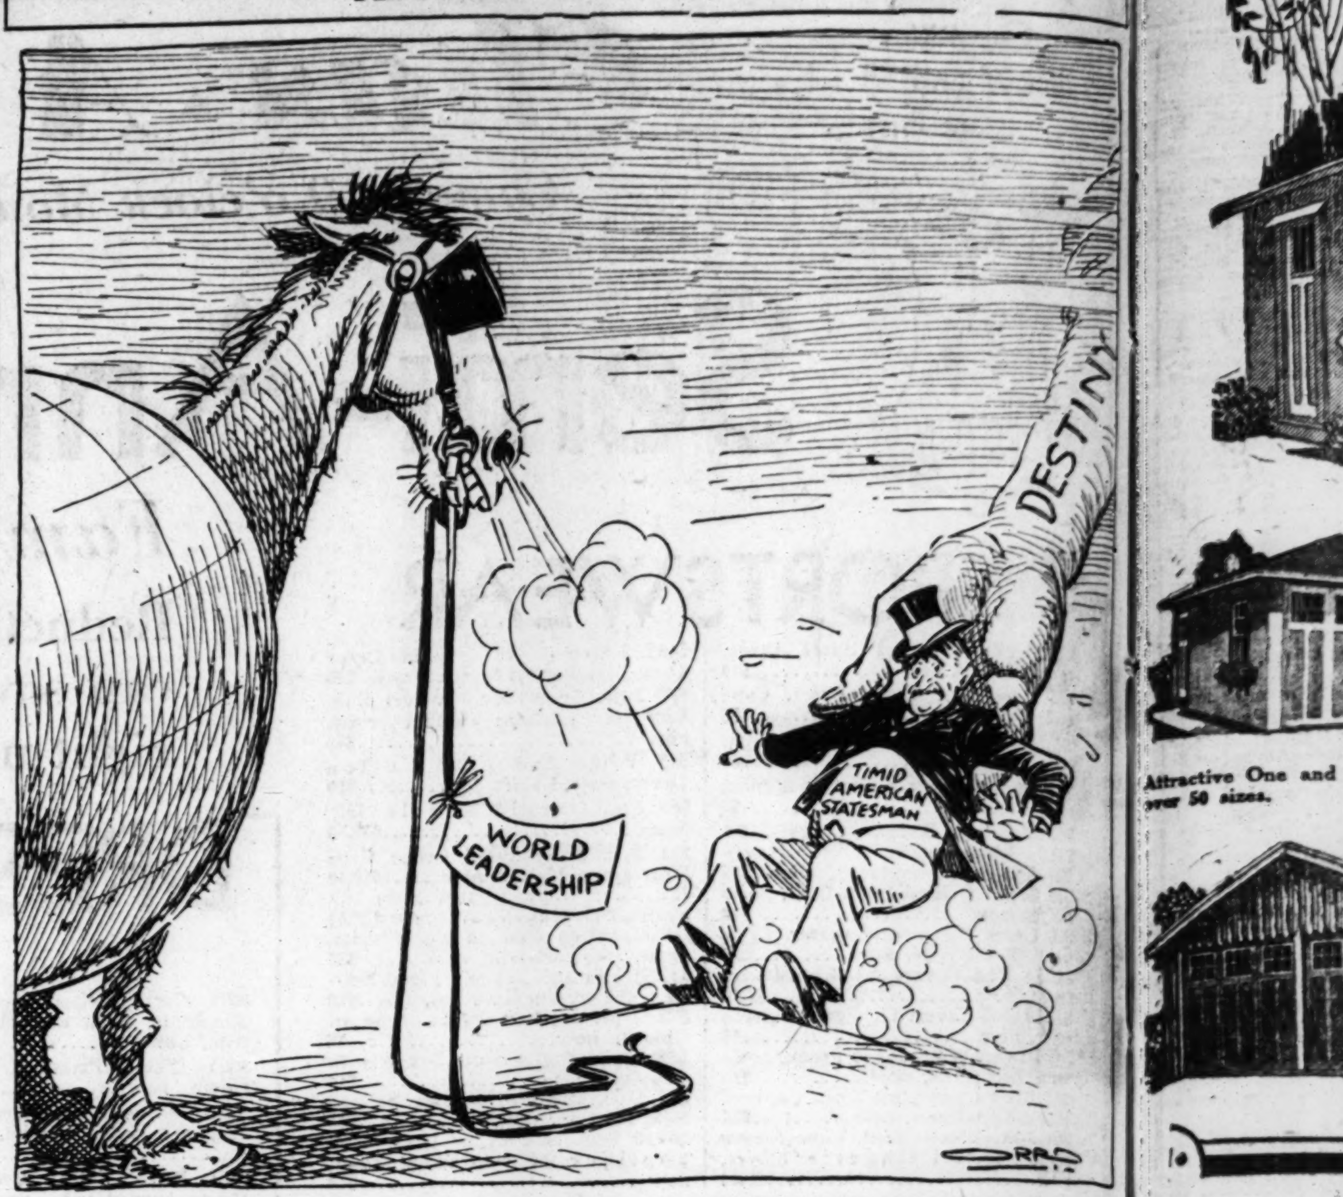
AFRAID OF THE JOB



FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 22, 1865.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—Gen. Wilson telegraphs the government that he has issued to the poor in Atlanta, during the last seven days, over 100,000 pounds of meat and flour. He represents that the people in ten counties adjacent to Atlanta are in a starving condition, and says that relief must be extended to at least 30,000 people to save their lives.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Capt. M. E. Haffey arrived here, having in charge Mr. Garple of Cahawba, Ala., the scoundrel who advertised for proposals to assassinate Mr. Lincoln for $1,000,000. Garple is a lawyer and claims that the affair was a joke. He has applied for Reverdy Johnson and James T. Brady to defend him. The advertisement appeared in the Selma Advertiser.

NEW YORK.—The steamer Eagle brings Havana news to the 17th. The rebel general, Slaughter, was driven out of Brownsville by his own soldiers and had reached Havana. John C. Breckenridge, Col. Wood Taylor and Capt. Nelson, aid de camp to Jeff Davis, arrived at Cardenas in an open boat probably from the Florida coast.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In the trial of the Lincoln conspirators Mr. Ewing tomorrow will present his argument in behalf of Dr. Mudd and this will conclude all that is to be said in defense of the prisoners. Mrs. Surratt, owing to her feeble physical condition, has been removed from her cell to a comfortable room in the penitentiary. By permission of the secretary of war, Miss Annie E. Surratt has been permitted to keep her mother company constantly.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Mrs. William H. Seward, wife of the secretary of war, died today. Her remains will be taken by special train to Auburn, N. Y., where they will be buried.

CHICAGO.—Dr. J. F. Hopkins of Wisconsin and Miss Lizzie M. Woodcock of Chicago were married on June 21 at the First Congregational church by the Rev. Dr. Kitchell.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 22, 1900.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—William McKinley was nominated for President and Theodore Roosevelt for Vice President by the Republican national convention as predicted, and the ticket has been received with unbounded enthusiasm by the delegates. Both nominations were made by acclamation. In the opinion of practically all members of the convention the ticket is far and away the strongest that could have been named. Maj. McKinley represents the party idea thoroughly, while Roosevelt is almost fanatically popular in the states west of the Mississippi, from which the Rough Riders for the Spanish-American war were recruited.

LONDON.—Official advices from Chefoo state that the American consulate at Tientsin was destroyed by the Chinese on June 18, and that all foreign concessions have been seriously damaged after a bombardment of thirty hours. The news is confirmed by a message from Admiral Kempff to the navy department at Washington. It appears that the Boxers cast their lot with the regular Chinese troops in the attack. The town was defended by a foreign garrison of from 3,000 to 3,500 troops, mostly Russians. Meantime, the powers are massing a relief force at Taku, 30 miles away.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 22, 1920.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. Ruth Wanderer, 21 years old, was shot and killed last night by a supposed robber as, at her husband's side, she was about to open the door leading to the flat of her mother, Mrs. Eugenia Johnson, at 4732 North Campbell avenue. The next moment her husband, Carl, a former lieutenant in the 17th machine gun battalion, had drawn his army revolver and begun a duel with the stranger, shooting him four times and killing him. The men stood a foot apart and blazed at each other in the darkness. In the dead man's pocket was a card issued by the John Robinson circus to "E. Masters." He had an army revolver of the same kind and caliber as Wanderer's. Mrs. Wanderer would have become a mother in August.

TAME ROBINS.

Elgin, Ill., June 9.—I have two pairs of robins which come to my home each year. I have tamed them by feeding them raisins and they will walk right into my kitchen to get them. I scatter a few raisins back of the open door and under the gas stove. One robin will come in to get them while I am washing dishes and will walk clear across the kitchen if a few raisins are placed on the floor. Only once did one of them become frightened. Not knowing the robin was in the kitchen, I walked rather quickly into the room and, of course, Mrs. Robin was frightened and flew to the ceiling and bumped her head and just couldn't find the door. At last she got out and I thought she would never come in again, but in less than an hour she was back again, ready for more. The robins come many times a day when there are baby robins and they carry all that their beaks can hold to the baby birds in the nest.

One day one of the robins came into the kitchen with a worm in his beak. He laid the worm on the floor and carried off raisins instead. He did not come back after the worm. Perhaps he thought he was giving me a treat.

These two pairs of robins fight and are most jealous of each other. In order to keep peace I do not feed them at the same time. When one pair isn't around all I have to do is to go to the window facing my neighbor's yard and there, on her wash pole, is where my Mr. Robin usually sits; and seeing me at the window is the signal letting him know the coast is clear, and he comes flying, oftentimes almost brushing his wings against the window, and then on to the back porch, ready for his treat. And, no matter where he is in the neighborhood, if he sees me standing in the kitchen doorway he will fly straight down to me.

A month or more ago, when the weather was cold, he showed me another trick he had. The door was closed then, and in order to let me know he was waiting out there he would set up a noise and keep it up until I opened the door to let him come in to get his raisins. This robin is always the first to arrive from the south, about the latter part of February, and he has been making his home here for the last three years. The other pair did not become tame until this spring. They build their nests in my neighbor's trees, as my trees are not large enough, but they board at my house.

29 MEN FOR A LITTLE JOB.

Chicago, June 12.—This morning, in front of my home, the city street repair department repaired a hole not larger than three square feet. It took a total of twenty-nine men to do the job, four of them actually working, the rest bosses. The first crew of sixteen came in two large trucks and several touring cars. They worked less than ten minutes. In about a half hour the second crew came, working no longer. They also had two working men, the rest bosses. Not more than fifteen minutes was spent on the job, but it took twenty-nine men to do it. Figure the cost of repairing this small patch.
MRS. J. J. BLACK.

BILLBOARDS FOR BEAUTY.

Chicago, June 2.—Why all the ballyhoo against billboards? Are they, as has been generally represented, a menace to public safety and an obstruction to scenery? No one knows better than the motorist how absurd is the alleged obstruction of vision of railroad crossings and scenic beauty. Contrary to propaganda spread by women's clubs and editorials picturing an almost solid wall of billboards smack up against the highway, broken only by railroad crossings, 90 per cent of the billboards are individual displays and the other 10 per cent in groups of two or three. The distance between the individual or group displays is usually blocks and frequently miles.

Overall dimensions of a standard billboard used to display a twenty-four sheet poster are 25 by 11 feet. For years in every hamlet, village, county, or municipality in every state, by ordinance as well as by established policy of the outdoor advertising companies, erection of boards on highways within well defined safety zones has been restricted. The wide open spaces between the displays and the distance of the boards from the highways afford ample opportunity for full enjoyment of scenery from every point of view, unlike the barbecue, hot dog, and refreshment stands, roadhouses, real estate, hotel, and a multitude of other signs cluttering the landscape, which, because of their size and proximity to the highway, actually obstruct the scenery, and which, strangely enough, the lovers of scenery seem to overlook.

In the cities, observation alone is conclusive proof that billboards contribute to rather than detract from beauty and safety. Many an eyesore is hidden from view by a neat, well kept billboard with a beautiful and artistic lithographed poster, reproduced from a painting by the brush of a celebrated artist. To millions of our youth these beautiful and artistic posters are their only art gallery and accessible source of knowledge, inspiration and appreciation of art—art as conceived and interpreted by foremost artists and reproduced by lithography, an industry representing millions in investment and affording employment to thousands of artisans upon which they and their dependents look for a livelihood.

GOLFING IN THE PARK.

Chicago, June 12.—Why is it that the rules governing registration for golf at the Lincoln park links are more rigid than those of Jackson park? Last evening I left the office at 4:45, arriving at the links at 5:15 o'clock hoping to go on without much delay. The registry showed that if I registered then I would have to wait until 7 o'clock. Being prepared to play, I also was prepared to wait, which I did. I played about [illegible] holes in comfort; the rest were played practically in the dark. Why not give the folk who are employed an even break. I understand that at Jackson park it is permissible to register in the morning for evening play. Why not let the same rules apply at Lincoln park? Why not restrict schoolboys from playing after 5 o'clock and give the fellow a chance who would like to play a round on the way home from work?

EX-CONVICTS PUT THEIR OWN FIRM ON THE ROCKS

Venture in Reclamation Ends in Failure.

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—A venture in criminal reclamation went on the rocks here today when the Amazon Leather Goods company failed after a troubled year and a half of ex-convict and reformed gangster operation.

The Marshall Stillman movement effort to set ambitious ex-convicts up in a coöperative business of their own resulted in the purchase of a women's handbag factory in January, 1929. Sixty former criminals were "salvaged" as workmen. It is said they were recruited by want ads for "ex-convicts only." From then on it was nip and tuck with old man overhead and the bonus system.

Financed by Wealthy Citizens.

On Tuesday the creditors, whose bills total a little more than $50,000, started the action which resulted in the Supreme court naming Benjamin Jacobs as assignee. The creditors hope to do a bit of salvaging work themselves—about 25 cents on the dollar.

The factory operated along altruistic lines and was financed partially by a group of wealthy citizens interested in the reclamation of criminals. The Marshall Stillman Movement Industries, Inc., of which the Amazon company was to be only one of a string of plants, offered $100,000 in cumulative preferred stock and the project stared off with high hopes. It was announced by Alpheus Geer, founder of the movement, that 50 per cent of the net profit would be distributed among the workers, most of whom were unskilled and who were paid as high as $67.50 a week.

Geer's "Knockabout Boys."

The altruistic offshoot of the Marshall Stillman movement maintained a good output and met with a fair market, but unexpected business difficulties caused the first year to end with a slight deficit so that there was no bonus. The "knockabout boys" as Mr. Geer prefers to call his reclaimed gangsters had entertained too glowing theories about the bonus and were greatly upset. Consequently, there was considerable disgruntlement, labor trouble, and shooting.

It was about the time of the $2,000 deficit that Mr. Geer quit as president of the concern. Then George Hodson, ex-convict secretary of the company, was killed and Murray Bauman, a worker was wounded along with Charles Meyers, alleged speakeasy proprietor, in a gun fight in Meyer's establishment. The shooting is said to have arisen during a business discussion of the handbag works, but Mr. Geer would not believe this was the true motive.

As the creditors began to grow insistent for the money, Mr. Geer called a meeting last week of the directors of the movement but he failed to avert the financial difficulties.

Blame Poor Management.

"We have been passing through some difficulties," Mr. Geer said, "and I do not know exactly what our financial situation is, because I leave the temporal details to my associates. I stand in the position of a rector to a parish."

One of the creditors said the failure of the firm was largely due to unskilled management and to the fact that the ex-convicts were not particularly skilled workers.

The Marshall Stillman movement proper is governed by a board of thirty directors which in the past has included such able business men as John McEntee Bowman, Edward F. Hutton, Jules Bache, John N. Willys, Julius Rosenwald, and others. Alpheus Geer is a retired silk merchant who became convinced a dozen years ago that the criminal is "just an ordinary fellow who has gone off at a tangent."

RECOVER BODIES OF 5 MORE LOST IN SPEEDBOAT

Toledo, O., June 21.—(AP)—The mystery of the disappearanc of eight prominent Toledoans last Saturday after their departure for Pelee Island in a speedboat, was definitely cleared today when the bodies of five of them were recovered from Lake Erie and Coroner Frank G. Kreft diagnosed that their deaths were caused by drowning.

The body of another of the victims, John Liptack, 24, of Harbor View, mechanic on the boat, was recovered last Tuesday. It was found floating in a life jacket.

The two victims still unaccounted for are Herbert Nauts, son of Internal Revenue Collector Charles H. Nauts, and John Meyers, operator of the boat.

The bodies recovered were of Charles H. Nauts, Franklin B. Jones, Frank Miller, Henry Hainbuch, and Arthur E. Kruse.

Two Women Sentenced to Hang for Murders

BUDAPEST, Hungary, June 21.—[U.P.]—Two women charged with murder were sentenced to hang at Szolnok today in a continuation of the trial of 36 women for a series of murders in the district. The women condemned today were charged with poisoning several relatives, either to get their property or to be free to marry again. Fräu Szabos was a co-defendant with her husband, who was sentenced to life imprisonment as an accomplice.

Russians Strike Huge Oil Gusher 4,420 Feet Down

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, June 21.—After a year's work, oilmen at Baku struck a rich oil pool two days ago at 4,420 feet. Although a big gusher was expected and heavy capping had been provided, the fountain of oil blew through it after the manometer had registered a pressure of 75 atmospheres. Latest reports place the daily flow above 50,000 barrels.

KILLED BY FREIGHT CAR DOOR.

Albert La Tour, 55 years old, 6628 West 34th street, was killed yesterday when the door of a freight car he was inspecting in the Cicero yards slid shut, strangling him.

ATOM'S 'PICTURE' PRODUCED FOR SCIENCE VIEW

Experts Shown How It Should Appear.

Ithaca, N. Y., June 21.—(AP)—The Heisenberg-Compton atom, a new picture of how negative bits of electricity fit together to make solid substance, was presented to the American Physical society at Cornell university today.

It reveals electrons, as the electrical particles are called, moving in vapory clouds rather than like planets in orbits.

Dr. Arthur H. Compton, American Nobel prize winner in physics, reported the discovery. He said this new picture was made in the Ryerson physical laboratory at the University of Chicago, and these experiments come the closest of any yet performed to showing "what the atom looks like."

How "Look" Was Had.

Dr. Compton obtained this "look" into atoms by combining the latest methods of observation and of mathematics. The atoms at which he looked were helium. X-rays shining through helium gas produced halos much like the familiar ring around the moon.

Just as the moon halo reveals the size of invisible droplets of water causing it, Dr. Compton said, the helium gas halos showed not only the size of atoms but "gives us precise information regarding the electron distribution in atoms."

The meaning of this information was calculated by Fourier integrals and by the new principle of probability originated by the young German scientist, Werner Heisenberg. Under this principle only the probable position of a moving electron can be determined because it is impossible to measure with perfection both velocity and position.

Present Theory in Doubt.

"When we review the many atomic theories that have been proposed and discarded," said Dr. Compton, "it may perhaps appear too bold to say that the particular theory now in vogue has any finality.

"One by one the vortex ring atom of Kelvin, the positively charged jelly of Thomson, the minute solar systems of Rutherford, Bohr, and Sommerfeld, as well as the tiny atoms of Crehore, the ring electron atoms of Parsons, and the cubic atoms of Lewis and Langmuir have given way to more promising successors. We replace even Schroedinger's diffuse cloud of negative electricity by a probability cloud of electrons after the manner of Heisenberg. It now appears, however, that the only one of these many proposals which can account for the observed X-ray diffraction halos is that of Heisenberg.

Compared with Helium.

"In the case of helium we note a maximum of electron density at very near the radius of the electron orbits of helium calculated on Bohr's theory. The distribution is, however, definitely diffuse instead of being strongly concentrated at a certain distance from the atom's center. We cannot ascribe this diffuseness to thermal action (heat vibration). The diffuseness is rather the type predicted by the newer quantum theories. Agreement with observed distribution is striking.

"It should be noted that this agreement occurs only in case we use Heisenberg's interpretation as meaning the probability of the presence of an electron. Should we instead represent the volume density of continuous electrical discharge, as Schroedinger originally supposed, we should calculate intensity of scattering which is far from the experimental values."

COUNT OF IDLE IN GOTHAM MAY REACH 400,000

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—The census of New York City will reveal an unemployed population of 400,000, if the ratio of jobless in the twenty-third district, embracing the upper east side, continues throughout the city, according to an estimate made today by Edward F. Corsi, supervisor of the district. Mr. Corsi's figures showed 29,393 idle workers out of a total population of 427,147, but included a large number of unemployed in the twelfth assembly district. This was attributed to the fact that of the 10,679 idle there, 6,678 were enumerated during April in the municipal lodging house, many of whom were drifters from out of the city. Allowing for these drifters, the total of whom would not be so great in other districts, the unemployed figure of 300,000 is indicated.

W. L. Stewart, Oil Leader, Dies in California Home

Los Angeles, Cal., June 21.—[U. P.]—W. L. Stewart, 62, president of the Union Oil Company of California and one of the state's best known oil men, died at his Hermosa Beach cottage near here today. He had been in poor health for the last two years.

Died Hour and Half After Marriage on Deathbed

Carbendale, Ill., June 21.—[Special.]—Evelyn Beggs, 17, of Cobden, a bride for an hour and a half, died today in the arms of her husband, James Whitlock. They decided to marry when doctors told her she was dying.

RUPTURE

Don't submit to avoidable operations or the use of antiquated trusses, as they all set where the lump is and not where the opening is. The opening is seldom larger than a dime no matter the size of the rupture, and all cases can be retained with the end of a lead pencil. "The Spermatic Shield-Complex in combination with the Retainer-Simplex [Patent No. 747247, No. 1237709 and other patents pending]—a scientific achievement in a highly specialized art. It will not only retain any case of rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case. Infinitely superior to any instrument method or operation and producing results in no other way obtainable. All cases are secure a lifetime as against further trouble or expense. Large or difficult cases or incisional rupture [following operations] specially solicited. This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injection, medical treatment or prescriptions with distinguished personal patrons of all nations. See Booklet on "The Fallacy of Surgical Procedure." "If you want done what the rest cannot do—see Seeley."

LEO FEIST DIES; MADE MILLIONS IN JAZZ MUSIC

Ran a Cakewalk Song Into Fortune.

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—Leo Feist, one of the powers in "Tin Pan Alley," as Broadway calls the district devoted to the publishing of popular songs, died today at his home in Mount Vernon of arthritis at the age of sixty.

Mr. Feist started publishing music when he had difficulty getting his own work published. The business grew until it was recognized as the largest publishing house for popular music in the world. It had offices in Paris, Berlin, Australia, and Canada.

The publisher is survived by his widow, Mrs. Bessie Meyer Feist, and three sons, Nathan and Milton, who are in the firm, and Leonard Feist, a student at Yale.

His first notable success was an old cakewalk known as "Smoky Mokes." He brought out the songs of many famous song writers, including George M. Cohan and George Gershwin.

Mr. Feist started his business career as a corset salesman, writing songs in his spare time, but he was unable to sell them, and finally published one himself. It was popular enough to enable him to publish several more, and when he got $200 together he went into the song publishing business.

In December of last year Mr. Feist merged his company with Carl Fisher, Inc., and the National Broadcasting company as the Radio Music company, a corporation caiptalized at $6,600,000.

GIANT BOMBING PLANE CATCHES FIRE OVER PARIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 21.—Montmartre roisterers, including many American tourists seeing Paris by night, witnessed a blazing airplane cruising over the city just as they were leaving the dance halls at 4 o'clock this morning.

The machine, a new giant night army bomber, burst into flames while being tested over the capital. Three aviators miraculously escaped when the burning machine dropped into the treetops of Malabry forest, on the edge of the city. They climbed down the branches.

The pilot, Sergt. Fongeaux; Mechanician Haab, and Radio Operator Carat, when they discovered the flames licking the fuselage, tried to reach Villacoublay airdrome, but the machine fell suddenly.

Guided to the spot by the meteor-like swoop, automobilists expected to find the occupants dead. Instead they discovered the aviators trying to pull the blazing wreckage to the ground to prevent a forest fire.

MORTICIANS PLAN RESEARCH WORK AT MEETING HERE

A five year research program to improve embalming methods and devise conveniences for the public was announced yesterday by the board of directors of the National Selected Morticians in two day session at the Palmer house. The members went on record as opposing the use of the term undertaker instead of mortician, asserting there is no ethnological basis for the use of the former term.

Dr. H. I. Jones, chemist in charge of research, reported on developments of the last year. The greatest advancement, he said, is the development of a test to determine the presence of death. In the past, he asserted, there has been no method to positively distinguish death from coma in some instances. Two tests, one electrical and the other chemical, were explained.

Modern morticians are better embalmers than those of ancient Egypt, Dr. Jones said. A telegraph service similar to that of the florists will be inaugurated.

CHINESE WARSHIP PROTECTS PORT SEIZED BY BRITON

Vessels Barred from Entering Tientsin.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, June 21.—China's domestic, military, and political situation is more or less dwarfed in public attention today by the Tientsin customs crisis, and the animosities of Nanking officialdom are chiefly directed against Lennox Simpson, British writer and novelist, whose pen name is Putnam Weale. The author, acting on behalf of the northern militarist, Gen. Yen Hsi-shan, seized the Tienstin customs house and ousted another Briton, Col. Hayley Bell, the Nationalist government's legal customs commissioner.

Dr. T. V. Soong, national finance minister, when interviewed, labeled Mr. Simpson as a "two gun foreign adventurer, supported by ruffians," while Dr. C. T. Wang, foreign minister, declared Mr. Simpson is guilty of treason and shall be dealt with according to law.

Gunboat Keeps Vessels Away.

In the meantime the Nationalist government has officially closed the port of Tientsin and ordered a gunboat stationed off shore in order to prevent shipping from entering Tientsin harbor without previously paying customs duties at Shanghai, Tsingtao, Dairen, or some other port controlled by the Nationalist government.

According to reports from Tientsin, the entire customs staff obeyed the Nationalist government instructions and walked out and left Mr. Simpson alone in the building, powerless to collect customs revenues for Gen. Yen Hsi-shan's war chest.

Reports from Tientsin state that the import and export business, including the native business, is deadlocked and the goods are piled in warehouses pending settlement of the impasse, while the foreign consular body is in conference trying to find a way out.

China Demands Action.

As Mr. Simpson is a British subject, the Chinese are pressing the British minister to do something, but no action has yet been taken, according to reports.

MRS. ATHOW, 97, NURSE IN CIVIL WAR, IS DEAD

Mrs. Mary Athow, 97 years old, one of the last surviving nurses of the civil war, died yesterday at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Widows home in Wilmington, Ill. She had been ill since six months ago, when she fractured her hip in a fall. She will be buried at Aurora, her home.

Thomas Athow, her husband, died in 1906. He fought under Gen. William S. Rosecrans. Mrs. Athow and Mrs. Annie Wittenmeyer visited Abraham Lincoln and obtained from him papers authorizing the formation of the United States sanitary commission, whose object was to provide the soldiers with proper care and food. Mrs. Athow saw her first nursing service at Houston hospital, Knoxville, Tenn.

She was born in Troy, N. Y., on Nov. 17, 1832, married Mr. Athow when she was 20 years old and settled on a farm near Indianapolis with him. They remained there until the outbreak of the war, when he enlisted.

Bride's Grandmother Dies in Pew at the Wedding

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 21.—(AP)—Miss Florence Hamilton sought her grandmother's congratulations after her marriage to Murray Thompson, in the Plum Creek Presbyterian church at New Texas, near here today.

It was not until then that the wedding party discovered that the grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Jane McComb, 76, had died in her pew as the ceremony went on.

The largest institution in the world devoted exclusively to the treatment of rectal and colonic diseases.
1901 THE McCLEARY SANITARIUM
Over 20,000 Patients from every State Canada and many Foreign Countries

A Treacherous Affliction Healed Without Surgery

THE old theory that surgery was the only method by which hemorrhoids (piles) could be successfully treated has been wholly disproved. If taken in time, this treacherous affliction, which slowly but surely undermines the health of its victims, can be healed totally and successfully without recourse to surgical aid. As pioneers in the non-surgical treatment of hemorrhoids (piles), Dr. McCleary and his associates have established a wonderful reputation for their skill in treating all curable Colon and Rectal conditions. Their services have been sought by men and women from every state, from Canada, Cuba, Mexico and other foreign countries. Their reference list now contains the names of over 20,000 persons, including business men and women, farmers, bankers, teachers, ministers, in fact those from almost every vocation in life.

These Symptoms Are Warnings

Nature sets up danger signals to warn us. If these warnings are heeded in time, much suffering and often grave danger can be avoided. If you have been troubled with headaches, nervousness, faulty nutrition, stomach and liver troubles, constipation, etc., and have been unable to overcome them, you should write at once for our Free Book and learn if your symptoms are not due to some rectal or colonic trouble.

Illustrated BOOK FREE!

We have just prepared a new book describing the McCleary treatment, which is fully illustrated, printed in colors and copyrighted. It explains, in a very interesting and instructive manner, the various kinds of hemorrhoids, piles and other rectal troubles and the mild McCleary treatment that has proved so successful. A copy of this book will be sent postpaid, free to anyone. Use the coupon or send name and address in a letter or postal.

IF YOU are one of the many hundreds in every community who suffer from hemorrhoids (piles), this deserves your immediate attention. Consult with any of our former patients (we will be pleased to supply a list in your own community) and learn the truth from those who know. Ask them about the mild yet positive treatments that cured them—many after surgery had failed. Our complete reference list will be sent you on request. It is more than likely that it contains the names of some of your friends or acquaintances.

Our reference list includes the names of over thirteen hundred residents of Greater Kansas City, and our list of former patients from Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Colorado, Illinois, Iowa, Arkansas and adjoining states would fill several newspaper pages.

So confident are we of results that we say to one and all alike, "If we treat you for any rectal trouble that we fail to cure, you need not pay us one cent." Send for your copy of our Free Book today and learn the facts.

114 ELMS BLVD. McCLEARY CLINIC EXCELSIOR SPRINGS, MO.

Many Suffer Needlessly

Thousands suffer from various ailments without knowing that rectal trouble in some form or other is directly responsible for it. Many men and women who have thus spent years not knowing what was wrong with them have found new health when these troubles were corrected. You can never hope to be well until the cause of your trouble has been removed.

The McCleary treatment finds favor with men and women, young and old, for it entirely does away with harsh surgical methods of treating hemorrhoids or piles. All the discomfort and dangers of ether and chloroform have been eliminated.

Simply use the coupon below, or if you wish you may write us in strictest confidence, describing your case as accurately as possible, and your letter will be answered in detail. In either event, our book and large reference list will be sent free postpaid in plain wrapper.

YOUTHS URGED TO ENROLL FOR CAMP SESSION

Prominent Citizens Praise C. M. T. C. Work.

There is still opportunity for three or four hundred young men from the Sixth corps army area, which includes northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin, to enroll for the annual training camp at Fort Sheridan this year. There are one thousand more applications on hand than there were at this time last year, but there will be rejections and cancellations and this opens the way for new candidates.

Application blanks may be secured from the Military Training Camps association, 6 North Michigan avenue. Here are the opinions of a few prominent men on the advantages of this way of spending a month's vacation:

Julius Rosenwald: "These camps are wonderful things for the youth of the nation. Every boy of required age should take advantage of the training they offer. They are the best place for really learning to know each other. They teach young men not so much to be military and belligerent as peaceful and brotherly. The keynote of the camps is democracy."

Charles B. Pike, the chief civilian aide to the secretary of war: "At the end of the month you will go home stronger in body, keener in mind, more alert and more ambitious, with better appreciation both of the opportunities and obligations of American citizenship. You will have made some new and worthwhile friendships with your comrades at camp and I hope you will be inclined to help make a little group of C. M. T. C. men in every town and country. Bring into this club or post other young men of the kind you would like to see at camp each year."

William Wrigley Jr.: "I have been much interested for many years in the citizens' military training camps because it seems to me that they render a very valuable service to the country in many ways. What they do for physical health, strength, and vigor in young men appears to me a necessary basis for the contributions they make also to character and good citizenship."

James Simpson: "Democratic government in this country faces a crucial test in the quality of citizenship it can develop. We have prospered beyond other nations in material comfort, the luxuries of former generations have become the necessities of our own; our progress in the solution of political problems is not so efficient. The country needs citizens of greater devotion to its welfare. My interest in the citizens' military training camps through past years has developed largely from the contribution which I see these camps making to a better citizenship. The training in them has made young men better worthwhile to themselves, to their families and to the nation. It has given young employés greater ambition, greater exactness in the fulfillment of their duties, a larger opportunity for advancement. I believe in the camps as of greatest value to our economic, our social, and our political life."

R. O. T. C. IN TRAINING

Members of the R. O. T. C. in camp at Fort Sheridan, yesterday started their first training with a 24 hour tour of guard duty. Drilling will begin tomorrow, with the 350 students observing a fixed schedule. The first battalion parade will be held tomorrow afternoon.

Lieut. O. H. Bryan, one of the regular army officers in charge of the camp, reported that 11 men had been rejected because of physical defects. Among them is Henry Fuldner, a senior at the University of Wisconsin, who has hay fever. Thomas M. Cooke of 707 Junior terrace, captain elect of the University of Michigan's football team, may be rejected because of flat feet.

The students have been divided into four companies—three infantry and one signal. Another unit, in training under Maj. Oren A. Palmer of the regular army, consists of 150 reserve second lieutenants, graduates of universities and colleges in the sixth corps area.

Illness No Bar to Trial of Divorce Case, Judge Rules

Milwaukee, Wis., June 21.—[Special.]—A request by Benjamin F. Steinel that his divorce suit be advanced on the calender because of his illness, was denied today by Judge Charles Aarons. Winfred Zabel, counsel for Mrs. Steinel, declared he was not ready to proceed.

DIXON LIVE STOCK AND GRAIN JUDGING TEAM WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

Urbana, Ill., June 21.—[Special.]—Dixon's squad of 12 youthful grain and live stock experts today won the all-around championship of the Illinois judging contest for students on vocational agriculture held at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

Dixon High school captured the championship in the dairy cattle judging contest, finished second in poultry judging, took fifth in grain judging and seventh in fat stock judging.

Members of the Dixon teams were: Robert Sheaffer, Edward Lawton, Ben Smith Jr., Arthur Schick, Paul E. Clouse, Merritt Bellows, Lloyd Breisch, Clifford Jacobs, Ivan Swegle, Byron Weidman, Kenneth Weidman, and Donald Swegle.

Russell Harris, Flora, distinguished himself as the outstanding individual judge of the contest when he turned in the nearest perfect score in any of the divisions of the contest. He competed in the grain judging events.

The Fairbury High school squad took second place in the all around contest.

HEIDELBERG BOYS REFUSE TO ACT AS DRINKERS IN FILM

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

HEIDELBERG, Germany, June 21.—"The Student Prince" is all wrong. Heidelberg students of today do not act that way at all, in the opinion of the student committee, which indignantly refuses to coöperate with the film company, UFA, in supplying "extras" to be photographed lifting beer steins and swaggering about being "manly" for a new talkie, "A Student Song of Heidelberg," which is to be filmed here shortly.

The committee had originally agreed to assist UFA. When it read the manuscript and found that the old beer guzzling and sausage eating carousing was going to be repeated with a liberal dash of love songs and carefree lovemaking thrown in for talkie effect, the committee divorced itself definitely from any such exaggerations of present day student life.

The committee apparently regards this attempt to "distort facts" as second only to attempts to interfere with the immemorial right to engage in dueling.

RUMANIA SEEKS 90 MILLION LOAN TO BUILD BIG NAVY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 21.—One of the first steps taken by King Carol's government is an attempt to raise a loan of at least $90,000,000 in London for the purpose of building a strong Rumanian navy as well as a fully equipped naval base in the Black sea.

It is understood that conversations have already begun, and while the British foreign office has not yet given its approval, a well known manufacturing firm is prepared to back such a loan in consideration of resultant orders for construction of both the naval base and Rumanian cruisers and destroyers.

The growing strength of the Russian fleet in the Black sea has been a matter of worry to Rumania for some time, and King Carol has already declared that he intends materially to strengthen the country's army and navy.

Child Undisturbed by Scissors in Stomach

Clinton, Ind., June 21.—[Special.]—A small pair of scissors in the stomach of three year old Juanita Foster apparently caused the child no concern tonight, but physicians and surgeons could see no way of removing the shears without a serious operation. The little girl swallowed the tiny scissors while eating a confection.

FREE ICE GOES OUT TOMORROW TO CITY'S NEEDY

Tribune Fund Starts Its Summer Relief Work.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Off to the needy districts of Chicago, up street and down alley, taking cheer to the back doors of nearly 900 tenement families, will go THE TRIBUNE's free ice wagons tomorrow.

For years THE TRIBUNE has raised a fund every summer so there may be ice in back o' the yards households to save the lives of babies and keep whole families well during the hot weather.

The daily call of the iceman means health and a bit of happiness to tenement mothers. Keeping the baby's milk fresh is no longer a problem, and keeping the vegetables fresh and crisp is easy. Meat doesn't spoil easily in a refrigerator. And at the end of a day when all outdoors is wilted it is refreshing to chip ice for cool drinks instead of running water for five or ten minutes in the kitchen sink in the hope that it will turn cool.

Last year THE TRIBUNE free ice fund, through the generosity of readers, distributed one of the largest totals of pounds of ice in its history. The ice man visited 898 families in the congested districts, leaving 517,080 pounds of ice. The year before 667 families received 304,250 pounds of ice.

The ice fund is administered by the United Charities of Chicago. The agencies selected to receive tickets for distribution include the ten districts of the United Charities, and the following nurseries and charitable groups:

Central Charity bureau, Children's Memorial hospital, Henry Booth house, Infant Welfare society, Jewish Social Service bureau, Juvenile court, Madonna center, Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, St. Rose's day nursery, De Paul Settlement and day nursery, St. Elizabeth's day nursery, Little Wanderer association.

The ice fund starts the season with less than $50. All gifts will be gladly received and acknowledged. The gifts recently received follow:

Mrs. R. L. Ibsen	$10
C. B. Block	10
Mrs. Rose Block	5
Total	$25
Previously acknowledged	$15
Grand total	$40

Contributions should be addressed to the cashier of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

FARM BOYS AND GIRLS URGED TO HELP PUT LEGGE POLICIES OVER

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[Special.]—Vice Chairman James C. Stone of the federal farm board appealed today to the farm boys and girls of America to assist the board in its effort to aid in the marketing of agricultural crops more effectively.

Addressing the annual 4-H club camp being held under the auspices of the department of agriculture, Mr. Stone said that coöperative action seems to offer the best solution of the farm marketing problem and that the 4-H clubs can do more than any other agency in helping to make the program of the farm relief act a successful service to the future farmers of the country.

EW MUSEUM TO TELL STORY OF CITY'S PAST ill Keep for Posterity Architectural Relics.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

hicago's architects have been ching with regret wreckers tumg down the huge blocks of granthat formed the walls of the famold Marshall Field warehouse at ms and Wells street, for to them represents the passing of one of the y's landmarks—a structure symic of an important milestone in e architectural history of the nation. his building was the work of H. H. ichardson, one of America's greatarchitects.

The city has seen many pages from architectural story irretrievably lost. w a movement has been launched Thomas E. Tallmadge, chairman the Illinois architectural commisn, for the establishment of a Chigo architectural museum patterned fter that of the Ecole des Beaux Arts Paris, where bits from interesting d edifices are kept for future generions to study.

And the first objects selected for e new Chicago museum are a numr of carved capitols, probably dened by Richardson's own hand, hich were taken from the Field ilding. The museum ultimately is be housed in the John J. Glessner sidence at 18th and Prairie, which is be the permanent home of the Chigo chapter, American Institute of rchitects. The Glessner house is the le remaining example of Richardn's work in Chicago.

Other Relics for Museum.

Relics from the Potter Palmer mann and the old Auditorium hotel d theater undoubtedly will be selectd for the museum when they pass, r. Tallmadge says.

Discussing the wrecking of the eld building, Mr. Tallmadge remiced about the work of Richardson, d he emphasized Chicago's imporce in the development of Amera's architecture. Richardson was sponsible for the Romanesque reval which followed the parvenue or d-Victorian style—Chicago exams of which were the old Palmer and erman houses. It was during the manesque period that Chicago chitects developed the skeleton steel pe of construction which led to the odern skyscraper. And it was this y that erected the first skyscrapers.

"To one interested in the life story American architecture, the period hich we call the Romanesque revival one of the most interesting and the st human," Mr. Tallmadge said. It is an architectural episode with the qualities of a romantic advenre. In brief, the current of architecre of the entire country was stopped d then diverted into an entirely new annel by one man. I believe that nry H. Richardson is still regarded the greatest architect that Amer ever produced. In his day he was demigod.

Strong in Midwest.

"He was born in 1838 and he died 1887. As he built Trinity church Boston in 1877, he had only ten ars in which to accomplish his iracle. A host of Richardson discies sprang up almost over night and y 1880, except in New York and he south, the Romanesque style was he universal vernacular throughout he land. The midwestern cities especially were its stronghold.

"Chicago produced in John Wellorn Root, Richardson's greatest disiple. Unfortunately there were few ke him. In those days too many rchitects were uneducated.

"With the World's Fair of 1893 the assic style returned to vogue and re again Chicago's influence was t throughout the country.

"Louis Sullivan, whose early work s influenced by the Romanesque, s the disciple of a new school which ce more brought Chicago to the ont in architectural discussion. His rk was the forerunner of the modn American style.

New York Takes to Wright.

"Then there was Frank Lloyd right, a follower of Sullivan, who olved a style of his own which was cepted in some parts of Chicago and rticularly in Oak Park. New York d the east scorned Wright's work at e time. Then Germany and the therlands accepted it enthusiastily, and in 1926 we find the Wright uence taken up in New York by y of Europe.

"One of the most important events American architecture was THE IBUNE competition announced in 22. This competition brought a mposium of ideas on skyscraper chitecture which resulted in an unscious solution of the problem of yscraper design. Here we find the d cornice relegated to the limbo mong other developments. Saarinen's sign, which won second prize, was important influence in this direcon."

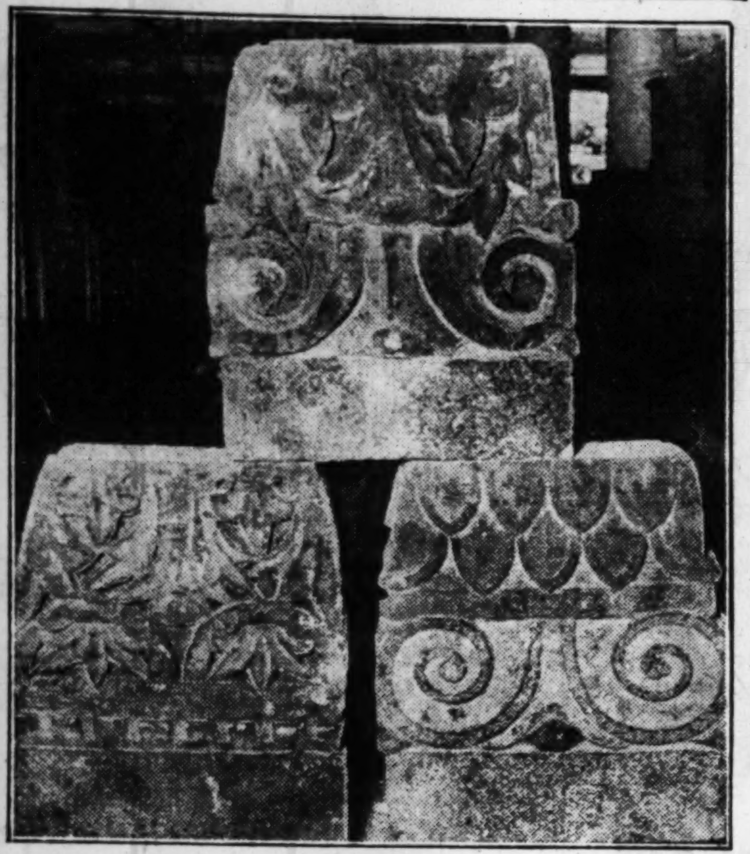
Deaf Hear Again Through New Aid

Earpiece No Bigger Than Dime Wins Enthusiastic Following Ten-Day Free Trial Offer

After twenty-five years devoted exclusively to the manufacture of scientific hearing-aids, the Dictograph Products Co., Inc., Dept. 508M, 180 North Michigan Blvd., Chicago, Ill., has just perfected a new model Acousticon that represents the greatest advance yet made in the re-creation of hearing for the deaf. This latest Acousticon is featured by a tiny earpiece no bigger than a dime. Through this device, sounds are clearly and distinctly transmitted to subnormal ears, with wonderful benefit to hearing and health alike. The makers offer an absolutely free trial for 10 days to any person who may be interested, and a letter will bring one of these remarkable aids to your home for a thorough and convincing test. Send them your name and address today!

RECALLING OTHER DAYS



Capitols taken from the old Marshall Field warehouse at Adams and Wells streets, wrecked to provide automobile parking space. This structure was designed by H. H. Richardson, one of America's greatest architects, and these capitols are to go into an architectural museum which is to be established by the Chicago chapter, American Institute of Architects.

ARREST BANKER AS FIRM FAILS FOR $4,000,000

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—Harold Russell Ryder, partner in the brokerage firm of Woody & Co., which failed with a loss of some $4,000,000 on Thursday, was arrested today on a charge of grand larceny at the complaint of his own firm.

His eyes deep sunk, badly in need of a shave, the once dapper night club habitué, who was once known as the Wall street "wizard" who ammassed and supposedly lost a fortune of several million dollars at the age of 35, walked slowly into the district attorney's office in the afternoon and surrendered.

His two partners, Charles L. Moody Jr., and Lucion A. Held as well as their wealthy relatives, friends and acquaintances who formed the bulk of the clientele of the young brokerage house want Ryder to explain the disappearance of over $4,000,000.

Investigations have disclosed that not only has this money vanished but Ryder's own bank account has dwindled to $615.91.

After brief examination in the district attorney's office Ryder was taken to police headquarters and booked there, the specific charge against him being that he stole $93,687,50, an amount turned over to him by a client of Woody & Co. for the purpose of buying stocks which were never delivered and apparently never ordered.

GERMAN WARRIOR CALLS ON U.S. FOR 'LASTING PEACE'

Guns Perilous, Curtius Says in Radio Appeal.

BERLIN, June 21.—(AP)—A fighting man's plea for peace, aimed at America across 3,000 miles of ocean by the former German captain of artillery who is now his country's foreign minister, was sent out of a Berlin broadcasting studio tonight.

The man behind this long range attack on war and international misunderstanding was Dr. Julius Curtius, master of the reich's foreign policy. The occasion for his radio appeal was a movement to found an academy of peace in memory of the late Gustav Stresemann, peacemaker of post-war Germany and predecessor of Dr. Curtius at the foreign office.

The purpose of the peace academy will be to study all possibilities of promoting international understanding and extending peaceful intercourse.

Peace Secured by Justice.

"Germany needs and desires peace," Dr. Curtius told his trans-Atlantic audience, "a peace honorable for everybody, a peace secured not by military armaments but by justice and good will and reciprocal sincere understanding.

"We desire such a peace not as a nation unfit or loath to bear arms. We desire it as men who know how to fight—I, myself, served at the front for more than four years—but who have come to understand that there are other ways of settling international controversies than by letting an inferno loose over humanity.

"And we have given ample proof of that spirit. The world knows how the German people, although hit incredibly hard by the most unjust of peace treaties, renounced from the beginning any idea of revenge.

Insists on Disarmament.

"It knows the great work of conciliation of my much lamented friend, Gustav Stresemann, embodied in the treaties of Locarno. It knows of our active collaboration in all the labors of the league of nations. Like the United States, Germany is striving to make the world safe from a recurrence of the cataclysm that would without fail put an end to our civilization.

"We stand unreservedly for peaceful settlement of every kind of conflict between states. And, having ourselves, in spite of all rumors to the contrary, completely disarmed following the treaty of Versailles, we strongly insist upon an all around reduction to a minimum of all military establishments and preparations for war."

Dr. Curtius buttressed his appeal for universal disarmament by declaring that such military establishments "are always a potential danger to the peace of the world, for the more guns there are, the more readily one will accidentally go off at the critical hour."

Rome Busy Preparing Day of Games, Feasts to Honor Saint

BY NELSON PAGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 21.—The Eternal City is alive with feverish preparations for the series of festivities starting tomorrow in honor of St. John the Baptist, whose commemoration will be celebrated here on June 24.

The "Night of St. John" is a most popular fête and has been dear to the Romans for ten centuries. Thousands spend the night on this occasion in the open air, gathering around the basilica of St. John Lateran, singing endless songs to the accompaniment of guitars and lutes.

Torches Light Streets.

Snail eating is a famous feature of the night of St. John and hundreds of baskets full of snails of all kinds are greedily purchased by the citizens, while in the popular restaurants one hears nothing but the hasty ringing of orders for snail dishes. The lights in the streets in the neighborhood of St. John Lateran are also a beautiful sight on the night of the celebration and torchlights vie with the twinkle of colored electric bulbs.

Tomorrow's festivities start with donkey races. The donkeys this year are to carry the names of illustrious race horses and also famous politicians like former Premier Herriot of France and former Italian Premier Francisco Nitti. One of the favorite donkeys has been christened "Carnera" after the Italian heavyweight.

The second part of the day's festival includes a frog race. This generally ends in a brawl for the best specimens which are destined for banquets later on. Other competitive features include foot races, sack races and bicycle races.

Meal Tickets as Prizes.

The artistic side of Sunday's fête will consist of prize awards to the composers of Roman songs expressly written for the occasion. The prizes are to be of a practical nature such as bonuses which entitles the bearer to receive a first rate meal at the best restaurant in St. John's quarter.

The present heat wave does not interfere with the many other religious celebrations. The annual feast of St. Aloysius Pontzago, who belonged to a ducal family that reigned at Mantua in the renaissance period, was celebrated with great solemnity this morning at the Jesuit church of St. Ignatius, a Jesuit church to which order St. Aloysius belonged.

The children of former Roman "Black" nobility dress up every year for this occasion in magnificent Spanish court costumes as "pages" of St. Louis and attend service at St. Ignatius' church. There they receive heaps of "letters" from the faithful who, according to Catholic tradition, write to St. Aloysius on this day, begging him for special favors. These are later burned at the altar.

Canonize Two Saints.

Everything is ready at St. Peter's for tomorrow's solemn canonizations of St. Lucia Filippini, Catholic teacher and founder of a religious order in the 17th century, and St. Catherine Thomas, former canoness of St. Augustin in the 16th century. Pope Pius will officiate at the ceremony for which 40,000 tickets have been issued.

MEXICO READY TO STOP GIVING AWAY FARM LAND

States Meet to Act on Agrarian Muddle.

BY JOHN CORNYN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, June 21.—President Ortiz Rubio's preëlection promise to settle the agrarian question and put the landowners in a position to say the remaining lands are their own without danger of losing them as agrarian gifts to peasant farmers is in a fair way to become realized, it was learned today.

The president, through Minister of Agriculture Trevino, called a convention of state governors, which is now meeting in the offices of the department of the interior to consider ways and means of disposing of the agrarian question once and for all.

The state of Aguascalientes led the way in petitioning the president for a settlement of the land problem. The department of agriculture and the agrarian commission will give notice that all peasants desiring land must file petitions within two months. The state pointed out that the peasants were all practically supplied with lands, but still the farmers on a larger scale continued to work at "hairends" without credit or incentive, because the danger of land confiscation still hung over their heads.

It is understood that the government's proposals suggest that each state give notice that all desiring lands and having the right thereto under the agrarian law must present a request to that effect within a given time, after which the conditions of the agrarian law will be declared satisfied, the local agrarian commission suppressed, and the land owners given full title to the remaining lands in their possession.

CUBS WHIP BRAVES TWICE; RAISE PENNANT

SNOWFLAKE WINS $13,000 ILLINOIS OAKS BY NECK

PANSY WALKER SECOND, BEATEN IN STRETCH DUEL

18,000 See Leading Fillies Clash.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Snowflake raced on toward the 3 year old filly championship of the year when she carried the cerise and blue jacket of Walter J. Salmon of New York to victory in the Illinois Oaks at Washington park yesterday.

Snowflake won by a neck from Pansy Walker, the Texas filly. Alcibiades, the champion of her age and sex in Kentucky, was third. Jockey L. Schaefer brought Snowflake up on the outside to score the thrilling triumph in the final strides.

It was the fourth running of the Illinois Oaks and the race had a gross value of $13,260. It was Snowflake's second great triumph of the year. She had captured the famous Old American Coaching Club Oaks at Belmont park before coming west.

Crowding at First Turn.

Snowflake, sharing top weight honors with Alcibiades, had to be considerably the best to win. She was well back while Pansy Walker and Alcibiades fought it out in the early stages. And there was much crowding, most of which was caused by Pansy Walker when Jockey May was away from the barrier late and rushed the Texas filly to the front on the first turn.

Erin, stoutly backed, and Tippy Toe, popular with the crowd, were the sufferers. Jockey Schaefer guided Snowflake carefully past the trouble or the New York filly also might have been knocked out of the contention.

There was enough eastern money in the mutuel machines at post time to make Snowflake the favorite, for after running the mile and an eighth in 1:53 she paid her backers $5.52 to win, $3.38 to place and $2.54 to show. Pansy Walker was at $5.26 to place and $3.38 to show, while Alcibiades paid $5.26 to show.

A crowd of about 18,000 watched the young thoroughbred flappers wage their title battle.

Pansy Walker Takes Lead.

It was Vermiculite's nose which showed in front first, but Pansy Walker pushing everything to the right and to the left of her had worked her way into the lead by the time the field rounded the clubhouse turn. Alcibiades moved right up behind Pansy Walker while Snowflake was quite a ways back in third place.

They ran in this order until they hit the lower bend. Then Alcibiades gave up the chase. As she dropped back, Jockey Schaefer made his move with Snowflake. It was a stubborn Pansy Walker which finally succumbed to Snowflake's challenge a sixteenth of a mile from the finish line.

Even then Pansy Walker wasn't licked. She started to come again. Schaefer went to the whip on Snowflake and the American Coaching Club Oaks winner went on and continued to hold her advantage of a neck until the battle ended.

Pansy Walker beat Alcibiades by three lengths and the Kentucky Oaks winner was nearly three lengths in front of Vermiculite. Evening Sky was fifth. Tippy Toe and Erin never recovered from their early bumping and finished sixth and seventh, while Chelys brought up the rear 25 lengths behind the winner.

Rich Widow Forced Out.

Snowflake is a daughter of Mad Hatter-Snowdrop. Mr. Salmon was not here to see her run. A jinx camped on the trail of the Illinois Oaks this year. Red Rag, one of the most formidable eastern contenders, contracted car fever while being shipped here and died three days before the race. Rich Widow, another fleet Kentucky filly, was injured in training yesterday and had to be declared out of the contest.

Old Mad Hatter not only produced the Oaks winner, but his son, The Nut, also accounted for the Edgewater Beach Hotel handicap. The Nut had to come from behind in the stretch to beat the mighty Toro. But The Nut did the job efficiently and by no small margin. Once Jockey Fronk started him running in the stretch he flew past every rival. He galloped on to win from Toro by five lengths and in the mutuels paid $7.30, Toro having been the heavy favorite. Club House was third.

The Great Shires to Show Congress His Cane, Spats

Washington, D. C., June 21.—[U. P.] Art Shires, brilliantly caparisoned with cane and spats, will make his debut in congress Tuesday.

The new Washington first baseman, already a big favorite in the capital, will be the guest of the Texas delegation in the house of representatives at a luncheon to be given in the private dining room of Speaker Longworth. All of the eighteen members of the Texas delegation have promised to attend.

The Great Art is a citizen of Staly, Ga., when he isn't busy in the ring or on the diamond.

Chicago Pays Million for 36 Hours' Fun

Old Man "Hard Times" doesn't seem to have been present where Chicago crowds gathered to witness sports events during the last 36 hours.

Close to a million dollars was in circulation at three events—the running of the Illinois Oaks at Washington Park race track yesterday, the Cubs-Boston double header at Wrigley field, and at the Stribling-Von Porat fight on Friday night.

At the Washington Park track yesterday the attendance was 18,000 and the gate receipts, including club house, reached $45,000. About $750,000 was wagered through the pari-mutuels on the outcome of the seven races.

At the Cubs-Boston double header the attendance reached 42,000 and the receipts were estimated at $42,000.

At the Stribling-Von Porat fight the attendance was 20,956 and the gate receipts $80,236.

Of course the crowd didn't lose the $750,000 wagered at Washington Park. All of it except 6½ per cent, as provided by law, went back to those in the crowd that wagered on the winners. However, that much money was circulated in the sports hungry crowd.

Then the thousands of golfers who played over the links in the Chicago district, those that went yachting, and motor boating, those that played tennis and amateur baseball, the persons who went to the horse show in Lake Forest—didn't put in the day without sending a few nickels, dimes and dollars into circulation.

Business may be in the summer doldrums, old Man Hard Times may be around in certain spots, but surely not where the sports industry—professional and amateur—is functioning.

LOTT AND DOEG WIN FROM U. S. DOUBLES CHAMPS

LONDON, June 21.—[U.P.]—George Lott of Chicago and Johnny Doeg of Santa Monica, Cal., today scored a surprising four set victory over Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., and John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., in the finals of the Queens club doubles championship. The scores were 12-14, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

Allison and Van Ryn, the United States No. 1 ranking doubles combination, 1929 Wimbledon and Davis cup champions, were strong favorites to defeat their Davis cup teammates, but after the bitterly contested first set, were unable to maintain the pace set by the winners.

Lott and Doeg, winners of the 1929 United States doubles championship, have not been considered seriously as a doubles combination in 1930 Davis cup matches, but if they repeat today's victory in next week's Wimbledon cup matches, they may replace Allison and Van Ryn in Davis cup play.

Lott, Doeg on Davis Team.

Lott is considered certain of a singles nomination in Davis cup matches with the European zone finalists and the challenge round with France, and Doeg is slated for the other singles berth if Big Bill Tilden abides by his announced intention of retiring from cup play.

If Lott and Doeg also win the doubles assignment in the United States' Davis cup hopes will be centered upon two players for the first time since America's youthful stars broke up the Tilden-Bill Johnston monopoly.

Allison, defeated doubles star, neutralized his defeat with a victory over Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., Davis cup alternate, in the singles finals.

Miss Ryan Shares Honors.

The United States shared a third championship when Miss Elizabeth Ryan, formerly of California, teamed with J. Colin Gregory of England, to defeat George Lott and Mary Greef, 16 year old Kansas City girl, in the mixed doubles finals, 6-1, 6-1.

Miss Ryan also shared honors in the women's doubles, pairing with Cilly Aussem of Germany, to defeat Betty Nuthall and Mrs. Fearnley-Whittingstall of England, 3-6, 6-2, 6-4, for the championship.

JONES GREATEST GOLFER IN WORLD, HAGEN DECLARES

VICTORIA, B. C., June 21.—(AP)—Walter Hagen, who arrived today from the orient and Australia, said no professional golfer in the world has a chance against Bobby Jones in a four day medal test, barring freak scores. Hagen acclaimed Jones as "the greatest golfer in the world," and both he and Joe Kirkwood, who arrived on the Empress of Russia with him, expressed pleasure at Jones' recent British victory.

Wrigley Coast Team to Play Night Baseball

Los Angeles, June 21.—(AP)—Night baseball will be tried in Los Angeles. William Wrigley Jr., owner of the Los Angeles club, yesterday telegraphed his representatives here: "You can't stop progress and I believe night baseball games are a step forward in the national pastime, so let there be light at Wrigley field."

MRS. WALLACE, FETZ VICTORS IN TRIBUNE GOLF

Short Game Defeats Long in Men's Play.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Gus Fetz won THE TRIBUNE's public links championship by defeating Robert Carter, 4 and 3, in the final round yesterday at Jackson park. Mrs. William Wallace took the women's title with a 2 and 1 victory over Mrs. Rose Long at Garfield park.

In the men's match it was Fetz's accurate approaching and putting against Carter's power off the tee. At one point Fetz's 100 yard mashie shot came to rest six inches from the pin, while on the 308 yard fourth, Carter drove the green.

The women's match consisted of steady par golf, Mrs. Wallace playing even fours all the way, while Mrs. Long was two over fours.

Followers of the game had forecast that Carter's tremendous driving would force Fetz to begin pressing his shots and lose some of the accuracy which carried him through the first four rounds. But, if anything, Gus proved more accurate under pressure than he had in his previous encounters.

Carter Drives 308 Yards.

They halved the first two holes in par fours. Carter's 285 yard drive on the third came to rest in a trap beside the green. His explosion shot just cleared the top of the bunker and his chip was twenty feet short of the pin. He took two putts for a 5 while Fetz was shooting a par 4 to go one up.

Carter squared the match on the 308 yard fourth by driving the green and getting down in two putts for a birdie 3. Then Fetz's superior putting began to tell. Carter three putted the next and Gus was one up.

Both tee shots were short on the sixth, Gus' landing at the foot of an embankment which hid the pin, while Carter's was at the top. Gus pitched over the rise to within a foot of the pin and was down in one putt to take the hole and go 2 up.

Fetz's ten foot putt won the seventh after both were on in three. They halved the eighth in fours and Gus went 4 up on the ninth when Carter again three putted.

Gus' lead was cut on the next when Carter sank a 15 footer after both were on in two. Fetz's putt for a half stopped an inch from the cup.

Gus Recovers from Mud.

Carter won the eleventh also, in spite of Gus' great recovery after his second shot was almost buried in the mud at the edge of a creek. Fetz slugged it out with his niblick and it grazed the pin, stopping eight feet beyond. But the coating of mud made a true roll impossible and he three putted.

Gus came back and won the twelfth with a par 4 when Carter three putted. He was now 3 up. They halved the next hole with threes.

Gus' accuracy saved him again on the par 5 14th. Carter's second shot was on the green, while Gus' was 100 yards out. With a mashie he laid the ball 6 inches from the pin and both took birdie fours.

Gus' birdie 4 on the 15th put him 4 up and ended the match.

The women's play was close all the way, neither being more than one hole ahead at any time until the finish. The first hole was halved in fives and the next two in fours. Both were short on the par 3 fourth, but Mrs. Wallace chipped within 3 feet of the pin and sank her first putt to take the hole. The match was squared on the next hole when Mrs. Long three putted.

Reach Turn in Par.

They halved the 6th in fours, and Mrs. Wallace went 1 up with a birdie 4 on the 7th. Her approach was 4 feet from the pin, and she was down in one putt. Both took threes on the next.

Mrs. Long won the following hole when Mrs. Wallace failed to get her tee shot to the green, and they reached the turn all square, both having shot 36, which is woman's par.

Mrs. Wallace's birdie 4 after both were on the tenth green in three gave her the lead again. They halved the eleventh and Mrs. Long's par three won the twelfth to square the match once more.

The next two holes were halved in par fours, and Mrs. Wallace's birdie on the par five fifteenth put her one up. Both shot par fives on the next.

Then came the seventeenth. Both tee shots were short but Mrs. Wallace chipped to within four feet of the pin while Mrs. Long's approach was ten feet away. Mrs. Wallace sank the putt for a 3 after Mrs. Long's attempt was a foot short, ending the match.

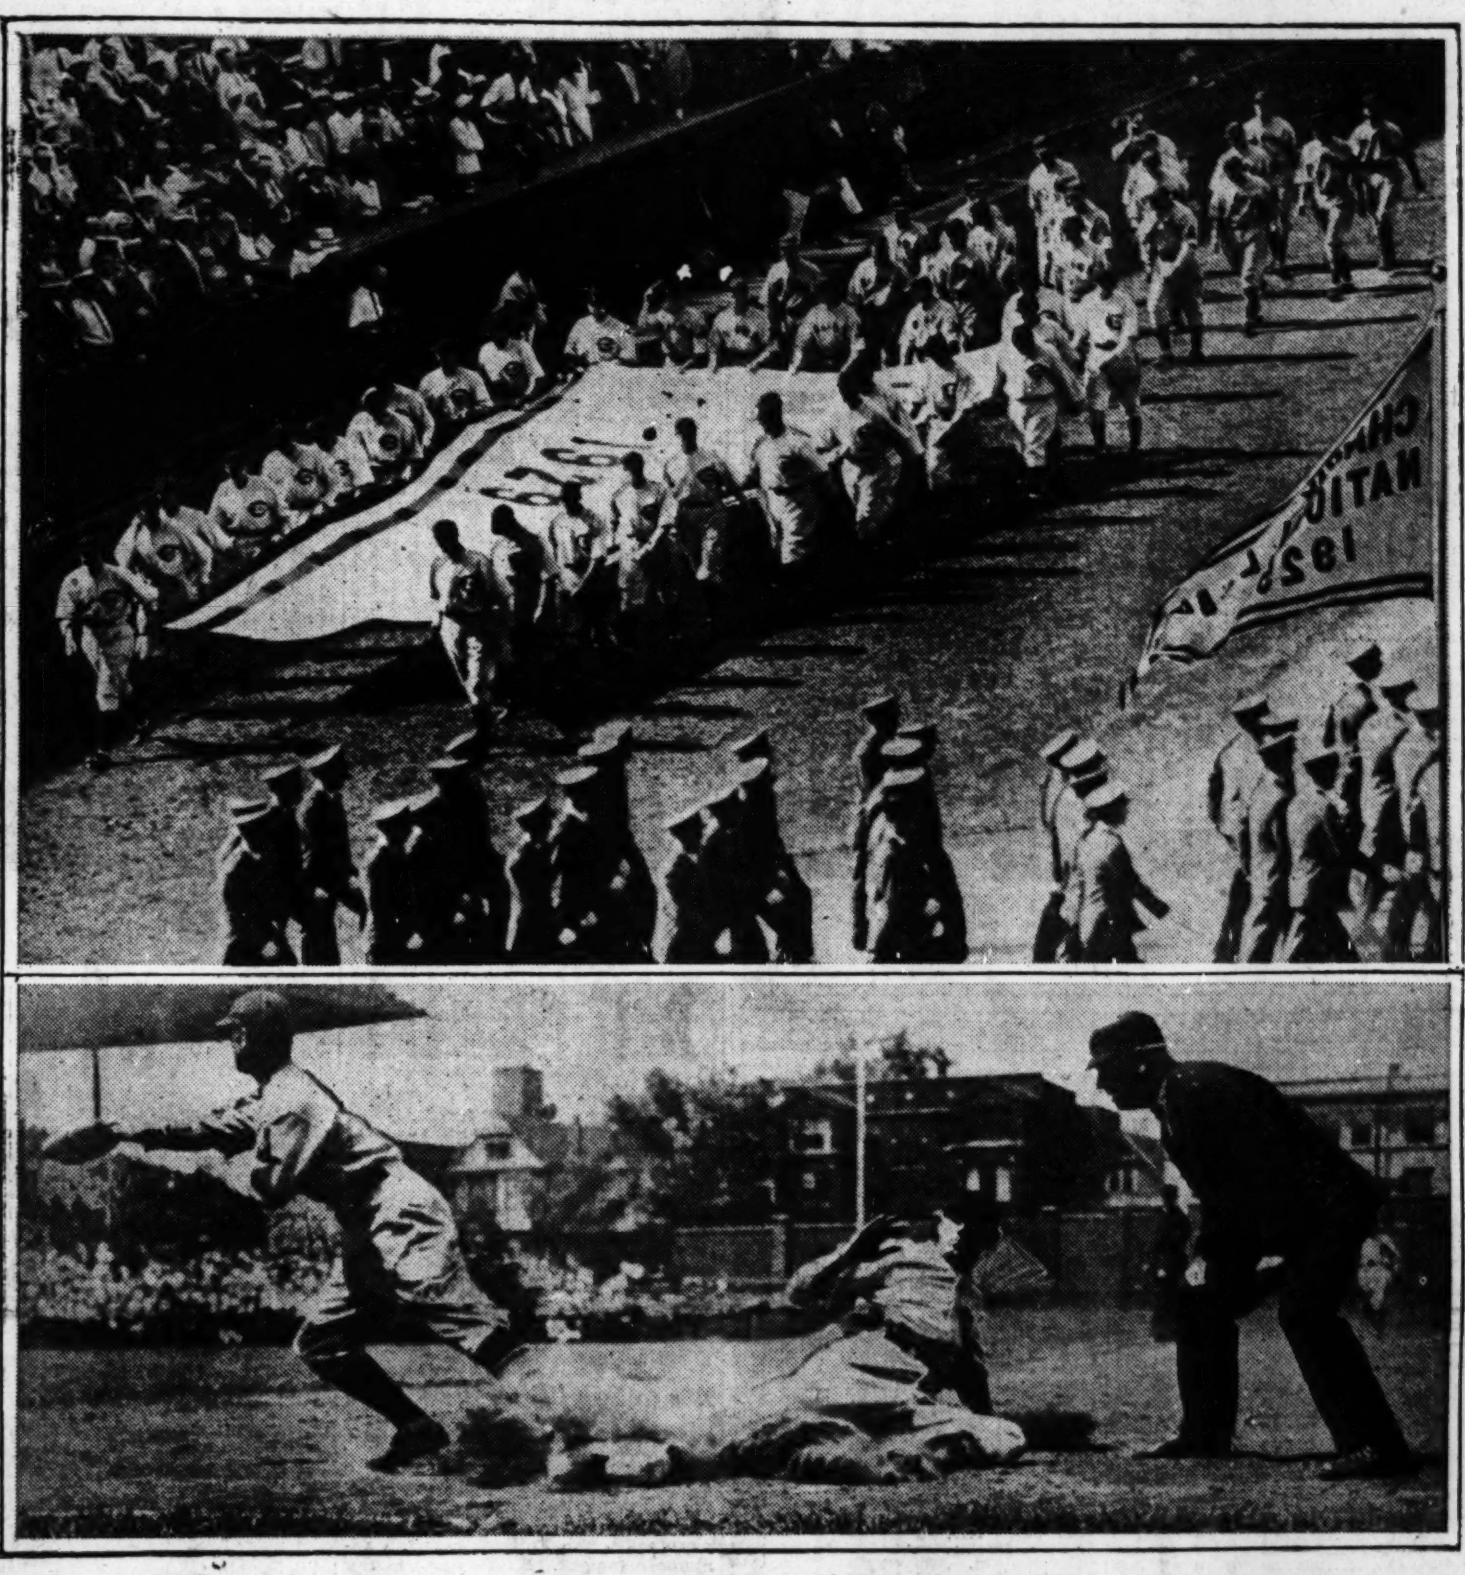
Jennings, Reid Meet Today for Ohio State Net Title

Cleveland, O., June 21.—(AP)—Kirk Reid of Cleveland and George Jennings of Chicago will meet here tomorrow in the final round of the Ohio state tennis singles tournament.

FLAG DAY IS VICTORY DAY



Champion Cubs celebrate the formal raising of the National league pennant with a double victory over the Boston Braves. At the top, the entire Bruin personnel parades before the crowd of 42,000 with the 1929 bunting, which later was unfurled in the stiff northeast breeze. Below, Clarence Blair scrambles back to first base after English's attempted sacrifice was caught on the fly. Sisler is receiving the throw and Umpire Quigley is watching the play.

BRAXTON HURLS WHITE SOX TO 7-2 VICTORY OVER OLD MATES

Jolley, Reynolds Supply the Hits That Beat Senators.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 21.—Garland Braxton, calm and graceful left hander, this afternoon made his debut as a Comiskey employé by administering a severe thrashing to his erstwhile companions, the Washington Senators. The score was: White Sox, 7; Senators, 2.

Mr. Braxton had the coöperation of six of the Bush batting cast, principally Carl Reynolds and J. Smead Jolley. We have recited ere this the invariable victorious result when Carl and J. Smead are smacking on the same afternoon, and there was no doubt of the outcome when it became apparent that both the big fellows were united in serving Braxton's ambition to slap down the organization which last week showed it no longer required his southpaw artistry.

Reynolds Hits Triple, Single.

Reynolds' contribution to the project of knocking off the Senators for two in a row was three runs, a triple and a single. J. Smead's act consisted of three singles in three times at bat. In another trip to the plate Smead was hit by a pitched ball, after which he scored. Metzler, as a runner for the big boy, also got around with a marker.

Those who collaborated with Reynolds and Jolley in the attack included Kerr, with a double and a single, and Kamm with a double.

The series will be concluded tomorrow. Liska of the Senators was given another day's rest, after being scheduled for work today, and will oppose Weiland.

Kerr Launches Attack.

The Sox didn't threaten in the first three innings, Jolley who singled in the second, being the only man to reach first. Then surprises started. Kerr, the amazing Schnozzola, doubled to left center to start the fourth. Watwood laid down a bunt which put Kerr on third, and Johnny himself was safe when Pitcher Brown juggled the ball. Kerr scored while Reynolds was forcing Watwood. Jolley produced his second hit, another single to center, and Reynolds went to third.

Hunnefield, who had hit into a double play in the second inning, apparently had repeated the specialty on a grounder to Cronin, but Myer, middle man in the maneuver, missed the bag. Hunnefield was out at first, but Jolley was safe at second and Reynolds was across with the second Sox run. Myer then threw out Clancy.

The Senators accomplished a run after one was out in the fifth. After Braxton had thrown out Bluege, Spencer doubled along the left foul line. Brown popped to Kamm, but Loepp sent a slow roller into center, scoring Spencer. Braxton threw out Rice.

In the sixth, the Sox stacked up three more runs. Little Schnozz again

Lane Defeats Marshall, 4-0, for Prep Title

Lane Tech, five times baseball champions of the City league, came back into the title picture yesterday after an absence of two years. Lane, coached by Percy Moore, won its sixth league championship by defeating Marshall in the final game at Comiskey park, 4 to 0. A crowd of 10,000 prep fans saw the game.

Lane now leads all city league teams in number of baseball championships won, having taken the title in 1920, 1921, 1925, 1926 and 1927 before yesterday's game.

The title returned to Lane in the first inning when Capt. Bob Anners scored what proved to be the winning run, although the Techs added scores in the second, third and sixth innings. Anners reached first on an error, stole his eighteenth base of the season, and scored on Catcher Fred Bergman's single.

Lane fans were given a scare in the second inning, when it appeared that Marshall would tie the score and drive Vaicek off the mound while doing it. Piermatti started it off with a single. Tietlebaum also singled and Grossman beat out a bunt, filling the bases. Vaicek then demonstrated why he has been one of the best pitchers in City league history by fanning both Fleishman and Barry.

Vaicek held Marshall hitless until the eighth, when Tina Rosen gave Marshall supporters their first occasion for cheers since the second inning rally. Rosen selected one of Vaicek's pitches and sent it to the left field scoreboard. Piermatti sent a hard grounder to Hope, Lane shortstop, and the latter's throw to Bergman nipped Rosen at the plate.

GRIMM'S BLOWS HELP IN TWIN 5-4 VICTORIES

Teachout, Osborn Winning Hurlers.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs yesterday avoided any disturbing notes on the occasion of the formal raising of their 1929 pennant by whipping the Braves in both portions of a double header. The feat wasn't accomplished with ease, however, the first argument going 12 innings before a 5 to 4 score became official and the nightcap ending by the same count only after the titleholders had been forced to burst loose with a tying three run rally in the sixth, followed by the winning marker in the eighth.

In view of similar successes by the league leading Robins at Cincinnati, the McCarthy crowd still is charging along at an interval of one and one-half games from the top.

Grimm's Bat Helps.

That the first attraction didn't demand the attention of 42,000 for more than 12 innings and that the afterpiece didn't prove a failure can be credited to Capt. Charley Grimm. He broke up the opener by singling after the Braves had gone to the trouble of summoning a left hander to pitch to him. That should have satisfied one man for one day, but he helped in the tying of the score by clubbing a homer in the sixth inning of the second argument, and then produced one of the singles that led to the deciding tally in the eighth.

For a time, the opening game looked to be a cinch for Sheriff Blake. He hurled six fast rounds on an allowance of only one hit. Meanwhile his mates with such items as Hack Wilson's twentieth homer of the year and a wallop of similar length by Gabby Hartnett, had provided him with a 4 to 1 lead.

This wasn't enough, however, to offset three runs with which the Tribe tied the count in the seventh. After that, Blake rallied until the ninth, when he again tumbled in a mess of such consequence that Bud Teachout had to dash to the rescue. The young left hander kept things in order to the end.

Bruins Docile Until 12th.

After the sixth the Cubs were completely subdued by Cunningham and Seibold until the latter walked Cuyler to start the twelfth. Kiki went to second on Wilson's infield out and to third on a passed ball. This was considered too choice a spot for a hitter of Stephenson's skill, so he was purposely passed. Then Lefty Brandt was brought on for the purpose of fooling Grimm. One ball was pitched. Grimm lined it to right for a single. Cuyler ran home and the two teams then devoted a few minutes to the business of walking to center field and raising the titular bunting.

Having been a huge success in his labors in the first game, Teachout was permitted to continue in the second, but before concluding the fourth inning he was in arrears by 4 to 1. This situation remained intact until the champs warmed up on Old Tom Zachary in the sixth and counted three times, two of these being due to Grimm's homer. Then in the next inning Zachary was yanked to make room for Cunningham, who was charged with the defeat.

Osborn Wins Own Game.

A single by Stephenson set the winning rally in motion in the eighth. Grimm also hit safely. A hit and run was attempted, but Cunningham pitched out and Stevie was nailed at third. After Taylor had fanned, Beck was intentionally passed just as Grimm had been passed disastrously for the Braves in the previous struggle. Bov Osborne was next. For five and a fraction innings he had done an excellent job of keeping his foes away from the plate, and to make the day doubly auspicious for himself he slapped a single to left, scoring

ROBINS WIN TWO; STILL PERCHED ON TOP BOUGH

Defeat Cincinnati, 4 to 2 and 5 to 3.

Cincinnati, O., June 21.—The Brooklyn Robins came back today when their hold on first place in the National league was seriously threatened and made it safe for a while by taking both games of a double header from the Reds. The scores were 4 to 2 and 5 to 3, the second game being halted after the eighth inning to allow the Robins to make a train for home.

The Robins combined timely hits with walks to win both games. Archie Campbell walked in one run in the opening contest, while Rixey issued more passes. Ray Phelps held the Reds to seven hits, a homer by George Kelly bringing the only Cincinnati runs. The second game was close until the eighth, when Red Lucas, sent in after Jakie May had been lifted for a pinch batsman, gave three hits and two runs. Scores:

PENNOCK HOLDS TIGERS TO 5 HITS; YANKS WIN, 3 TO 0

Ruth Clouts 23d Homer in Eighth.

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—Herbert Pennock today allowed Detroit's Tigers only five hits, and, aided by some opportune hitting by Lazzeri, Gehrig, and Ruth, he shut out the Michiganders, 3 to 0. Ruth hit his 23d home run in the eighth inning.

Cubs Raise Pennant, Score Two Victories Over Braves

Grimm with the run that meant the verdict.

Root and Sherdel will figure in the final of the series today.

FIRST GAME

Bargain rates prevailed during the scoring of the first two runs in the opening engagement. The Braves drew theirs because Beck fumbled on Welsh, the lead-off batter, in round one. Maranville followed with a bunt, which he beat out, and when Grimm pegged it wide to Blaze, who covered, Welsh went to third. He ran home while Sisler and Maranville were being mopped up in a double play. The Cubs grabbed back this run in the fourth, when Wilson singled, Stephenson walked, Grimm sacrificed, and Maranville booted Hartnett's roller.

Prior to the appearance of Wilson's No. 20 in the fifth, when the Cubs broke the one to one deadlock, Blair was nicked by a pitched ball. English tried to bunt him along, but Chatham caught the ball on the fly. Cuyler was disposed of on an infield bounder. Then Hack, with a 2 and 2 count, propelled his round trip wallop into the left field jury box. The next occurrence was Hartnett's drive over the left field wall on the first ball pitched in the sixth. This provided the champions with a 4 to 1 lead, but they failed to hold it.

Blake Weakens in Seventh.

The three run assault on Blake in the seventh started after a double play cleaned up the bases. Spohrer singled and Richbourg did the same. A pass to Maguire jammed the bases. Moore was selected to do the batting for Smith, and he, too, walked, forcing Spohrer to score. Welsh then singled to right, driving home Richbourg and Maguire with the runs needed for a tie. Cuyler cut the rally short by picking up Welsh's hit and whipping the ball to third in time to nail Moore. There wasn't much excitement after this until Grimm broke it up in the twelfth.

SECOND GAME

The Cubs began operations in the second game by scoring once in the first inning. English carried this tally across. He singled with one out, strolled to second on a pass to Wilson and went home on Stephenson's hit through short. The slim lead was wiped out in the second inning. Chatham tripled to the bleacher in left and Cronin sent him over the plate on a single to left.

An error by Beck put the Braves on the trail of three runs in the fourth. The shortstop fumbled on Berger's grounder. Chatham singled and followed Berger across the plate on a double to left center by Cronin. Welsh's single scored Cronin. Maguire flied out and Zachary singled, so it was deemed advisable to recall Teachout. Osborn proved able to conclude the inning without additional damage.

Cuyler Triples, Scores.

The process of tying the score at 4 and 4 in the Cub sixth opened with Cuyler aiming a triple into the left field corner. Berger's return throw was inaccurate enough to elude all the Brave infielders, so Kiki kept right on going until he had reached the plate. A fly to center subdued Wilson, but Stephenson revived hopes by a single. Capt. Grimm then disturbed the atmosphere with his home run clout to right, Stevie preceding him over the plate. This established the 4 and 4 arrangement which was dissolved in the eighth.

CARNERA TO GET FIRST REAL TEST AGAINST GODFREY

Shows Natural Ability in Final Workout.

Atlantic City, N. J., June 21.—[Special.]—If Primo Carnera is whipped by George Godfrey, Leiperville, Pa., Negro giant, at Philadelphia Monday night in his first real test as a contender for heavyweight honors, his defeat can be attributed to but one thing—lack of experience.

Carnera today convinced 2,500 at Tommy Loughran's open air arena that he is ready for his big task. He punched Jack de Mave, Larry Estridge and two other volunteer sparring partners dizzy in the six rounds of boxing and pulled up without drawing a heavy breath.

The Italian did his heavy punching on the 75 pound sand sack.

The optimism in the Carnera camp is not shared by Billy Duffy, one of his managers and his chief adviser.

"I want to warn the fans," Duffy said, after the workout, "not to expect too much of Primo. I don't think he can whip Godfrey unless he nails him early. Primo, nothing more than a novice, is fighting a shrewd ring general."

Fist That Knocked Out Von Porat Is Back in Cast

Despite its effectiveness against Otto Von Porat Friday night, the left hand of W. L. [Young] Stribling was placed in a plaster cast yesterday. Doctors said that although no bones were broken, the hand seemed to be bruised. Pa Stribling, W. L.'s father-manager, has cabled Promoter Jeff Dixon in London a request far a 20 day postponement of the Stribling-Phil Scott bout, scheduled for next month.

MIDWEST SENDS 500 TURNERS TO NATIONAL MEET

Special Train to Leave for Buffalo Tomorrow.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Five hundred turners from Chicago and cities of the central states will leave tomorrow morning on a special train for Buffalo, N. Y., where the American Turnerbund National turnfest starts Tuesday. More than 5,000 athletes from the United States and Germany will compete in the seven day festival.

Turn Verein Lincoln, 1019 Diversey parkway, which is sponsoring the special train, will enter more than 100 seniors, young men, women and boys in the national meet. Accompanying the Lincoln turners will be representatives from the Davenport, Ia., Turngemeinde; East Davenport, Ia., Turn Verein; Concordia Turner society, Moline, Ill.; Milwaukee Turn Verein; Madison, Wis., Turn Verein; Sheboygan, Wis., Turn Verein, and the Turner Society of St. Paul, Minn.

Lincoln Team Strong.

The Turnfest track and field competition will be held in Buffalo's all high school stadium. The field has seating accommodations for 16,000. Apparatus work will be held in Armory 174, while model numbers and the classical gymnastic programs will be presented in Armory 106. These are two of the largest armories in the world, each accommodating 5,000 spectators.

The Lincoln Turners are expected to be strong competitors for first place. They have been drilling for several months at their hall and at Kilbourne park.

The turnfest activities for young men include a decathlon, pentathlon, special events and miscellaneous activities such as mass exercises, model exercises, foil and saber fencing, tennis, golf, relay races and volley ball. The events of the decathlon will be horizontal bars, parrallel bars, long and side horse, 100 yard dash, running broad jump, shot put, and hop, step and jump.

Governed by A. A. U.

The pentathlon includes the running high jump, 220 yard dash, rope climbing, javelin throw and triple standing broad jump. Mile run, 120 yard hurdles, pole vault, swimming and diving are listed as special competitions.

The women will compete on the parallel bars, side horse and in 50 yard dash, running broad jump and shot put.

More than 15,000 turners will watch the 5,000 athletes in their games. The number of contestants is greater than those contesting in the 1928 Olympics. All track and field events, swimming, diving and games are governed by A. A. U. rules.

Garden Will Talk Return Bout Plans

New York, June 21.—(AP)—Conferences bloomed all over town today, lawyers worked overtime, and Madison Square Garden promised something important in the way of announcements concerning Max Schmeling's return bout with Jack Sharkey by Monday afternoon.

The final conference between Garden officials and Arthur Buelow, deposed manager of the heavyweight champion, is scheduled for Monday. After that is over the Garden hopes to be able to announce that the last bar to a return match late in September has been removed.

Contract Expires Oct. 13.

Schmeling is ready to fight if he can gain release from Buelow's managerial contract, which does not expire until Oct. 13. Otherwise, he insists that he will remain idle until the entangling alliance with Buelow is wiped out by time. Sharkey is so anxious to remove the stain of his defeat on a foul that he is already on record as willing to pay Buelow's 20 per cent share in Schmeling's wages.

Apparently the unfortunate sailor from Boston bought something when he made that offer. Frank Bruen, general manager of the Garden, left for Boston tonight to talk with Sharkey and his manager, Johnny Buckley, about terms of the purchase. Sharkey's answer probably will be inclosed in Monday's proclamation. Buelow is reported willing to tear up the Schmeling contract for about $50,000, which would approximate his share in the Teuton's profit from a return match.

Jacobs Wants Managership.

There are other minor differences to be adjusted before the match can be made. Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager of choice, insists that he be reinstated by the New York state athletic commission as a manager so that he may officially stake his claim on the German the minute Buelow's contract is dead. Jacobs has been on the commission black list since Schmeling developed managerial trouble and refused to fight Phil Scott. He was granted a temporary license as a second for the Schmeling-Sharkey match.

AMPHION A. C. TO HOLD 4 MILE ROAD RACE TODAY

Veteran street racers, including several runners from other states, will compete today in the first annual four mile road race to be staged by the Amphion Athletic club in Austin.

Two runners of the Amphions, Ray McHugh, winner of three marathons last year, and Ted Lapins, are favorites together with Edward Kelly of the New Jersey Athletic club, Emmet Rohan of Marquette university and Joe Pfeiffer and Gilbert Kerr of the Illinois Athletic club. Nearly 200 runners are expected to face the starter.

Beginning at Lockwood and North avenues, the runners will race to Amphion field, Le Moyne and Lavergne avenues.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

by Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK, June 21.—The English newspapers and magazines are not yet to hand with their reflections on the recent prize fight between Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey, and I can hardly wait to see whether they liked American sportsmanship this time or again found fault. It is hard to please the English, but it is worth trying, because there is no sportsmanship on earth quite as fine as their kind, which is known as true British sportsmanship. A nod from them at this time would indicate that America at last is beginning to approach the ideal.

The gameness also is of a special sort, known as true British pluck, and while the athletes of other nations may now and again put forth creditable exhibitions of determination, it is well understood that only a British athlete, and an Englishman for choice, such as Fainting Philip Scott or Horizontal Joey Beckett, can achieve that perfection of courage, true British pluck. Americans of any ambition at all ought to read the English newspapers and periodicals more in order to know just how they stand in relation to the best there is in sporting conduct.

Might Cause Bit of Humiliation.

It might cause some little humiliation now and again, because they are exacting critics and they seldom find good to say of the American attitude toward sport, but in the long run this country would be shamed into some imitation of true British sportsmanship and true British pluck. This would be good for the American soul, if America has a soul, which Mr. Kipling took occasion to doubt a few years ago.

Sometimes, in reading these English publications, I wonder why it is that the race of perfect sportsmen fret themselves so much over the sporting ethics of a race of barbarians whose only aim in sport is to win the game or the fight, which is a vulgar motive. It cannot be that they feel a sense of inferiority due to many defeats in international competition, because the winning is unimportant compared to the playing. So it must be that they love America in a big brotherly way and wish to extend the benefits of their own faultlessness to us.

A person of ignorant and resentful mind might think otherwise. Reflecting that a winner needs no alibi, the American newspapers and magazines rarely complain of the sportsmanship or motive of the British, because for years the international score has shown a heavy balance in the favor of the United States.

Better to Have Lost Match Than One's Soul.

The British publications, on the other hand, are in a more or less constant state of impatience with the Americans, the general tenor of their remarks being that, after all, the Americans go at sport with a deadly purpose which stifles the sporting spirit and it were better to have lost a match than to have lost one's soul.

Recently I saw a series of drawings relating to the British amateur golf tournament which was won by an American chap, undoubtedly a bounder, by the name of Bobby Jones. It depicted the difference between the sordid determination of the American player and the sublime sportsmanship of the Englishman. The American was shown upon the first tee, wearing a grim expression and popping his drive about 300 yards straight down the fairway, whereas the Englishman walked up to his ball with a gay cheerio on his lips, took a joyous slap with his driver, and whipped it way off somewhere beyond the border of the drawing and presumably out of bounds.

The series pursued this thought up to the championship, which the American won, still full of the lust for mere victory, while the English chap, although beaten, obviously was by far the happier man.

Americans Might Play or Fight One Handed.

They seem much concerned for the sporting soul of the U. S. A., always scolding and ridiculing a race of winners, and I am beginning to wonder if it would not be a good notion for the American athletes to play and fight them one handed in order to lose a few of these engagements lest victory in time corrode the spirit of the U. S. A. completely. After all, this is an ambitious race, and deep beneath his crude outwardness the American yearns to be well regarded by the London press.

A few loose thinking individuals might be so crude as to call the English theory a policy of convenience, adjusting their sporting philosophy to their sporting fortunes, but the great majority will take serious thought on the subject to ask themselves just what they must do to win the priceless approbation of the English.

My idea is that the quickest way to reach the English plane of sportsmanship and pluck would be to lose a whole year's program of international competition, but I don't know how this could be done because, as has often been stated, the English do not wish to win. The extraordinary thing of the combined Oxford-Cambridge lacrosse team which toured the eastern cities of the United States a few months ago, defeating the American college teams, must be embarrassing to the London journalists who preach the nobility of defeat and the sordidness of conquest.

Win All Matches with Aid of Ringers.

Here was a group of young men, supposed to be made up of college amateurs, who came to this country to play against college amateurs and won all their matches, only to be denounced near the close of their tour as a combination team of college men and ringers picked up outside. They explained that the ringers were brought along because there weren't enough good college players to make up the squad.

But there must have been some higher motive than the mere winning of the games, because that would have been inconsistent with true British sportsmanship. Perhaps the boys regarded the expedition as a research tour of the sporting slums and adventure in victory just to see how the victorious half lives.

Greensboro, N. C., June 21.—[U. P.]—Emmett Spicer, Memphis, Tenn., 1926 titleist in the southern amateur golf tourney, repeated today, defeating Tully Blair, Greensboro, 5 and 4, in the 28th annual finals match over 36 holes.

BERLINGER SETS THREE RECORDS IN EASTERN MEET

Philadelphia, Pa., June 21.—(AP)—Barney Berlinger of the University of Pennsylvania broke three meet records today as the Meadowbrook club romped away with first honors at the annual middle Atlantic track and field championships with a team score of 56 points. University of Pennsylvania was second with 34 points.

Berlinger tossed the shot 46 feet 10⅛ inches, beating his former mark of 45 feet 11¾ inches last year; pole vaulted 13 feet, beating his former mark of 12 feet 4⅞ inches, and cleared 6 feet 1⅞ inches in the high jump to beat his own mark of 6 feet 1½ inches.

JACK BARRY TO BOX TOM PIVAC TOMORROW NIGHT

Tom Pivac, St. Louis light heavyweight, meets Jack Barry in the ten round feature bout of the outdoor show tomorrow night at Shewbridge stadium, 74th and Aberdeen streets. Henry Cullen will fight Young Dencio in the eight round semi-windup.

Thirty-six rounds of boxing are scheduled Tuesday night at the Congress Arcade arena, 2233 Milwaukee avenue. Tuffy O'Dowd of Chicago and Matty Matthews of Kenosha meet in the eight round windup. They are middleweights.

ENGLAND WINS AT RUGBY.

Dunedin, New Zealand, June 21.—(AP)—England won the first rugby test match with New Zealand today, 6 points to 3.

SELIGSON WINS EASTERN COLLEGE TENNIS TOURNEY

Defeats Tulane Star in Three of Five Sets.

New York, June 21.—(AP)—Julius Seligson of Lehigh added the eastern intercollegiate tennis championship to his metropolitan clay courts title today by defeating Clifford Sutter of Tulane, the southern collegiate champion, in three out of five hard fought sets. The score was 6-1, 6-3, 3-6, 0-6, 6-1.

Seligson started out as if to make short work of the match, forcing his southern opponent into numerous errors to take the first two sets. Sutter rallied and evened up the match by taking the third and fourth sets. During the rally the southern champion scored 20 placements to eight by Seligson and in the fourth set outscored the champion 25 points to 11.

The Lehigh ace came back strong in the deciding set, forcing his opponent to numerous outs and nets. Sutter and Bayon won the doubles title late in the afternoon by defeating the California pair, Elbert Lewis and Clifford Robbins, 10-8, 5-7, 6-0, 6-2.

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

PRIMO CARNERA.

PRIMO CARNERA, awe inspiring in size, will join the flock of aspirants for the heavyweight crown if he flattens old George Godfrey in Philadelphia tomorrow night. Primo is picked to do that very thing, for Old George, 'tis said, has reached the conclusion "What's the use?" and is not in good condition. When Old George was in condition he was persona non grata to most white boxers.

True, Carnera is under ban of the California boxing commission, whose edict is respected in most states, for alleged shady transactions out there of his management corps. When in New York we asked Chairman Traung of that commission whether this ban would be lifted if Primo showed actual fighting ability. He replied in the negative, saying they "had the goods."

"Well, Carnera personally was not involved, was he?" we asked.

"He benefited by it whether or not he was personally involved," replied the coast chairman. "What's the use of making rulings if you're going to rescind them right away?" We had no answer to that reasoning.

Yet when a boxer becomes a drawing card, custom has decreed that hostile rulings be rescinded. Perhaps it is done under the guise of change of managers, or permission to fight some special battle to prove sincerity, as in the Philadelphia case. At any rate, whether the culprit or the beneficiary of other's ring turpitude, he usually lands back within the squared circle.

W. L. [Young] Stribling is one who has respect for the Italian's prowess. W. L. ought to know something about it, for he met Primo in London and Paris, winning the first on a foul in four rounds and losing the second on a foul in seven.

"With his natural physical advantages of weight, height, and reach, Carnera is a hard man to beat," opines W. L. "You bump into him hard in a clinch and you feel as if you had hit a wall. If some one teaches him to box, he'll be very dangerous. He's rather easy to hit now. I knocked him down in our first bout. I think he probably was still groggy and did not know what he was doing when he fouled me. For so large a man, he is not slow, but it seemed to me he tired quickly. Perhaps that's because of his size."

WILLIAMS AND HAYES PLAY FOR CITY NET TITLE

Lucy Jane Hedberg Faces Catherine Wolf.

The finals of the city tennis tournament will be played at the Town and Tennis club this afternoon starting at 2 p. m. Rain last Sunday caused the postponement.

Walter T. Hayes, winner of the title 15 times, meets Luke Williams, former national intercollegiate champion in the men's singles. Louis L. Tahlheimer, former coholder of the intercollegiate doubles, and Fred Reyer Missouri state champion, are teamed together in the doubles and will play Jack Harris and Jerry Weber. Earlier in the week Weber and Harris completed an unfinished match with the Lejack brothers, winning in five sets 6-4, 6-4, 2-6, 3-6, 7-5. The Lejacks were seeded first in the event.

Lucy Jane Hedberg, 17 year old Glencoe youngster, plays Catherine Wolf, Illinois state champion, in the finals of the women's singles, while Miss Hedberg and Helen Fulton are bracketed with Ruth Willard and Louise Hofmeister in the women's doubles.

BLAME BRITISH GOLF DECLINE ON CASTE SYSTEM

Result of Tourney Stirs Up Hornets' Nest.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 21.—The close of the British amateur golf championship with its domination throughout by 26 Americans among a field of 272 and its easy victory in the finals for Bobby Jones has brought down a welter of abuse and contradiction here about amateurism in the two countries.

The British are divided into three camps. Some contend that all Americans are professionals and the blighters ought to stay at home. There are others who disdain concern in the matter and affect a lofty indifference. Golf, they say, is only fun in England, so a man who plays hard enough to win misses the point of the thing.

Indict Amateur System.

The third division is the most important and probably will have most influence in developing winning golfers in Great Britain. They indict the amateur system of the country from within. Amateur golfers here must belong to the Oxford-Cambridge clique, they claim, and the gentlemen with six cylinder names bearing initials fore and aft won't let most of the good golfers in because they aren't members or at least distant relatives to the peerage.

At every golfing tournament in Great Britain this summer there have been agitated groups sitting rebelliously in front of the bars of their hotels, sadly fondling a whisky and soda while they larrup the customs of the land.

Point to Fate of Cup Team.

They point to the fate of this year's British Walker cup team among a herd of unknown postmen, clerks, joiners and the like who entered the amateur at St. Andrews.

Supposedly the eight best nonpaid golfers in all the isles faced the American Walker cup team at Sandwich last May and lost ten matches to two. All but one were members of the select few in the Oxford-Cambridge crowd and he was John Smith, a carpenter from an artisans' golf club.

Smith's selection couldn't be avoided, it is argued, because he played in the final last year against Cyril Tolley for the amateur title. But the others all have their names in the books of who to know in England and they were beaten ten matches to two. Then they entered the amateur, all but Sir E. W. E. Holderness, along with the eight Americans and the rabble.

Birth Outranks Birdies.

Their finish, along with that of several of the best Americans, gives some weight to the claim that the best golfers in Britain are ignored and that a team could be picked up any afternoon shooting through the sheep on the public courses between Dundee and Glasgow who could beat them five times out of six.

The conclusion of the unbelonging, unrecognized followers of golf in Britain is that your school counts more than the shots in your bag and that birth means more than birdies. They are setting up a howl, and their uproar this year is louder than ever before. When they have an opportunity to bring out the best amateur golfers in England, they say, the international golf score will be more even, and often it will read the other way around.

IOWAN HAS 140 IN PRACTICE FOR 'OVER RIVER' GOLF

Colorado Springs, Col., June 21.—(AP)—Par and subpar practice rounds by some of the favorites entered in quest of the transmississippi golf championship, to be played here over the Broadmoor course next week, were taken to mean today that Robert McCrary, the defending champion from Des Moines, would have plenty of competition in his efforts to repeat.

The most sensational of today's low scores was Denny Miller's, also of Des Moines. Miller, a stranger to the sporty Broadmoor course, went around 71, one under par, in his morning round. To prove it was no fluke, Miller turned in an afternoon round in the same figure.

Two youngsters from Omaha, Rodney Bliss and Perry Garver, the latter only 17, made a distinct impression with 73s. Both were deadly in their short game. Jimmy Manion of St. Louis, a former champion, had 73; Harrison Smith, of Oklahoma City, 73; Frank Howard of Salt Lake City, 74, and Ed Guettell, Kansas City, 76.

Lipton's Yacht Victor in Bangor (Me.) Regatta

Bangor, Me., June 21.—[U. P.]—Sir Thomas Lipton's America's cup challenger, Shamrock V., today defeated her rivals, Cambria, White Heather, and Lulworth, in a 47 mile race, feature of the Royal Yacht club regatta. Cambria crossed the line first but finished second in corrected standings, allowing the other competitors 6 minutes 39½ seconds. The corrected times were:

Shamrock V., 4.08:17½; Cambria, 4.11:54½; White Heather, 4.14:34; Lulworth, 4.15:46.

Allerton Club Net Team Beats Hamilton Park

The Allerton club A team trounced Hamilton Park's second A team, 8 to 1, in an interclub tennis match played on the Allerton club's court yesterday. In the B division Park Ridge defeated the Evanston Country club, 6-3, and Jackson Park trimmed Hamilton Park by the same margin. Edison defeated Hot Point, 8-1; Ogden trimmed Jackson Park, 6-1; Riverside beat Illinois Bell, 8-1; Hawthorne defeated Hamilton Park, 6-3, and Allerton beat Unatre, 6-4, in the C team matches.

COLLEGE GOLFERS COMMENCE TITLE PLAY TOMORROW

103 to Start at Oakmont; Yale Man Favored.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 21.—[U. P.]—The vanguard of 103 collegiate golfers from 23 universities and colleges throughout the country arrived in Pittsburgh today to await the start Monday of the national intercollegiate golf championship, which will be played over the Oakmont Country club course.

Many of the college linksmen played practice rounds today to accustom themselves to the course where they hope to gain the title relinquished by Tommy Aycock of Yale, who graduated after he won the championship last year.

Forrest Stands Out.

With Aycock out, Marshall Forrest, a Yale mate of Aycock's, ruled a slight favorite for the 1930 championship by reason of his showing in the 1929 title tournament. He lost to Aycock in the finals at Deal, N. J., by 5 and 4.

The intercollegiate team championship will be decided during the 36 hole qualifying test Monday and Tuesday. The best total of individual medal scores will determine the team championship.

32 to Qualify.

Thirty-two players will qualify for the championship fight. The first and second rounds of match play, played Wednesday, will be of 18 holes each. The quarter-finals, semi-finals and finals will be 36 holes each.

Colleges represented include Alabama, Ashland, Bowdoin, Brown, Dartmouth, Geneva, Harvard, Holy Cross, Illinois, Loyola, Notre Dame, Ohio State, Pennsylvania, Penn State, Pittsburgh, Princeton, Rice, St. Xavier, Southern California, Swarthmore, Texas, Williams, and Yale.

NEW YORK PLANS WARM WELCOME FOR KING BOBBY

New York, June 21.—[U.P.]—Bobby Jones will get the greatest reception ever accorded an athlete in New York when he returns on the steamer Europa, July 2, with the Walker cup and the British amateur and open golf championships.

Joseph Johnson, chairman of Mayor James J. Walker's reception committee, is coöperating with an Atlanta, Ga., committee and has outlined an extensive program for honoring Jones.

Maj. John S. Cohen will head a committee of 100 of Atlanta's leading citizens who will come here to take part in the celebration.

Three Favorite Crews Cover Regatta Course in Racing Time

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 21.—(AP)—Three of the four outstanding favorites in the varsity race of the intercollegiate regatta on June 26 covered the course here today in time trial. California, Columbia, and Washington went at racing speed and observers along the banks were unable to pick a favorite, agreeing that it was anybody's race with Cornell and Syracuse shaping up as dark horses. Navy, the fourth of the favorites, rowed easily with no effort to set a fast pace.

No times were announced for any of the trials, although Coach "Ky" Ebright of California insisted his varsity required "30 minutes" to travel the four miles. He said it with a laugh, and apparently did not expect it to be believed. Washington was clocked by watches on the shore for a mile and a half.

Columbia Takes Evening Off.

Columbia called it a day after the time row and Coach Rich. Glendon sent his oarsmen to the movies in this city in the afternoon.

It was learned today that Cornell's varsity negotiated three miles the other night in less than 15 minutes. The time was made in the impromptu race when the varsity defeated the junior varsity by seven lengths.

No line was obtained on Syracuse's time row of yesterday. Coach Jim Ten Eyck would merely say that the boys went "pretty good," but that they had poor conditions.

Last Drills Tomorrow.

Monday probably will see the last of intensive training and the time rows undoubtedly will be concluded at the end of the day. Wisconsin and Navy are the only crews who have not held publicly announced time rows but both have covered the distance.

Arrangements were completed tentatively today for the substitute races next Wednesday afternoon. There will be a four oared race for a mile between Navy and California at 3 o'clock and an eight oared race a half hour later among Columbia, Syracuse, Pennsylvania, Washington, and a combination Cornell-Wisconsin boat. This race will be rowed over a mile and a half.

In the Cornell-Wisconsin combination boat will be the crew captains of both squads, Hod Shoemaker of Cornell stroking the eighth, and Goodman of Wisconsin at No. 3.

ENGLAND SHIFTS POLO LINEUP AND WINS SIXTH TRIAL

Lacey Goes Back and Aiden Roark to No. 1.

LONDON, June 21.—England has solved the difficulty of her lineup for the Meadowbrook match in September and has done so more by luck than anything else. In the sixth trial match played at Ranelagh today England couldn't get going until the beginning of the sixth chukker when Lewis Lacey went back and Aiden Roark took his place at number one. Then England scored four goals in the last two chukkers to win by 8 to 4.

Aiden Roark was much better in front of the game than he had been at back and Lacey also benefited by the change.

The honors of the match, however, went to Gerald Balding, who played a great game at number two. The ground was hard and bumpy, but Balding never missed his stroke once.

YALE POLO FOUR RIDES THROUGH PRINCETON, 11-0

Rumson, N. J., June 21—(AP)—Yale's polo quartet defeated the Princeton team today, 11 to 0, and gained its fifth American intercollegiate championship. Playing before a large crowd at Herbert Memorial field, Capt. Hardie Scott led Old Eli to a decisive victory.

Stewart B. Iglehart, ace of the Aiken team, holder of the junior national championship, was the leading factor for Yale. In beating the West Point Cadets Tuesday, Igleheart tallied six goals; today he scored three. In addition to this great young player, Capt. Scott, James P. Mills and Joseph C. Rathbone contributed to one of the most decisive wins the intercollegiate final has ever seen.

Princeton looked better than the score would indicate, but the Orange and Black was defensively weak in its scoring zone.

BRICKLAYERS AND JUGO-SLAVS MEET FOR SOCCER CUP

The Bricklayers and Jugo-Slav soccer teams will clash today at Olympia field, 47th avenue and 19th street, in the William Alexander cup final. The kickoff will be at 3 p. m.

Edward J. O'Donnell, president of the Illinois State Soccer association, will present the trophy and medals to the winners after the game.

The Carpenters will play the Swaben F. C. in an exhibition game at California avenue and Roscoe street.

BEST DISTANCE HORSES EXPECTED IN JULY 4 STAKE

Arlington Sees Field of 15 in Stars and Stripes

If the second Stars and Stripes handicap does not draw the best middle distance thoroughbreds of the country to Arlington Park July 4 for a gallop of one mile and a furlong, the Arlington Park directorate will be disappointed. The stake has attracted only the seasoned stars of the most powerful American stables east and west. There are 112 eligibles.

Otto W. Lehmann, president of the Arlington Park Jockey club, and Charles A. McCulloch, chairman of the board of directors, are confident of a field of fifteen. Not improbably there will be twenty starters or more. Fifteen would insure a purse of $33,100, with $24,650 for the winner, twenty a gross of $35,850 and $28,350.

The added money will be $20,000, an advance of $5,000 over the club guarantee of last Independence day. There has been no other alteration in the conditions. The weights will appear six days ahead.

Eastern Speed Hounds.

One mile and a furlong may be farther than Balke, hero of the Jennings, Toboggan and Speed handicaps of May, cares to go at speed, but there are the eastern speed hounds, Sun Beau, Diavolo, Distraction, Curate, Sun Edwin, Sortie, Blue Larkspur, Grey Coat, Dowagiac, Donnay, Live Oak, Dr. Freeland, and African.

Possibilities identified this season with western racing are Misstep, Toro, Whiskery, Victorian, The Nut, Easter Stockings, Mike Hall, Stars and Bars, Brown Wisdom, Silverdale, Jock, Clyde Van Dusen, My Dandy, Golden Prince, Lady Broadcast, Karl Eitel, Windy City, Chicago, Pigeon Hole, Ulunlu, Paul Bunyan, Buddy Basil, and Galahad.

That the Stars and Stripes will attract many crack three year olds is not probable. There is too much in their own particular sphere ahead of the three year olds. Nevertheless, the three year olds, Whichone, Gallant Knight, Mr. Sponge, Caruso, Xenofol, Tannery, High Foot, Buckeye Poet, Swinfield, Crack Brigade, and Uncle Luther have paid entrance fees.

Saved for Arlington.

Sun Beau and Blue Larkspur, the last named ace of the stable of Edward Riley Bradley and winner at Arlington last July of the first Classic, have been saved for Arlington racing. Sun Beau won the other day at Aqueduct. Blue Larkspur hasn't obliged since the first Classic.

Victorian, which has won $110,000 since Arnold Hanger and Silas Mason [the Warm stable] paid H. P. Whitney $200,000 for him and The Nut and Cady Hill at Havre de Grace a year ago last April, has undergone a careful preparation for Arlington July racing. The Nut, which has added a trifle more than $80,000 to the winning account of the bridge and railroad builders, demonstrated his readiness by scoring in smart company the other day at Washington Park.

It would be difficult to convince students of spring racing west that Misstep, always good around Chicago, is not at top form again. Toro, which defeated Sun Beau a couple of seasons back, recently won a Schweitzer handicap. Mike Hall, a distance running star for three seasons after beginning racing as a selling plater, hasn't won since April, but he was never much of a spring horse. Summer and fall are his favorite seasons.

Monarchs Whip Giants in Night Ball Game, 7-4

The Kansas City Monarchs, National Negro league champions, defeated the Chicago American Giants, 7 to 4, last night at the latter's park, 39th and Wentworth avenue, in Chicago's first night game. Livingston's home run in the seventh inning with one man on base gave the Monarchs a one run lead after trailing for six innings.

Eli Nine Wins Series Final from Tigers, 10-9, in Tenth

New York, June 21.—(AP)—Yale won the third and deciding game of its annual series with Princeton today, 10 to 9, in an eleven inning battle. The Elis had taken the first game of the series and Princeton the second.

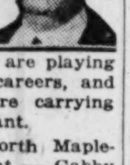
The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

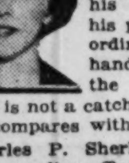
The Question.

Which player is doing the most to keep the Cubs in the pennant race?

The Answers.

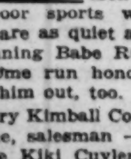


J. R. Basiger, 2146 Lincoln Park west, director of public relations—It's hard to figure that any one player is doing more than another. They're all hustling like a championship ball team should. Wilson, Cuyler, Grimm, English, Beck, and Hartnett are playing the best game of their careers, and their combined efforts are carrying the team to another pennant.

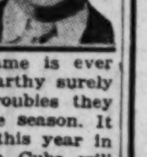


Mary Gorman, 4433 North Maple-ave, student — Gabby Hartnett is doing the most. He is playing the best he ever did, his wonderful hitting, his pep, and his extraordinary ability to handle the pitchers are the main factors. There is not a catcher in either league that compares with our Gabby.

Charles P. Sherlock, 6620 Oconto avenue, police officer—Charlie Root is doing the most. His pitching has been one of the reasons the Cubs are where they are. When the other pitchers failed, Charlie was on the job and is setting a hot pace for the others. He is not afraid of work and would be in the game every other day if McCarthy would allow it or the team needed him.



Miss Marie Kellner, 6611 Oshkosh avenue, home girl—Hack Wilson is my choice and how that boy has been clouting that ball and doing superhuman fielding stunts! His all around work this year has been marvelous and the poor sports who were razzing Hack are as quiet as lambs now. He is running Babe Ruth a merry race for home run honors, and I bet he beats him out, too.



Henry Kimball Cooper, 1214 Cornelia avenue, salesman — I believe Kiki Cuyler is doing the most although Hack Wilson and Hartnett are running him a close race. In fact, all the boys are playing championball and the spirit to go in and win every game is ever present. Veeck and McCarthy surely are getting repaid for troubles they encountered earlier in the season. It will be a different story this year in the world series, for the Cubs will trim their opponents this season.

Taylor-Mastro Bout Is Postponed Until July 1

Detroit, Mich., June 21.—[U. JACK HIGH BEATS SORTIE A HEAD AT AQUEDUCT TRACK

New York, June 21.—[Special.]—George D. Widener's Jack High won the Brookdale handicap at Aqueduct today, turning the tables on A. C. Schwartz's Sortie, which beat Jack High last Saturday in the Brooklyn handicap. A crowd of 15,000 persons saw Jack High hold off the stretch rush of Sortie. At the end of the mile and a furlong only a head separated the two horses.

Jack High was the 9 to 10 favorite and was the fourth consecutive public choice to win, although all were at such short prices that playing them was a risky proposition.

While history reversed itself so far as Jack High and Sortie were concerned, it repeated itself for Mr. Widener and his trainer, Andrew Jackson Joyner. Last Saturday Joyner sent out two winners for Mr. Widener even though Jack High was beaten. In the fifth race Stefana, one of the winners last week, repeated and gave Mr. Widener and his trainer a double on the day. Stefana was the fifth favorite to win.

Third, back of Jack High and Sortie, finished Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Beau, while Cesare and Apple Cart brought up the rear in the order named. The victory was worth $6,700, and Jack High's time for the mile and a furlong was 1:51. He carried 123 pounds, as against top weight of 126 for Sun Beau and 120 for Sortie.

GRAND CIRCUIT RACING TO OPEN UNDER SPOTLIGHT

Toledo, O., June 21.—(AP)—Grand Circuit racing for 1930 will be inaugurated under giant flood lights at Fort Miami track here Monday night. The racers will go to North Randall near Cleveland June 30.

Monday's program includes a three year old claiming trot, a 2:18 trot, a 2:21 trot, and a 2:13 pace event. Included among the entries is Enoch Guy, Sep Palin's great pacer. Other entries in the Monday races are Vic Fleming's Royal Lady, Peter McKinney, victorious in every start on the northwestern circuit last year; Helen Direct, victorious in 17 out of 24 starts in 1929; May Grattan, which won 13 starts last year, and Doc Parshall's Ben Direct.

Becker Finds Backwoods Lakes Offer Best Catches

BY BOB BECKER.

Although the good sized lakes in Wisconsin offer many possibilities for bass fishing, the angler who likes to go exploring over old tote roads that lead to back-in-the-woods fishing holes frequently has the best chance to get a string of bass by fly or bait rod casting along the shoreline. At least that has been our experience in northern Wisconsin in recent years.

We have fished large lakes in midsummer and by going deep to the bars or working around the weed beds it has been possible to get a string of fish. Butternut and Franklin lakes, northeast of Three Lakes, Wis., must be fished that way a little later on. Both have large and small mouth bass. Live bait is the lure most commonly used.

Backwoods Lakes Intrigue.

Somehow the lakes 'way back in the woods, to which a fellow has to hike and sometimes fish from a raft, intrigue us early in the season. In the first place bass are through spawning in such bodies of water earlier than in the larger lakes. Then there is the fun of hiking over little used trails and of seeing and trying a lake about which one has little information.

Another attraction is that usually we have the lake all to ourselves. Sometimes you get bass and sometimes not. One year we hiked to one with Charles Lacey of Mercer, Wis. [with a rubber raft as part of our outfit], and nary a strike did we get. Another time we walked a long way to another "hidden" lake and caught and put back unharmed more than 40 bass. So it goes.

Small Lakes Produce.

If you want to explore small bass lakes, you'll find quite a few along the Wisconsin-Michigan boundary. East of Winegar there is one that should produce well. We tried it once in July on a hot, sunshiny day and even under adverse conditions it produced. The lake in question is Little Ox Bow. An old road which can be negotiated with a car leads to it. Northeast of it is Ormes. We tried to get to that one, but didn't make it. Ormes should be worth a trial.

By making Tenderfoot lake [on the boundary] your base another interesting trip is possible for both bass and trout. This year that east branch of the Presque Isle from Pomeron lake northward is open. It has been closed for years. That section of the stream is not easy to reach, but once there, the trout fisherman is going to have some real fun. Around this part of the Presque Isle water system are many small lakes which we have always wanted to explore.

If you are looking for a spot away from crowds, here is a section along the Wisconsin-Michigan boundary and above the boundary in Michigan that ought to produce both fish and adventure in the woods.

Cardinal Manager, Player Draw 3 Day Suspension

St. Louis, Mo., June 21.—(AP)—Manager Gabby Street of the St. Louis Cardinals and Ray Blades, outfielder, were suspended for three days by President John A. Heydler of the National league for an argument with Umpire Magerkurth in yesterday's game. Blades protested a called third strike and was ousted. Street was ordered off for protesting.

pushed off, this time with a single to center. He moved to second on Watwood's sacrifice bunt and trotted home on Reynolds' triple to center. Jolley was hit by a pitched ball. Hunnefield took one swing and got a foul. Then Manager Bush yanked him and sent Cissel to the plate. Cissell sent a long sacrifice fly to Loepp, which scored Reynolds. Clancy doubled to center, scoring Jolley, and took third on Loepp's bad throw. He died on third because Kamm tapped to Bluege.

The Senators made a run in the seventh, which was not as many as they expected. Myer singled and took second because Reynolds juggled the ball, and scored on Bluege's single. Bluege went to second while Cissell was throwing out Spencer. Then he tried to steal third, but was thrown out by Berg. Pinch Batter Ruel walked, then Loepp lined to Jolley.

In the eighth the Sox made two more runs on singles by Reynolds, Jolley and Clancy and a double by Kamm. In the course of the inning Braxton gave way to Pinch Batter Barnes. Caraway hurled the eighth and ninth.

Manager Bush announced after the game that Tommy Thomas, he of the ailing crazy bone, would report to the club in Philadelphia before Monday's double header with the world champions. It is not known how soon Tommy will be able to work.

METCALF STARS AS WABASH WINS Y. TRACK MEET

The Wabash avenue division won the third annual Illinois state Y. M. C. A. track and field meet yesterday at Stagg field. Led by Ralph Metcalf, Tilden Technical high school star, who won the 100 and 220 yard dashes, Wabash garnered 40½ points to beat out the Sears-Roebuck team. The latter took second honors with 17 points.

Metcalf, state high school sprint champion in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, reeled off the century dash yesterday in 9 8-10 seconds.

LACK OF BREEZE BECALMS YACHTS IN 37 MILE RACE

The Edith II., owned by Burt Williamson, won the Sewanhaka time class event in the thirty-ninth annual Michigan City yacht race yesterday. With only a light breeze stirring, the race was slowed up to such an extent that at nearly midnight, Chicago time, almost half of the 67 competing craft were becalmed somewhere along the 37 mile course.

The Intrepid, a "P" boat, was the first to cross the finish line, taking more than 7 hours for the 37 mile run that normally requires not more than 4 hours. The schooner Fortuna was second in elapsed time, with the Princess, a "Q" sloop; the Columbia, and the Edith II. following in that order. Though it finished behind the Columbia, a craft of the same type, the Edith won the Sewanhaka division because of a time allowance.

At a late hour last night the regatta committee was still trying to compute the Universal time class results. Though the Princess went across the finish line first, the allowance given to the Ariel resulted in a mathematical problem for the judges.

GRIFFITH MEETS RISKO ON JUNE 30 IN STADIUM RING

Cleveland, O., June 21.—(AP)—Johnny Risko of Cleveland, who won a decision over Paulino Uzcudun Thursday at Detroit, will meet Gerald (Tuffy) Griffith of Sioux City, Ia., at Chicago Stadium, June 30, it was announced tonight by Risko's manager, Danny Dunn.

In two previous encounters Griffith won one over the baker boy, being fouled in their bout at Detroit, and easily outpointing him in a return bout at Madison Square Garden, New York.

Golfers to Match Skill at Rockford Wednesday

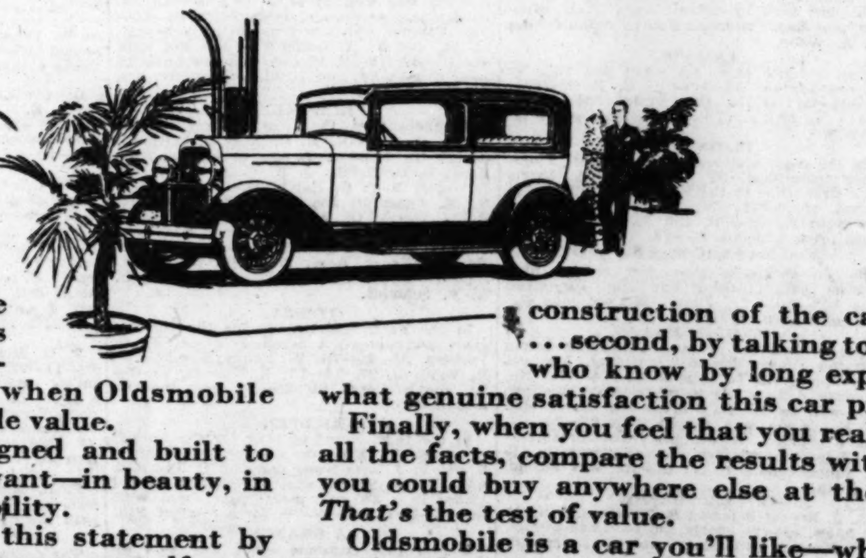
JUDGE IT BY WHAT IT OFFERS
In Beauty · · In Performance
In Dependability



The one sure way to decide the merit of a motor car is to judge it on a point-for-point basis. And that's when Oldsmobile reveals its truly remarkable value.

For Oldsmobile is designed and built to give you everything you want—in beauty, in performance, in dependability.

You can readily prove this statement by examining and driving the car yourself.

Come in and see its many smartly-styled Fisher bodies. Note how every line and contour, every detail of finish and equipment, lends itself to the beauty, luxury, and good taste of Oldsmobile's appearance.

Drive the car. Test its performance in every way—for speed, power, acceleration, and full-range smoothness. Find out how its balanced chassis design contributes to comfort, roadability, and ease of control at all times.

Then check Oldsmobile's dependability . . . first, by studying the staunch and sturdy construction of the car itself . . . second, by talking to owners who know by long experience what genuine satisfaction this car provides.

Finally, when you feel that you really have all the facts, compare the results with what you could buy anywhere else at the price. That's the test of value.

Oldsmobile is a car you'll like—when you see it, when you drive it, when you have one for your own. Come in today—examine Oldsmobile feature by feature—and judge the car by the many fine, desirable things it offers you at surprisingly moderate price.

ITALY WELCOMES AUTO TOURISTS FROM AMERICA

Fascisti Government Has Built New Roads.

BY NELSON PAGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME.—[Special Correspondence.]—Growing interest is being taken every year by Americans traveling in Europe on a visit to Mussolini's Fascist Italy, which is making all efforts to secure the favor of such tourists.

Automobile tours have become very frequent in this country owing to the rapid development of good roads, to which enterprises the government has been devoting large sums of money and its keenest attention. There is a tremendous difference between conditions just after the war when only a few solitary plutocrats from the United States hired a car in Paris to take a hurried and uncomfortable run through the Italian peninsula and nowadays when scores of Americans of all classes can afford the most extensive automobile rides throughout the kingdom by just booking a car at their hotels.

Heat Is Uncomfortable.

With the approaching summer at hand it would be hardly advisable for tourists to contemplate a complete tour of Italy because of the heat, which, while bearable in northern Italy, is extremely unbearable in the south.

Americans contemplating such a trip can enter Italy at Ventimiglia, the border station between that country and France. It is only about a half hour drive from Nice. From Ventimiglia to Genoa is 120 miles among the admirable sceneries of the Italian northern Riviera. The district is hilly, with a constant view of the cliffs and the sea. The road is shady most of the way.

Another 120 miles take a motorist from Genoa to Pisa. Conditions of the roads are equally as good as on the first lap, though the scenery is perhaps less varied and more sunny, the heat being tempered by a sea breeze.

From Pisa to Florence it is barely fifty kilometers, little over thirty miles. Florence, former capital of Italy, is the favorite goal of Americans visiting this country.

North to Bologna.

From Florence, owing to the warm season, visitors will do better by turning north to Bologna. The distance is about ninety kilometers, fifty miles. The road is very hilly as it crosses the Appennine district which is attractive but tiring at times. Bologna was the seat of Italian college life in the dark middle ages.

Another eighty miles of excellent driving will bring the tourist to Venice, or rather, to Mestre, to be more accurate. Mestre is the main port of Venice. Venice is united to the mainland by a long railway bridge which is not as yet adapted for automobiles.

Trieste, which became Italian again after the war, is another eighty miles from Venice. It is advisable to go there as the roads are good and the scenery is full of fighting reminiscences.

After a visit to the Italian Tyrol visitors can take the route southward to Milan. The route itself is so interesting and picturesque it is advisable for car travelers to cover the one hundred and eighty miles' distance in three or four days' time. Again it can be stated that owing to the excellent roads there will be no possible fatigue for drivers, while the summer heat will be greatly attenuated by the Alps among which they go through.

Seventy miles from Bolzano tourists will come across the little station of Tirano, on the Italian-Swiss border. This is where tourists to the high peaks of St. Moritz generally stop overnight to avoid the too drastic change of atmospheric pressure. The landscape changes very suddenly after Tirano and the Lombard characteristics of simple lines and even territory strike a sharp contrast with the varied sceneries of Tyrol. Como will be the next important stopping place after Tirano. Roads here are first rate.

2,775 Miles of New Roads.

Although visitors might be tempted to visit the other two major Italian lakes of Garda and Lake Maggiore it would be advisable for them to visit Milan first after Como. The famous autoways from Milan to Monza Varese and other neighboring resorts are among the most prominent samples of automobile roads in the world. There is a very small fee to be paid on each road and there the delights of speed can be enjoyed with comparatively no risk.

It will be interesting to mention at this point that the Fascist government has built about 2,775 miles since its advent in 1922. More than half these figures concern the south of Italy that had been neglected for more than fifty years.

Auto Club Aids Tourists.

The Automobile club of Italy together with the touring club has greatly facilitated the entrance of foreign cars into the kingdom. Formalities at the borders are reduced to a very insignificant procedure.

In Nice, for instance, there is a bureau of the C. I. T. or Italian Company of Tourism. They attend to what cards may be required by tourists and they forego all the difficulties inherent to border regulations. Traveling in Italy has been made easier since the adoption throughout the whole country of the right hand side of the road. Formerly, conditions there differed from one province to another.

There are technically no speed limits in the country, but responsibilities are stressed when an accident takes place at great speed.

Distinctive signs are distributed very carefully on all the roads to warn drivers. No-parking signs have a red disk with a blue border; one way roads, a red disk with a white rectangle in the center; railroad crossings have picture of trains on them. All have an explanation written under them in Italian.

The price of gas here is much higher than in the United States. Gas is worth two lire a liter which corresponds to 50 cents a gallon. Diplomats get the benefit of a fifty per cent reduction.

Estimate Auto Congestion Costs U. S. 2 Billion a Year

Asheville, N. C., June 21.—[Special.]—Two billion dollars a year is the economic loss to America from traffic congestion. The estimate was made before the annual meeting of the American Automobile association here by the chairman of the highway planning committee, Charles M. Hayes, president of the Chicago Motor club.

"To reduce delays and to increase the speed of traffic 10 per cent in the Chicago metropolitan area alone," he said, "would be worth $10,000,000 a year.

"Every one pays this tax for antiquated streets and highways, although motorists suffer most because they pay directly in a loss of their time. Others pay indirectly. The city housewife, for example, pays excessive delivery costs within the city and pays for the delays in the shipment of milk and livestock from the country."

Wider Roads Recommended.

Wider highways and grade separations with railroads and with heavy cross traffic were recommended as measures to relieve the delays and hazards of congestion. The American Automobile association is an affiliation of 1,053 motor clubs with more than a million members. In regard to hazards, it was mentioned that 31,000 persons were killed and a million injured in automobile accidents in the United States last year.

The committee advocated the construction within cities of boulevards with continuous grade separations to remove through fast traffic from surface streets that have proved themselves inadequate and unsafe for modern automobile traffic.

As a standard for widening rural roads, the A. A. A. experts held that any highway of two lanes carrying more than 4,000 vehicles a day is an economic loss and a public menace. This would apply to all of the important routes radiating from Chicago.

Property Values Jump.

The experts adopted ten feet as the minimum width for each traffic lane. The Illinois standard for two lane pavements is twenty feet in the metropolitan area and eighteen feet in other parts of the state.

The committee added that more consideration should be given to eleven and twelve foot lanes, in view of the higher driving speeds and the increased volume of truck and bus traffic.

The modern highways of Westchester, N. Y., were cited to illustrate the value to real estate of express motor transportation. After the state spent $8,750,000 in four years on wide roads with grade separations, property values jumped $500,000,000. Improved traffic facilities bring residential property closer to places of employment, the producers closer to the markets, and the markets closer to the consumers. Traffic men measure distance in time.

MOTOR CLUB'S PROGRAM

The Chicago Motor club's program for the state, to widen 870 miles of radial highways and to separate the grades at important crossings in 1932 and 1933, will be discussed at a meeting of public officials and civic leaders in Sterling, Ill., on Tuesday.

Sterling is on Illinois route 6, also known as Roosevelt road and as the Lincoln highway. The state plans to widen the highway from Chicago to Winfield this year and from Winfield to Geneva next year. The motor club plan would carry the widening westward from Geneva in 1932 and 1933 to route 86, two miles west of Sterling.

Illinois route 6 is one of eleven radials which the motor club seeks to have widened. Two meetings will be held this week on route 25, which the club would widen to a point approximately five miles south of Champaign. This route extends from Kankakee southward. At Kankakee it connects with Illinois route 49, which is already 40 feet wide into Cook county.

Meeting at Clifton.

The first meeting on route 25 will be held Tuesday at Clifton and will be presided over by Senator Richard Meents of Ashkum, who has declared himself heartily in favor of the widening program. Among those who will attend this meeting are Mayors B. J. Ritter of Clifton, J. P. Madison of Ashkum, and Frank Wolgast of Danforth, and S. R. Walker, president of the village board of Chebanse. Newspaper publishers, township road supervisors, highway commissioners, and other public officials and civic leaders from the four communities will attend.

The plan will be explained to leading residents of Gilman and Onarga at a meeting in Gilman on Wednesday. Gilman also is located on route 25.

Pennsylvania Is Opening Campaign Against Noise

With the season for heaviest motor travel at hand the Pennsylvania Motor federation has inaugurated a campaign to lesen traffic noises. Attention will not only be confined to the curbing of promiscuous horn blowing, but will include, among other things, a campaign against unnecessary noises made by taxicabs, motorcycles and trucks.

CANDIDATE BEAM COMES OUT FOR FIXED BRIDGES

Will Fight for Them if He Is Elected.

BY HAL FOUST.

A plank in the published platform of Harry P. Beam, Democratic candidate for congress from the fourth district, reads as follows:

"I will exercise all the power at my command to eliminate the unnecessary interruption and delay caused the people of Chicago by the opening of bridges for river navigation."

Yesterday, in the course of his campaign for election, Mr. Beam issued a statement, elaborating on this plank of his platform.

"The inconvenience and uncertainty," the statement reads, "occasioned by the opening of bridges along the Chicago river to permit the passage of vessels navigating this waterway in the minds of many people creates a serious obstacle and impediment to the growth and development of our city.

Observed Objection.

"For a long time I have sensed and observed the ever increasing objections of the average citizen of Chicago to delay caused by bridge openings and the congestion which invariably follows. This objection to the opening of bridges was rarely exemplified recently in THE TRIBUNE cartoon, which pictured a bearded ancient with pole in hand, propelling a clumsy craft through the river, while he chanted his divine right to require the opening of a massive mechanical structure and to cause confusion and delay to thousands of people intent upon purposeful endeavor.

"Many attempts have been made from time to time to obviate and cut down this acknowledged nuisance by changing the hours during which bridges are to be opened for river navigation and a great saving could be accomplished in this manner, were it possible to effect this in a permanent and lasting fashion, a fact however, which seems impractical in view of existing conditions.

The 1923 Survey.

"A survey made in 1923 disclosed that upwards of one-half million vehicles and over two million passengers and pedestrians passed over Chicago's movable bridges on a typical week day and that the number of openings of all city bridges in a year totals 90,000 and that fully two-thirds of these openings are caused by types of craft which could be designed to pass under bridges.

"The establishment of a policy of fixed bridges, however, would involve the construction of suitable harbor facilities at the mouth of the river so that loading and unloading of cargoes of lake going vessels could be handled safely and economically. The results of this survey were submitted to the resident engineer of the federal government representing the navigation department, under whose jurisdiction all navigable waters are controlled and a public hearing held on the matter. However, unfortunately, nothing definite developed as a result of the said hearing.

Is for Fixed Bridges.

"Obviously, from the standpoint of construction, it would be desirable for the city to abandon the movable feature of bridges and from the point of view of those who cross the bridges, it would be desirable to eliminate delay due to openings. On the other hand, industries have been built up along the banks of the river predicated on its continued unrestricted use and just consideration of these interests must be made.

"It must be understood that conflicting points of view in a matter of this kind cannot be fully reconciled, it is however, apparent that a policy can be established which will, to a great extent, satisfy river navigation interests and still eliminate the nuisance caused by bridge openings. Because of the radically divergent opinions held on this subject, any effective solution must be predicated on a distinct benefit to the community at large and the gains and losses must be fairly judged and all things considered to the end that the policy established will be equitably desirable.

"If I am elected to congress, I am of the opinion that the best interests of Chicago will be served by the elimination of bridge openings, and I will exert every effort to bring this condition about. I believe that the federal government should delegate to the city of Chicago full authority to work out a practical solution of this problem for the best interest of all concerned."

U. S. ROAD WORK UP 124 PCT. IN FIRST QUARTER

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(AP)—Highway construction projects undertaken in the United States during the first quarter of 1930 represent an expenditure more than 100 per cent in excess of that which was begun during the same period last year.

Secretary Lamont, who has corresponded with the governors of 35 states in conducting a commerce department inquiry into the subject, released the estimate along with a detailed report of the accomplishment of various states in the road building expansion.

"The figures, which cover almost 75 per cent of the country, show contracts awarded for construction during the first quarter of this year valued at $114,101,383," the secretary said, "against $50,910,133 for the corresponding period of last year, a net increase of slightly over 124 per cent for the group of states which have reported so far.

"Three states, West Virginia, New Mexico, and South Dakota, which awarded no highway contracts during the first three months of 1929, report awards totaling $4,367,075 for the first quarter of 1930.

"The greatest relative increases are shown in Ohio and Idaho. In the former state the awards for the first three months of this year were approximately eleven times greater than the corresponding quarter a year ago, while Idaho shows increased awards over ninety times larger than last year.

"Pennsylvania, with contracts awarded valued at $15,469,853 for the first quarter of 1930 against $2,282,813 for the same period of 1929, has the greatest dollar value. This is an increase of 577 per cent.

"Contracts for highway construction in New Hampshire during the first quarter of this year increased 755 per cent, Washington 650 per cent, and Colorado 455 per cent.

"Other substantial increases were: Oregon, 230 per cent; Maryland, 225 per cent; Iowa, 207 per cent, and Wisconsin, 202 per cent.

A WOMAN CAN DRIVE ANY CAR
BUT SHE ENJOYS DRIVING A DODGE SIX

Motoring pleasure and satisfaction reach their maximum in a car that is easy to handle and one in whose safety you have full confidence. This is the reason why so many thousands of women have selected the new Dodge Six. It is easy to handle because it has a smooth, flexible, alert performance, and because its steering mechanism is perfectly balanced. It is safe because it has positive, easy-acting internal hydraulic brakes, and because its silent Mono-Piece Steel Body affords unusual protection. In addition to these purely mechanical advantages, it is beautiful in design and appointments. Furthermore, it is economical to operate and maintain, and it has fifteen years of Dodge dependability behind it.

COUNTY PAYING POLITICAL DEBTS WITH GAS TAX

Money Going for Projects of Little Value.

BY HAL FOUST.

This story tells where Cook county is going to spend its first $2,000,000 of road funds this year. The money is not to be applied on the 1930 construction program prepared by the citizens' advisory committee, which was intended to pave gaps on through routes on Chicago streets as well as in rural sections of the county.

Work on the committee program is being postponed, at least until mid-August, while the county's $1,550,000 from the 1929 gasoline tax and its $395,000 of state aid refunds, with the exception of $400,000 for purchase of rights of way, is going to be spent on contracts already let by the county board.

Paying Political Debts.

Most of these contracts were let while the citizens' committee was preparing its program, and they include jobs that have the appearance of projects to pay political debts or to enhance some private interests rather than to benefit the motoring public generally, according to the Chicago Motor club.

The committee's program called for $7,500,000 worth of construction by the county in 1930. Only a small part of it will be done this year, judging from the present outlook. The delay in tax collections, due to the realty reassessment, accounts in part for the failure of the county to let contracts included in the program. Another explanation is that the board of commissioners loaded the county with road contracts last fall.

Many of the contractors who are to share the $1,545,000 from the county's first $1,945,000 of road funds this year are now at work. A few of the projects have been finished, but not completely paid for. Other jobs have not been started.

Here Are the Projects.

Following is a list of the projects with the dates of the contracts, the approximate locations, and comments on their value to the motoring public as analyzed by the Chicago Motor club:

Southwest highway—Grade separation at 63d-st., Sept. 25, 1929. Palos Park.

Southwest highway—Grade separation at Kean-av. Sept. 19, 1929. Orland Park.

It is a good idea to build grade separations on a new highway at the same time as pavement is being laid to eliminate the necessity of closing the road later on. However, there are many other intersections throughout the county, such as Dempster-st. and Waukegan-rd., Roosevelt-rd. and Mannheim, and others where this money could be spent to better advantage.

Kedzie-av.—87th-st. to 127th-st. Aug. 15, 1929; through Evergreen park to Blue Island.

This section of Kedzie-av. will, for the time being, serve only local traffic because it will merely connect the Southwest highway to 127th-st. and is only one mile west of Western-av. with its wide pavement.

Wolf Road—Ogden-av. to Butterfield. Sept. 25, 1929. Westchester

This section of Wolf-rd. will be of benefit chiefly to local traffic in the west side suburbs. It may serve to remove some of the local traffic from Mannheim-rd. and thereby be beneficial. Otherwise, it is a pavement through sections which are in the process of development.

Harrison—Mannheim-rd. to the village limits of Bellwood. July 17, 1929.

Harrison—Roosevelt-rd. to Mannheim. Sept. 17, 1928. Hillside.

This road is chiefly local in character and serves to connect Bellwood and Maywood to Roosevelt-rd. at the county line.

Plum Grove Road—Higgins-rd. to McDonald-rd. July 1, 1929. Palatine.

This road will serve merely to connect Palatine with Higgins-rd. and will not benefit through traffic to any appreciable extent. A proposed state bond issue route (No. 53) will follow practically the same route and, therefore, the county could have saved this money for more needed work, leaving this construction to the state highway department.

Wentworth avenue—167th-st. to 177th-st. Nov. 26, 1929. Lansing.

Wentworth-av. is little more than a local city street and probably will not benefit any great amount of traffic. It lies halfway between Burnham and Homan at Hammond, which are only a mile apart.

Heigie Road—From Joe Orr to Homewood. June 26, 1929.

Lansing-rd.—From Halsted-st. to the Dixie highway. Nov. 26, 1929.

Heigie-rd. will offer a good connection for local traffic between Homewood and Chicago Heights, but will benefit the majority of suburban and through traffic very little, if any.

East Bartlett Road—Oak-av. to Lake-st. Nov. 26, 1929. Bartlett.

East Bartlett-rd. would merely permit residents in Bartlett to drive straight east to Lake-st (route 5), whereas they now have a connection to Lake-st. directly to the north. This road is purely local in character and will benefit only the small village of Bartlett.

Rexford Road—147th and Crawford to Western-av. Oct. 11, 1927. Robbins.

This short, diagonal road runs through several sparsely settled villages and does not serve to shorten the distance on any major route. Its paving can hardly be justified judging from the service which will be offered to the majority of motorists in the Chicago area.

Projects Though Worthy.

Other projects on which this first gas tax money is to be spent are listed as follows with the motor club's analysis:

Devon-av.—Bridge—Over the Chicago river—Nov. 8, 1929. Chicago.

This bridge is badly needed in order to open up Devon avenue from the west city limits to the present end of the pavement just west of Cicero-av.

Harlem-av.—Wellington to North-av.—Oct. 30, 1929—Between Elmwood Park and Chicago.

This piece of pavement is very badly needed because it completes the paving on Harlem-av., from Milwaukee-av. to Ogden-av.

Southwest-hgwy.—Ridge-av. to Major-av.—Sept. 19, 1929—Chicago ridge.

Southwest-hgwy.—111th-st. to 119th-st.—Dec. 23, 1929.

These links are needed for the completion of the Southwest-hgwy.

Lawrence-av.—7th-av. to Michigan-av.—Sept. 25, 1929—Schiller Park.

This short section of pavement is to close the gap in Lawrence-av. underneath the grade separation at the Soo line.

Belmont-av.—Franklin-av., River-rd.—Nov. 22, 1929.

Belmont-av.—Rose-rd. to Martens-rd., Dec. 23, 1929.

This pavement will provided another outlet from the city over Addison-st. and Belmont-av. to Mannheim-rd. However, it is only ½ mile north of the existing road, Grand-av.

Busse-av.—Dee-rd. to Chicago-av.—Nov. 22, 1929—Park Ridge.

When completed, Busse-hgwy. will provide an excellent city connection to route 19 to which it will connect in Des Plaines at Dempster-st.

Lake-st.—9th-av. to 1st-av.—Nov. 22, 1929. The pavement on this section of Lake-st. [state highway No. 5], was in very poor condition and badly in need of replacement.

Talcott-Touhy to Engle-av.—Nov. 26, 1929—Park Ridge.

Talcott-rd., when completed, will provide another outlet from the city to Touhy-av. on the northwest side. However, it will only bring traffic from Touhy-av. south to Higgins-rd., which is now in very poor condition and badly in need of repaving.

Washington-blvd.—Thatcher-av. to a point 3,000 feet east—Feb. 19, 1930—River Forest.

Washington-blvd., which is a very important outlet to the west of the city, has been closed for repairs for the last year. This construction is badly needed.

Burnham-av.—Viaduct across 4 railroads and the Calumet river—June 29, 1929—Calumet City.

This costly structure will probably prove of great benefit when Avenues O and L are complete to the north and the remaining gaps in Burnham-av. are closed. This route is expected to relieve the congestion to the southeast.

17th-av.—Roosevelt-rd. to 22d-st.—June 26, 1929—Broadview.

This work completed a connection between St. Charles-rd. in Maywood, and 47th-st. at McCook. By laying this one mile of paving, the local route is provided which will remove a great portion of the local traffic from the through route [Mannheim-rd.]

Harlem-av.—119th-st. to 120th-st.—Oct. 30, 1928—South of Worth.

This construction eliminated the detour at the Calumet sag and was the final link in Harlem-av. between 71st-st. and 183d-st.

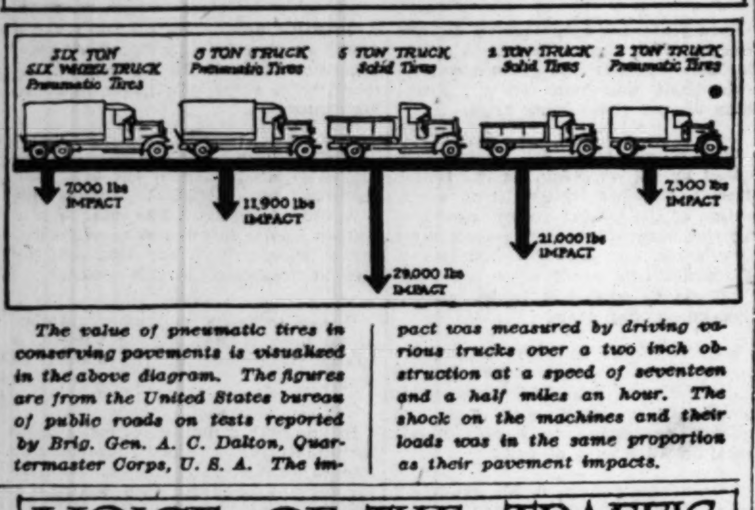
Misspent Money.

"It appears" the club concludes, "as if the county has been paving local roads and city streets and other patchwork jobs which will not aid materially in the elimination of the costly congestion in the metropolitan area.

"This money would have been spent to much better purpose if it had been used for repaving such city connections as—Ogden avenue; the connection between McCormick boulevard and Kimball; Lawrence avenue, [Gunnison street] from Harlem avenue to Austin avenue; Cicero, from Ogden to Roosevelt road; Cicero, from Wilson avenue to Devon avenue; Roosevelt road from Austin avenue to the city limits; 55th street from Archer to the city limits. These sections of pavement were included on the report of the joint committee, for construction in 1930.

"Also, the gas tax money would be better spent on some of the following grade separations, of vital necessity in the elimination of congestion in the Chicago area: Mannheim road and Roosevelt; River road over the Chicago and North Western railroad and the Northwest highway; Waukegan road and Dempster street; Lake street and Mannheim, and many others at intersections where blockades occur every week-end."

AUTO TIRE TEST



The value of pneumatic tires in conserving pavements is visualized in the above diagram. The figures are from the United States bureau of public roads on tests reported by Brig. Gen. A. C. Dalton, Quartermaster Corps, U. S. A. The impact was measured by driving various trucks over a two inch obstruction at a speed of seventeen and a half miles an hour. The shock on the machines and their loads was in the same proportion as their pavement impacts.

VOICE OF THE TRAFFIC

WHAT'S THE ANSWER!

Chicago, June 20.—I am considering purchasing an automobile, but before I do buy a machine I have a few questions that I would like to submit to your readers—perhaps they can help me.

If I should buy a car do I have to buy a license from the state? Am I liable for any damage done to other cars caused by my own recklessness? May I drive my car if I know that my brakes are defective? May I park it in front of my home all night?

If I drive a taxi may I make a U turn any place I please? May I disregard all speed laws? May I park it any place I please?

If I operate a bus must I stop at stop signs? May I disregard all traffic rules or laws? May I crowd automobiles off the street? May I fill the gasoline tank while the motor is running? What must I do in the event of the bus burning while crowded? WALKER.

SPEED TRAP.

Oak Park, Ill., June 19.—Spring is here and along with it spring up speed traps to add to the treasury of small villages. North avenue superhighway is a wonderful highway and, due to the width, there is no trouble in stepping right along.

After leaving the west city limits of Elmhurst, going west, one reaches the portion of this highway where it is wide and in the open country. There are no signs of speed warnings or indications that a stretch of this highway of over a mile in the open country is in the limits of the village of Villa Park, Ill.

It is most natural that after traveling at a speed of 25 miles per hour through Elmhurst to speed up on an open highway where the law permits at least a speed of 45 miles per hour. Villa Park police lay in wait in an automobile and are arresting motorists right and left for speeding.

This is a piece of raw work and, without doubt, if this keeps up they will be able to pay off their debts in a short time. Are they not compelled to place signs on the eastern and western limits of their portion of the road to give the people a chance to know that this section of farm lands and fields is within the limits of the village? M. P. BOWEN.

EARLY MORNING ARREST.

Gary, Ind., June 16.—On a Monday morning at 3:25 o'clock, returning from a trip in Wisconsin and driving along the outer drive at about 40th street, I was ordered to stop by a motorcycle policeman, who was very sarcastic and impolite in front of two young ladies, the reason being that he wore a star.

He wanted to know what the hurry was and also what town we were from, explaining to us that he was arrested in Indiana for speeding and knew what Indiana officers were. While this was going on another one came up and put in a couple of words of advice.

The officer explained to me that it would take a $100 cash bond to be released or tell it to the judge in the morning, and also that he did not like to take us to the station, as he just returned from there. At this remark a friend of mine who was along got out and squared everything for $5 when he handed him a $10 bill and received $5 change.

There was very little traffic at this hour, but in the daytime, when traffic is very heavy, motorists go along this road at 50 or 60 miles an hour, which I myself have done day in and day out for a long time and never once have I myself ever been warned.

After receiving the money they turned back and also told us to watch our step ahead, as there were plenty of the boys along the road. We had scarcely gone two blocks when we were passed by an auto going at least 55 miles an hour, and he kept going, as he had an Illinois license.

This does not make me mad a bit, as I really deserved what I got because I was going, and fast enough, too, but why don't they pinch them in the daytime? JOSEPH LANGSHAW.

STREET REPAIRS.

Chicago, June 17.—What has become of the vehicle tax for 1930 that at least some of our busiest streets cannot be repaired?

Ashland avenue, one of the heaviest traffic streets to the south side, is in dilapidated condition and has been in that condition for the last five years, from 47th north to 22d street, without any repairs.

The bridge over the gulley at 28th street and the street under the bridge at 41st street are absolutely unfit for any traffic in their present condition. The Chicago Surface Lines are also to blame for the condition of this street, their part being as bad as the city's.

Cannot the aldermen representing this territory do something to have a portion of the vehicle tax spent here and also take some action toward compelling the surface lines to repair their part of the street, especially now when there are so many men out of work? J. H. M.

GOOD DRIVER RESPECTS LAW.

Chicago, June 19.—Every one is driving, but is every one fit to drive? My experience of two years as a Chicago policeman compels me to ask this question and wonder if the motoring public of Chicago are entitled to any protective traffic enforcement. It is true that the conduct of some of the police is not deserving of a citizen's respect, but I wonder if the motorist's conduct is deserving of a policeman's respect?

Ninety per cent of the violators that I have given tickets to violated the law because they thought no "copper" was looking. Sixty per cent of these had their tickets fixed; about 40 per cent told me they would have the ticket fixed as I was writing it. The number of citizens who respect the ordinances that provide them the safety to use the streets and the men who try to enforce them are rare indeed, but few as they are they are in turn highly respected and always given a fair break by every policeman.

I believe the cause of drunken policemen can be traced to the door of the small minded, loud mouth who will spend three-quarters of his wages or give away a large part of his stock to a cadger police official or cheap politician so that he may reach the height of his ambitions, which is to humiliate or embarrass a policeman who is trying to make him obey the ordinances, or even the state laws. Could there be crooked politicians and police if there were not such citizens?

I think a good driver is very seldom in trouble because he was man enough to pay the penalty that experience demands and so learned. He is the only motorist that I really think deserves respect. He obeys the law; he is no cry baby. EX-POLICEMAN.

WISCONSIN DRIVING.

Chicago, June 16.—Recently I took a motor trip through a portion of Wisconsin. Under Wisconsin's traffic laws there is no speed limit, but the highway police are very exacting in their enforcement of the other rules governing automobile driving.

A car is not permitted to pass another car on a turn in the road, nor when approaching the crest of a hill, and on three or four lane roads drivers are required to use the outer lane except when passing another car and when one car attempts to pass another it is not allowed to take three or four minutes to do so, but is required to pass it in a hurry and get back into the outer lane. The result of all this is most gratifying to the motorist and it is a genuine pleasure to drive on the highways of Wisconsin.

The minute one passes the state line into Illinois he is impressed by the confusion, jay driving, and nervous tension and strain required to get where he is going without having an accident. At the side of our four lane roads appear large signs reading, "Use outer lane except when passing," but it does not mean anything because it is not enforced.

Road hogs, lazy drivers going about twenty miles an hour, speed demons, and every conceivable type of motorists are all over the highway. They are on the outer lane, inner lane, and even on the wrong side of the road. They park on the concrete to repair punctures and generally disregard all rules of even ordinary decency and yet our highway police apparently confine their efforts to enforcing the speed law.

Take a car out on a Saturday or Sunday and drive north on any busy highway. Experience the traffic tension under which you drive in Illinois and then notice the relief that comes to you the minute you pass the state line into Wisconsin, where you can travel faster and with less effort and danger than you can in our state.

I suggest that your paper take up this problem which is so near to the heart of most of your readers, and by a systematic, persistent endeavor see what can be done to bring about a more comfortable and enjoyable situation on our highways. EDWARD F. REITER.

AVIATION

MOBILE MOORING MAST FOUND AID TO DIRIGIBLES

Tested on Graf Zeppelin at Lakehurst.

BY ROBERT WOOD.

The problem of ground handling dirigibles easily and with comparatively little cost has been solved in a measure by the development of a mobile mooring mast of the "stub" variety which has been under development for several years at the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J., and which recently reached a state of perfection in which the navy was willing that it should be publicly demonstrated.

The mooring device is a triangular steel structure surmounted by a mast, also of steel. At the top of the mast there is a socket identical with those at the tops of the stationary masts, which is designed to hold the cone at the nose of an airship, forming a tight connection. The movable mast proceeds under its own power supplied by an army tank.

Used on Graf Zeppelin.

The tests of this new device were made first with the Los Angeles and then with the Graf Zeppelin, when it arrived from South America on its recent four continent voyage. Spectators were impressed by the lack of men and the ease with which the great German airship was stowed away.

Th ground crew required to land the dirigible when the portable mast is employed consists of about 50 men, who hold the guide ropes at the tail of the ship. Without the mast about 250 men are required.

The navy already has demonstrated that it is entirely practicable to take the Los Angeles in and out of her hangar on the mobile mooring mast with cross-hangar winds up to twenty miles an hour. Under the old man power methods of handling they would not dare attempt to take the big airship out of the hangar in such a wind and probably would think themselves fortunate if they could accomplish a safe launching with a cross-hangar breeze of ten miles an hour.

Plane Mooring Bar.

Those who developed the "mechanical ground crew" to its present state of efficiency believe that still greater strides will be made in the future toward perfecting the mobile mast and the mechanized method of handling large airships.

Another device intended to extend the scope of dirigible operation in the air is the mooring bar by which airplanes can be launched from the air ship during flight. The advantage gained is that it can send out a scout to fly ahead and return with information or can land members of its crew without returning to the ground itself. The latter feat has also been accomplished with a motorless glider.

To provide for carrying an airplane, the only alteration necessary in the structure of the airship consists of a bar held in place at the bottom of the envelope by a light duralumin frame. At the top of the airplane there is a hook that fits over the bay. When the airplane is released the bar is withdrawn from the hook. To attach the plane to the dirigible the pilot of the plane must maneuver the hook onto the bar.

A demonstration of this feat is expected to be staged during the national air races, which will be held in Chicago from Aug. 23 to Sept. 1, when the Los Angeles will fly here.

AVIATION QUESTIONS

Questions relating to aviation are answered in this section by Maj. R. W. Schroeder, famous world war flyer, who formerly held the world's altitude record. Inquiries should be addressed to the Aviation Department, Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

Q.—Can a seaplane alight on the land without cracking up badly?—W. J. S., Kankakee, Ill.

A.—Strictly speaking, a seaplane is a plane equipped with pontoons. It is hardly possible that a plane of this type could effect a landing on land without considerable damage to the plane. However, many flying boats have negotiated landings on land without any serious results. Recently an amphibion plane landed in Miami on the bottom of its hull without damage to the plane. The pilot had failed to put down his wheels. The ship skated along on its hull bottom, but did not turn over. Last winter a small Eastman flying boat not only landed on the snow but took off from it.

Q.—I want to take a trip on an airplane during my summer vacation. Where would you suggest for me to fly?—Mrs. R., Joliet, Ill.

A.—There are a number of excursion trips offered by the air passenger lines flying out of Chicago. There are also a number of air-rail connections which will take you to almost any part of the country where you may want to spend your vacation. I suggest that you address your inquiry to the Air Travel Bureau, located in the Palmer House Arcade, Chicago, where you will be given information about all air passenger services. You will then be able to decide on your trip.

Q.—What kind of controls has the Curtiss Tanager?—F. E., Chicago.

A.—The Curtiss Tanager has wheel controls.

Q.—I have a private pilot's license from one of the best flying schools in the country. Could I fly across the Mexican border this summer without getting special permission?

A.—The Mexican government just recently announced that foreign airplanes flying over Mexican territory hereafter must obtain prior authorization from the department of communications. The officials stated that owing to the leniency of the government in the past there have been many infractions of customs and immigration laws.

Q. What is a parasol airplane? M. H. R., Gary, Ind.

A. It is a monoplane with a very high wing. When in flight the fuselage or body appears to be suspended by a number of diagonal rods or struts which in a rather far-fetched way resemble the ribs of an umbrella or parasol. This airplane has several good points. In the first place there is a free flow of the air around the wing without interference from other structural members or surfaces. This, of course, increases the lift. Then the plane as a whole is a pendulum which when disturbed by a gust of wind tends immediately to swing back into a level position again. Roughly speaking the pivot of the pendulum is at the center of the wing and the engine is the weight or ball. It is only when the plane is in a turn that the pendulum causes trouble. Centrifugal force throws the engine or weight too far away from the center, making the plane overbank. The Morane parasol was introduced in Europe in 1913. Modern examples are the Mercury Chic, the Davis and some models of the Lockheed-Vega.

Q.—I should think it would decrease the wind resistance more on an airplane if the body, wings, and braces came to a sharp point instead of a blunt point. I would like to have this explained. J. S., Elgin, Ill.

A.—It has been proved experimentally that an object will offer the least resistance to wind or flow of the air if it is shaped like a top and the blunt end placed forward. The blunt end has the effect of diverting the air sharply away from the object, but just enough so that it clings less closely to the surface and the resistance due to rubbing of air particles on the metal or wood is reduced. It is also important that the air be disturbed as little as possible, and that it come to rest quickly. This is why the "streamlined" object is tapered out smoothly to a point.

WANT ARMY TO MAKE TESTS OF PRIVATE PLANES

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A proposal that legislation be passed authorizing the army air corps to make tests of aircraft and equipment for manufacturers of the United States, has been forwarded to the house by Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war.

Secretary Hurley urged that the government equipment at Wright Field, Ohio, said to be the most complete testing laboratory in the world, be made available to manufacturers. It is now available for conducting tests for other government agencies such as the navy, department of commerce, and the national advisory council for aeronautics.

The government official explained that the department of commerce requires that airplanes or equipment pass certain tests before an approved type certificate be granted, authorizing their use.

Expect Bank Rate Reductions to Help Build Up Business

LONDON SEES BIT OF SILVER IN FINANCE SKY

Optimism Rises at End of Week.

BY SIDNEY CAVE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 21.—After a rather worrying early period caused by Wall street's renewed slump, the London markets finished the week considerably brighter, and, for a decided change, with cheerfulness as the dominant note. The lowering of the New York bank rate to two and one-half per cent constituted the chief bracing effect, it being welcomed here almost as much as in New York. This movement came as a surprise and it has already dissipated one of the most recent fears induced by Wall street's further collapse.

Aside from other stimulating influences, the New York movement will tend to correct complications which have recently arisen resulting from the gold exports, and in London many fears have been prevalent that the London bank rate might be forced up. But the federal reserve action will help keep the London rate steady at three per cent, and it is not anticipated that there will be any reduction to the two and one-half per cent level which was freely expected earlier this year.

Situation Is Better.

The monetary situation, in fact, is considerably more favorable than was anticipated for the end of the half year, and it is confidently believed that the reductions in the New York and Berlin bank rates will considerably improve the sterling exchange which has been the depressing feature of the market here for some time.

Other factors responsible for a more cheerful tone to the week's outlook were better news from continental bourses and the notable recovery of the commodities and base metal values, particularly tin and copper. This rally naturally helped the respective share markets, the prices responding upward, bringing optimism concerning the future.

This favorable turn of sentiment followed a general belief that commodity prices had touched bottom, but it is recognized that the aftermath of the recent slump in commodity values will involve a fairly long period of convalescence, and recovery will only be accelerated if Wall street carries out a final clearing up of its unhealthy speculative position.

Gets a Jolt.

Prior to the recovery at the end of the week, London experienced a nasty jolt from Wall street's renewed slump, the depression being accentuated by outbreaks of forced liquidation in many quarters. International and Anglo-American favorites reach fresh low records for the year, those most badly affected being Radio Corporation, Brazilian Tractions, International Nickels and most of the leaders in American rails.

The Canadian Pacific was even more depressed than the American rails despite the latest crop reports from Canada, which generally continue to be good.

PARIS MARKET FIRM

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 21.—Despite the continued depressing reports and wild rumors launched from Wall street, the Paris market remained firm and even marked a few advances during the week-end sessions this week. Although many observers believed that the news of the New York slump coming at the top of an already weak and depressed market would have been too heavy a load to bear, the weight proved lighter than was expected.

One of the most important factors in helping support the market was the rise in copper and tin in London and other issues which made a substantial move forward. News from other European markets early this week also held little encouragement.

Report Workers Laid Off.

Although it is asserted that French industry has not been affected by the economic depression which is spreading over the world, it is unofficially reported that during the last couple of months more than 60,000 Italian iron and steel workers have been discharged and sent back to Italy. This is held as a significant sign that industry is beginning to suffer under the world economic crisis and is taking measures to prevent unemployment.

With very unsettled conditions prevailing on the market, no further changes in the bank discount rate are expected. A fall in prices everywhere and heavy liquidation have reduced the demand for funds, and therefore the rates have to be kept very low.

American Tar Products Acquires Ry. Tie Concern

The American Tar Products company of Pittsburgh, a Koppers concern, has completed negotiations for the acquisition of the Ayer & Lord Tie company of Chicago, officials of the local firm announced yesterday. Ayer & Lord will continue to operate under its present name and management. John B. Lord will continue as chairman of the board and most of the present directors will stay with the company, which makes railroad ties. Arthur W. Armstrong will remain as president and manager.

How Efficient Is Worker for Government?

BY SCRUTATOR.

A true implication in the rising tide of taxes, and one little considered, is that the increased funds raised mean the employment of a larger proportion of the population by the federal government and its subdivisions.

As the number of public employés increases its becomes increasingly important to know what the relative efficiency of a government worker may be as compared to the efficiency of the privately employed in a similar line of work. The question of government in business is not solved by any formula showing that 10 or 11 per cent of the workers of the country are paid by public funds, and that this proportion is not unduly high.

It is unduly high if the work done by government's hired men is not as well done as private employers could get it done for the same or less pay. Direct comparisons are not often possible. One has been made by Edward N. Hurley, Chicago manufacturer, who was head of the government shipbuilding during the war.

Efficiency Is Less.

At the peak of the building effort, 350,000 were directly engaged in shipbuilding, seven times as many as before the war. Mr. Hurley asserted in a speech to the National Electric Light association this week that the 350,000 were just as good men, just as capable as the 50,000, and moreover, they were under the stimulant of war's demands.

"Yet the efficiency of the shipbuilding industry of the United States measured by any standard you choose to adopt, financial or physical, was at the most conservative estimate 25 per cent less after the government became responsible for wages," he said.

"At least a half billion dollars could have been saved in building under private administration with the same managers and men on the pay roll. The only essential difference was in the incidence of responsibility. From the day managers and men knew that the pay roll was to be guaranteed and all wage increases which the shipyard management recommended were to be met by the government, our output of tonnage [in proportion to plant and men employed] suffered a decrease of 25 per cent."

Profits Bring Efficiency.

That can only mean that taxpayers got only 75 cents for each dollar they spent in the shipyards and that they could have gotten the whole dollar in work if the managers had been fighting for profits. There are few who would believe this to be an isolated instance; few so optimistic as to believe that public money is often expended as wisely as it should be.

It is almost passing strange, in view of this, to see the public and legislators giving immense thought to the problems of raising money, to the creation of new forms of taxation like that on income, which is painful, and those on gasoline and tobacco, which hurt a little less, and overlooking the even more important lack of efficiency in spending what is raised.

A genius who could invent some method of getting the profit motive into governmental operations, excluding graft, would be worth hundreds of millions a year. As it is now, there is no adequate reward for an executive in government service who increases his efficiency and no adequate punishment for the one who lets his slip. That is the direct reason why so many business men are opposed to further encroachments of government on private enterprise.

CITE POLICY OF INTER. BANK ON INVESTMENTS

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

BASLE, June 21.—The investment policy of the Bank of International Settlements will be one of "extreme" liquidity, reducing its "frozen" funds to a minimum and allowing it much greater mobility of action than any other bank enjoys. This basic principle was decided upon by the investing committee board.

Except for this announcement strict secrecy was maintained on decisions taken by the committee. The committee, composed of Norman, Moreau, and Luther, governors respectively of the Banks of England, France, and Germany; and Beneduce, director of the Bank of Italy, met with Gates MacGarrah, president, Vice President Frazer, and M. Quesnay, director general.

The above basic policy, it was explained, will naturally be subject to modification as future experience warrants. It will be applied immediately to funds the bank already has on its hands, amounting to about $155,000,000.

The bank, it was announced, has received the first payment by Germany of a sum of about $30,000,000, representing the monthly fraction of the reparations annuity under the Young plan. This means Germany has started paying at the first possible opportunity, for the bank was not open for business at the previous session of the board.

In addition to this sum, the bank's present funds consist of a deposit of $100,000,000 Germany has already made, as required, and $25,000,000 the Swedish National bank turned in after floating its section of the first slice of the reparations loan.

Week's Loadings of Coal at Lake Erie Are Higher

New York, June 21.—(AP)—Loading of bituminous coal at Lake Erie ports during the week ended June 16 totaled 1,357,522 tons, compared with 1,214,636 in the like week last year. For the season to June 16 total loadings were 10,922,966 tons, against 10,827,106 in the corresponding period last year and 7,957,169 in the like period in 1928.

PERMANENCE OF EASIER MONEY SEEN ASSURED

Movement Spreads to Leading Marts.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 21.—All doubt as to the permanence of easy money conditions was dissolved last week when the federal reserve bank of New York dropped its rediscount rate to 2½ per cent, the lowest rate which has ever been voted in the history of the country's central banking system.

The reduction was generally accepted in the financial community as a further indication of the intention of the federal reserve to do all that can be done through the medium of cheap and abundant credit to stimulate a business revival and halt the decline in commodity prices.

The action is expected by bankers to touch off another train of central bank rate reductions throughout the world. It was immediately followed by a cut in the rate at Chicago to 3½ per cent and of the German reichsbank from 4½ to 4 per cent. The Bank of England and the Bank of France are expected to follow suit at their meetings next Thursday or soon thereafter.

Apply Cheap Money Cure.

The decline in money rates in this market which resulted from the liquidation of security loans last fall and the series of bank rate reductions inaugurated then by the local federal reserve bank has spread in widening circles to the leading money markets of the world.

At present the price of credit here and abroad has reached the lowest level witnessed in years. The latest action of the federal reserve bank of New York it is expected will send another ripple of declining money rates rolling outward from New York to further reduce money rates in this country and abroad.

The application of this cheap money cure for business depression has as yet shown little results. Despite the steady fall in money since last October commodity prices have continued to sink and the general level of business has shown no definite signs of an early upturn.

Bankers who are in sympathy with the policy being pursued by the federal reserve remarked last week that an immediate important response to the stimulus of cheap money was hardly to be expected. Conditions which have brought about the prolonged drop in commodity prices are world wide, it is observed and cannot be corrected overnight.

See Ultimate Revival.

At the same time it is contended, cheap money has in the past never failed to bring about a revival of trade and industry and an upturn in prices ultimately.

One of the chief objectives of the lower bank rate, it is said, is the desire to stimulate the bond market. An active market for senior securities it is urged is an important prerequisite to the revival of structural and other industrial activity.

Up to the present the growth of interest in the bond market has been unsatisfactory, it is said. While there has been a decided improvement in bond prices particularly prices of high grade municipal and government obligations there has been as yet no large buying of bonds by the banks themselves.

Although open money market rates have eased to the lowest levels in years the prevailing 4-4½ rate of interest paid on deposits in New York savings banks is likely to remain unchanged for some time to come, savings bank officials said today.

The bulk of savings bank funds is invested in mortgages and other long term investments so that the interest rates they are able to pay on their deposits would not likely respond to any quick changes in rates on commercial loans and short term investments, it was explained.

Com'wealth & Southern Earnings Decline in May

Gross earnings of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation and subsidiaries for May amounted to $12,007,867 as compared with $12,143,373 for May last year. Net earnings were $6,032,968 as compared with $6,081,676 in May, 1929. For the five months ended May 31 gross earnings amounted to $61,560,253, and net earnings $31,187,431 as compared with $61,682,815 and $31,298,293 respectively for the corresponding five months period.

McCAIN JOINS BOARD OF ROCK ISLAND ROAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 21.—A step more closely relating the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific and the Louisiana and Arkansas railway and giving the Chase National bank further representation in the railroad field was disclosed in the announcement that Charles S. McCain, chairman of the board of the Chase, had been elected to the board of the Rock Island. Mr. McCain is a director of the Louisiana and Arkansas, an important line assigned the Rock Island in the interstate commerce commission's consolidation plan.

Recently, Albert H. Wiggin, chairman of the Chase governing board, was elected to the board of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

The management of the three important roads in the proposed Rock Island system is now well interlocked. E. N. Brown, chairman of the St. Louis-San Fransisco railway, is chairman of the executive committee of the Rock Island, the Frisco owning 183,000 shares of Rock Island stock. Dillon, Read & Co., who underwrote an issue of Louisiana and Arkansas bonds early this year, is represented on the Frisco board through E. C. Frank, vice president of the United States and International Securities corporation, which has investments in both the Frisco and Rock Island. Last week the Frisco elected Harvey C. Couch, president and a director of the L. & A. Co., on the Frisco directorate.

GREAT LAKES AIRCRAFT HAS LOSS OF $848,841

Great Lakes Aircraft corporation reports net loss for 1929 of $848,841 after a writeoff of $664,000 for development expense and special reserve. The last previous report of the company for the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1928, showed net income of $342,794, equivalent to $1.71 a share on the "A" stock. In 1927 the company earned $2.60 a share on the same stock.

Directors have authorized the issuance of 100,000 shares of class "A" for subscription by stockholders at $7.25 a share, on the basis of one-half share additional for each share held of record June 16. As of Dec. 31, 1929, the company had current assets of $1,627,138 and current liabilities of $207,576. Of the current assets $602,675 was cash and $938,789 inventory.

The balance sheet shows bank loans of $325,000 due Feb. 27, 1931, and a loan from an associated company of $100,000 due Jan. 15, 1931.

Nickel Plate Ry. Reports $115,077 May Net Income

New York, June 21.—(AP)—The New York, Chicago and St. Louis railroad (Nickel Plate) reported net income of $115,077 for May, compared with $424,099 for May last year. Net income for the five months ended May 31 totaled $603,795, compared with $2,866,167 for the like period last year.

SEARS ROEBUCK & CO. SALES HOLD UP WELL; $31,475,143 FOR MO.

Business of the big mail order and chain store concerns appears to be holding up better than most other lines. Their volume of business is not much lower than a year ago, considering the effect of lower commodity prices on their dollar sales.

Sears, Roebuck & Co., largest of the mail order concerns, issued its report yesterday covering the four weeks between May 22 and June 18, which was the sixth period in the company's thirteen month year. Sales totaled $31,475,143, a decline of $2,533,246, or 7.4 per cent, from the corresponding period in 1929. But the average of commodity prices now is 6 or 7 per cent lower than a year ago, according to government indices.

There also is comfort in the fact that Sears-Roebuck sales for the sixth period increased $789,152, or more than 2½ per cent, over the period between April 24 and May 21 this year. Moreover, sales for this year to date totaled $172,276,013, a decline of only $5,911,480, or 3.3 per cent, from the corresponding period in 1929. As this recession is less than average commodity prices have declined it appears probable that volume of business has been as large as last year.

SIR JOSIAH IS PESSIMISTIC ON THE NEW TARIFF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 21. — Sir Josiah Stamp, British financier and economist and chairman of the London Midland and Scottish railway, upon sailing for Southampton with Lady Stamp on the Aquitania, was pessimistic on the effect of the new tariff, and discussing it, said: "The new tariff is bound to diminish foreign trade and make it difficult for America in the matter of exports. It will increase the difficulties of the debtor countries in paying their interest on their debts, and it is only natural that it gives rise to feelings of irritation in other countries.

"Possibly the irritation will pass. The permanent effects may not be entirely serious. It is inconceivable to an outsider that the small gain to those industries affected by the tariff is worth what it will cost American foreign trade as a whole."

STEEL PRICES REMAIN WEAK IN CHICAGO AREA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., June 21.—Daily Metal Trade says: "Demand for plain structural shapes continues to improve in the Philadelphia district and the outlook is considered bright in view of the large amount of tonnage up for early action.

"Semi-finished steel prices remain weak at Chicago, the market being quoted at a range of $32 to $33. Sales of billets have been made at $32. Semi-finished buying is light, but shipments are fair on second quarter contracts. Demand for steel bars is showing some slight improvement in the east. At Cleveland, however, June bar orders to date equal those booked in the corresponding month of May with the outlook for the balance of the month not particularly encouraging."

DO you want distribution from a corporation that has completed two year introductory campaign, now locating main office, in Chicago, to conduct national campaign in magazines and newspapers. Selling Beats July Wheat Down to 92¼c

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Dollar wheat was all but erased from American grain exchange blackboards yesterday as the result of a wave of liquidation and general selling which swept over the markets and carried prices at Chicago off 1⅜@2¼c from Friday's finish to new low figures for the season.

Chicago December, the highest future of any in this country, finished at 99⅞c@$1 after having sold as low as 99⅝c, the first time it had dipped below $1 since August, 1923. Net losses were 1⅝@1⅞c with July 92¼@92½c and September 95⅛@95¼c. Winnipeg led the decline due to good rains where most needed in Alberta and Saskatchewan and finished 2⅝@2⅞c lower with all deliveries at a new low, July selling down to 96⅝c.

Lack of support except such as came from holders of bids and from shorts was a factor, and despite the break of over 15c in the last two weeks, and of 51⅜c in the July from the high of the season, there was no evidence of a better speculative or cash demand. Antwerp cabled that the Danube was offering new wheat for August-September shipment at equal to 93¾c, or about 10c lower than it could be shipped from the United States.

All Grains at New Low.

All futures of grains on the Chicago Board of Trade with the exception of July corn and September oats sold at a new low for the season during the day, and the finish found wheat 6⅝@7c lower than a week ago, while corn was off 1½@3¼c, oats ⅝@1⅛c, and rye 4@4¾c lower. Lard lost 12½@25c and bellies 50c@$1.10 for the week.

It was the gossip of the trade that numerous lines of long wheat were sold out during the day that showed losses of 25c or more, and in some instances longs liquidated who had held July since it was around $1.40. There was also hedging pressure in evidence with purchases of 100,000 bu reported made to come here for August-September shipment. The movement in the southwest is increasing rapidly with 36 cars of new No. 1 hard received at Wichita, Kas., testing 61@63 lbs per bu.

With the exception of relative strength in Liverpool, where wheat futures were only ¾@⅞d lower due to short covering, there was nothing in the general run of the news to cause any buying.

Liquidation in Corn.

There was a moderate export business put through in hard winter wheat at the seaboard, but quantities were not given. Liverpool, however, continues to report pressure of hard winters there. At the same time the closing price on the July delivery there was only 9c lower than a year ago, compared with declines of 20⅛@23⅜c in America and 27½c in Winnipeg. Buenos Aires futures finished unchanged with July 98⅞c, or 6½c over Chicago.

September and December corn sold at a new low for the season in sympathy with wheat and on much higher temperatures over the main belt. December dropped 2c to a low of 67⅝c, the lowest at which it has sold since July, 1924, when it was down to 66⅞c. July acted tight and closed at 75c, a loss of only ¼c for the day with the deferred futures off 1¼c, September being 73¼@73⅜c.

July oats sold down ⅞c to a low of 35c, the inside figure at which that future has been traded in since July, 1922, when it was as low as 31¼c. Liquidation was on, but the market showed considerable resistance to pressure due to investment buying of September, with the finish ⅜@½c lower. July closed at 35¼@35⅜ and September 36½c.

Rye is selling far below the cost of production with the July closing at 46½c, the inside figure of the day and season and the lowest since 1900, while September finished at 50¾c. Net losses were 1⅜@1¾c.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 21.—There were dark and devious doings around the corner of Broad and Wall streets again today. Professional speculators out to wreck the stock market launched another vicious selling drive against shares of the country's leading corporations and succeeded in battering around 100 of them to new low price levels for the decline and some to new bottoms for the year.

Losses among the higher-priced trading favorites ran as high as 15 points a share. Numerous issues were off 1 to 8 points at the close, and as on other days of the decline now nearing the end of its third week the liquidation extended to every group and virtually every specialty of the list.

Under "Resistance" Level.

Heading the list of new lows was the recognized leader of all the leaders, United States Steel common. It wilted away under the lash of the hard-hitting bears to 154, which was a full point lower than it has ever been before this year and a full 6 points under the "resistance" level which banking interests were supposed to have established for it when the bear smash began to grow really serious.

Some support was forthcoming a few minutes before the final gong sounded, however, and the closing sale was recorded at 155¼, which got it into the week-end record with a net loss on the day of only $2.75 a share. Steel's low for 1929 was 150, the bottom reached during the big break of last November.

Along with Steel went the other pivotals—in a heap. American Can, long an able lieutenant in steel in market leadership, crashed to 110⅛, a loss of 5⅞ points. The lowest it had ever been before this year was 113½. Radio came within an eyelash of its 1930 low, sagging to 33¼ and emerg-

Investment Counselors for over a Quarter Century

A "Healthy" Reaction?

When security prices decline, frequently we hear the comment that it is simply a "healthy" reaction. Nevertheless, the investor who has seen his profits vanish derives little satisfaction from that fact.

It can be "healthy" for him, however, if he makes of it an opportunity to take stock of his position and to determine just what his investment policy is—or should be. And, there is no better time than now to consider the value of skilled investment counsel.

The profession of investment counsel has the aim not only of increasing capital, but also of furnishing protection against loss.

With Brookmire Service, the most comprehensive statistical and business data is constantly being checked and rechecked by experts, and clients given the benefit of the conclusions reached.

Brookmire has furnished constructive investment service to thousands of individuals and institutions for more than a quarter of a century with the purpose of making their money fully productive, at a better-than-average rate, with safety.

ANALYSIS SHOWS EXTENT OF BREAK IN STOCKS HERE

Prices Weaken Again in Short Session.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Chicago stocks emerged from yesterday's trading with a few more nicks and bruises. Considered in the light of earlier experiences last week, the injuries sustained were minor, but the cumulative result was sad news to most speculators.

A compilation showing the shrinkage in market value in the fifty most active issues gives an idea of the extent of last week's decline. The analysis made by Otis & Co. shows that the market value of the fifty stocks decreased $299,648,815, or 9.15 per cent.

At the close of the market yesterday the fifty issues had a value of $2,971,905,487, as compared with $3,271,554,302 at the close of the preceding week. The compilation also reveals that twenty-eight of the stocks which were traded a year ago had a market value yesterday of $952,611,864, as compared with $1,037,440,170 on June 22, 1929, a shrinkage of $84,828,306, or 8.18 per cent.

Reach New Lows.

Many issues were selling below their lows of last fall yesterday and the majority of stocks were not selling far from those figures. Marshall Field, which was brought out early this year at 50, sold down to another new low yesterday of 36⅝. Borg Warner closed a fraction under its October-November low of last year.

Atlas Stores is one of the few issues which is currently selling substantially above its 1929 and 1930 lows. The stock closed yesterday at 26⅝, nearly ten points above this year's low point.

Atlas Stores corporation yesterday issued its first annual report since its consolidation with City Radio Stores and Davega, Inc. In the year ended March 31 the company had sales of $20,575,000 as against $15,600,000 in the year ended June 1, 1929. Net income after all charges approximated $1,531,000, equivalent to $5.04 a share on the common stock outstanding at the end of the year. This compares with $4.02 a share on the same capitalization in the preceding twelve months. Current assets at the end of the year exceeded current liabilities by $5,596,000.

Sales Improve.

President H. M. Stein in his reports says that the company was able because of centralized merchandise control to effect a large reduction in inventory. The inventory was cut from $1,958,000 in June 1, 1929, to $1,108,000 on March 31, 1930.

Mr. Stein said that sales since the end of the fiscal year continued to show improvement over the corresponding months of last year. "More important," he declared, "the company has not been obliged to sacrifice its normal gross profit margin in order to increase volume. Officers of the company anticipate that for the fiscal year 1931, based upon conditions now existing, the net profits will make a new high record."

Auburn was a weak spot sinking to below 100 during the day and recovering partially later. Other motor shares were moderately lower. Net losses among some of the representative stocks were as follows: Grigsby-Grunow 1⅝, Insull Utility 1¼, Libby McNeill 1⅛, Chicago corporation 1-9, and Cities Service 1. Middle West was down a fraction on comparatively heavy dealings.

BANK CLEARINGS FOR WEEK SHOW MODERATE GAIN

New York, June 21.—Again this week bank clearings for leading cities of the United States show a moderate expansion, as a result of the larger figures for New York City. Aggregate clearings, as reported to Dun's Review, were $12,615,528,000, or 3.6 per cent more than the amount for a year ago.

The increase at New York City was 8.2 per cent, the total for this center being $8,958,000,000. At outside cities, on the other hand, this week's clearings of $3,657,528,000 were 5.8 per cent less than those of the corresponding period of 1929.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE

Money in Chicago firm, 4¼@5 per cent on collateral, 4¾@5 per cent over the counter; commercial paper, 3¾@4¼ per cent; bankers' acceptances, 2¼@2½ per cent. Chicago clearings yesterday were $93,100,000, compared with $94,500,000 a week ago and $91,100,000 a year ago. New York clearings were $1,484,000,000.

NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 21.—(AP)—Time loans easy, 30 to 60 days, 2¾@3; 90 days, 2¾@3¼; 4 months, 3@3; 5 to 6 months, 3@3¼ per cent. Prime commercial paper, 3¼@3½ per cent. Bankers' acceptances, easier; 60 days, 2⅛@2; 60 to 90 days, 2⅛@2; 4 months, 2⅛@2⅛; 5 to 6 months, 2⅜@2¼ per cent. Bar silver, 33¼c.

Chicago Curb Exchange Stocks

Chief changes on the Chicago curb were on the down side yesterday although a number of the larger losses were cut down in the final hour when the entire list responded to good buying support. Down a point or more for the day were Standard of Indiana, Niagara Hudson, Solvay, American Superpower and Houston Oil. Some of the more actively traded issues held firm. Included in this group were Union Copper, Southern Union Gas common, and Rustless Iron.

Stock Drop Fails to Stop Bond Issues

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 21.—Despite the turmoil in the financial markets this week, new offerings of bonds reached $143,212,500, compared with $233,673,020 last week, when the German international loan was marketed, and with $140,396,000 during the corresponding week last year. This week practically all of the new issues constituted long term financing.

The largest single issue this week was that of the $60,000,000 Union Gulf corporation 5s, due 1950, which were offered on a 5.08 per cent basis. The issue was quickly oversubscribed. The second largest issue consisted of $24,000,000 Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis Railway company 4½s, which were priced to yield 4.60 per cent. This issue was the largest piece of American railroad financing since mid-April. The only other railroad issue placed on the market during the week was an offering of $1,425,000 Chicago and North Western 4½ per cent equipment trust certificates.

State and municipal financing this week comprised twenty issues, ranging in size from $8,285,000 of the city of Baltimore to $170,000 of Hamilton county, New York. Most of these issues met with ready response from institutions and private investors. One issue, that of $1,500,000 state of Maine 4s, was sold in less than two hours after it had been awarded to the bankers.

Although there has been much talk of a flood of foreign issues, notably German provincial and corporation loans, to be marketed immediately following the flotation of the German international issue, only one such issue was placed on the market this week. This was an issue of $4,000,00 Central German Power company 6s, due in 1934, which was priced to net 6.50 per cent. This issue, together with $7,500,000 Bell Telephone Company of Canada 5s, due in 1960, constituted the foreign financing of the week.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

Substantial Buyer.

At intervals during the last week, when the market was under heavy pressure, report was current in Wall street to the effect that insiders were picking up their own stocks when the opportunity of doing so on a favorable basis presented itself. The Electric Bond and Share company, it develops, has been a substantial buyer of American and Foreign Power, National Power and Light and Electric Power and Light. The company controls the first mentioned utility and has interests in each of the other two companies.

Expect Rate Cut.

The Anaconda dividend meeting is set for next Thursday. The market apparently expects a cut in the rate to $3 or $4 annual basis.

Hear of Additions.

It is rumored that Newmont Mining has been adding to its holdings of Kennecott during the latter's current slump.

Limited Supply.

Wide fluctuations in Aluminum Company of America are of course due to the fact that the floating supply of the stock is limited and speculative interest small. Most of the buying of Aluminum in the last few years has been for the long pull. Possibly a little speculation has been carried on in the shares and some of the more weakly held stock have been pressed for sale in the current decline to protect other holdings.

Good Accounting.

Eastern Gas and Fuel Associates, which has given a good account of itself in the last few weeks of declining markets, is a voluntary association formed in July, 1929, by the Koppers interests of Pittsburgh as a holding company for the capital stock of the Massachusetts Gas companies, Old Colony Gas company, Connecticut Gas company, and Philadelphia Coke company. It is one of the few concerns that are not incorporated.

A Billion Dollar Leak.

Financial frauds, according to estimates, cost the American public from one to two billion dollars a year. Most of this money is given to swindlers by people who cannot afford a loss. It goes to enrich bucket shop operators, peddlers of worthless paper, and other types of financial parasites.

Money lost through fraud causes much suffering among individuals and represents a great economic waste. Funds invested in legitimate enterprises help build up industries and create new wealth for the nation. They provide employment for workers. Dollars sunk into fraudulent schemes contribute nothing.

John Richardson, president of the Boston Better Business bureau, in a recent article in Barron's Weekly states that after eight years of dealing with this problem his bureau has reached two conclusions:

"1. That part of the public—and a very small part it is—which really knows about financial matters neither buys from the fraudulent promoter nor takes undue risks in speculation. But the great bulk of the public is sublimely ignorant of the certain loss involved in participating in fraudulent schemes and the undue risks involved in speculation. It cheerfully buys pieces of paper which it is told will bring riches. It lacks the knowledge, information, and advice necessary for its own protection.

"2. That the remedy lies in education. We believe that such education should start in the public schools.

"To keep the casual investor reminded of the fundamentals learned in school and college," says Mr. Richardson, "and to aid those who did not have a chance to take advantage of these courses, the studies should be supplemented by a constant stream of educational matter by means of lectures, radio talks, newspaper and magazine publicity, etc."

The Investors' Guide has protected many readers against fraud in the past and will continue to do so.

MEXICAN DEBT TO BE DISCUSSED IN GOTHAM JUNE 25

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 21.—J. P. Morgan & Co., acting for the international committee of bankers on Mexico, of which Thomas W. Lamont of that firm is chairman, announced today the Mexican secretary of the treasury was coming to New York on June 25 to renew discussion with the committee relating both to the direct debt of the Mexican government and the debts of the National Railways of Mexico.

"During these discussions," the statement added, "there will be present, in addition to the secretary of the treasury, representing Mexico, delegates from the American, English, French, German, Belgian, and Swiss sections of the committee."

The direct Mexican debt with which the international committee is concerned is understood to amount to $265,000,000 and the interest in arrears to $108,000,000 in the United States dollars. The total Mexican federal and state debt is computed at about $568,000,000 in our money, or twice that amount in Mexican funds. Of this amount the railway debt secured by the National Railways now aggregates about $131,000,000 of which about $125,000,000 is interest in arrears.

WE will raise up to $500,000.00 additional working capital for successful company that can show satisfactory net earnings over past five years. Write giving brief outline.

POSTPONE DATE FOR BUILDING OF RAILROAD LINE

The interstate commerce commission has postponed from July 1 to Jan. 1 the date on which a Union Pacific subsidiary would be required to begin 185 miles of new railroad in Oregon, in view of the appeal against the order taken to the Oregon District court.

The litigation involves a test of a novel use of interstate commerce commission power and is being watched with more than ordinary concern by all railroad interests.

ing with a loss of more than 2 points a share on the day's operations.

Allied Chemical and Dye plunged five full points below its old 1930 bottom, going to 236—a break of 15 points. American Tobacco dropped 9 points a share, Westinghouse 4.37½, Consolidated Gas 4.62½, General Electric 1.37½, Columbian Carbon 9.25, Public Service of New Jersey 3¾, Brooklyn Union Gas 5½, Auburn Auto 6, and Eastman Kodak 7 a share.

Sears Sales Off.

Outside of the disappointing Sears-Roebuck earnings statement showing a drop of 7 per cent in sales for the four weeks ending June 18, there was little in the news to aid the bear faction in its highhanded use of the whip and ax. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's statement assuring business that the tariff was just what is needed to brace it up anew might have had a beneficial effect ordinarily, but the traders refused to cheer up.

Brokers agreed that conditions affecting the market were fast approaching a critical situation. The spectacle of such stocks as Steel, American Telephone, General Electric, Atchison, Westinghouse, and American Can daily seeking new low levels is having a serious effect on the morale of the street, they say, and discouraging efforts to buy for investment that ordinarily might help with prices what they are.

Today, for example, the bargain hunter and the short covering which usually can be relied upon to steady a declining market in its advanced stages were conspicuously absent. The fact that the bears did not seem to feel compelled to cover their short commitments for over the week-end after such a long period of declining markets created considerable misapprehension even in quarters ordinarily accustomed to belittle the seriousness of the situation.

The curb exchange shared in the weakness of the big board, sharp declines and some new lows being registered for a whole bunch of popular issues there. The weakness in stocks extended to the bond and to some of the commodity markets.

Sales on the big board totaled 1,966,610 shares, while a total of 568,300 changed hands on the curb.

SURVEY CITES SIGNIFICANCE OF TREND TO CITIES

America's growth of cities, as reflected by the census figures, is a matter of such recent and rapid development that few people are aware of its true significance, according to a study, "The Trend Toward the Cities," just released by Halsey, Stuart & Co.

The observations are said to be particularly pertinent when considered in the light of facts made apparent by the 1930 census, the concentration of business activity in the cities, with the people living either in the city or in the area immediately adjacent to it. A continuation of the trend toward the city, and even an acceleration of its pace, is looked for in the study under the multiple influence of our modern civilization and the growing activity of the United States in international trade, finance and manufacture.

In the thirty years from 1900 to the present, the trend has changed the entire aspect of the country, the survey states. At the beginning of the century 60 per cent of the population was rural. Today, over half of the people live in towns and cities. Dwellings have changed with the trend. In 1900, with rural population, and the small town in domination, families lived principally in individual homes. Today, the study points out, in Manhattan, more than 96 per cent of the population lives in apartments, and in Chicago, more than 80 per cent. The tremendous growth of apartment buildings in just the last few years is indicated by the contracts for apartment construction covering the entire United States. The estimate for this type of work in 1921 was approximately $464,496,000. In 1929 it had jumped to $1,189,258,000.

CHICAGO BANK STOCKS DROP IN SYMPATHY WITH SECURITIES

Renewed selling of Chicago bank stocks last week was in sympathy with the expression of securities in general, showing considerably lower prices. In the early trading Continental Illinois Bank and Trust sold down to low transactions at 660, but rallied to a close of 668 to 671, ex dividend, off approximately 40 points. Foreman State National lost 40 points at 650 to 660, ex dividend. First National also dropped 40 points, with closing transactions between 638 and 642.

Northern Trust was extremely weak, closing at 738 to 742, off 85 points, while the rights were 20 points easier at 145 to 148. Central Trust Company of Illinois declined 20 points at 332 to 336. National Bank of the Republic sold down 10 points, closing 133 bid, 135 asked—ex dividend and ex rights. The rights were wanted at 2⅛, with offerings at 2⅜.

Harris Trust and Savings relinquished 20 points at 800 to 805. Union Bank of Chicago was offered down 15 points to 295. Peoples Trust and Savings held steady at 475 to 482. Terminal National was 2 points easier at 64 to 65½. Chicago Bank of Commerce eased off 5 points at 145 to 148.

In the miscellaneous group Northwestern Yeast lost 10 points at 97 to 100. Bendix Service corporation held steady at 14⅝ to 14¾.

Top yesterday, $12.25; average, $11.55.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 500 cattle, 8,000 hogs and 5,000 sheep.

Trading in the hog market Saturday was a slow affair and prices weakened from 10 to 15c mostly. Top of the market was only $9.60, compared with $9.85 Friday but part of the difference was due to lack of quality Saturday.

The general market was at a new low level for the year and the average price for all hogs was $9.25. Most of the transactions were made within a spread of $9.15@9.40, although some grassy hogs and weighty butchers sold around $9.00 and under. Packing sows changed hands largely at $8.00 @8.50.

Receipts Saturday were estimated at 8,000 head, including 6,500 directs to packers from other points. Shippers took only 1,000 cattle Saturday and the holdover for next week's market was around 2,000 head.

Receipts for the week were 162,100 head or 33,124 more than arrived the preceding week. This increase was the chief cause for the sharp decline in prices last week, especially at a time when most other markets were in a depressed condition and demand for meats restricted.

Cattle Values Drop.

Last week's market on cattle was one of the most disappointing to producers for years. Prices dropped from 50c to 75c on top of the sharp declines registered during the two preceding weeks and closing values were the lowest since the low spot in January, 1927.

Supplies of cattle were moderate as compared with other years but they proved to be far in excess of the limited demand. Best steers during the week sold at $12.75, that being the lowest top price in over three years. At the close around $12.00 was the practical top. Cows and heifers sold mostly around $6.50@9.00 and thin canner cows ranged down to $3.50.

Factors adversely influencing the cattle market were general business depression and unemployment. These were the chief causes for restricted consumptive demand. Dressed beef markets were in a glutted condition and despite the fact that wholesale prices were well below a year ago, retail prices, in most instances, were still held too high to permit free buying by consumers.

Lambs Close Steady.

Fat lamb markets closed last week about in line with the previous week's close. Prices earlier in the week were fairly strong, especially in choice fat lambs, but the trade on less desirable grades and especially on sheep, was slow all week at the lowest prices of the season.

The trend of sheep and lamb prices was similar to the trend in dressed lamb and mutton. Demand for a few of the very best offerings of lambs was good but less desirable grades and especially mutton, found slow sale at all of the large markets.

Top fat lambs sold up to $13.00 early last week but $12.25 was top at the close. That price also represented the best late last week. Best yearlings last week brought $10.25 but sheep topped at $5.50 for two year olds and $3.75 for aged ewes.

Sheep receipts last week totaled 50,866, compared with 47,534 in previous week. A year ago 47,224 sheep and lambs were on sale.

Receipts for Monday are estimated at 15,000 cattle, 45,000 hogs, and 9,000 sheep, against 55,773 cattle, 42,558 hogs, and 8,244 sheep a week ago, and 17,385 cattle, 44,324 hogs, and 13,570 sheep, the corresponding day a year ago. Next week's receipts are estimated at 39,000 cattle, 136,000 hogs, and 55,000 sheep, against 36,039 cattle, 131,976 hogs, and 47,576 sheep a year ago.

BUTTER FUTURES FIRM

Reduced storings in the four markets had a bullish effect on all butter and egg futures on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. June butter contracts advanced ¼c or $48.00 per car and November twice rose the same amount, but shaded at the close, due possibly to government reports stressing unemployment as a factor in under consumption of butter. Sales were 121 cars and receipts 16,794 tubs.

November eggs advanced ¼c or $30.00 per car. Sales were 60 cars and receipts 19,476 cases. Prices follow:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, June 21.—Cotton goods sales for the week showed a little improvement compared with a week ago as to volume, but at lower prices. Primary merchants are becoming more active in offering new fall lines. Raw silk was steady and unchanged. Burlap markets were quiet. More interest is developing in worsted dress fabrics. Considerable curtailment of production is planned by textile mills for the holiday period of Fourth of July week.

HEAVY TONE IN COTTON

Cotton market was heavy a good part of yesterday. Accumulation of selling orders, due in a measure to lower Liverpool cables, prices there being from 7 to 9 points net lower, with sales 2,000 bales, combined with weakness in grains and stock, carried prices down over $2.00 a bale for July in Chicago, while distant futures were off from 26 to 28 points, or a little more than $1.00 a bale. July in New Orleans dropped 36 points and in New York 34 points, while new crop deliveries were off from 26 to 34 points, with the close around the lowest. The main support came from profit taking by previous sellers. There has been heavy liquidations, particularly in July contracts, by Wall street and speculators.

Higher temperatures prevail over the cotton belt. Trade reports continue rather discouraging. The technical position is said to have been somewhat improved by the decline.

Spots in New York were off 35 points to 13.70c; New Orleans was 12.80c; Galveston, 12.95c, and Houston, 12.80c. Prices follow:

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

While a moderate amount of American hard winter wheat was reported sold at the seaboard, the demand from abroad was disappointing. Local handlers sold 5,000 bu wheat, 85,000 bu corn; 32,000 bu oats, and 1,000 bu barley to the domestic trade, with 100,000 bu wheat booked to arrive for August-September shipment at a price equal to 4c under Chicago September to the shipper.

No change was made in the local cash corn basis. No. 2 mixed, 1¾@2c over; yellow, 2@2¼c over; white, 5½ @6c over; No. 3 mixed, ½@¾c over; yellow, 1@1¼c over, and white, 5@ 5½c over July.

Official receipts of grain at Chicago Saturday: Wheat, 21 cars; corn, 63 cars; oats, 21 cars; rye, 1 car, and barley, 2 cars.

COMMODITIES SLIDE LOWER DURING WEEK

New York, June 21.—The present week has been replete with interesting and significant commodity price movements. As Dun's list of wholesale quotations shows, the trend again was decisively in a downward direction, 53 of a total of 65 changes being declines. The recession has continued practically without interruption since the stock market breakdown last autumn, and unusually low levels have been reached by various raw materials and manufactured products.

Among the former, copper has occupied a prominent place by reason of its progressive weakness, the price being lowered still further this week to a point not far above 11c. At that basis, more buying developed and the market recovered somewhat, rallying to around 12c. Other metals such as tin, lead, and zinc also eased still more, while steel prices lacked strength.

FOR SALE

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Prices of all grains are down so low that old time conservative traders are indisposed to press the short side further. They say there has been so much liquidation that the technical situation has been strengthened and consider the market oversold. In the event of anything happening to start a buying movement a sharp bulge would result. On the other hand, there is an element in the trade who do not consider the price but regard conditions as unfavorable to any maintained advance.

There is a readjustment in wheat prices between Liverpool and Chicago which is what one of the international traders has predicted. He says it is bound to come because this year there will be so much wheat for export combined with our carryover, that it cannot be held over and must be disposed of. This cannot be done, he says, unless Liverpool futures show about 15c over Chicago except from isolated points where wheat finds no other resting place except abroad.

Prospects are for a good reduction in wheat stocks at Chicago, Minneapolis and most of the other important points. There are estimates on the visible, however, from a small increase to a fair decrease. World's shipments of wheat for the week are estimated at 11,000,000 bu against 12,792,000 bu the previous week, and 15,840,000 bu last year.

LIQUIDATION IN LARD

Pressure was put on lard by tired holders yesterday and prices declined and closed 7½ to 15 cents lower on lard, distant futures leading the break. Bellies were 27½ to 50c lower, the latter on September. Buying came largely from distributors and shorts. Liverpool lard was 3d lower to unchanged, with export clearances 123,200 lbs. Hog prices were steady. Receipts at western points for the week were 638,000 and compared with 510,000 last year.

TREND SWINGING TO FORMATION OF LARGER TRUSTS

Profit Demands Are Stumbling Block.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 21.—The further sharp declines in the market during the last two weeks, together with the feeling in many parts of Wall street that there is very little immediate prospect of any further investment trust mergers, may work toward the absorption of the smaller trusts by the larger ones, many investment trust leaders believe.

The tendency toward the elimination of many of the smaller trusts and the concentration of investment trust business in a few large companies has been predicted for some time as a normal development in the development of this still comparatively young form of financial enterprise. There have been several mergers so far this year which have indicated this trend, it is said.

The impetus which the declining securities markets have given to this movement is still too nebulous to be seen definitely, it is said, but there is a feeling that banking houses which have fostered small trusts will gradually wish to be relieved of the task of managing them and will desire to sell them to larger investment trusts at terms as advantageous as possible.

Want Their Profits.

One of the principal stumbling blocks to mergers which have already been attempted, according to executives of trusts which have admitted that overtures have been made, is that in practically every case the management of the smaller trust is anxious to sell his company at a profit above a set value, notwithstanding the fact the common stock of most of these companies are selling at discounts ranging from 10 to 20 per cent from asset value.

There would be little advantage, it is said, in paying more for an additional portfolio of stocks than the market value of those stocks, unless the company had something very definitely advantageous, as for example 5 per cent bonds without convertible provisions, to offer. It would be perfectly possible to go out and buy the same stocks at the market, it is said, and it is pointed out that this would be much more plausible, inasmuch as every investment trust portfolio is sure to contain some stock which another company would not care to own.

Of Great Significance.

The situation now, however, is expected to increase the desire of smaller trusts to merge, it is said. Banking houses sponsoring such trusts, according to reports, are not anxious to feel that they must carry their trusts through every period of depression and would prefer in some cases, to be rid of the responsibility. Individual trusts, without strong banking affiliations, are anxious to protect their stockholders.

The significance of the present market conditions, along with the action of the exchanges in futures of the situation cannot be overemphasized, many leaders say. On the question whether the small or the large trust will be in an eventual position to offer the most attractive investment to stockholders there is little controversy. The developments in this respect will be largely a matter of financial exigency and not one of theory, it is said.

HUGE HOSPITAL TO RISE IN FALL AT LA SALLE-OAK

New Henrotin Is to Cost $3,500,000.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Contracts are to be let shortly for the construction of a new Henrotin hospital, which will replace the institution's old home at the southeast corner of La Salle and Oak streets. The new building—together with its equipment—will cost in the neighborhood of $3,500,000, and when finished will be one of the finest hospitals in the country. Work is to start as soon as the campaign for $1,000,000 is completed, and this is expected to take place soon.

Designed by Holabird & Root, the hospital will be modern both on the exterior and interior. Street façades of the twelve story edifice will be finished in red face brick, with Indiana limestone used for trim. The modern motif will be carried out throughout the interior of the structure, which when completed will have 250 rooms.

Taking a look over the plans, we find two basements. In the first will be located the heating plant, machinery, ventilating system, etc. And in the second will be a laundry, kitchen, private dining rooms, and other departments.

A Court Yard.

The entire first floor will be given over to the administrative department and to provision for accident cases. The Henrotin hospital is located in a district in which many accidents occur, and consequently there will be unusual provision for accommodating these types of cases. One feature of the ground floor will be a large lobby, which ultimately will surround a large courtyard, in which will be fountains and other picturesque effects.

On the second floor will be a clinic and examining rooms. On the third will be found the education department for nurses and living quarters for the internes. Student nurses will be housed on the fourth and fifth floors and the present old residence farther north on La Salle, in which the nurses now live, will be put on the market.

From the sixth to the tenth floors will be found the patients' rooms, the idea being to get the sick people away from the city's noises. Maternity cases will be located on the tenth floor. Seven operating rooms, eight X-ray rooms, and four laboratories will be on the eleventh floor. The twelfth floor will contain the physiotherapy and hydro-therapy departments. And on the roof of part of the eleventh story will be a roof garden.

Will Have Radios.

All rooms are to be furnished to give the impression of a home, and all rooms will be equipped with radios. Loud speakers will be installed in recesses to prevent their being heard on the outside. The rooms are being arranged so that one nurse can take care of four patients—a provision designed to help cut down expense for patients. One new feature is a phone system, which will permit a patient to speak directly to a nurse, instead of summoning her by a bell or light. This is to save the time of the nurse.

The hospital is to be erected in two units. Work on the first unit will be started probably in the fall, and it will be completed in a year. This section will stand on the Oak street frontage. The city has given permission for the present building to stand during the widening of La Salle street.

George M. Seaman, paper man, is president of the board of trustees of Henrotin hospital, Dr. M. L. Harris is secretary of the board, and Dr. Charles Spearman Williamson is chief of the medical department. Miss Veronica Miller is superintendent.

GUMBINER BUYS BUSINESS BLOCK ON LAWRENCE AV.

Herman L. Gumbiner has purchased from Elizabeth A. B. Patterson the two story building, containing five shops and eighteen offices, at the northwest corner of Lincoln, Lawrence, and Claremont, for a reported cash consideration of $162,500. The ground fronts 100 feet on Lincoln, 178 feet on Lawrence, and 208 feet on Claremont. The purchase was in exercise of an option to buy contained in a 99 year lease executed fifteen years ago. Charles B. McErlean was broker. Alfred Beck was attorney.

AD FIRM LEASES NINTH FLOOR OF MICHIGAN SQUARE

The F. J. Meserow company, specializing in advertising illustrations for newspapers and magazines and direct mail advertising, has leased the entire ninth floor of the Michigan Square building at Michigan and Ohio. The firm has been in business twenty years. Frank J. Meserow is president of the company and Louis L. Meserow secretary. Hogan & Farwell, Inc., were brokers.

J. P. Seeburg Corporation to Enlarge Its Offices

The J. P. Seeburg corporation, manufacturer of musical instruments, will enlarge its offices and showrooms at 1510 Dayton street at a cost of $15,000. Robert C. Ostergren, architect, has prepared a modernistic design.

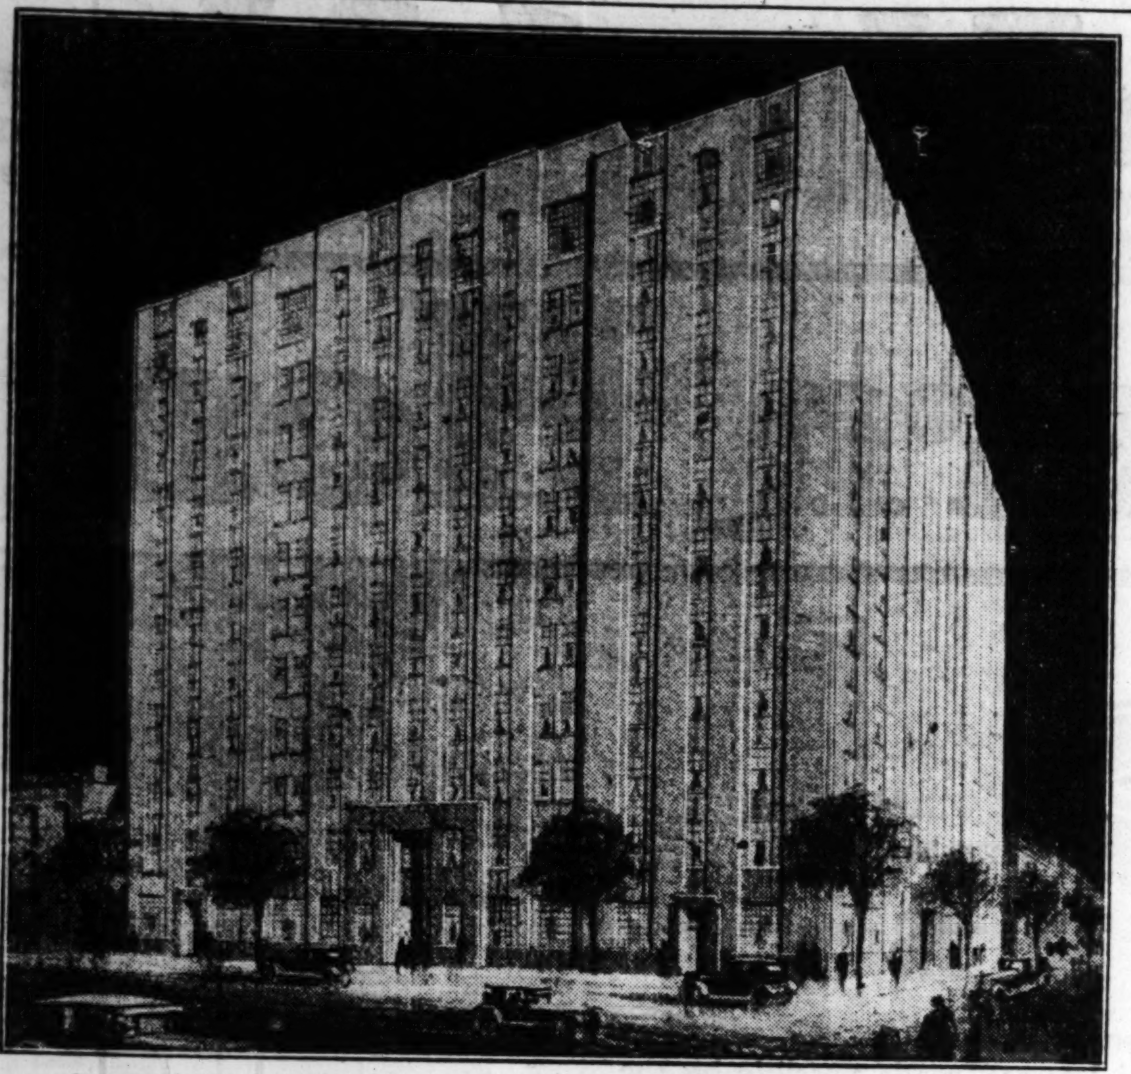
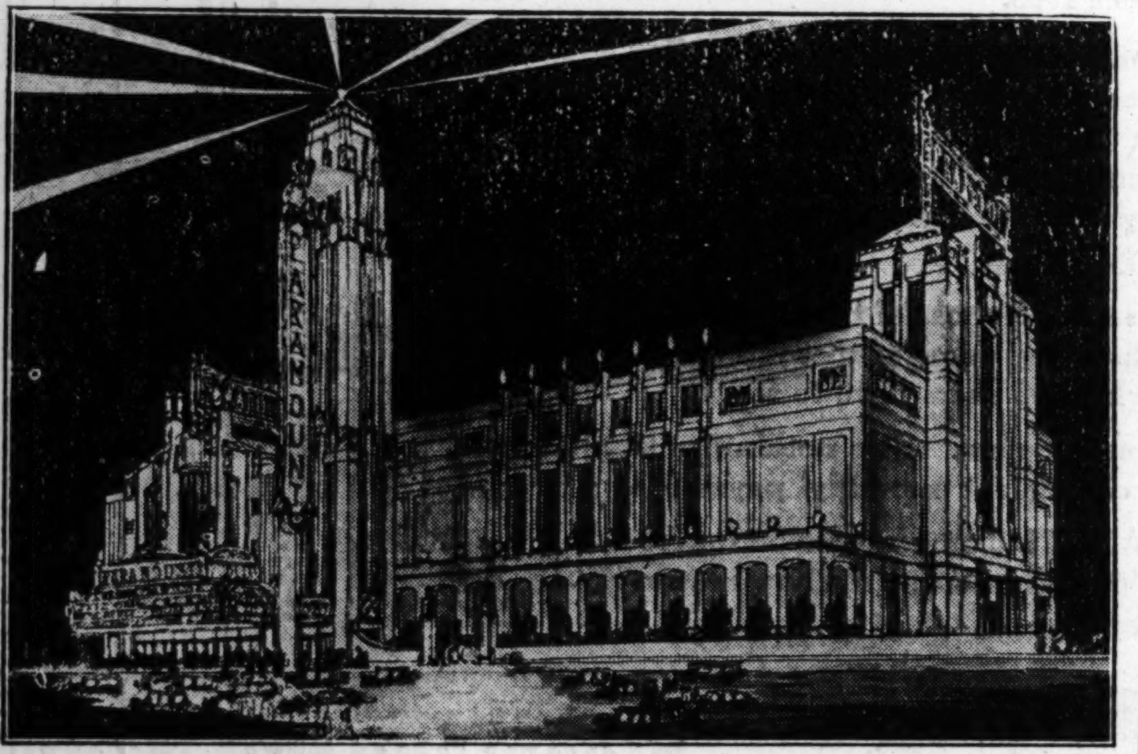
ENHANCING CITY'S MEDICAL PRESTIGE



New home which the Henrotin hospital is to build at the southeast corner of La Salle and Oak streets from plans by Holabird & Root. The structure will be put up in two sections so that the present hospital can function during building operations. The first unit will be erected on the Oak street frontage, and it will be completed in about a year. It is estimated that the cost will be $3,500,000.

FOR FOLLOWERS OF THE SILVER SCREEN



Huge new theater which the Publix-Balaban & Katz Theater corporation will erect at 63d street, Wallace avenue, and Englewood avenue—in the Englewood district. C. W. and George L. Rapp designed the structure, which will contain a number of unique features. Work is expected to start in about thirty days. When completed it will be about as large as any in the city.

BUILD AND REPAIR TO HELP JOBLESS, PUBLIC IS URGED

Rosenthal Advises Pay Adjustment.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Manufacturers, public utility interests and owners of all types of industrial and commercial types of buildings were urged late last week by Oscar W. Rosenthal, head of the Builders' association of Chicago, to build and do their repair work now in an effort to stimulate construction and relieve unemployment among the building workers of the city.

OSCAR W. ROSENTHAL.

Mr. Rosenthal announced there is need for building of all classes with the possible exception of office buildings and commercial hotels. He stated the costs of building materials are approximately 100 per cent lower than in 1923, and added that while labor costs have increased the efficiency of the buildings workers has mounted upward with the decline of construction.

The Chicago builder said today there are approximately 80,000 men unemployed in the local construction industry, representatives of the Building Trades council placing the total number of artisans at between 110,000 and 115,000. Many of these unemployed building workers, said Mr. Rosenthal, are men of family and have been idle for nearly a year.

Work at Lower Wages.

It was pointed out that the law of supply and demand has proven a handicap for the large builders who base their bids on present high wage rates. Speculative contractors are said to have taken advantage of the labor surplus to engage competent building mechanics for $1 an hour, while the union scale calls for an average of $1.62½ an hour.

Mr. Rosenthal points out there is a hesitancy on the part of the home building public to proceed with this line of construction because of the pessimistic reports about conditions in general. He said building and real estate bonds today are just as sound as they ever were, and within a short time all traces of doubt will be cleared away from this line of investment.

"The time is opportune for labor to consider a temporary readjustment of wages and lower them to a level which would instill confidence in the home building public, a confidence that would stimulate construction and prove beneficial to the great body of the city's 110,000 building workers and not to the handful now employed," said Mr. Rosenthal.

Just Get By.

"Some seemingly drastic measure is today needed to erase the cloud of unsteadiness from the building public, and this can be accomplished by the representatives of the building trades. Building material interests are just about getting by on the present low material costs, and labor should pitch in and do its share.

"A temporary reduction of building trades wages at this time would give the army of white collar workers an opportunity to invest their savings in homes they are prevented from building by the so called high costs of building. Their wages have been low in comparison with wages paid to building artisans, and many believe the economic structure of the country, and especially in construction industry, has become warped and lopsided by the inability of the office workers to procure and build homes."

EVANSTON HOLDING LEASED FOR CENTURY; RENTAL IS $1,300,000

The property at 604-06 Davis street, Evanston, has been leased for 100 years from May 1, 1931, by James Wigginton to the 604-06 Davis Street Building corporation for a reported term rental of $1,300,000. The grounds is 44x116 feet and is improved with a two story building. Donald G. Robertson, who operates the Ring-ting Candy shops, is president of the building corporation, and Roy W. Cooley is secretary. Capitalized on a 6 per cent basis the ground value is estimated at $5,000 a front foot. Mr. Wigginton bought the property from Dr. Frank Dakin in 1918 for $32,700. The building corporation plans a new structure when present leases expire in 1931. Herbert L. Lucas was broker. McNab, Holmes & Long and David G. Robertson were attorneys.

R. C. OSTERGREN CHOSEN TO HEAD ILLINOIS SOCIETY

Announcement will be made of the election of Robert C. Ostergren as the president of the Illinois Society of Architects at the organization's thirty-third annual banquet, which will be held Tuesday night at the Palmer house. Mr. Ostergren, who was unopposed, has been treasurer of the organization for eight years. Other officers elected without opposition are: George B. Helme, second vice president; Walter A. McDougall, secretary, and H. L. Palmer, financial secretary.

R. C. OSTERGREN.

C. Howard Walker, for many years head of the department of architecture, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, will be the guest of honor and principal speaker at the banquet. Mr. Walker is the author of various books on architecture and the theory of ornament and design, and he has been decorated by all the distinguished architectural associations of Europe.

Elmer C. Jensen will be the toastmaster. Alfred Granger is the retiring president of the society.

Henry J. Armstrong Buys Highland Park Residence

Henry J. Armstrong, formerly of 362 Cedar street, Highland Park, recently purchased the residence of William B. Betts at 2225 Lakeside place, in the same suburb. The lot is 85x192 and the reported price $32,000. E. Burke of Baird & Warner and Harkness & Byrn were brokers.

NEWEST MOVIE IS TO HAVE EXHIBIT OF ANIMAL LIFE

Work to Start Shortly on Englewood Cinema.

A trained seal room and a small museum of wild animal and bird life will be two innovations to be incorporated in the huge new moving picture theater which the Publix-Balaban and Katz corporation will erect in Englewood shortly. Details concerning the purchase of the site on 63d street and Wallace avenue—said to be the largest theatrical property in the country—were reported in this department last week. And yesterday Barney Balaban furnished information regarding the building itself.

It is to contain upward of 4,000 seats and when completed will be able to accommodate as many patrons of the silver screen as any other movie theater in the city. And in addition there will be a number of interesting features which will be entirely new in this day of innovations.

C. W. and George L. Rapp, architects, are drawing the plans for the building, work on which is expected to start in about thirty days, with completion in eight months.

Numerous Features.

The grand entrance will be located on 63d street east of Halsted. It will be seventy feet wide. On the right is to be a high tower which will be brilliantly lighted at night. In the lobby will be a number of small stages where entertainers will perform for the waiting crowds. Just back of the grand lobby is to be a huge rotunda in which will be found waterfalls, fountains, pools, miniature gardens, retiring alcoves, and a playground for children.

Adjoining will be a miniature aquarium, where trained seals will perform for the public, and nearby will be a jungle room for birds and animals. Another feature will be a room in which will be installed a replica in miniature of Chicago's forthcoming world's fair.

From the rotunda one will go into the auditorium proper, which is to give somewhat the impression of the outdoors. However, the general interior motif will be French baroque. And since talkies are the thing, the new theater will contain the latest devices for the presentation of this type of entertainment. A special sounding board, said to be the first one of its type in the country, is to be installed by Western Electric sound engineers.

An Outdoor Garage.

A part of the theater lot will be devoted to an outdoor garage, which will be able to accommodate 1,000 cars. There will be washing and greasing facilities.

Discussing the purchase of the property from the Chicago and Western Indiana railway, Mr. Balaban said:

"The acquisition of this property is indicative of the faith we have in 63d street. We have other important interests on the street, too. We have the Tower, the Tivoli, and the Maryland theaters on the street already. We anticipate the growth of the communities south of 63d street in population, building operation, and general prosperity.

TWO ATTORNEYS BUY LARGE 79TH STREET HOLDINGS

Important parcels of 79th street real estate are reported as having been purchased by two attorneys. In one transaction Joseph B. Fleming bought 100x125 feet of vacant at 11-15 East 79th street from the Cottage Grove State bank, trustee, for a reported $100,000. Weymouth Kirkland bought 475 feet of vacant on the west side of State street, between 79th and 80th, and 125x125 feet at the southeast corner of 79th and Lafayette from the Union bank, trustee, for a reported $360,000. Both attorneys are connected with the firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin. Cramer, Foot & Co. were brokers.

Palmolive Building Is Reported 90 Per Cent Full

The International Magazine company has leased the west half of the tenth floor of the Palmolive building for ten years to house the western advertising headquarters of the Good Housekeeping and Cosmopolitan publications. C. R. Sammins is division manager of the former and E. B. Peirsel of the latter. The lease is reported as giving the Palmolive building a ninety per cent occupancy. C. E. Olin of Ross & Browne was broker.

Forest Preserve Buys 8 Acres Near Salt Creek

The forest preserve district has purchased eight acres a half mile north of Ogden avenue, adjoining Salt Creek, from William Burke Harmon and others for $14,000.

HOME BUILDING AND REMODELING

HOUSE MUST BE BASICALLY SOUND FOR REMODELING

Process Made Simpler as Each Season Passes.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

[Home Builders Editor.]

For several years a home remodeling wave has been sweeping over the country. National in scope, this movement promises to make 1930 the greatest rehabilitation year.

LOUISE BARGELT.
[Hutchinson Photo.]

We see remodeling made simpler and more profitable for the home owner every passing season: that is, remodeling when a house has successfully passed two tests. For usually a house must be adjudged structurally sound if it is worthy of being remodeled, and also not require more than one-third of its interior to be torn out. There are exceptions to this general rule, as to most rules, but, on the whole, it is a fairly safe one to go by.

Indeed, in most remodeling campaigns, as little as possible is torn out of the old place but much is added to it instead!

Many times old houses are given no structural changes at all, but merely a new surfacing or exterior overcoat and a new roof. In the majority of cases the new roof applied over the old one and the new exterior surface, whether of siding or shingles, stucco or brick, applied over the old one.

The home discussed today, originally frame, then stucco, is show in the process of being given a new surfacing of face brick veneer.

Face Brick Veneer.

Face brick veneer is one of the popular treatments for old dwellings at the present time. It goes without saying that such a new overcoating gives to a house not only new beauty and warmth but also an appreciably diminished fire risk. Moreover, the air space between the old frame and the four inches of solid masonry has a certain insulating value of its own and it keeps dampness from attacking the woodwork directly.

Further mention might be made of the need of anchoring this veneer strongly to the old wall. A four inch brick wall has enough stability to serve as an inside partition but on the outside firm fastening is necessary.

In face brick one has a wealth of color, style and texture to choose from.

Brick manufacturers have put forth every effort to assist home owners in achieving in their new or remodeled homes, dwellings which have distinctive character and color. There is no excuse any longer for rows upon rows of homes alike in shape, color and texture.

Research and development have succeeded in offering face brick in practically every hue, ranging from the light tones of cream, buff, gray, golden, and bronze tints to mellow greens, blues, reds, and the darker shades of brown, mauve, purple and even gun metal black.

Textures have been developed no less interestingly. For true harmony certain types of architecture need certain types of textures as well as colors, and face brick now appears in textures ranging from the roughest to the smoothest.

In remodeling with face brick, sills or brick or stone or precast cement may be used, the choice depending considerably on the style of the house and on individual taste.

When porches and steps are to be veneered the same as the rest of the house, the veneer should not be applied over wood floors and steps but concrete should be employed for the hidden parts and enough bricks employed to cover the surface.

The running or stretcher bond can be used—that is with all bricks excepting window and other details running lengthwise with the wall. One can choose mortar colors and method of joints. With a recessed or stripped joint, cracks in the masonry wall will not be so evident as with a joint where the mortar is filled to the surface.

It is an interesting question thousands of home owners are facing this spring and summer—how to modernize their old homes in the most practical way to obtain the best results. The day of the "old house" seems passing. From an economic standpoint alone, the wise course is to bring it up to its best possible value and there is so much that can be done, under existing methods to give it a new lease on life!

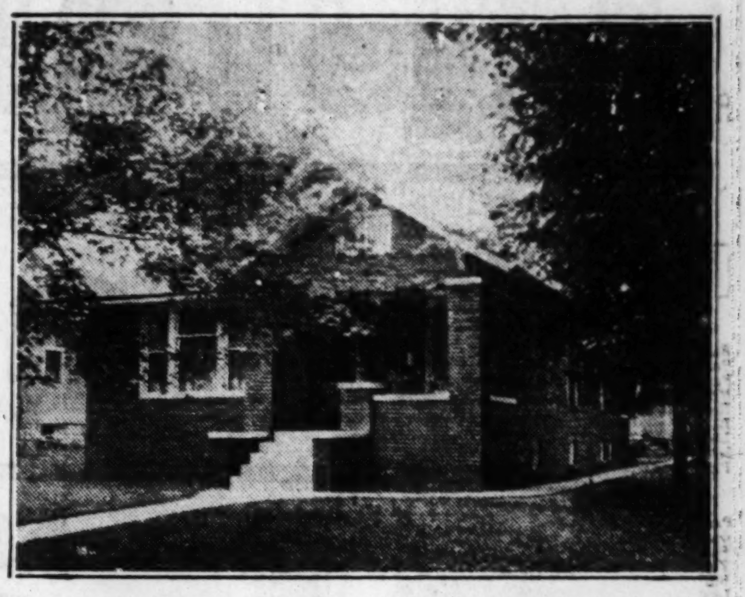
Listing Requirements.

Sometimes this modernization includes many structural changes. Perhaps the interior must be thoroughly rehabilitated, starting with the basement where footings must be strengthened, old floors torn out and new ones laid.

Again modernization may mean merely new interior equipment, heating plant, mechanical refrigeration, built in conveniences, new wall decorations and renovated floors.

Still again modernization may be confined simply to giving the exterior of the home a new surfacing and a new roof. This with standard insulation of some excellent type provided, will mean that the owner has a modern house structurally.

RECEIVES A NEW COAT



Face brick is playing a prominent part in the country-wide modernizing movement. Here we see a home after it has been given a new exterior surfacing of face brick.

Little Orphan Annie
HAROLD GRAY
LISTEN - IT'S GOIN' TO BLOW SOMETHIN' FIERCE - YOU GUYS BETTER GO BELOW - THAT'S THE CAP'N'S ORDERS - LEAPIN' LIZARDS! ARE WE GOIN' TO SINK?
WELL, NOW, ANNIE, YOU'VE GOT ME THERE - WE'VE GOT A SOUND LITTLE CRAFT -
BUT, MAN AND BOY, I'VE SAILED THE SEAS FOR FIFTY YEARS AND NEVER SEEN A WORSE STORM - NO SIR - NOT EVEN IN THE CHINA SEA - GREAT CAESAR'S SUSPENDERS! A SHARK!!! AND HE'S LOOKIN' RIGHT AT ME!
CAP'N - THERE'S A LOT O' SHARKS ALL AROUND US - GREAT BIG MEAN LOOKIN' ONES - WHAT ARE THEY FOLLOWIN' US FOR?
WELL, I RECKON THEY'RE BETTIN' WE WON'T RIDE OUT THIS GALE - BUT WE'LL FOOL 'EM, IF IT DOESN'T GET ANY WORSE'N THIS -
LOOK AT TH' BAROMETER, CAP'N - IT LOOKS AWFUL FUNNY -
AYE, AYE - IT'S DROPPED TO NOTHIN' AT ALL - THAT MEANS WE'RE IN FOR IT NOW AND NO MISTAKE -
OW!!! WHAT'S THAT BIG BLACK CLOUD? IT'S COMIN' RIGHT FOR US -
OH! OH! IT'S GETTIN' DARK -
HANG ON, ANNIE! IT'S A TYPHOON!
HELP ME HOLD THE WHEEL, ANNIE - AYE-AYE, CAP'N -
WE'RE ON THE ROCKS!
NO! WE'VE MISSED 'EM SO FAR -
IT MUST HAVE BEEN A REEF - WE'RE OVER IT WITHOUT A SCRATCH -
BUT WE'VE LOST OUR MAST AND RIGGING - WE'RE HELPLESS - WELL, WE'RE STILL FLOATIN' - AND TH' STORM CAN'T GET ANY WORSE -

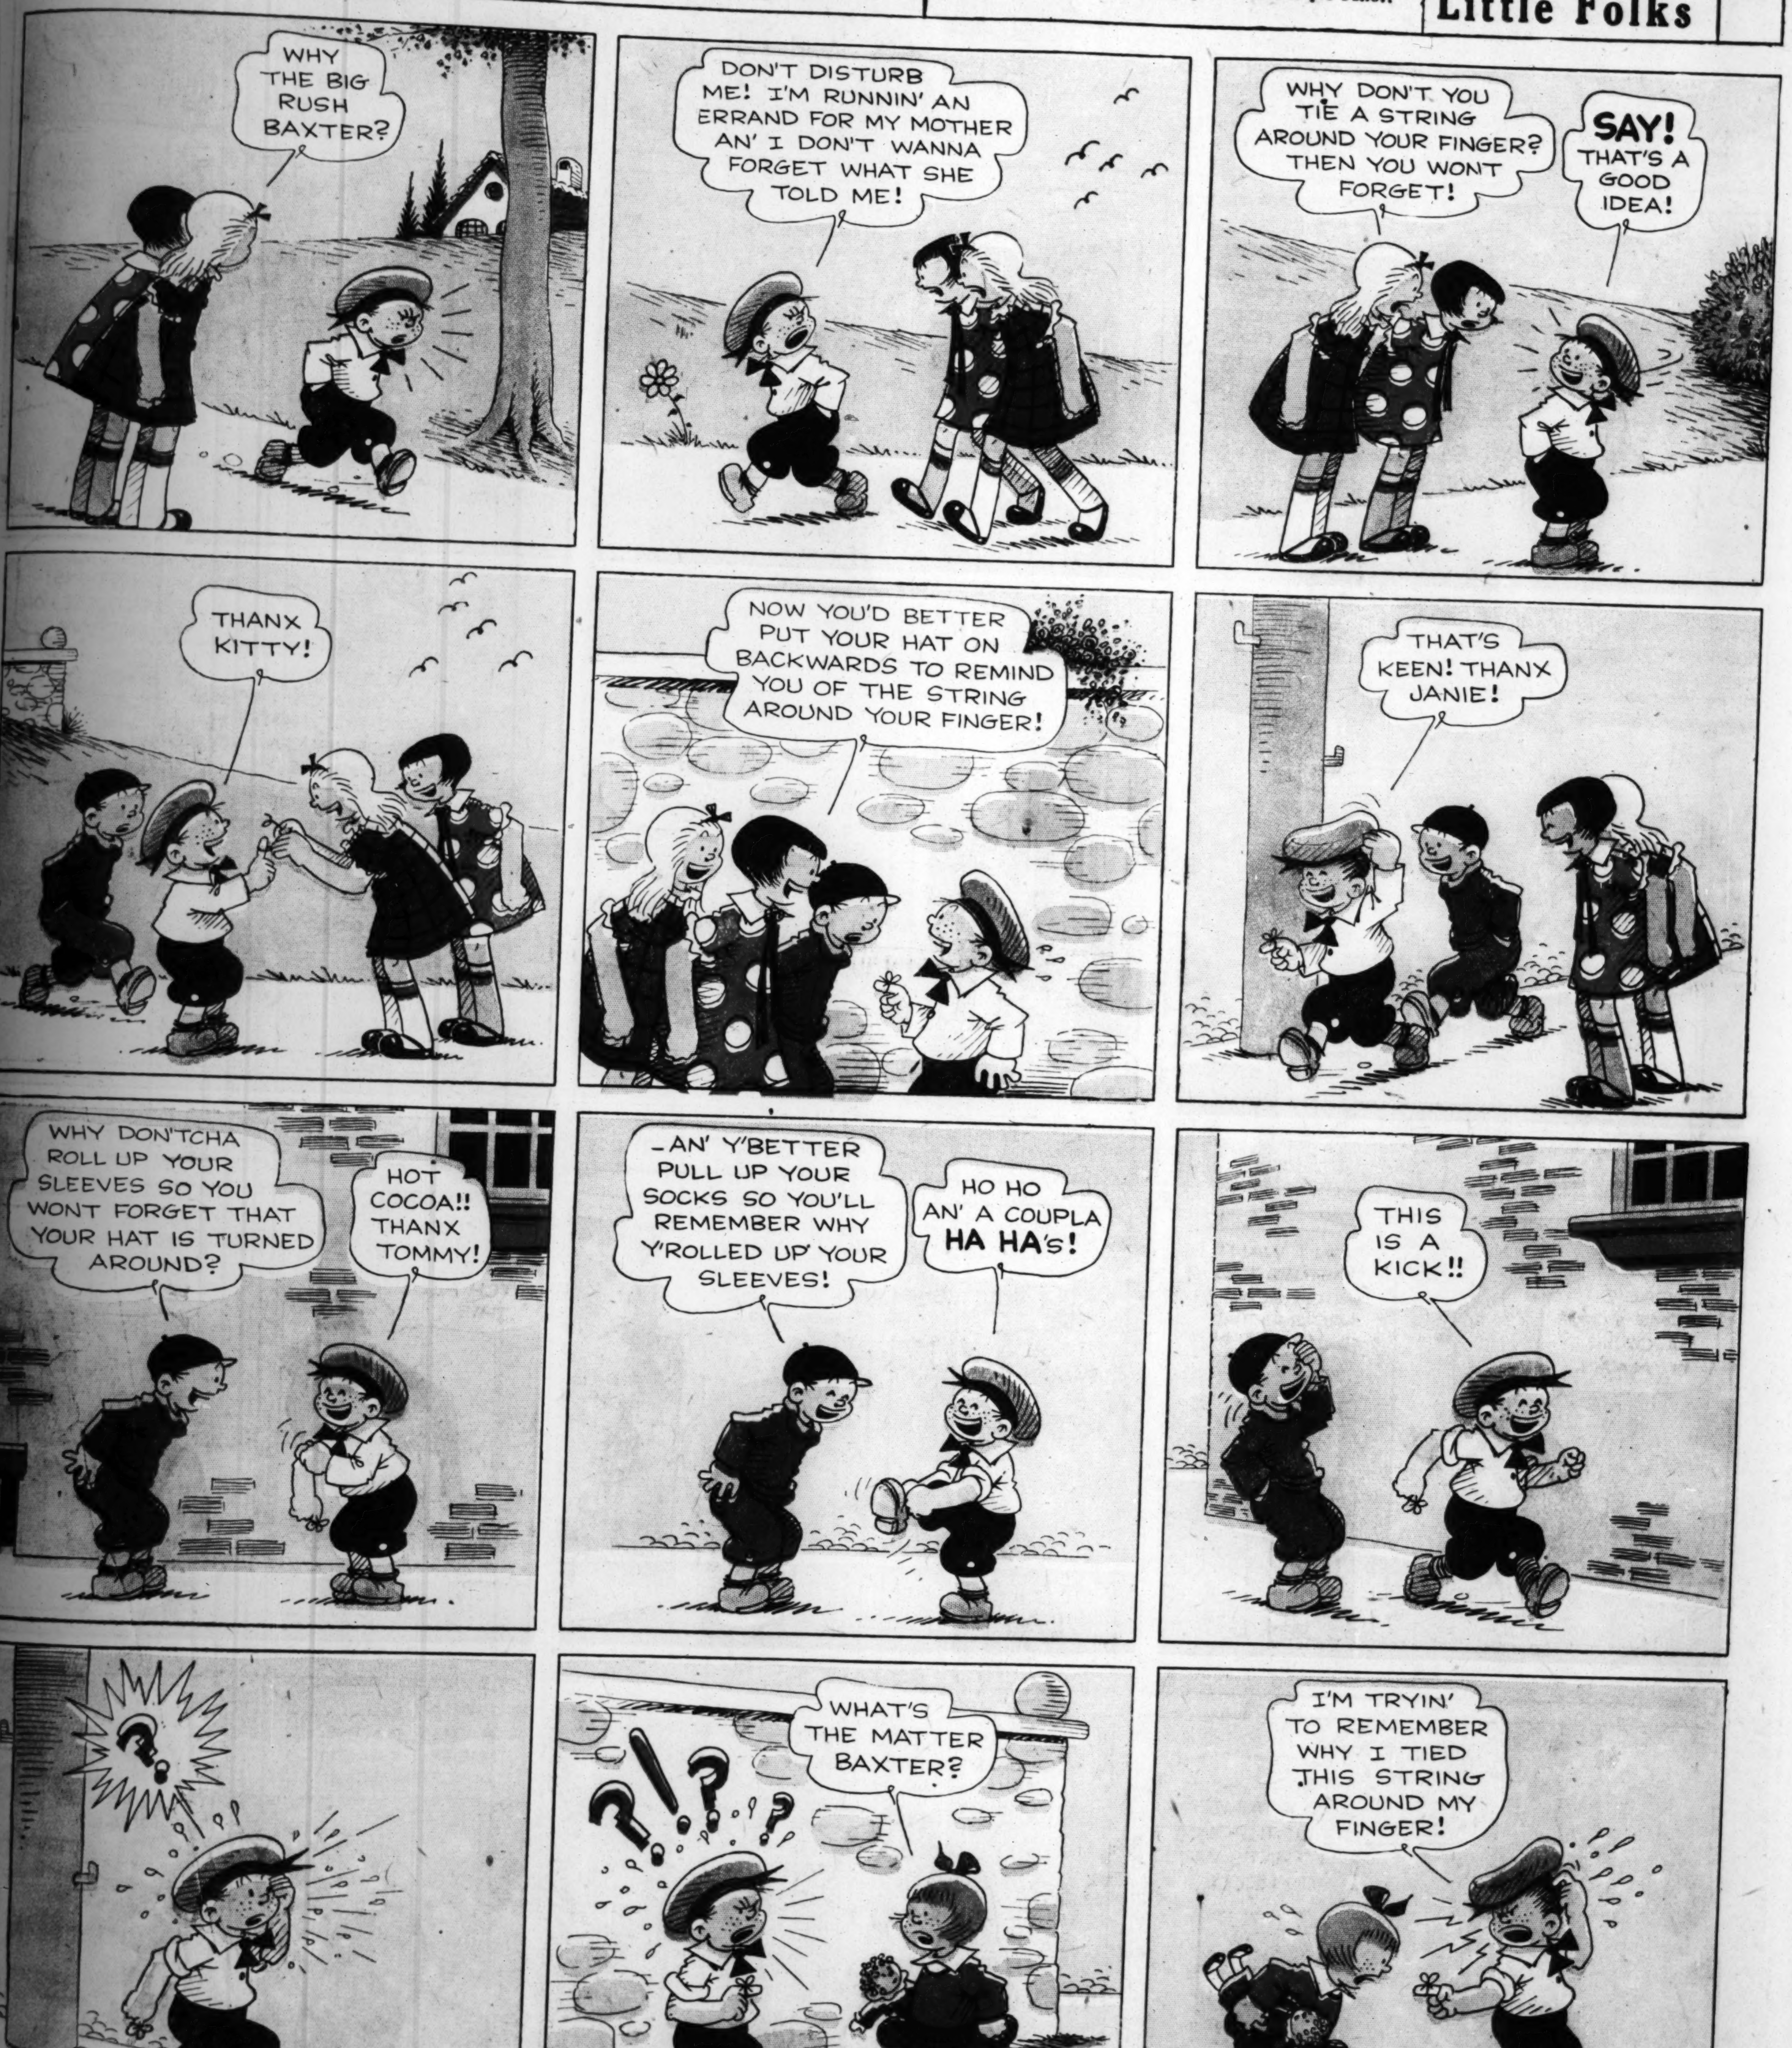
LITTLE FOLKS

BY "TACK" KNIGHT

VOTE FOR YOUR FAVORITE

All children under 15 years of age who follow the doings of the various characters in the Comic Section are invited to cast a ballot either for "Teddy, Jack & Mary" or "Little Folks." Which group do you like better? You do not need to vote until you look both over very carefully. "Teddy, Jack & Mary" will appear one week and "Little Folks" the next, and they will alternate until the voting is completed. Mark an X in the square opposite the one you prefer and mail it to the Editor, Comic Section, care of this paper. Here is the ballot:

Teddy, Jack & Mary	☐
Little Folks	☐



WHY THE BIG RUSH BAXTER?
DON'T DISTURB ME! I'M RUNNIN' AN ERRAND FOR MY MOTHER AN' I DON'T WANNA FORGET WHAT SHE TOLD ME!
WHY DON'T YOU TIE A STRING AROUND YOUR FINGER? THEN YOU WONT FORGET!
SAY! THAT'S A GOOD IDEA!
THANX KITTY!
NOW YOU'D BETTER PUT YOUR HAT ON BACKWARDS TO REMIND YOU OF THE STRING AROUND YOUR FINGER!
THAT'S KEEN! THANX JANIE!
WHY DON'TCHA ROLL UP YOUR SLEEVES SO YOU WONT FORGET THAT YOUR HAT IS TURNED AROUND?
HOT COCOA!! THANX TOMMY!
-AN' Y'BETTER PULL UP YOUR SOCKS SO YOU'LL REMEMBER WHY Y'ROLLED UP YOUR SLEEVES!
HO HO AN' A COUPLA HA HA's!
THIS IS A KICK!!
WHAT'S THE MATTER BAXTER?
I'M TRYIN' TO REMEMBER WHY I TIED THIS STRING AROUND MY FINGER!

'NOW BOYS, YOU GET A QUARTER APIECE WHEN YOU'RE THROUGH. ALL YOU'VE GOT TO DO IS LEAVE A BAR OF THIS SOAP WITH THE LADY OF THE HOUSE IN EACH PLACE.
WHAT YOU RINGING MY DOORBELL FOR? CAN'T YOU SEE I'M BUSY?
I JUST WANTED TO GIVE YOU A BAR OF SOAP WE'RE INTRODUCIN'
WELL, I'LL TAKE IT BUT THERE MUST BE SOMETHING THE MATTER WITH IT.
YOU'RE GIVING IT TO ME? ALL RIGHT, COME IN. I WANT TO GIVE YOU SOMETHING. I JUST BAKED SOME COOKIES
GEE, THAT'S GREAT.
NO I DON'T WANT TO BUY ANYTHING. RUN ALONG BOY.
BUT IT'S FREE AND IT'S DANDY SOAP.
OH IT'S FREE? THAT'S A NICE BOY. YOU CAN LEAVE ME FIVE OR SIX OF THEM AND I'LL PASS THEM AROUND TO THE NEIGHBORS.
NO. ONLY ONE TO A CUSTUMER
HERE'S SOME SOAP. I'M GIVIN' IT AWAY.
DON'T WANT IT. THERE'S TOO MUCH SOAP AROUND THIS HOUSE NOW.
I'LL ASK MY WIFE IF SHE WANTS IT.
TAKE IT, GREGORY. THAT'S CHEAP ENOUGH.
IT'S DANDY SOAP AN' IT'S FREE.
YOU'RE SHO' THEY AIN'T NO KETCH ABOUT THIS?
NOPE. IT'S THE DANDIEST SOAP YOU EVER SAW. TRY IT.
LEAVE IT AT THE DOOR I'M HAVING MY BATH.
OPEN YOUR CURTAINS AN' I'LL THROW IT IN. THAT'S WHEN YOU NEED IT.
GOOD WORK, BOYS. HERE'S YOUR MONEY AND EACH OF YOU CAN HAVE A BAR OF SOAP TO TAKE HOME – FINEST IN THE WORLD. REMEMBER.
THANKS MISTER.
GREAT SCOTT! RIGHT IN THE MIDDLE OF THE AFTERNOON!
I TOLD SO MANY PEOPLE HOW GOOD THIS SOAP WAS I GOT TO BELIEVIN' IT MYSELF, UNCLE WALT.

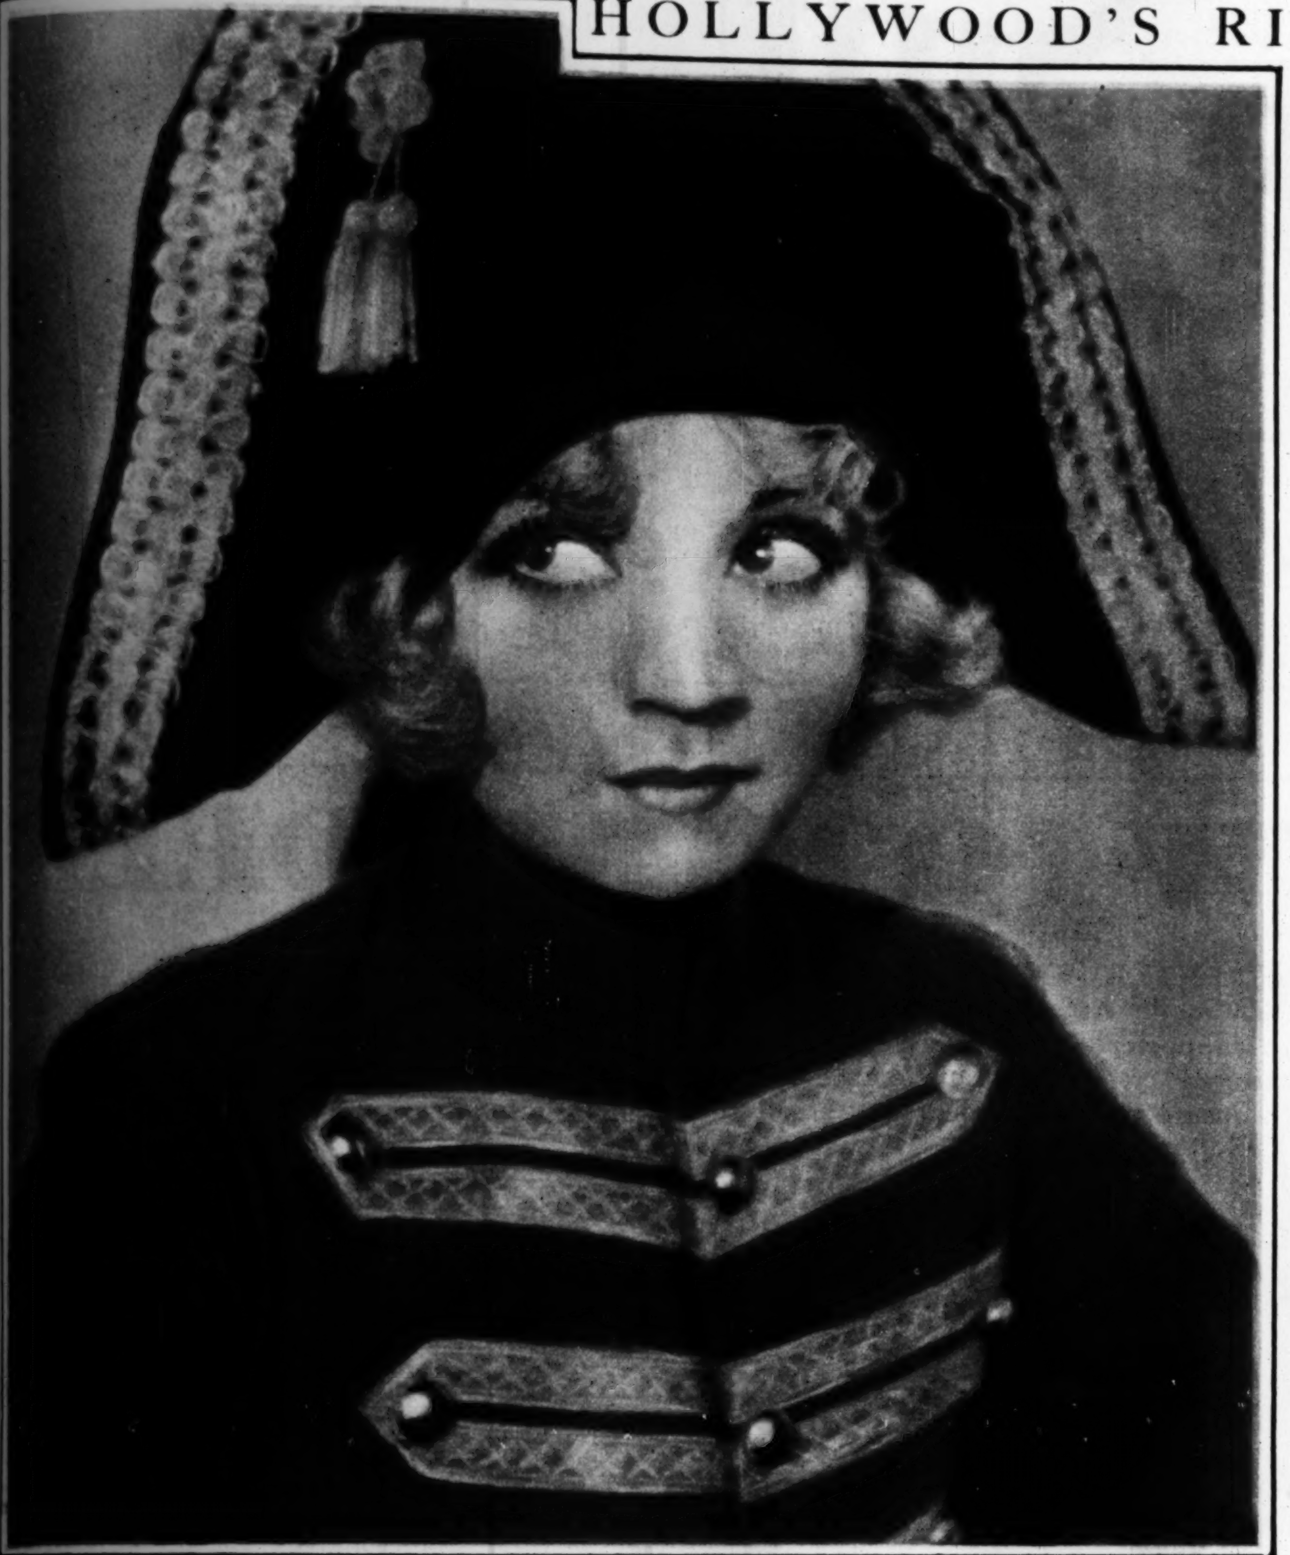
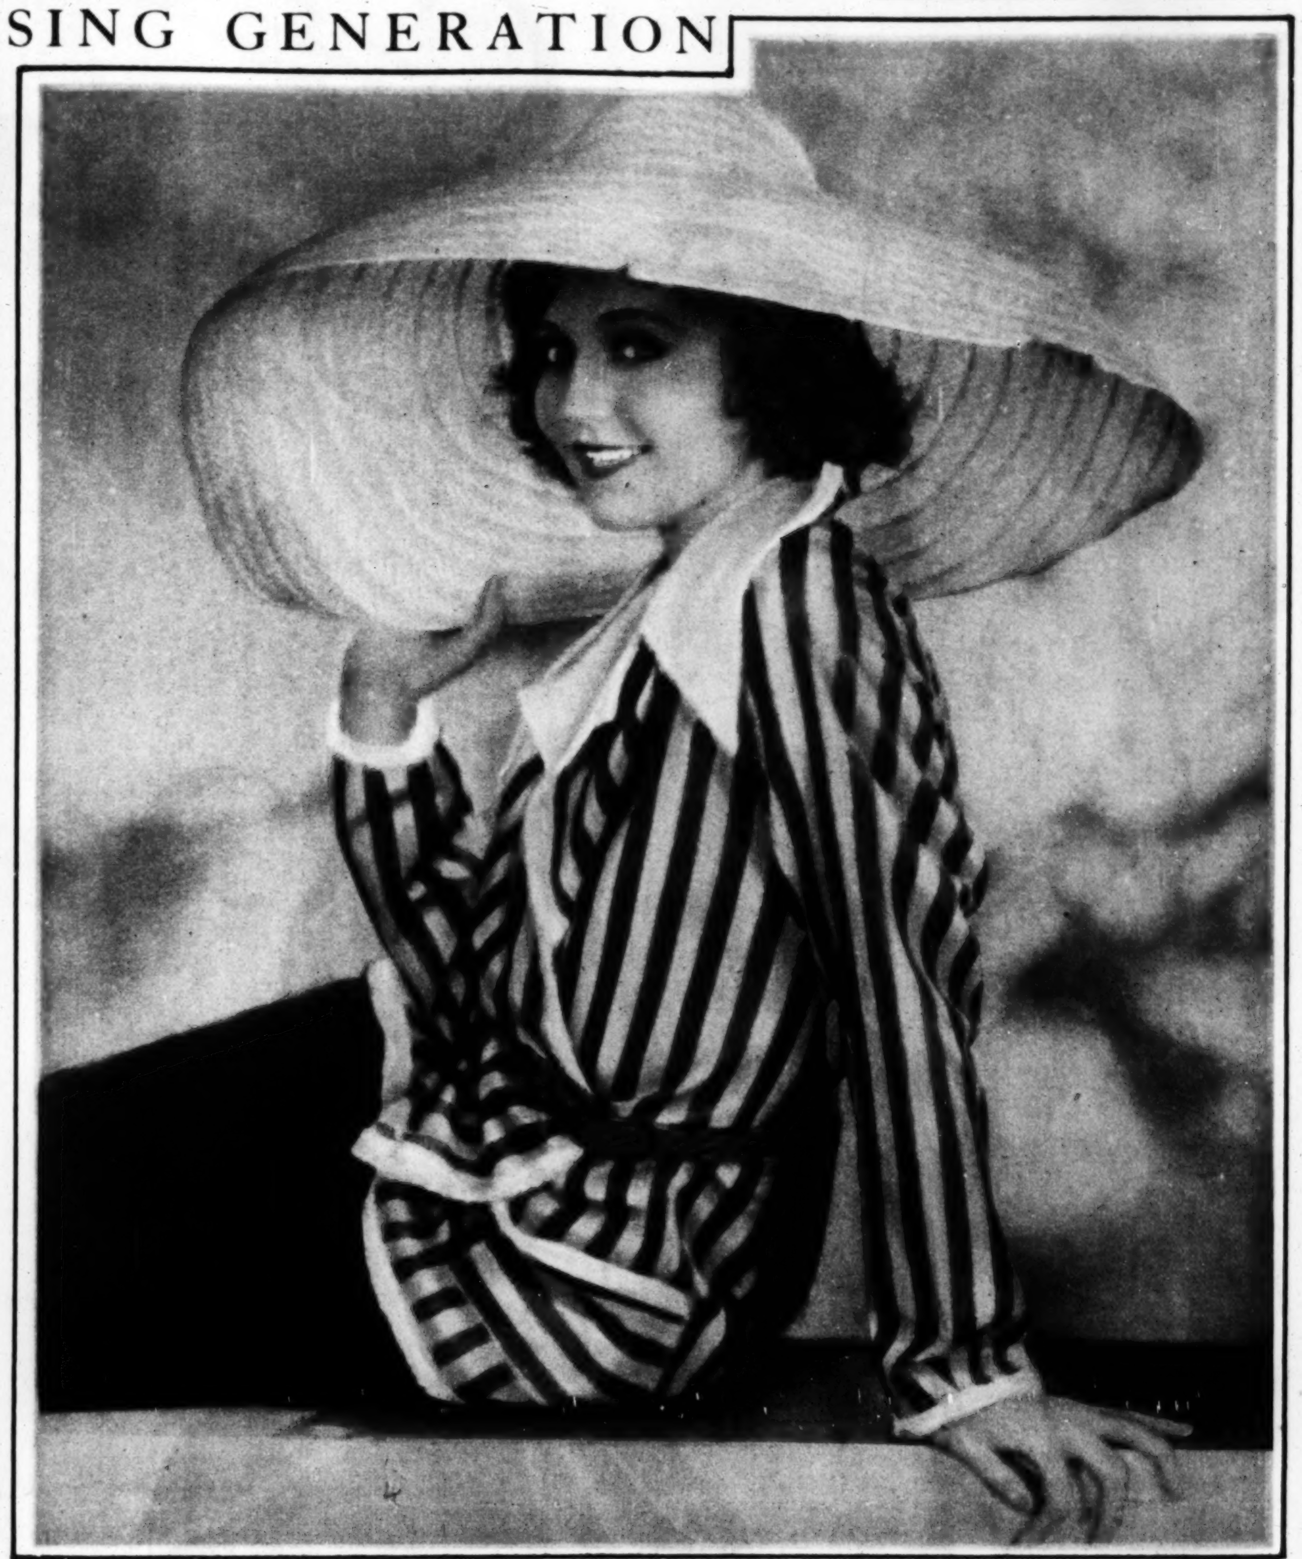
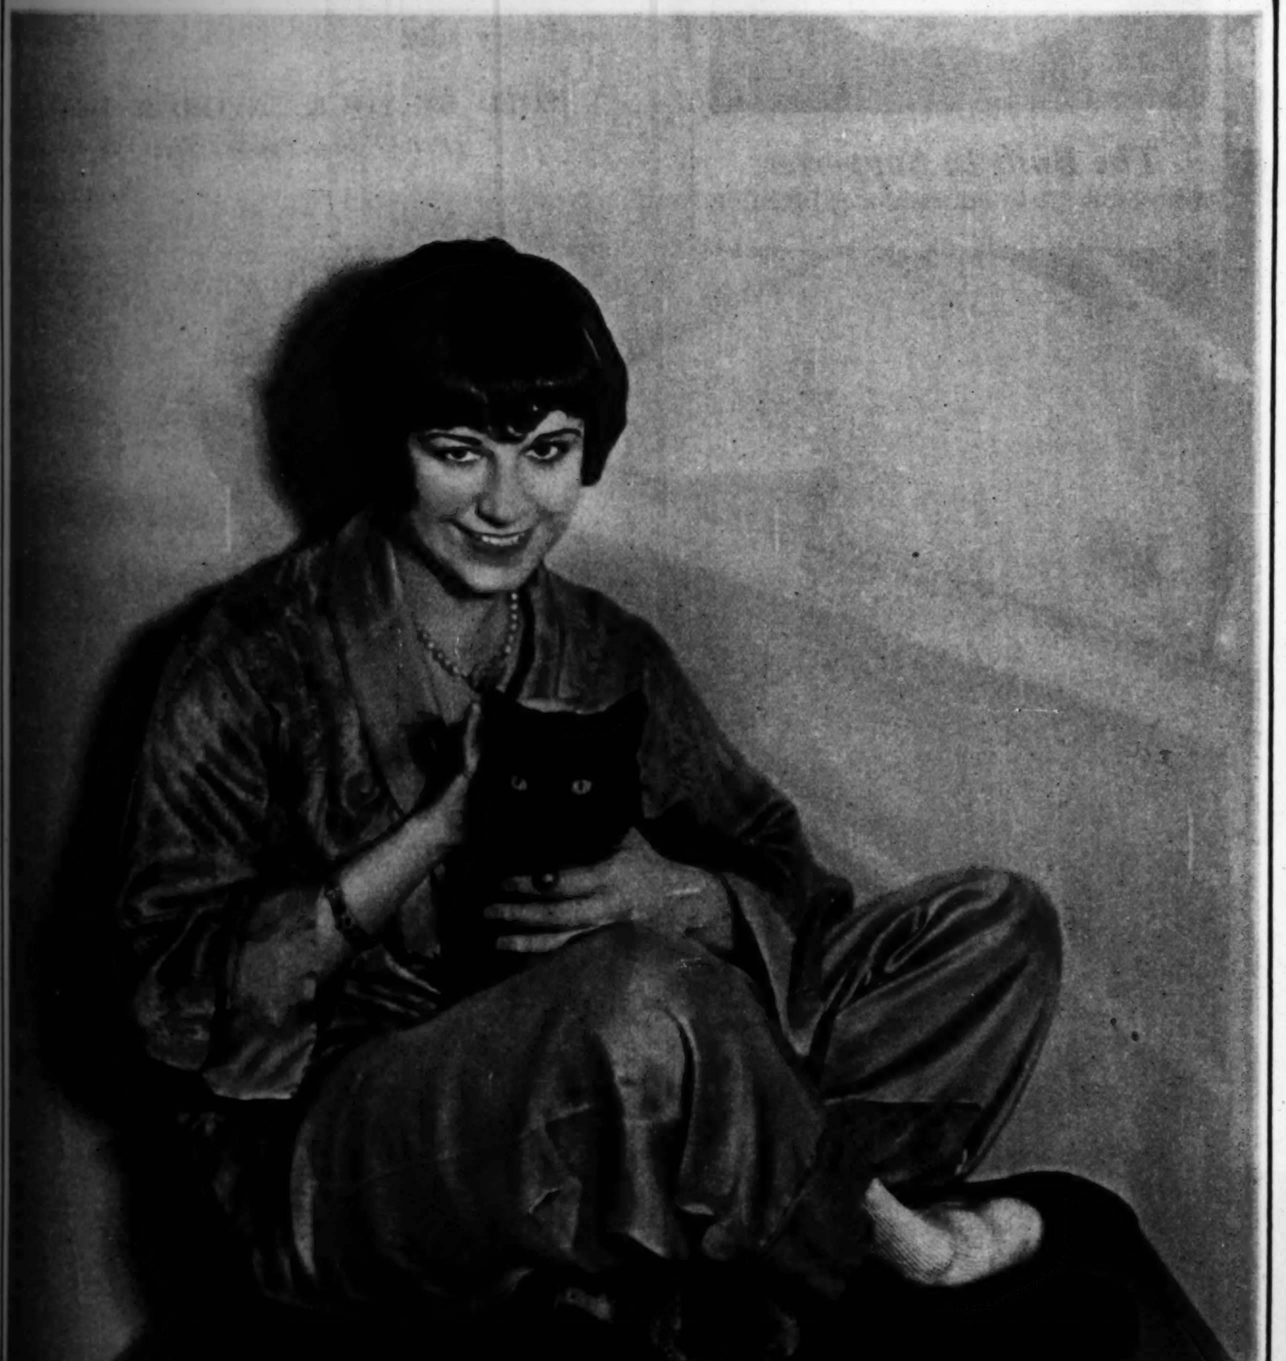
HOLLYWOOD'S RISING GENERATION



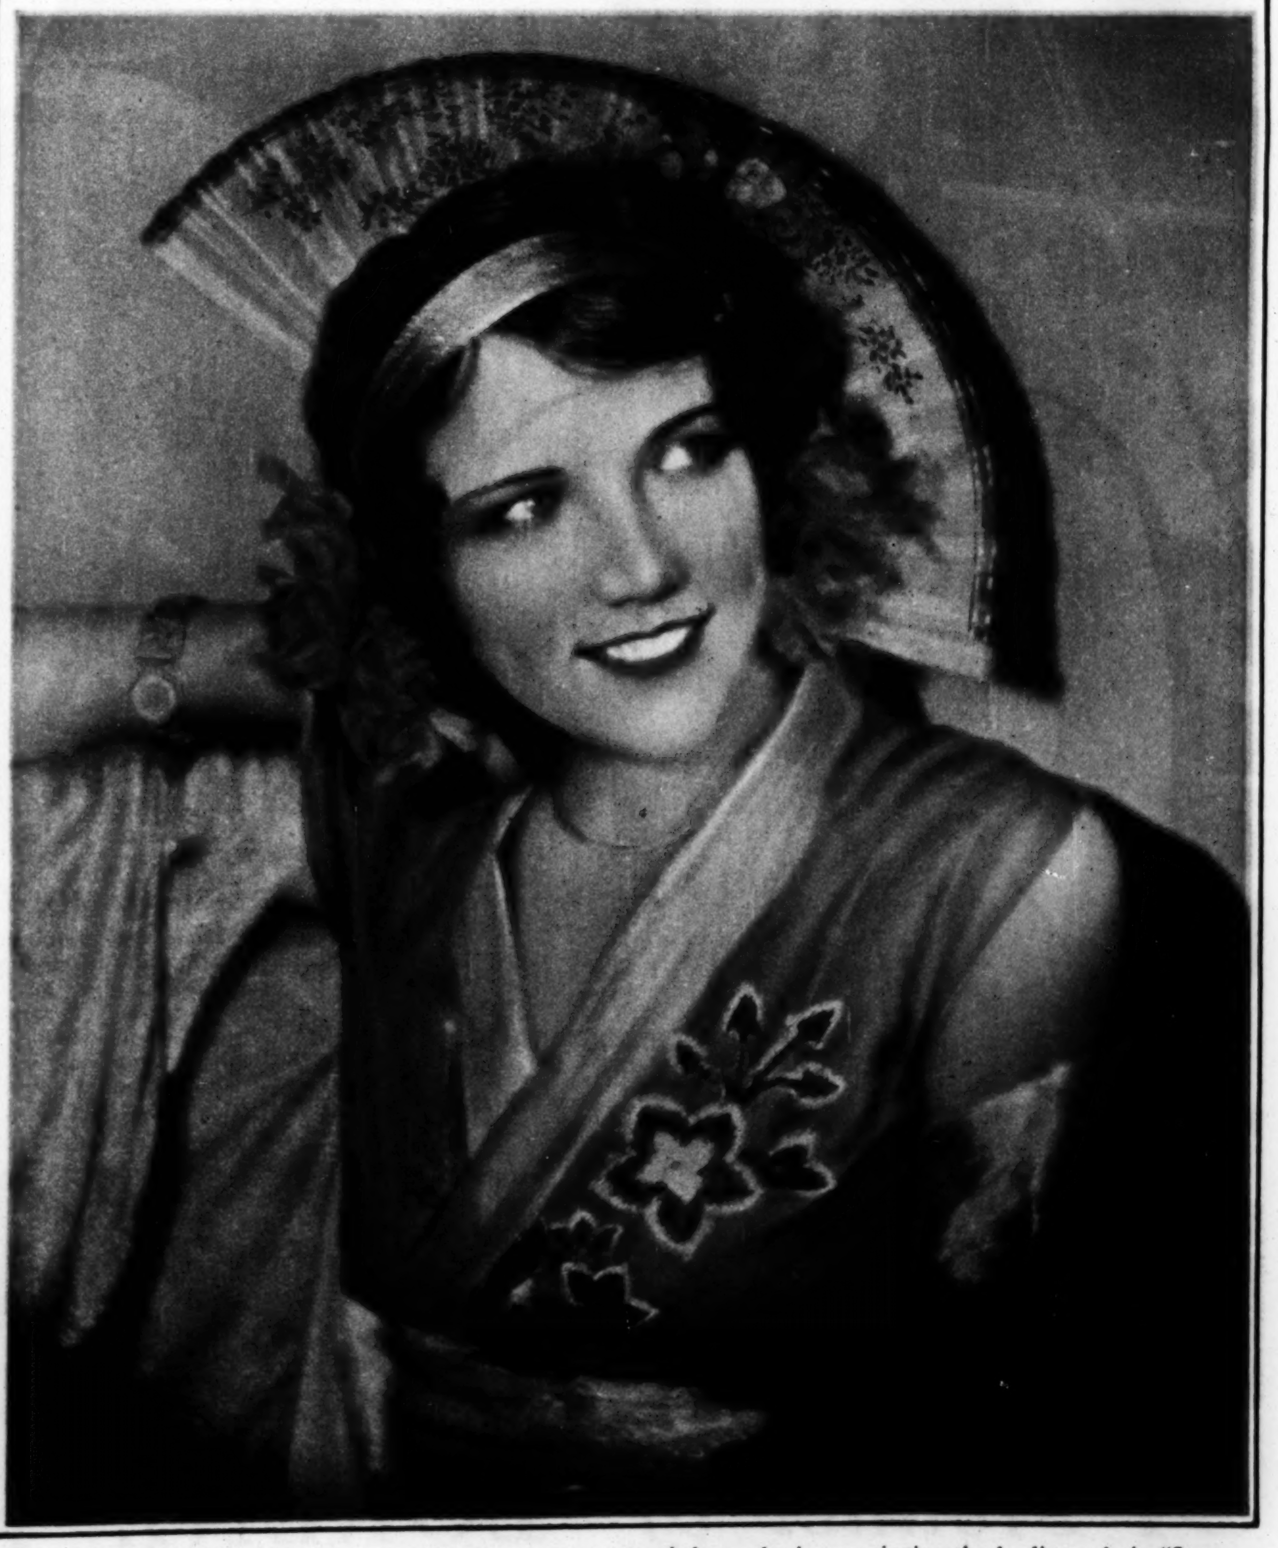
ALICE WHITE, well known to picture fans, though she hasn't been in the movies long, is here seen aping the costume of a late gentleman known as Napoleon. Piquant? Oui!



NANCY CARROLL, the young player who almost won a popularity contest recently, is here seen in the latest and niftiest thing in beach costumes. "Ain't she sweet?" The ayes have it!



FIFI DORSAY, whose hair is as black and pose as cunning as the jet kitty she holds; and she isn't much larger, either. The cat's name is Minou.



BERNICE CLAIRE, a comparative newcomer to moviedom, who is now singing the leading role in "Song of the Flame," here shows you how she looks as "Madame Butterfly."

CHICAGO TAKES A JUMP IN THE LAKE—With the city's swimming season officially opened, and with summery temperatures for added inducement, this was the scene last week-end at the Clarendon beach. What warm days bring at the principal beaches, with such a crowd at a minor resort, is not a matter of abstruse calculation.

WHO DRAINED THAT BOTTLE? Major Follonsby, cantankerous relic of Dixie chivalry in "Solid South," the play recently made known to Chicago, wants to know, and there is consternation in the servants' quarters. The players are: Richard Huey, as the frightened suspect; Richard Bennett, as the angry major, and Georgette Harvey, as the troubled cook.

HOW HE PERSPIRES! With the aid of oil from an ordinary spray, and with the moral support of Gus Shy and Bessie Love, Stanley Smith works up a labor-saving sweat for the film version of "Good News." It's just one of the tricks of the trade in the Hollywood studios.

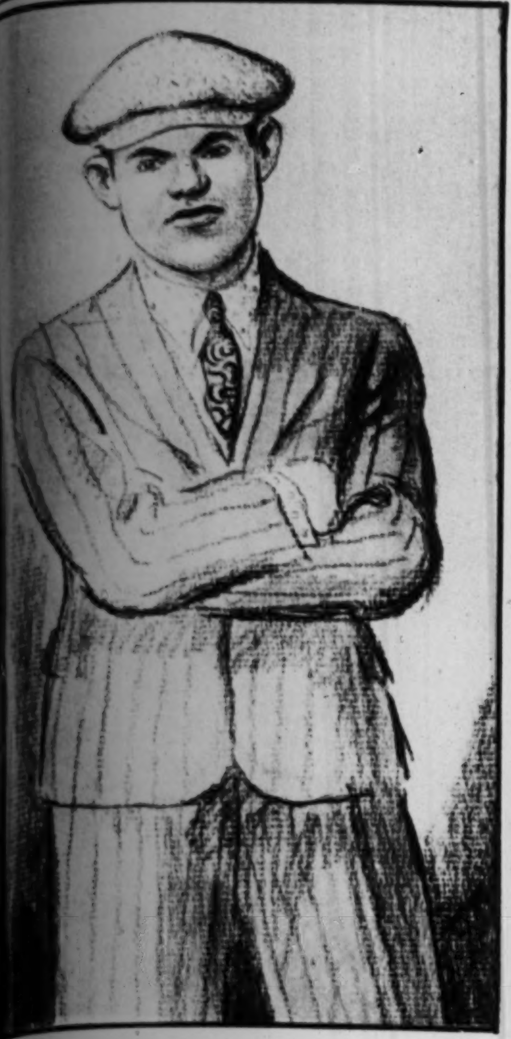
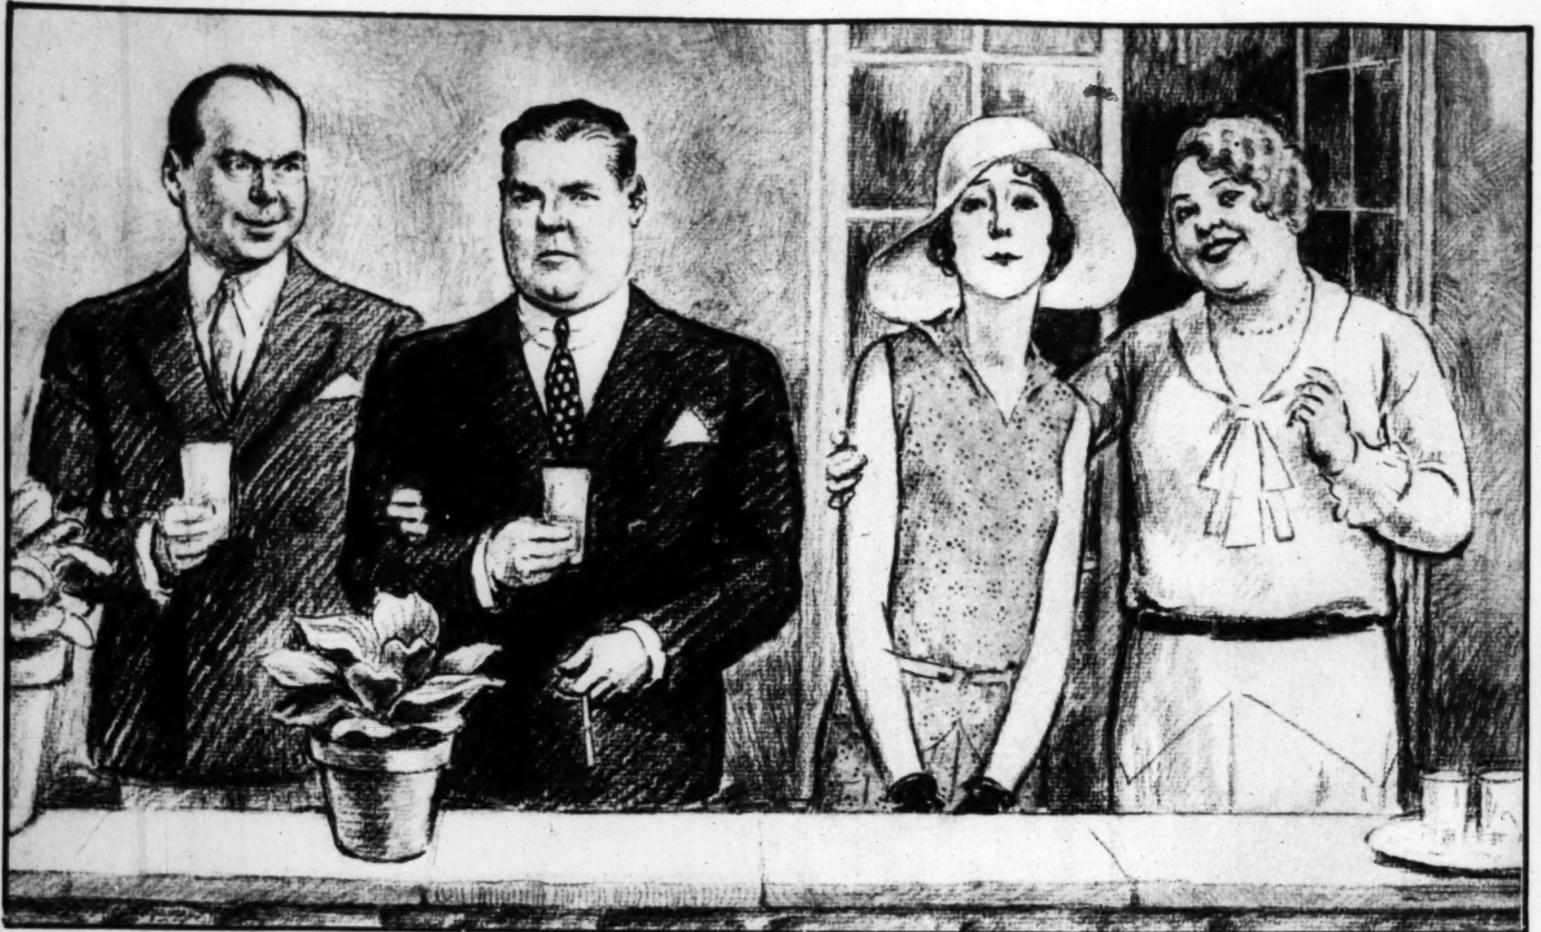
Non-Union Labor

By W. E. Hill

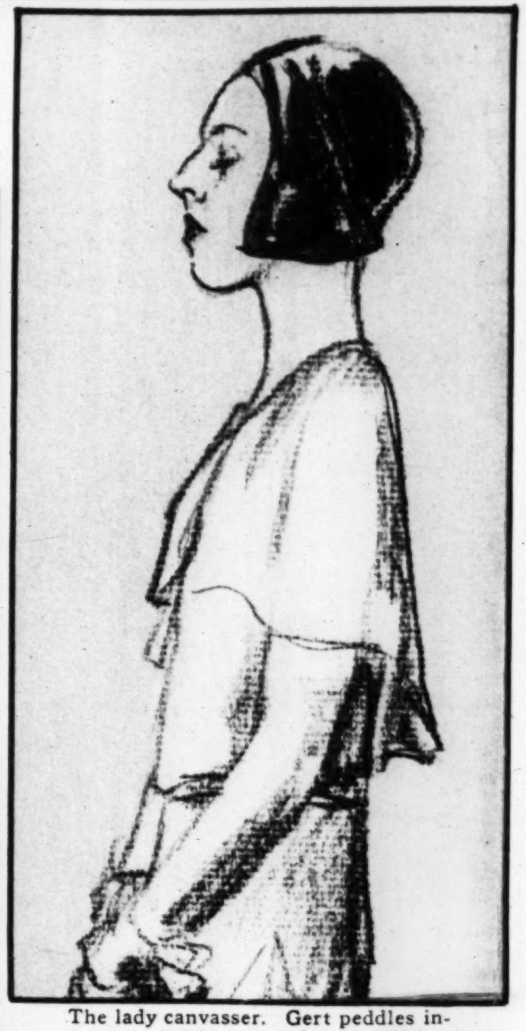
[Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]



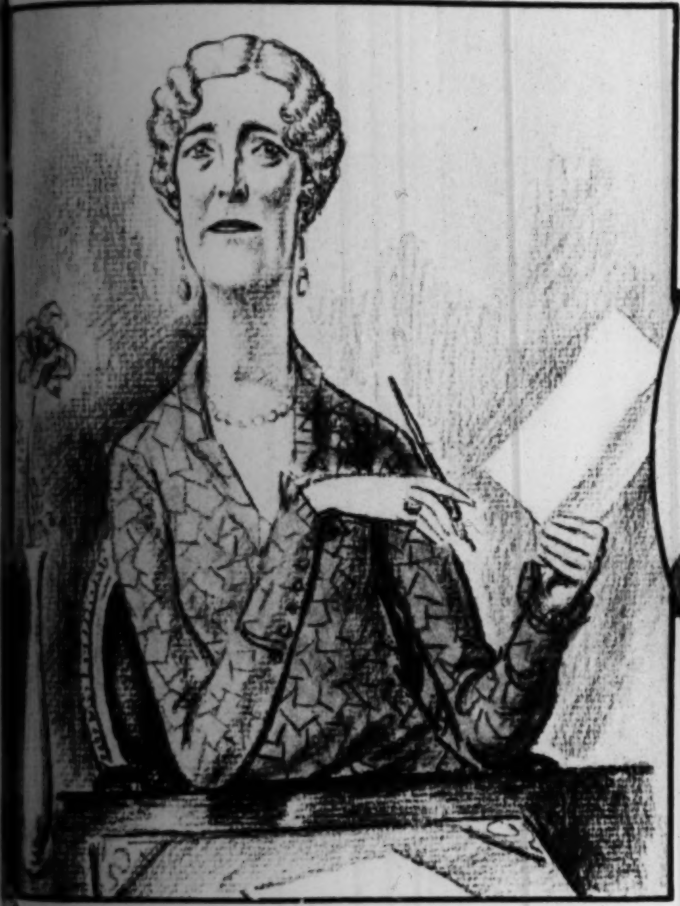
The gunman. "Two Gat Lefty" belongs to the One Eye Gus gang and, while not recognized as such, it is almost like a trade union in spots. For instance, when robbing a bank, only members of the same gang in good standing are allowed to work together. And only those who have paid their bi-yearly dues can bump off a cashier or plain clothes cop.



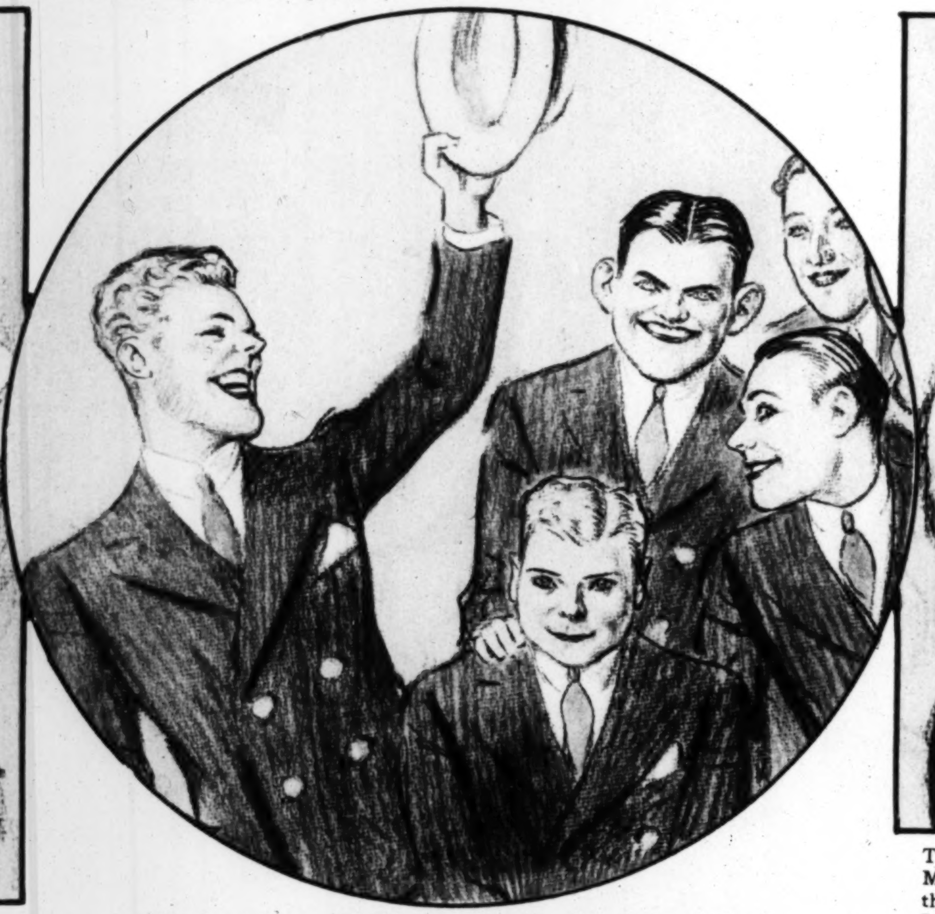
Big business. "Precious," said Mr. Margin to the wife of his bosom, "suppose you ask the Finnegans out for the week-end. I want to talk to Finnegan about the merger." Whereupon Mrs. Margin, being a dutiful wife, wrote Mrs. Finnegan a sweet little note, and here they are on Saturday afternoon, being shown the view from the east porch. Pretty soon Mrs. Finnegan will be taken by Mrs. Margin to see the electric meat chopper and the ice plant with the radio attachment. Then Mr. Finnegan and Mr. Margin will have a heart-to-heart talk having to do with high finance, and in two shakes of a lamb's tail another big deal will be consummated. This, girls and boys, is how big deals are put over.



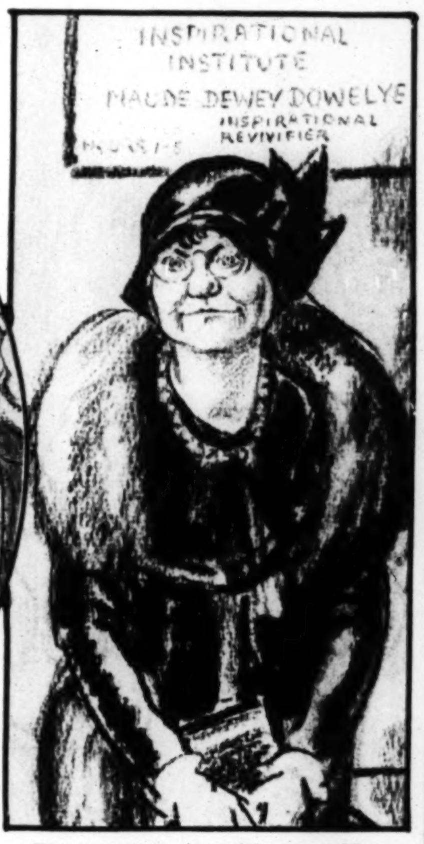
The lady canvasser. Gert peddles insurance and has no union to tell her about an eight hour workday. Her friends wish many times during the fiscal year that she had. Because Gert believes in high powered methods of selling, plus follow up calls, so that like as not this sweet girl will drop in at 9 p. m. to interest you, if she can, in the twenty year endowment policy.



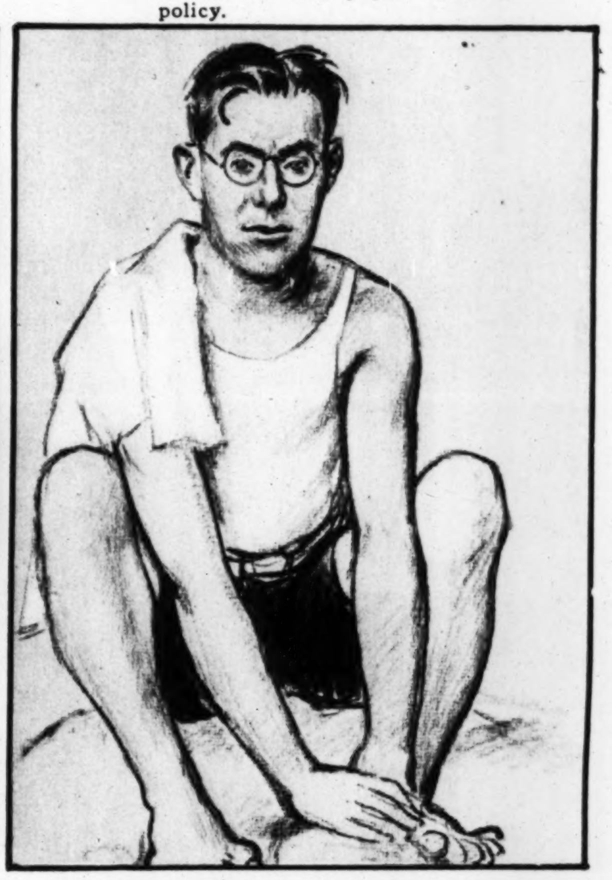
The social worker. Mrs. Rover R. Splicer, although just about the grandest of our high society grande dames, is not content with being a mere social figurehead. "I am interested," says Mrs. Splicer, "primarily in welfare. By welfare, I mean welfare in its broadest, noblest sense, both in the home and without."



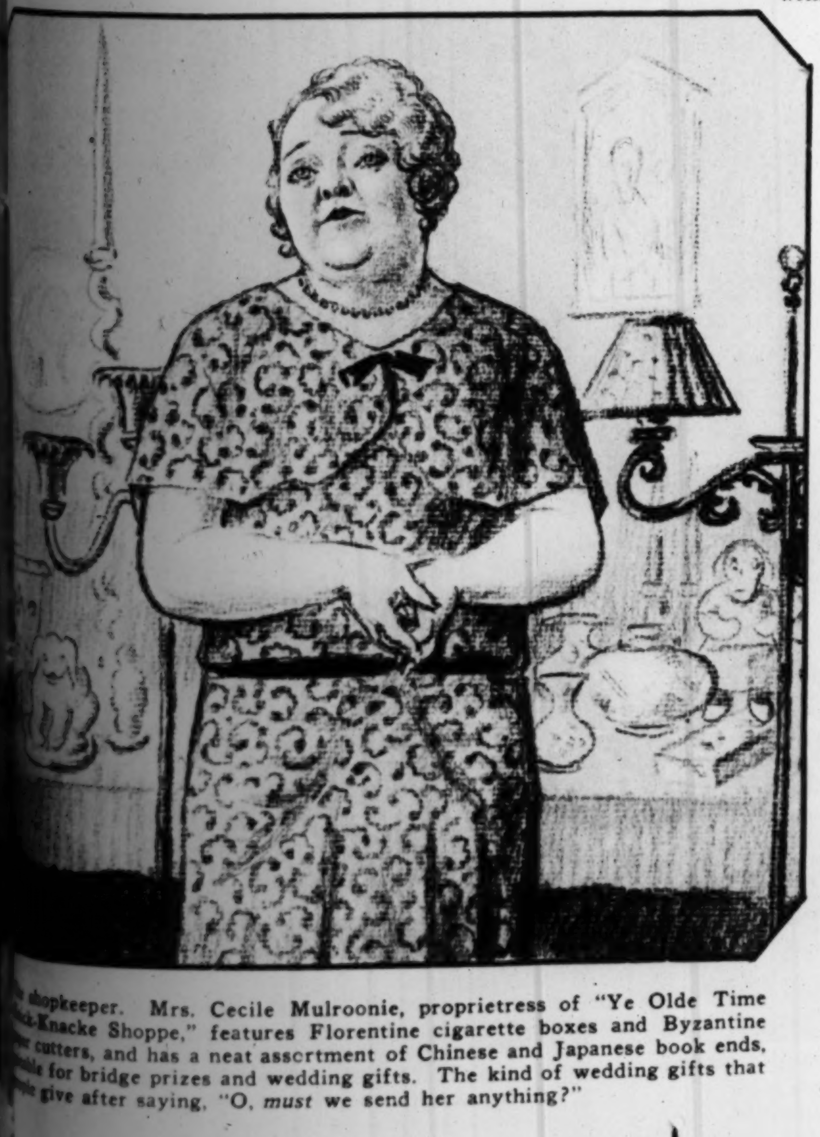
The chorus boys. You'd never imagine that the lovely boys in this scene from the first act of "Beautiful Baby" had a care in the world. Could you but know! Two of the boys, Mr. Don Dinsmore (right) and Mr. Ted McNulty (center) are 100 per cent Equity, and the other three boys are not members as yet. You can guess how difficult it is back stage, with nonunion labor working alongside of union labor.



The mental practitioner. Mrs. Maud Dowelye is a practitioner of the very latest mental cult — the Inspirational school. A person with a tendency to liver trouble, despondency, chronic asthma, or squeamishness can go straight to Mrs. Dowelye and, for three dollars down, get the benefit of a revivifying treatment.

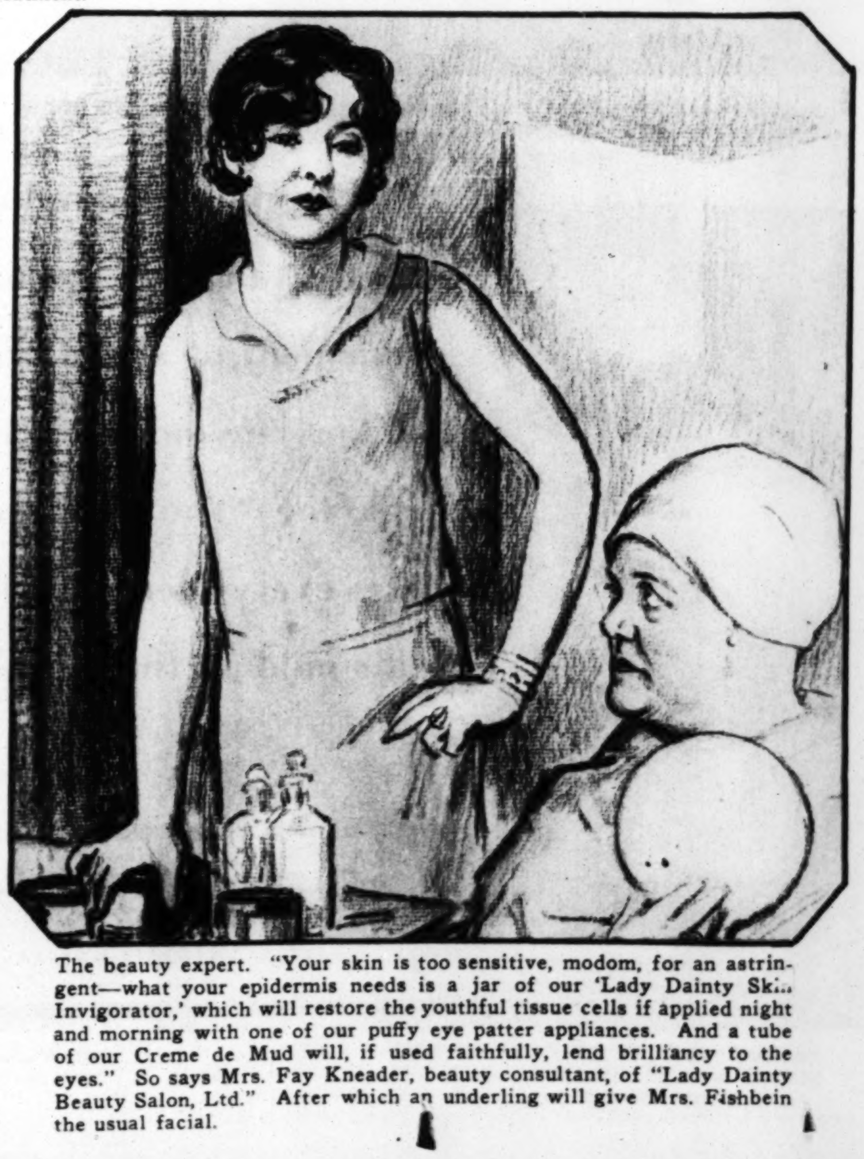


The Hollywood gag man. Lewis used to free lance among the literati, doing essays for the more erudite publications, but the lure of Hollywood was strong, and now Lewis is a gag man for the movie comedies. Here he is on the beach at Santa Monica thinking swell ideas and wishing the gag men could form a union to stem the onrush of literary white hopes from the east.



shopkeeper. Mrs. Cecile Mulroonie, proprietress of "Ye Olde Time ck-Knacke Shoppe," features Florentine cigarette boxes and Byzantine cutters, and has a neat assortment of Chinese and Japanese book ends, for bridge prizes and wedding gifts. The kind of wedding gifts that give after saying, "O, must we send her anything?"

The disorganizer. Herman is violently opposed to organized labor, skilled labor, unskilled labor, and almost any kind of labor, because it fosters capitalism. During the strike of the artificial fur and feather piece workers, Herman was instrumental in starting a counter strike among the strikers for better picketing conditions among the pickets. That's the kind of a boy Herman is.



The beauty expert. "Your skin is too sensitive, modom, for an astringent—what your epidermis needs is a jar of our 'Lady Dainty Skin Invigorator,' which will restore the youthful tissue cells if applied night and morning with one of our puffy eye patter appliances. And a tube of our Creme de Mud will, if used faithfully, lend brilliancy to the eyes." So says Mrs. Fay Kneader, beauty consultant, of "Lady Dainty Beauty Salon, Ltd." After which an underling will give Mrs. Fishbein the usual facial.

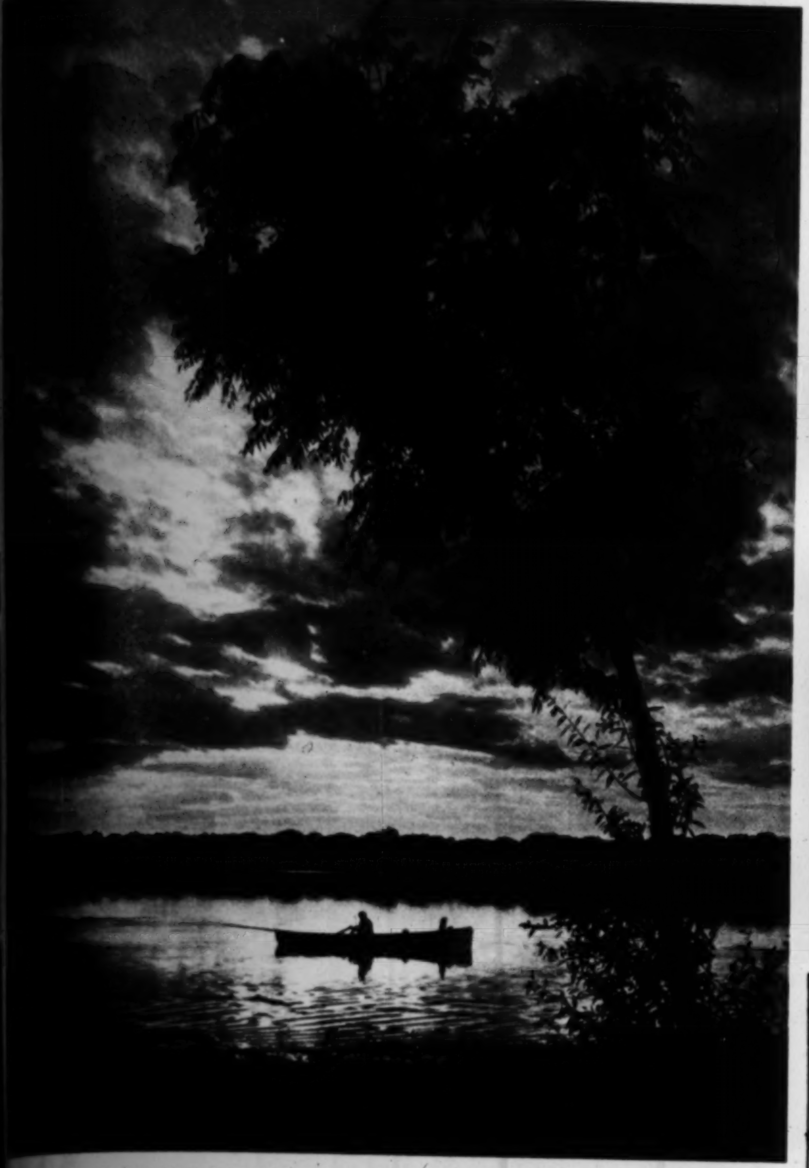
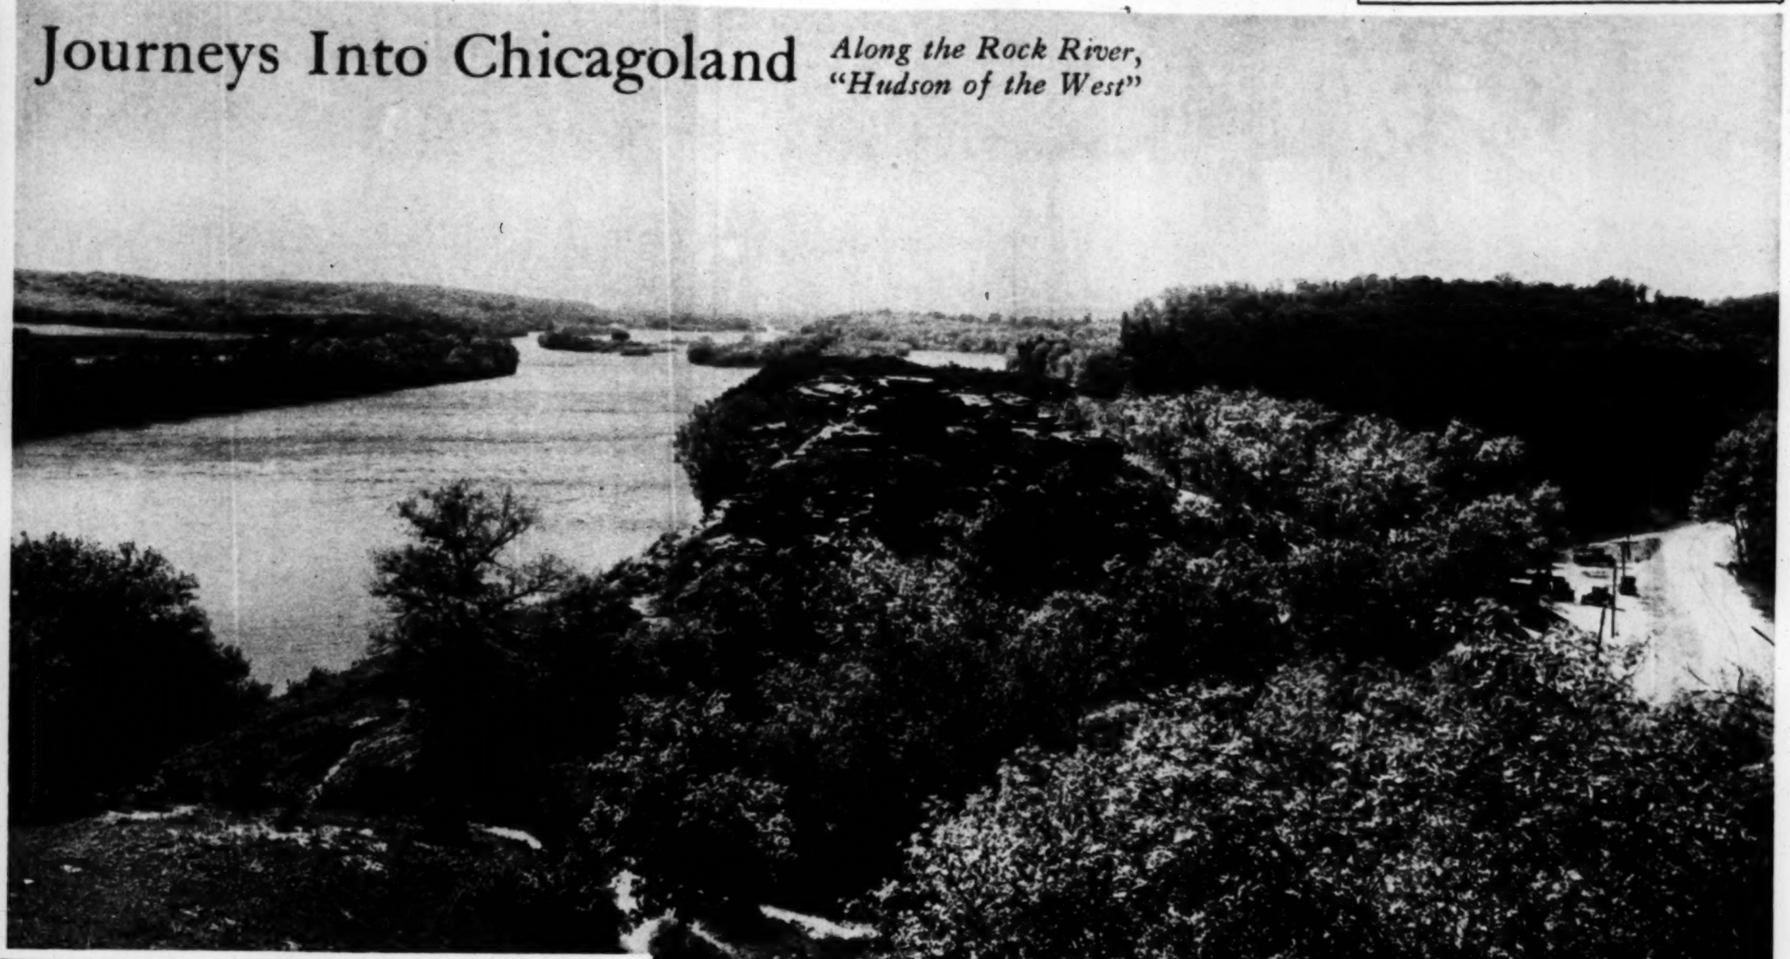
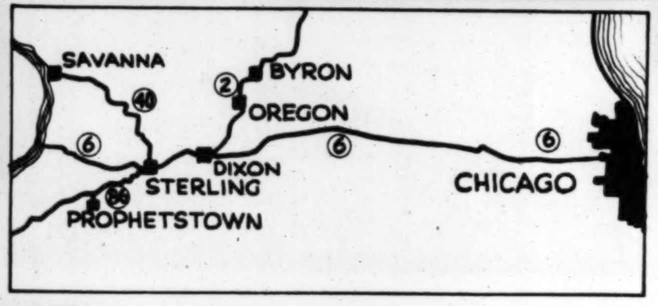
Journeys Into Chicagoland

Along the Rock River, "Hudson of the West"

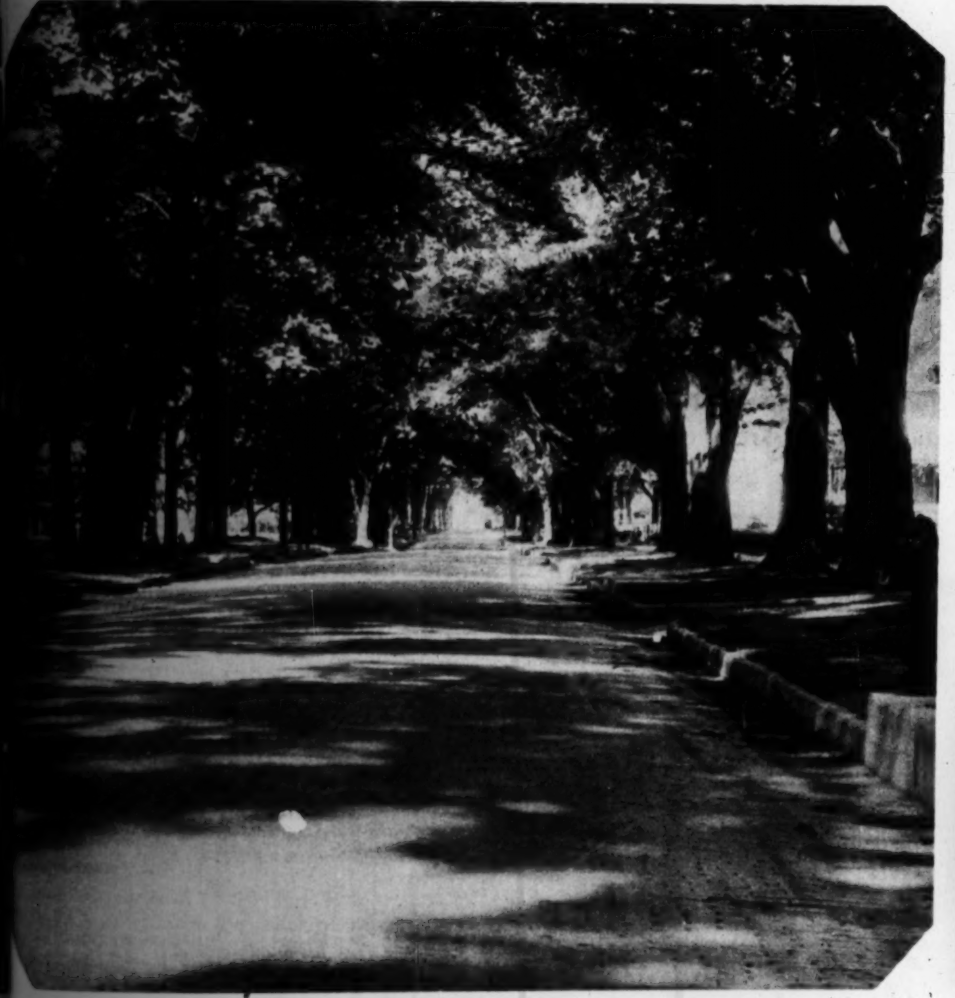


SUNSET ON THE MISSISSIPPI at Savanna gives a picturesque finale to a state-wide journey over one of the concrete ribbons leading west from Chicago. A state park now preserves the beauties of the Savanna palisades.

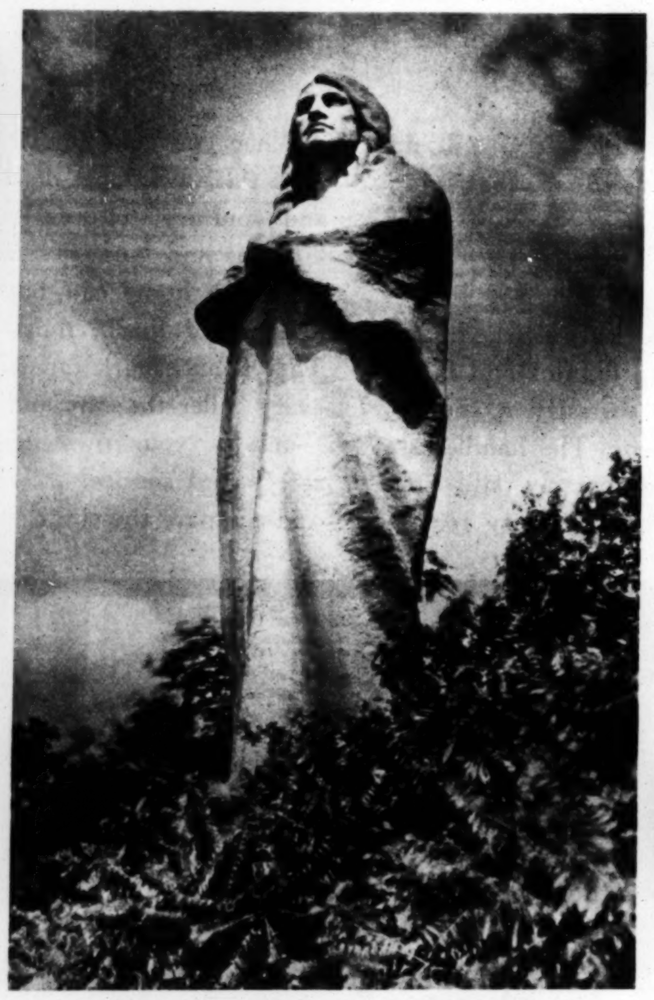




ALONG THE WAY TO THE WEST you may follow enchanting Rock river through mile on mile of breath-taking beauty, reveling in nature's endless surprises. Castle rock juts abruptly above the winding stream in this scene near Oregon, just a step from the concrete, commanding a wide-flung vista of surpassing loveliness.

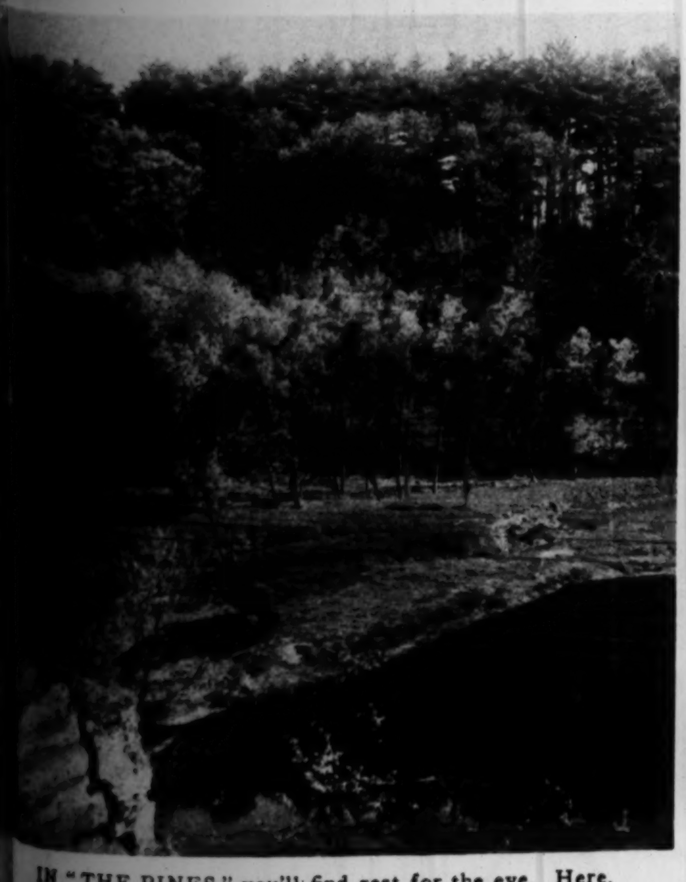


IN THE HEART OF THE ROCK RIVER COUNTRY—A tree-arched residential street in thriving Sterling. Its leafy charm will remind Chicagoans of the campaign to line Cook county's roads with pleasant shade.

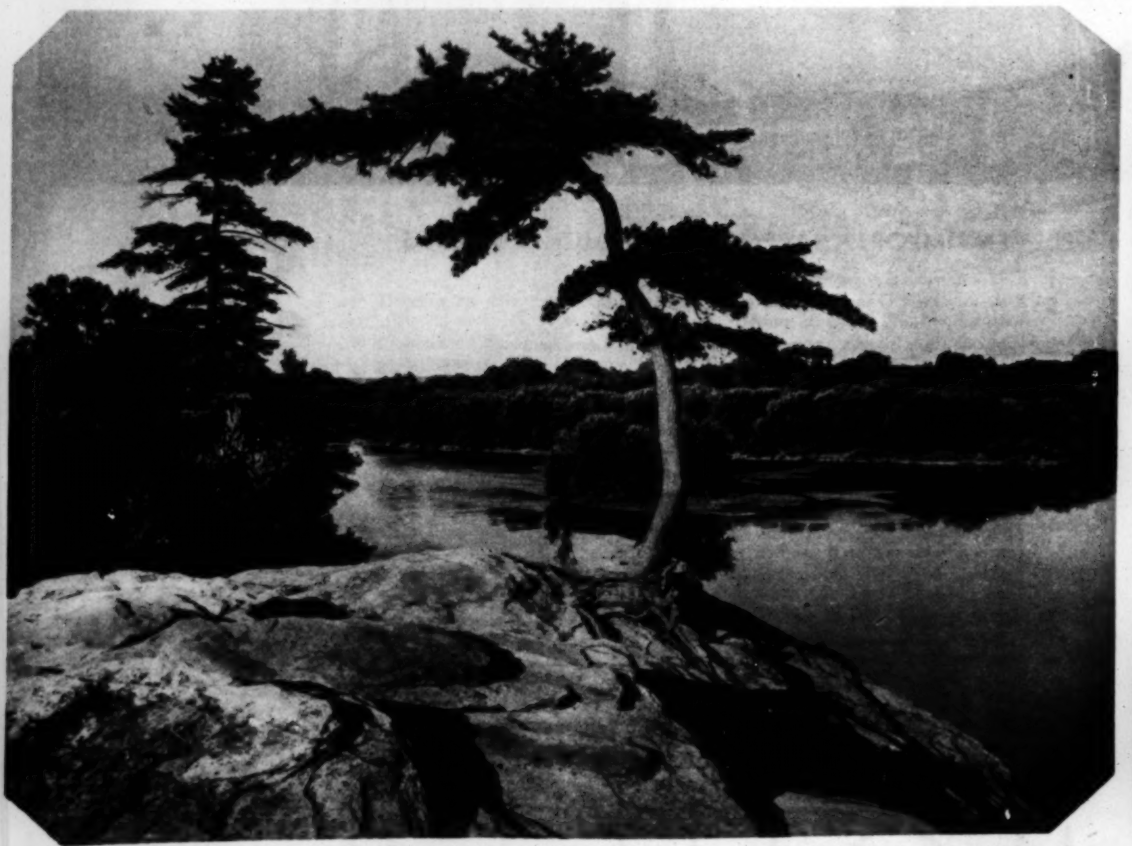


AND YOU MUST SEE "THE AMERICAN SPHINX"—Lorado Taft's famous statue of Black Hawk, nearly fifty feet high, near Oregon.

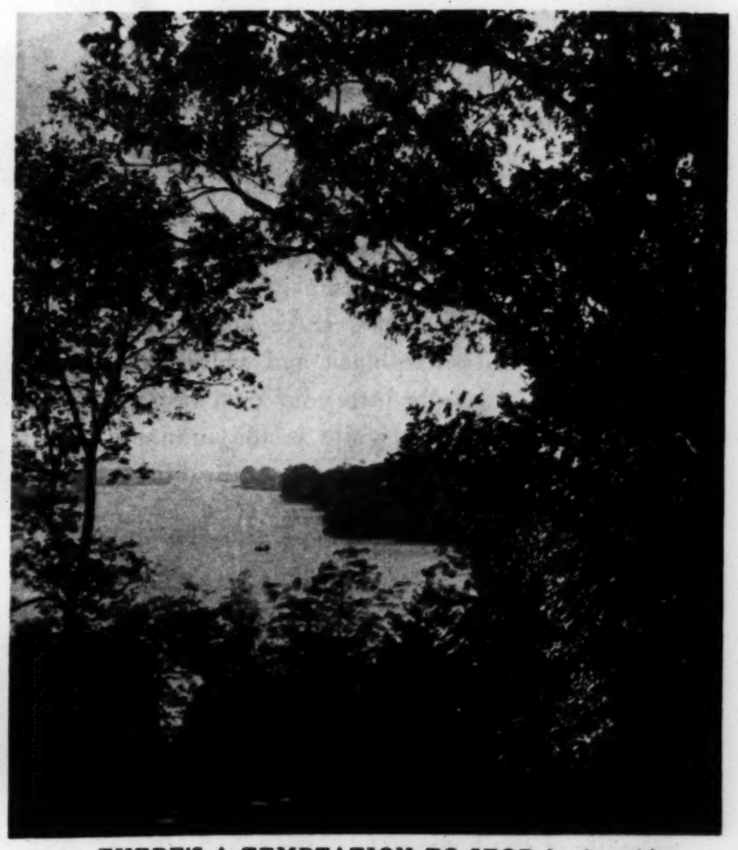
IN PROPHETSTOWN THERE'S FOOD FOR THOUGHT—Riverside park, in this interesting Whiteside county town, captures the beauty of the waterfront in a civic playground, putting many a larger municipality to shame.



IN "THE PINES" you'll find rest for the eye. Here, near Oregon, the state has created another park for the benefit of our generation and the generations to come.



A STUBBORN AND PERSISTENT SENTINEL finds a bare foothold in the rock above the Rock river on former Governor Lowden's farm at Oregon. And it looks out upon some of the most fascinating country in the central west.



THERE'S A TEMPTATION TO STOP for lengthier enjoyment of the stream, as in this scene between Sterling and Dixon. Why not? There are hotels and camps.

IF YOU COULD BUILD YOUR SECOND HOME FIRST

. . . YOU WOULDN'T CONSIDER ANYTHING BUT THE FINEST PLUMBING

Vitreous china STANDISH lavatory with combination fitting. Enameled VICEROY bath with silent supply and overflow. Chromium-plated DYNAMIC fittings throughout.

A PLENTIFUL SUPPLY of pure water is the life-blood of the home. Every detail of the system is a vital detail. Some people might give up the finer design and finish of the best fixtures and fittings—but no one would knowingly sacrifice their far better and longer service . . . their added safety . . . their actual money saving!

The furnishings of the bathroom tell the character of the whole home. Kohler craftsmen have always put that idea into their work. Architects, builders and plumbers will tell you that Kohler fixtures are fine through and through . . . that their beauty is built in . . . that their extra quality means years of extra comfort.

Kohler vitreous china has the hardness and smoothness of polished glass. Kohler enamel is made by a special formula and fused to the metal core in an everlasting bond. If you like colors, there are clear, soft shades in addition to black and white—shades that blend gracefully into your own decorative scheme. And Kohler white is the immaculate white of fine linen. Any one can see the difference.

- Kohler fixtures deserve Kohler fittings

Properly functioning metal parts—faucets, valves, drains and traps—are absolute necessities. Often health itself depends on their precision. So Kohler fittings are engineered to new standards of efficiency . . . made of the finest brass, lastingly plated with chromium, nickel or gold . . . built for positive and silent action for the life of the home.

Examine some of the pieces in detail and note their simple, substantial construction, their accurate machine work. You will find among them many new ideas that make housework faster and easier.

- Kohler plumbing prevents trouble

Those who are trained to ideals of true hygiene welcome Kohler plumbing fixtures and fittings most. Years after their installation they are still beautiful and efficient. The handles stay tight-fitting . . . the drains are still noiseless and rapid . . . original beauty remains.

When you build for yourself you will wish to have the advantages of these positive operating and sanitary fixtures. All-Kohler bathrooms, kitchens and laundries make the finest "water works" a home can have—most advanced in design and finish, most precise in operation. The Kohler mark on each piece advertises to every caller the care and quality of your home—and is your own constant reassurance of safety and service. . . . Compare the quality and compare the costs!

- Kohler quality costs no more

All-Kohler installations offer distinct money saving over the years, besides paying dividends of comfort, ease and well-being. You will find the finest fixtures and fittings just as practical—and just as important—in the modest home as in the mansion.

A visit to the nearest Kohler showroom will give you many new ideas and ideals. Discuss the fine points with your architect and plumbing contractor. Meanwhile, write for Booklet H-6, which illustrates attractive groupings and suggests modern ideas about home plumbing. . . . Kohler Co. Founded 1873. Kohler, Wisconsin.

ELEVEN IMPORTANT POINTS ABOUT PLUMBING

1 Kohler designs are decorative, purposeful, correct.
2 Kohler enamel is made by an exclusive formula, fused with an everlasting bond and keeps its smooth, glistening surface.
3 Vitreous china pieces are sculptured for beauty and service . . . thoroughly vitrified at high temperatures and armored with a smooth, lustrous, lasting glaze.
4 Kohler colors are soft, livable pastels . . . the white is a perfect white.
5 Kohler metal fittings are engineered for efficiency . . . heavily plated with chromium, nickel or gold. They match the fixtures in style, character and quality.
6 Materials are the finest—manufacture is most particular. All Kohler products show craftsmanship and care.
7 This company pioneered many of the big advances in plumbing. This year's Kohler products are next year's new ideas.
8 Kohler quality extends to the kitchen and laundry—for every plumbing need.
9 Kohler quality costs no more . . . and saves money later.
10 Kohler fixtures and fittings are handled and installed by qualified plumbers.
11 Back of the Kohler trade-marks are the traditions and spirit of an entire community . . . beautiful Kohler Village.

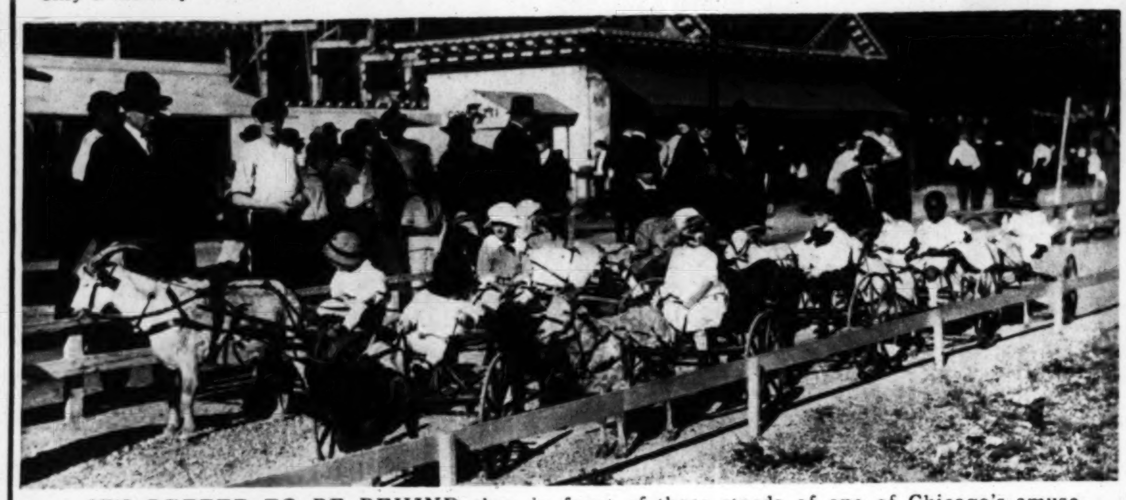
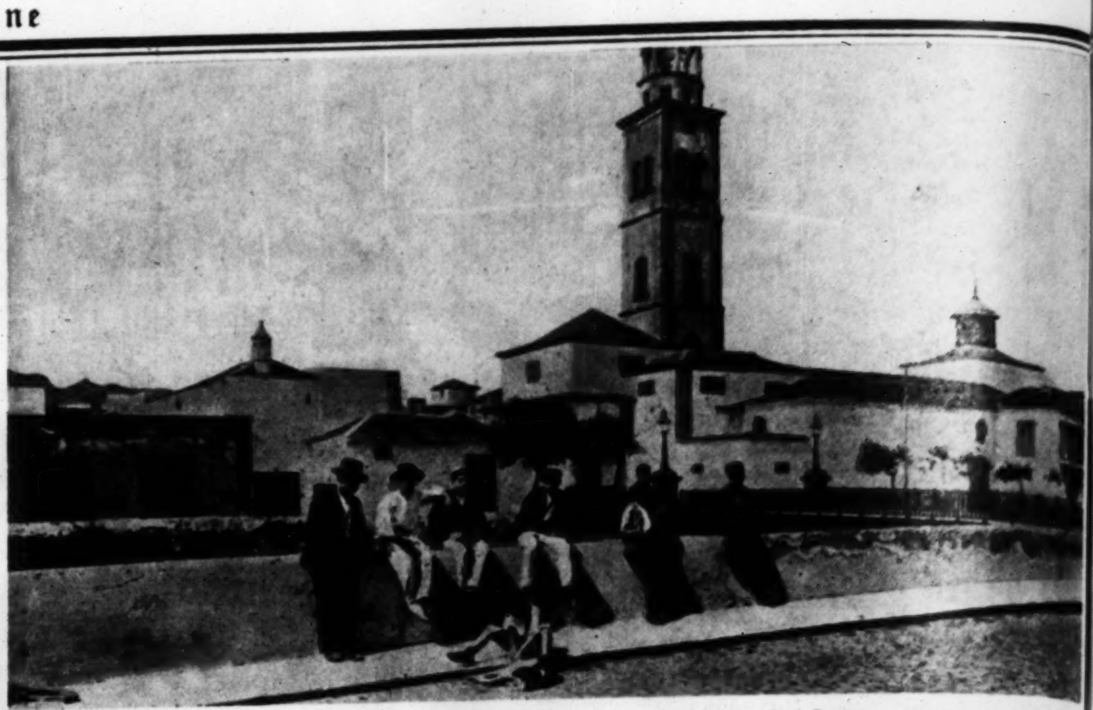
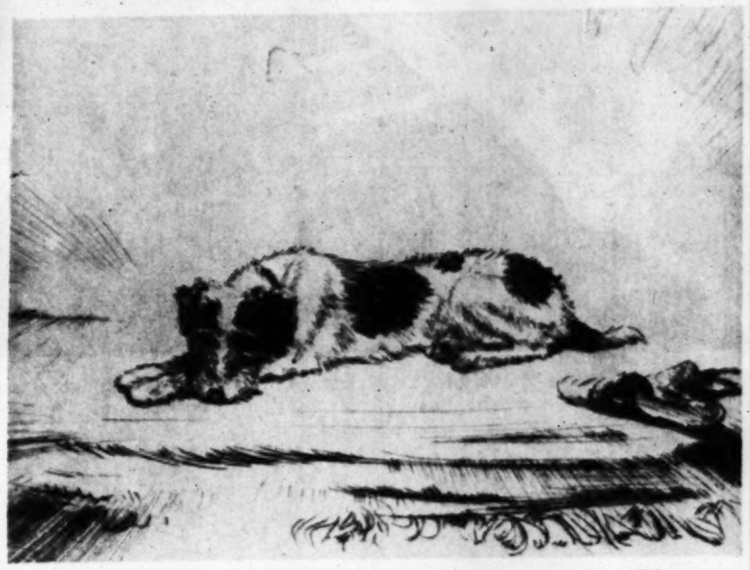
DISTANT COUSINS? Milwaukee's Monkey island at Washington park has eighty new inhabitants recently arrived from India. You see some of them doing their gymnastics on a bridge that only a monkey could love. (Tribune photo.)



IT'S BETTER TO BE BEHIND than in front of these steeds of one of Chicago's amusement parks, especially if you haven't plenty of room to run. There'll be a lot of this joy riding hereabouts from now on, with schools closing next Friday.



DISTANT SCENE—Today's selection in The Tribune's Interesting Letters contest came from an elderly missionary at Santa Cruz de Tenerife, Canary islands. Natives are seen loitering on the quay; a dog sleeps in the foreground. In the background, the famous cathedral.



"CONTENTMENT," an irresistible portrayal by Diana Thorne of a mischievous fellow in a meditative mood. It is from the collection of etchings and portraits in oil by Miss Thorne which has been on exhibition at the O'Brien galleries.

They call it Glamour!

Claire was known as a "good sort." Pretty enough—but not the kind men grow romantic about.

Overnight, Claire became a "type." Eyes which had been a candid hazel suddenly seemed a mysterious green, shot with golden lights; her skin, fair but freckled, became an amber satin through which a smouldering flame of color glowed. Then it was that Paul discovered Claire!

After years of casual friendship, Paul found his pulse quicken as his hand closed over Claire's—felt his senses stirred by the provocative fragrance which enveloped her.

Claire had become glamorous…desirable. A satin film of Pompeian Beauty Powder in Naturelle—a touch of Pompeian Bloom in the Orange blend—she became a woman of tantalizing, beckoning charm.

● there is always a reason

When millions of women, year after year, choose these Pompeian toiletries one assumes that there is a reason. There is:—

Pompeian Beauty Powder is no faddish newcomer to the cosmetic world. For over thirty years, it has been recognized as the finest, purest face powder which money could buy.

It clings lovingly to the skin…it does not cake but adheres smoothly and evenly. It comes in five of Nature's own shades, achieved after years of experiment on living models. One of these colors is a flawless match for YOUR skin.

● and in pompeian bloom

A veil of living, vital color descends upon you with Pompeian Bloom. Not a solid color, but a blend of many tints, as subtly wedded as those which Nature combines in producing a petal-like skin itself. And of such rare consistency! No brittle, crumbly rouge compact – Pompeian comes off easily on the puff…spreads evenly—and lasts thru the last dance, thru the last caress!

● the matter of that budget

Extravagance is no longer smart! A substantial saving on your cosmetic bills will soon add a charming frock to your wardrobe, and at no cost to your toilet table!

Pompeian Beauty Powder—whose very package breathes a rare quality—comes in a luxuriously generous quantity and is amazingly priced at 60c.

Pompeian Bloom, daintily boxed in its blue-and-gilt compact case, is also 60c.

● you are one of 24

Many women go through life completely missing their own most striking charms. Mme. Jeanette de Cordet, the famous beauty expert, has compiled a booklet illustrating the 24 types of girlhood and womanhood, and telling how to enhance them.

In this booklet you will find your type — and learn how to make the most of it. The coupon helps you to secure a copy.

Pompeian Beauty Powder

● send for new art panel

If you are one of the enthusiastic collectors, you'll rejoice over the 1930 Pompeian Art Panel. Gorgeously colored and masterfully painted by Clement Donshea—it has great decorative value.

Enclose 10c. You'll receive the Art Panel—Mme. de Cordet's booklet—and samples of two other toilet necessities—Pompeian Day Cream and Night Cream.

● Be sure to PRINT your name and address

Crush-Dry

The Fussy Foursome

YES you would! You'd have taken two more out of that bunker, if you hadn't known this Crush-Dry was waitin' here at the nineteenth! Don't try to squeeze out of it — pour!"

Sparkling, bubbling refreshment, as appealing in the locker room as out on the porch—haled as a shipmate on deck and a life-saver in the galley.

Its social conquest covers land and sea, old and young, breakfast to bed-time. A brilliant jet bottle of fresh, uncooked, orange juice, retaining all the fresh fruit health vitamins and with champagne carbonation.

Beautifully blended with a dash of lime, lemon and carbonated water. Ready to blend as the tints of sunset!

Unguarded Women

Soap and water was once all there was to the bath. But now Boyer has developed a measure of protection without which many women and men would not venture forth.

For here is a new habit . . . a luxurious, satisfying habit that perfects the bath . . . a dainty habit that effectively guards against any suggestion of unpleasant body odor, which even soap and water cleanliness does not always remove.

Boyer's After-the-Bath Talc neutralizes body odors and will keep the skin sweet for several hours. Always use it after bathing. This precaution is well worth while, as many women and men know. It insures a personal daintiness that effectively relieves the fastidious from worry.

Soap and water is necessary. Then Boyer's After-the-Bath Talc—Always! A purring shower of its cool softness applied with the luxurious big puff that is in every box. The protection lasts long after the effects of the bath have worn away. Truly a most satisfying perfection . . . no wonder it is so popular.

Perfumed with a subdued fragrance that accentuates the refreshing odor of soap and water cleanliness, Boyer's After-the-Bath Talc leaves the body with a rose petal freshness, characteristic of aristocratic living. Your druggist has Boyer beauty preparations.

NOTE: Boyer has induced a titled Parisian, Countess Louise de Lorme, to help his customers with beauty problems. In every Boyer package is a card entitling you to free beauty advice direct from the Countess at Paris.

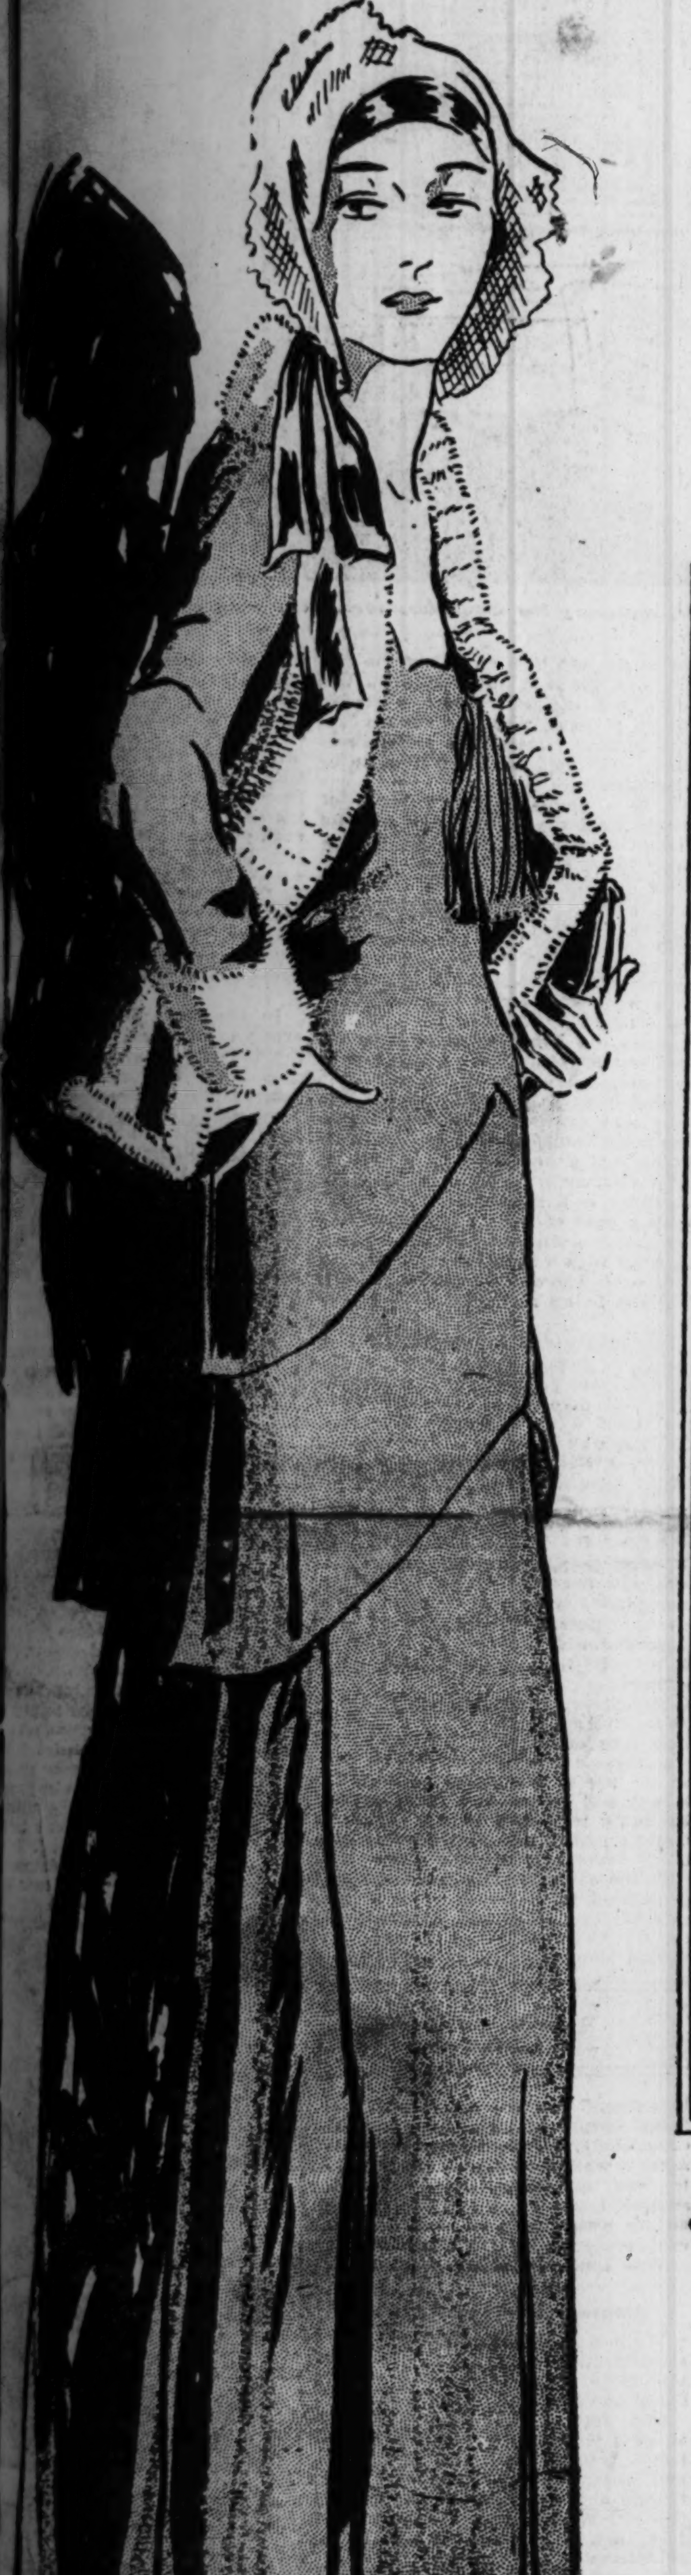
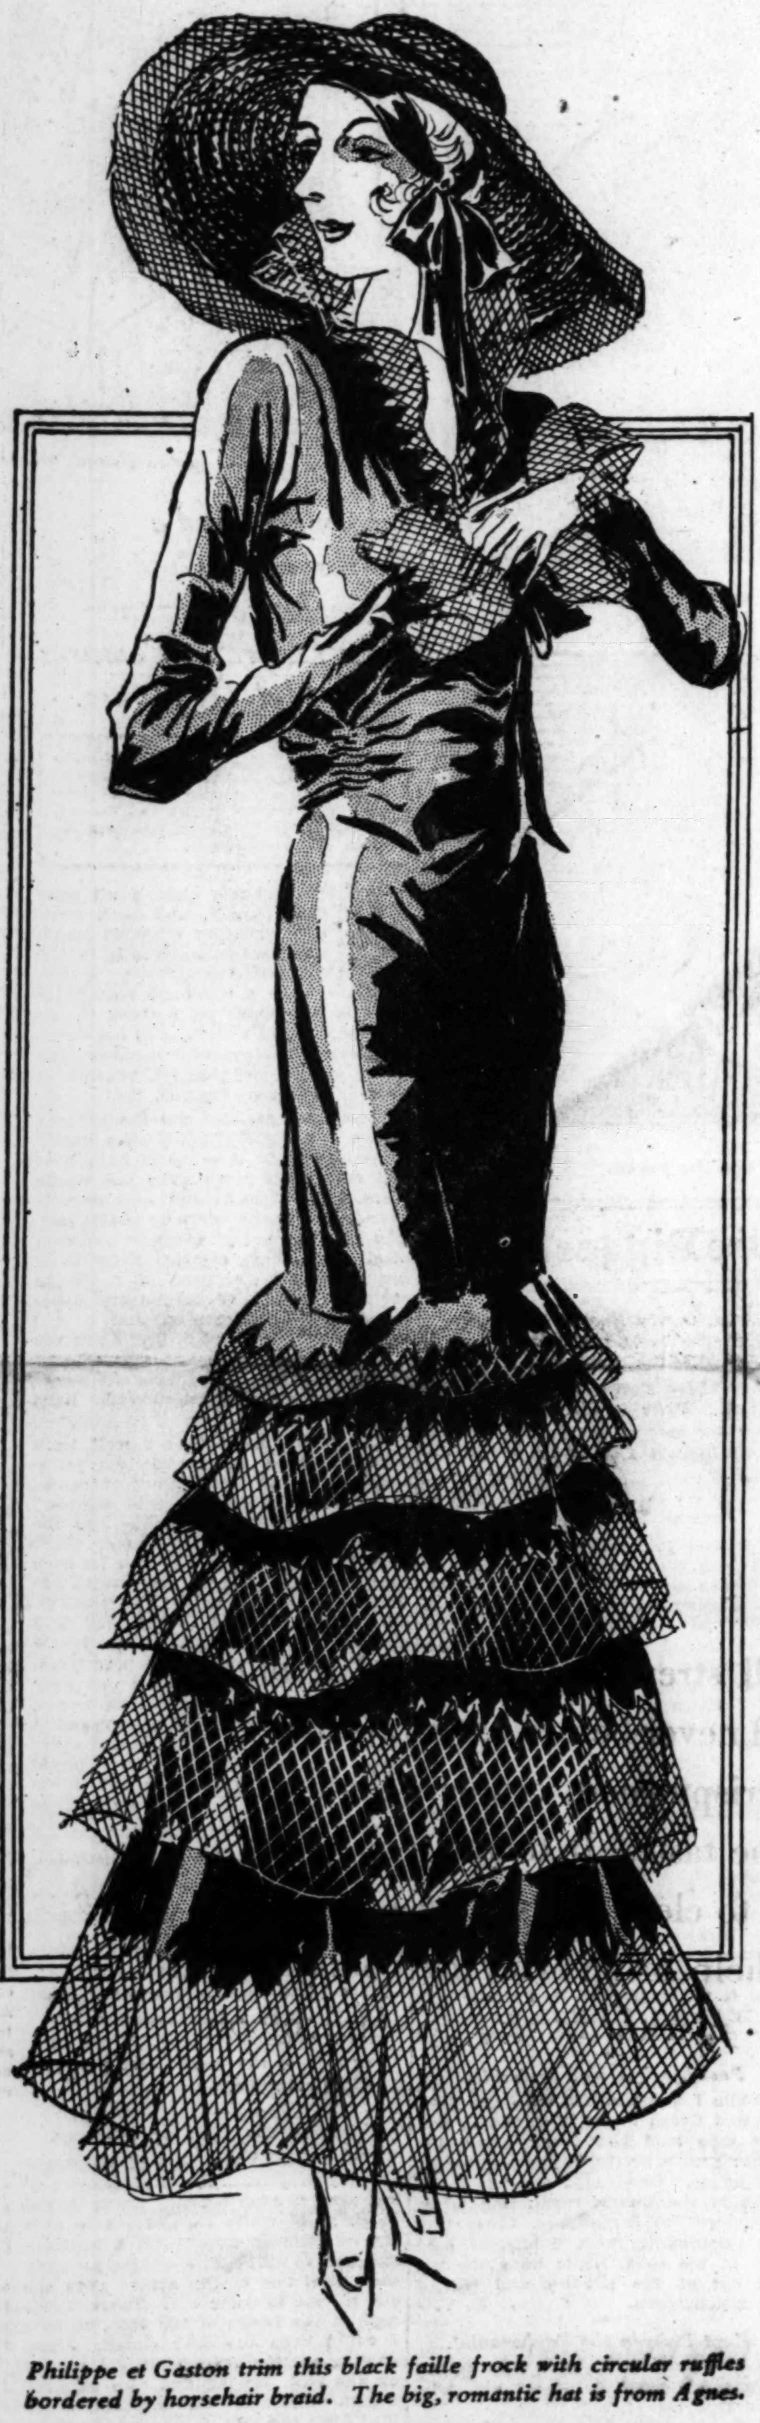
BEST LOOKING MODES ARE BLACK AND WHITE

Paris Adores These Shades and Flaunts Them in Tailored Suits for Morning, One Piece Frocks for Afternoon and in Evening Ensembles of Georgette with Little Ermine Jackets



[illegible] Molyneux ensemble has a bolero jacket that may be worn [illegible] or georgette side out. The dress with its double peplum [illegible] long, limp skirt is a smart summer model.



Philippe et Gaston trim this black faille frock with circular ruffles bordered by horsehair braid. The big, romantic hat is from Agnes.

Paris Snapshots

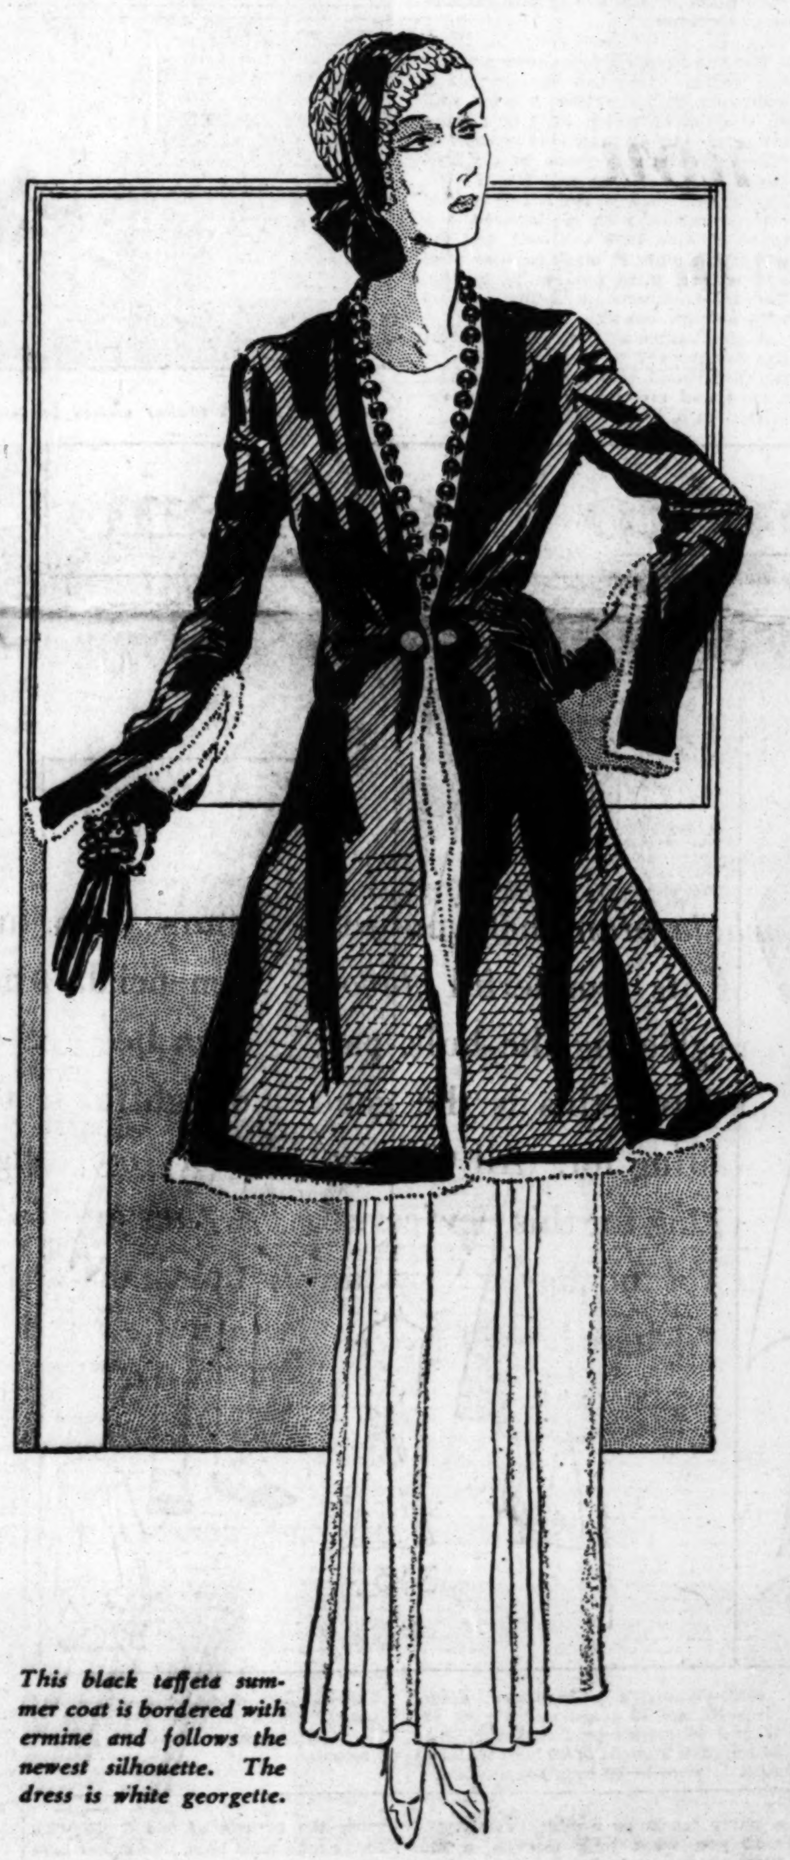
¶ The overskirt that ties on around the waist is a leading Paris fashion feature, and Louiseboulanger ties skirts of organdy over evening gowns of lace and chiffon.

¶ Mid-season fashions for early fall and late summer are turning to green as a favored color. Moss and bottle green are two favored shades.

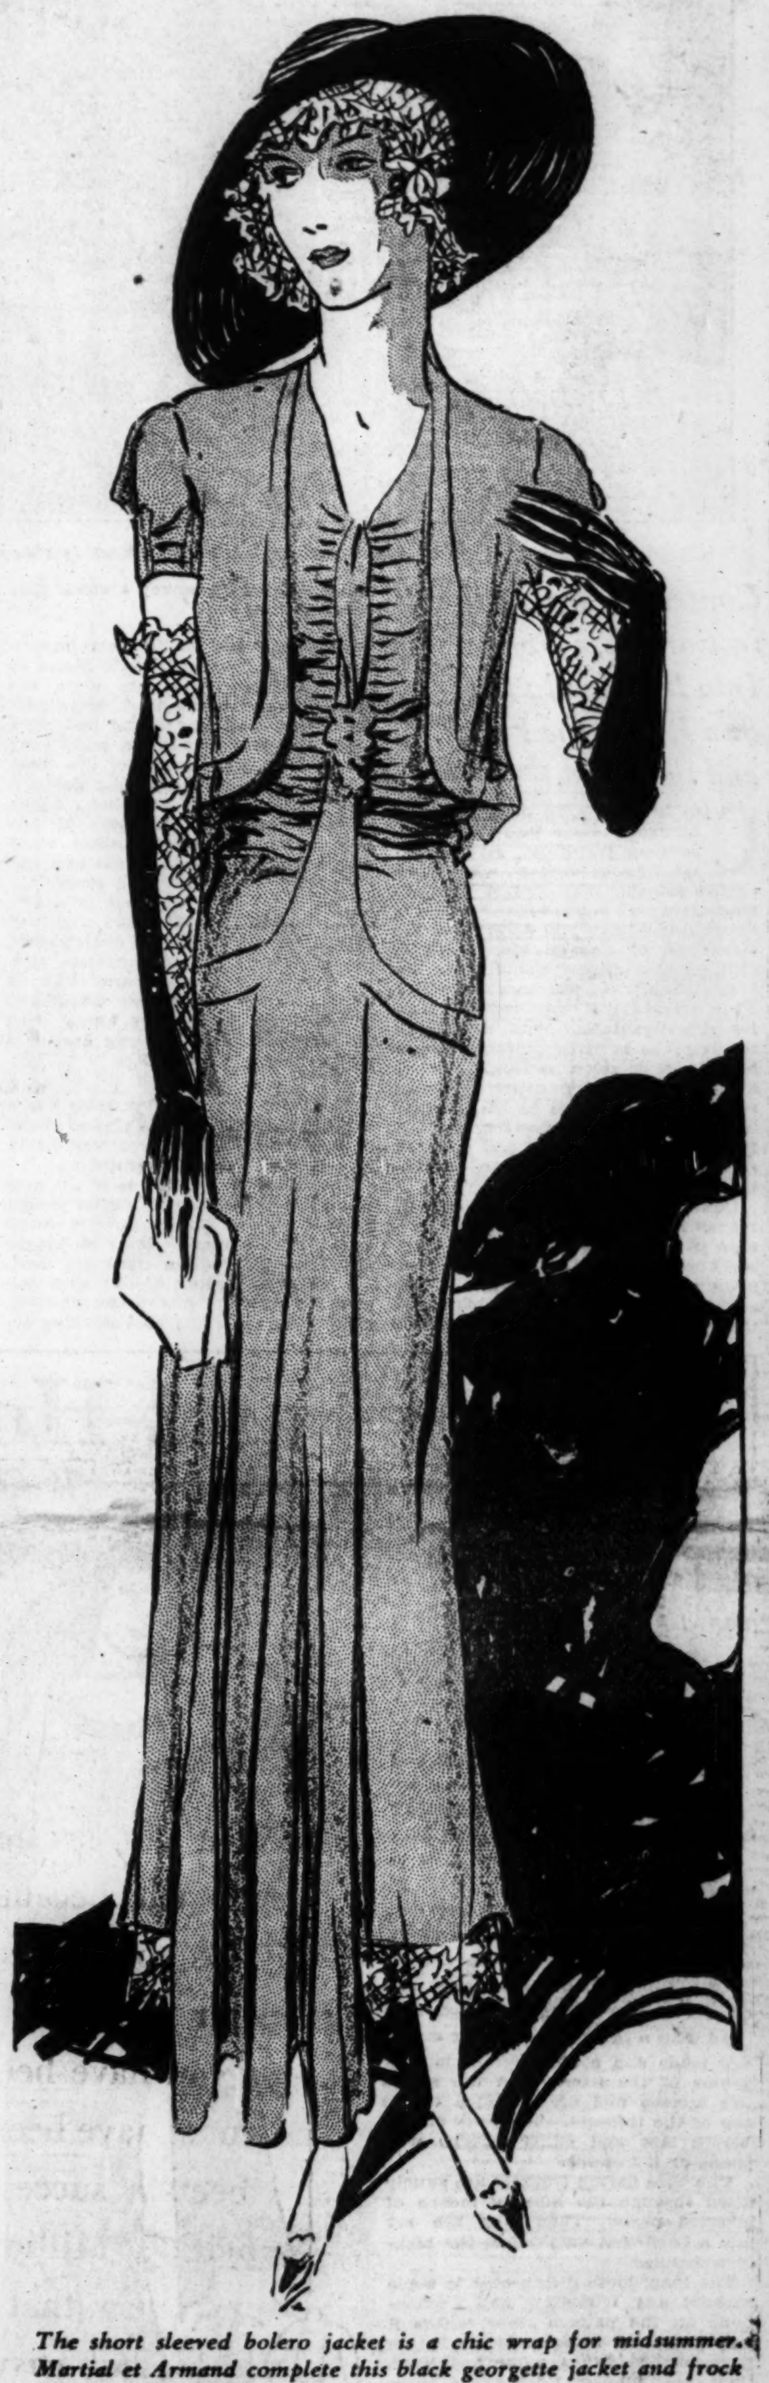
¶ Pale pastel evening cloaks with dark colored evening dresses are a feature of Lelong's midseason collection.

¶ The mid-season styles indicate that Paris is about to discard the habit of fitted skirts that flare low. The newest and best skirts are full from the hips or waistline.

¶ There is an intention on the part of some of the Paris dressmakers to shorten the evening frock. They're bringing it up to the ankles and above.



This black taffeta summer coat is bordered with ermine and follows the newest silhouette. The dress is white georgette.



The short sleeved bolero jacket is a chic wrap for midsummer. Martial et Armand complete this black georgette jacket and frock with hem and gloves of lace.

By Bettina Bedwell.

ARIS.—(Special.)—Black and white continues to be the most exciting concoction of summer styles. The chic of the mighty is written down in these two shades. Never [illegible] black costume with white details been so supremely [illegible] as it is this summer, and, while Paris offers more shades [illegible] the rainbow ever conceived, the stunning clothes wherever [illegible] black and white. Black tailored suits in the morning, [illegible] in the afternoon, and black and white, or one or the [illegible] at night.

[illegible] there's nothing fervidly stirring about black and white [illegible] It's what the black and white have to say, just as it is [illegible] or movie. Black and white clothes, just like the [illegible] white of the front page, leave your mind free to be [illegible] by what they impart. No other colors possess the same crisp clarity, and this is one colossal reason why the present vogue is what it is.

Paris fashions are being made famous, now, at the top of the season, and it is in black and white that the illustrious mode is most clearly and beautifully written. Go to the Jockey club, lunch or dine at the Ritz, dance at Frisco, and if you pay attention to black and white fashions you will have the story of summer styles packed down in your mind for ready reference.

The most exclusive women around the world's fashion capitol are avoiding the cape. This charming little wrap is one of the tin lizzies of fashion, and it is altogether too popular to have the grand chic that depends on the exclusive. The short jacket and the bolero are better, and many distinguished Parisiennes, local and foreign, are wearing suits and ensembles with such wraps. Ninety per cent of the time they are black, with white to pep them up.

Sheer black with a bit of lace to trim it is a notable summer fashion for the famous late afternoon mode and for evening. Georgette for this use is one of the most fashionable fabrics, and it has a significant future also.

Big hats, made of thin, or of lace straw, all in black or with a bit of white trimming, are worn in the afternoon all around Paris. Little black lace straw bonnets are used to cover the chic head at dinner, during the cocktail hour, and for dancing in restaurants and night clubs.

Black slippers, most of them pumps, are worn all day long and often far into the night, when the costume is something in that tone or in black and white.

White gloves are right up in the front row of fashion, because they look so perfect with the black costume. Sixteen button white glacé kid or suede gloves are preferred with the black evening gown, rather than the funereal black suede, which has had its day. Black lace and lace trimmed gloves and mitts—yes, my dears, mitts, are smart with lace and lace trimmed evening frocks.

Ermine is THE summer fur, and Paris uses it to trim the black silk coat and jacket, and wears the white ermine bolero and coatee with evening frocks of every sort. Parisian furriers say this fur will go through the winter in triumph also. A little bit of ermine is better than a broad swath of any other kind.

Women who have to coax their clothes budgets along, who must wrestle with the angel of economy every day and all the time, are the greatest beneficiaries of the black and white vogue this summer. Black clothes with white to liven them look smarter, last longer, and are more distinctive than any other kind. For hot weather thin black is the smartest and best of all the materials extant in fashion.

Particular Parisiennes wear suits of black wool crêpe or black shantung on the hottest days. They add blouses of white linen, batiste, or silk crêpe, and the jackets of such suits are usually bolero or short fitted jackets.

For afternoon the kind of black and the lines of the costume change. One piece dress replaces skirt and waist, and if a bolero is worn it often has short sleeves, with long gloves to bridge the expanse of arm.

Quite new are knee length, or slightly shorter black silk coats that are fitted at the waistline and flared below, à la Persian tunic. These are seen with black or white afternoon frocks, and one of them is shown in a sketch today. This distinctive ensemble was seen at Longchamps, worn by one of the most fashionable women there. The coat, which is made of black taffeta, is fitted in at the normal waistline and held there by two white buttons. It is flared by circular movement below, banded all around with tiny ermine edges, and stitched below the hips so it holds the flaring silhouette.

The sleeves are slit to the elbows and bordered with ermine, showing black slip-on gloves of suede. A simple frock of white georgette is worn with this coat, the skirt of which is ankle length and flared by pie-piece godets at the sides of the front. Its hem is perfectly even.

The smartest thing in costume necklaces for the black and white outfit is the one shown. It is made by stringing big ebony balls on white knotted cord. The Agnès bonnet is black lace straw with a band and frill of black taffeta to trim it.

For the bridge party or tea the black faille frock from Philippe et Gaston, shown in another sketch, is smart and unusual. This dress is flared below the hipline by a series of graduated ruffles of faille with scalloped borders edged with horsehair braid. The frills at the V neckline and around the wrists are also made of horsehair braid.

This dress is shirred at the sides of the fitted waistline to give a bit of softness and drapery there. The Agnès hat of black crin has a shallow crown and is trimmed with a black satin ribbon that passes through the joining of crown and brim, and ties in a bow at the left side of the head, showing the hair above and below. Many wide brimmed summer hats have brims lifted like this at one side.

For dinner the black georgette frock from Martial et Armand shown in another sketch is the smart woman's choice. The short sleeved bolero, complemented by black lace and suede gloves, the lace hem of the skirt, the shirred blouse, and the big black hat with its lace bonnet inside are details that make this toilette extremely smart.

No Paris ensemble is in better taste or more charming for restaurant evening wear than the black georgette ensemble from Molyneux, also shown on this page. The short jacket is reversible and may be worn ermine side out at will. A black tulle flaring beret with black satin bow and band is worn with this ensemble.

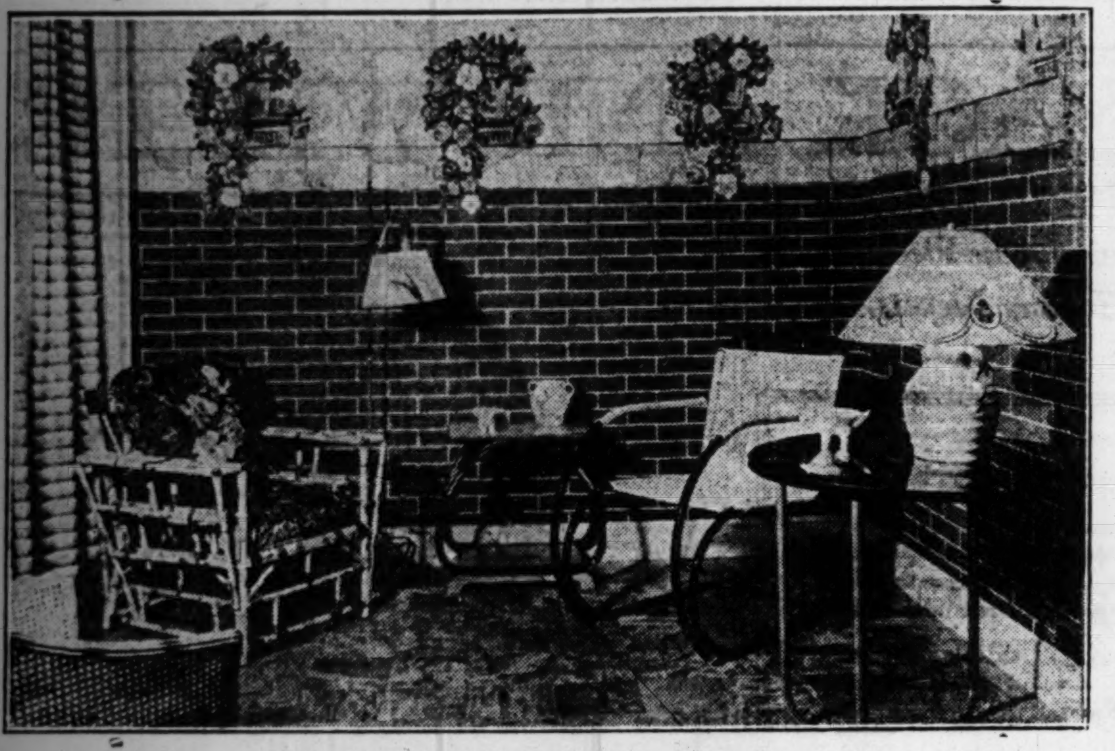
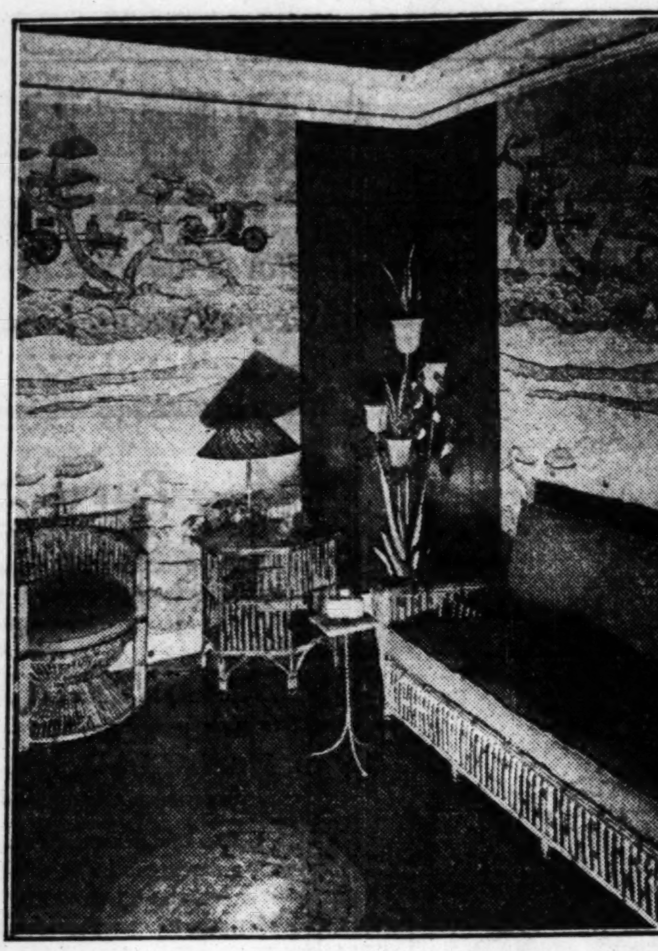
Something New Under the Summer Sun

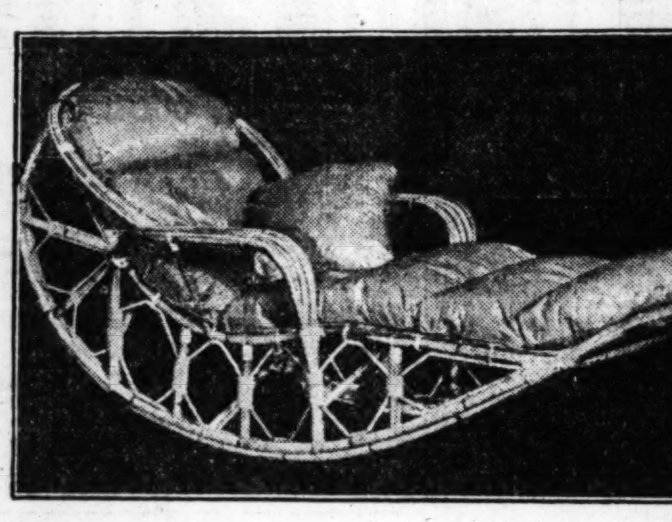
—By Edith Weigle—



Wall paper gives a brick wall effect to this sun room.



Chinese scenic paper creates a lovely background.



A rocker chaise longue for the porch.

Contemporary Design in Furniture Comes Into Its Own in the Sun Room, the Porch, and the Patio.

CONTEMPORARY decoration has assuredly come into its own in summer furniture. At a recent meeting of writers who represented all the well known women's magazines and publications devoted to house furnishings and decoration, the consensus of opinion seemed to be that modern design would enter the home through the sunroom and porch. They seemed the most logical places for experimentation with new ideas, for even the most conservative householder—he or she who would hesitate at a modern living room or dining room—would be sure to be intrigued by the new reed and rattan outdoor furniture. It is so gay and cheerful, so colorful and smart, and at the same time so luxurious.

One of the most unique and attractive sunrooms or indoor porches I have seen in ages is one in a model apartment planned by a Chicago department store. It is brimming with personality and charm, and I only wish the picture shown in connection with this article could convey a small part of its fascination.

Its background is its most important point. Extremely wide pieces of scenic Chinese paper are used, the predominating colors in it being soft shades of blue, gray, and red with accents of black against a pearl gray ground. At the corners of the room are placed strips of stunning gold tea chest paper, edged in black, which serve as contrast. In front of this gold paper are green bronze plant stands holding jars of cactus and ivy.

Against the longest wall space is a rattan couch with cushions of a soft green material, a little like a refined monks' cloth. The round chair shown has a cushion of this material also, while another low, square chair is done in a loosely woven orange-red fabric which harmonizes nicely with the burnt orange Shantung draperies at the French windows.

The lamp on the rattan table has a shining brass base and a plaited shade of a plaid fabric, also corresponding in color tone with the draperies.

The floor covering is one of the new black linoleums with a Chinese design in dull yellow painted in the exact center of the room. It is strikingly effective. No rugs or mats are used.

Tiny green bronze stands with colored tile tops are placed conveniently around the room and hold smoking accessories in modern chinaware.

This little room offers a number of practical suggestions for any home lover. If the Chinese scenic paper should prove too expensive for the average purse it may be substituted by a silver or gold tea chest paper or by any of the new washable wall papers, which may be had in clever modern patterns.

The rocker chaise longue pictured today is one of the latest things in contemporary outdoor furniture. Wouldn't it be attractive in a patio or on a long flagged terrace? The life saver pillows are covered with waterproof muslin in any of a number of gay colors.

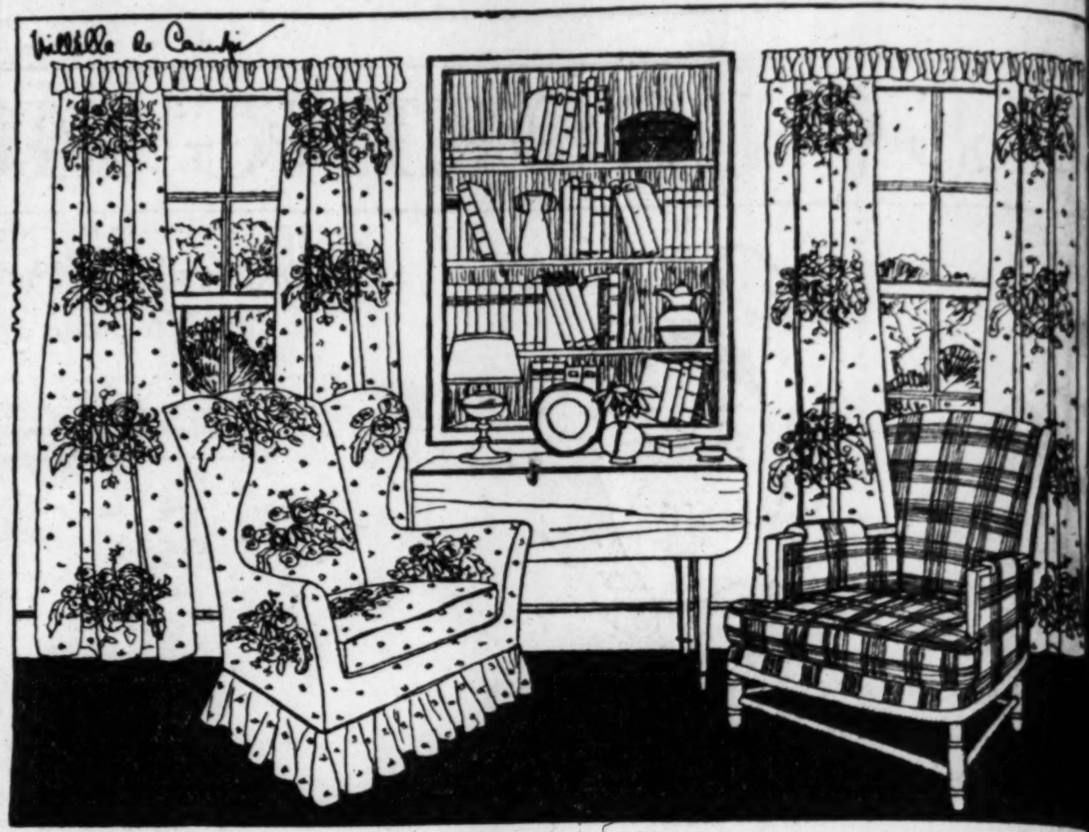
The third photograph shows another sun room. Here the background is wallpaper that simulates a brick wall on the top of which urns of flowers are painted by an ingenious artist. The floor is modern linoleum in checkerboard design of gray and black. The comfortable chair at the left is natural colored rattan with a flowered cretonne cushion back and seat, and the one at the right is black tubular steel and wicker, ultra modern in feeling. The table corresponds, being of steel with a black bakelite top.

A small table at the rear is of similar design, and at the lower left, in the foreground, you have a glimpse of a cane and metal trimmed chair, described in a previous article.

Summer Garb for Home

—By WillElla de Campi—



Semi-glazed chintz, matching the draperies, covers the wing chair.

Informality and a Refreshingly Cool Atmosphere Are the Most Desirable Features of the Holiday House.

WillElla de Campi will be glad to assist the homemaker in any problem pertaining to home furnishings. Address your letter to WillElla de Campi, The Tribune, Chicago. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope for personal reply.

WITH schools closing all over the country, and with summer vacation close at hand, thoughts turn joyfully to the refurnishing of the holiday house. Whether it be a week-end cottage, a home by the seashore, a camp in the wooded hills, or a delightful old farmhouse set in a peaceful meadow, the spirit of summer should prevail in furnishing and decoration.

Recently completed for the present season is a holiday house on a northern lake shore. A sense of happiness and rest holds sway over the whole place. The furnishings and decorations might easily serve as model suggestions for many another vacation abode, as they clearly show how beauty may be secured at moderate cost by means of intelligent selection, good arrangement, and a discriminating choice of color. Even the city house or apartment which must be occupied through the season might profit by adopting some such light hearted treatment.

The house itself is set well back from the road, with a winding driveway leading up to the front entrance. A veritable "garden of wild flowers" runs riot between the house and the road. There are daisies and black eyed susans, jewel weed, with its deep orange blossoms, wild roses, and numerous other flowers of the locality. On the opposite side of the road, and circling around one side of the house is a thick wood of sentinel pine trees. An apple orchard stretches out over the land at the other side of the house, and at the back, though you wouldn't really think of it as "out back," there is the wide blue lake. A brick paved terrace extends across the full width of this "back" of the house. Lilac bushes flourish at each end of the terrace. In the land space between the house and the lake shore, a lovely garden of sweet smelling flowers has been planted. Isn't it a perfect setting? And the little house lives up to it beautifully.

It is a simple clapboard house of conventional shape, but there ends its similarity to the average small house. Ivory paint makes the exterior spotlessly fresh. Baton blinds and trim are painted Mediterranean blue, repeating the color of the lake on a clear sunny day. This combination of ivory and blue, particularly for a summer time home is especially gratifying for a waterfront house because of its cool effect.

Inside the house notes of blue are used consistently in the decoration of each room. Woodwork throughout the ground floor is painted blue in the same tone as that of the outside trim. The small front entrance hall, with its quaint and steep staircase, is particularly charming. The only piece of furniture is a little oval table which holds a bowl of flowers gathered from the premises and an electrified whale oil lamp with a flower print shade. A wide open doorway on the right leads into the living room.

Informality and a refreshingly cool aspect, so desirable in a home for the summer, are reflected in the furnishings and decorations. Plaster walls are tinted a light grayish blue. At the windows there are draperies of imported French chintz, with large bright bouquets of garden flowers on a soft blue ground. This material costs only a few cents a yard, and because of its not too crisp semi-glaze it falls in exceptionally graceful folds. The draperies here are topped by narrow box plaited valances of plain blue glazed chintz. Glass curtains are dispensed with because of the lovely view of field, garden, and apple orchard.

French provincial and early American furniture is pleasingly combined. This type of furniture because of its sturdiness and simplicity is well suited for use in a country house. Excellent and inexpensive reproductions are being made now in our American factories, so furnishing with this type is not necessarily a costly proposition.

In the accompanying illustration is a pleasing group which gives a clear idea of the furnishings of the living room. The comfortable French provincial bergère is upholstered in blue and gray checked linen. Semi-g chintz, matching the draperies, ers the wing chair. Below the b shelves, which have been built i tween two windows, is a maple leaf table. This holds a pewter with parchment shade, a blue bowl of flowers, and a set of ing accessories. By this arrang each piece of furniture is complem ary to the other, effecting a comfortable group. The remai of the furniture is equally attrac and well placed. Pewter sco table lamps, and polished steel rea lamps light the room, while colo hooked rugs brighten the floor.

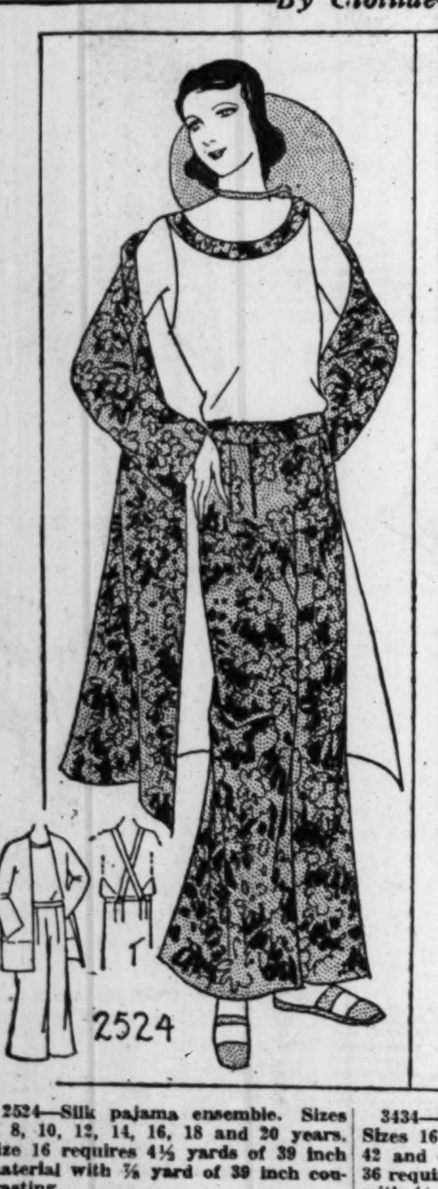
In the dining room, which ha group of casement windows overl ing the terrace and the ever cha able lake, the same general scheme has been carried out, th in an entirely different manner. W here are covered with a waterp sunfast, washable paper. The design, done in modern feeling, i tones of blue and green on an iv ground. Draperies of plain blue gl chintz bound with green are top by a narrow box plaited valance match. A maple refectory table placed with its long side against windows. In this way plenty of ing space is provided for the ave family, and when guests are also be seated here, the table is ea pulled a little away from the w dows. Sturdy little ladder back ch with woven peel cane seats com nicely with the maple table. T chairs were bought unfinished were painted blue to match the w work.

Cupboards built into the corner the room are also painted blue, in the wall space between them st an open dresser of maple. Pieces pewter, sparkling blue glass, and peasant-style china adorn the she of both cupboard and dresser, bri ening the whole room. Pew sconces and candlesticks with d blue candles are used for lighting. T floor is covered with linoleum on wh there is an all-over design in bl black and cream on a gray ground. Blue again, combined with pure g tening white decorates the perfect tle kitchen which completes the f floor of this charming house. In n week's article we will describe rooms upstairs, with all their lo new summertime fittings.

Patterns and How to Use Them

—By Clotilde—

Jaunty Beach Pajamas, a Tie-Around Frock and a Party Dress for the Diminutive Miss Fill Seasonal Needs



2524—Silk pajama ensemble. Sizes 6, 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 16 requires 4½ yards of 39 inch material with ⅞ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

3206—Child's dress. Sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. Size 4 requires 1⅝ yards of 32 or 35 inch material with 4½ yards of ribbon.

JACQUARD crêpe silk in black and white is smart for a pajama ensemble for the beach or boudoir wear, and pattern No. 2524 will be just the one you will need to use for it.

The tuck-in blouse is cleverly cut, with the rounding neck at the front, while in the back the blouse is seamed to the front at the underarms and cut across the back more like a wide band than a blouse. Suspender straps are made and sewed to the shoulder seams of the front, then the straps are crossed and are buttoned to the top of the trousers. The back of this blouse laps and either fastens with snaps or it buttons.

The wide flaring trousers are snugly fitted through the hips by means of inverted tucks. Then they are set into a band that emphasizes the higher waistline.

The long, loose fitting coat is made without any trimming, and perforations on the pattern show where it may be cut off to be made hip length if preferred. Linen pique and shantung are popular fabrics for these ensembles.

There is no more fascinating sewing than making dresses for small girls. They can be so dainty and pretty and need cost but a fraction of what the same ones would cost to buy ready made.

Pattern No. 3206 is a cunning yoked dress, with the drop shoulders of the yoke forming short sleeves. The neckline across the back is rounding, while in the front it is V shaped. The tiny skirt, instead of having the usual gathers across the top, has the fullness taken care of in narrow vertical tucks. The pattern is perforated for these tucks and a tracing wheel will probably be all you will need to mark the material clearly. The material is creased on the perforated lines, and stitched one-eighth of an inch from these creases. Putting these tucks in accurately will take longer than making the rest of the dress probably, but time must be taken to do the work perfectly. You might run them in by hand, or if you use the matching, don't forget to fasten the thread or threads on each tuck.

The dress can be finished at the bottom with a deep hem, or it may be finished in a scalloped outline. Buttercup yellow chambray, with brown chambray for the contrast, is pretty; so are pink and white or blue and white pin checked gingham, using the color in a plain gingham for the contrast.

Chiffon or taffeta would be chic for a party frock, so would organdy.

If you want long sleeves, a one piece pattern is included and this long sleeve is set onto the edge of the drop shoulder. Turn in the shoulder edge and lay the sleeve edge underneath, basting it carefully. Before stitching, overcast the edges together. Then stitch twice, once close to the edge, and the second time about one-quarter of an inch above. The sleeve is gathered at the wrist and set into a narrow fitted band.

Pattern No. 3434 is for a dress that is bound to be a favorite—it is so feminine and consequently flattering. Back and front are each cut in one piece, and the front at the waistline is slashed in from the underarm edges and the lower edge extended. This lower edge is then gathered and sewed to the upper slashed edge. This throws a becoming fullness to the hem. A tie string of the dress material is sewed to the dress each side of the center front and tied in a bow at the back. The chic rever collar is attached to a band that goes across the back of the dress, and then it is sewed in place on the dress, perforations on the pattern showing just where.

The little vestee and collar will be pretty made of a contrasting color. Finish the bottom of the dress with a three inch wide hem, and either hem or face the bottom of the short sleeves.

Emerald green tub silk showing tiny white dots and aquamarine blue silk pique are smart suggestions. Batiste, cotton broadcloth, pique and voile are also suitable materials.

The Biggest Liar

Who is the biggest liar you have ever known and what was his biggest lie? The Tribune will pay $1 for every whopper published. Write it simply and use only one side of the paper. Mail it to Biggest Liar, Sunday Tribune.

Farmer Tells This One.

A farmer told this one:

"I was plowing my corn ground and when evening came my watch was missing. I searched for it but at last gave up the hunt, thinking I had turned the sod over it. The next spring I was walking through the field I had plowed the year before. There on the limb of a tree hung my watch, tickin' away, tickin' away." A. F.

Puzzler for Credit Department.

A wealthy farmer was the biggest liar I ever knew. He would tell a lie for 50 cents when the truth was at par. In reply to a dun sent him by a city firm for a meerschaum pipe purchased by him, he sent the following, scrawled across the billhead: "Dear Sir: I never ordered this worthless pipe. If I did, you didn't send it. If you sent it, I never got it. If I got it, I paid for it." C. W. S.

Possible but Not Probable.

While I was a nurse with the British Red Cross I met a Canadian soldier who said that back home his father kept a pet rattlesnake to guard the house. One night they heard a noise in the dining room, and when they went to investigate, there was the rattlesnake, with a burglar held fast in his coils, while he stuck his tail out of the window and rattled for a policeman. E. V.

Kept Rain in the Background.

The biggest liar I have ever known is a man about 60 years old, who tells this story:

"On returning from a near by town with a team and wagon, a rainstorm was approaching, but I drove so fast all the way home that at no time did any rain reach nearer me than one-half of the length of the wagon box." H. B. B.

And This from West Virginia.

Several years ago, while sojourning in West Virginia, I was told the following improbable story by the "biggest liar" in that neighborhood.

Trudging along a mountain road, he one day came to a fallen tree which stretched entirely across. Being tired, he sat down to rest before continuing his journey. To his amazement, the log upon which he sat began to move gently under him. Rising hastily, he discovered the supposed tree to be in reality a huge snake, which wriggled peacefully away to disappear in the deep thicket at the side of the road. G. B. McC. B.

Imagination Conquers Veracity.

Once while we were out fishing a man came up and was telling us how he used to catch fish with his hands. My uncle thought the man was lying, so he said, "Where I used to live there's a creek so full of fish you have to take the end of the pole and push them away before you can find a place for your hook and line." In the Feminine Realm

The Eskimo bride is chosen not for her looks, but mainly because she is good at making clothing, a resourceful cook, and a handy worker around the camp. The girl who is unable or unwilling to do her share of the work, even if she possesses the beauty of a Venus, has a poor chance of finding a mate.

Enacting the Role of Mummy.

I was taking the part of an Egyptian mummy in a play during my second year in high school. I was bound in strips of white cheesecloth to give the realistic appearance of a mummy and had to stand in a quaint mummy case until one of the actors gave the cue for me to come out. There was a nail on the inside of the case, so that I could keep the door closed. Upon coming out, the cheesecloth got caught on the nail, tearing and also unraveling it. I became flustered and stumbled over the rug, falling to the floor. The audience roared, the rest of the cast was horrified, and the curtain was drawn "until the flustered mummy restored herself." E. T.

Caused Man to Smile.

Coming home one rainy night from the office I was walking along thinking of some work I had been doing. I used a crowded subway to cross the street and noticed that everybody was smiling at me. I wondered what was the matter, and then I realized that I had walked half the length of the subway with my umbrella open over my head. J. R.

Family Imitations.

I have a habit, when alone and thinking deeply, of putting my fingers and thumbs together, then spreading them and my hands.

One evening at one of our large family gatherings, the whole crowd got to singing old songs together. After a while, I withdrew and sat, listening. The old songs made me think deeply of days gone by. Unconsciously, I gave way to my habit. After a while I awoke to the fact that it was extremely quiet. Looking around, I saw every last one of them sitting with a grin on each face, and each one mocking me like a monkey.

Was I embarrassed? A. L. S.

Amused the Screechy Girls.

While a freshman at college, I occasionally ate lunch at a cafeteria which was quite popular with both the students and members of the faculty.

One warm day, while trying to squeeze the juice out of a wedge of lemon into my iced tea, it suddenly and unexpectedly slipped out of my fingers and shot straight out through the air, landing neatly on the neck, just back of the ear, of one of the professors sitting near me.

To make my distress complete four screechy girls who had witnessed the unfortunate proceeding, suddenly became overwhelmed with shrill laughter and attracted the attention of everybody around us.

I don't know which was the more embarrassed and furious—the professor or myself—as I went over to him and apologized. R. H. C.

Dandruff All Goes Sure Pop!

If you have dandruff, no matter how much, you probably have tried shampoos and head washes without success, just try this simple method once and you will surely agree that "Dandruff all goes sure pop."

Get from any toilet goods counter a few ounces of liquid Calonite, apply it just once to the scalp and notice results. Just one application and every particle of dandruff and other pore accumulations will be gone. Liquid Calonite just dissolves away these scalp pore impurities entirely. After you have gotten rid of these, use liquid Calonite just once a week to keep scalp pores free and clean.

re appear to be two paramount ems—dress and tipping.

Suitable Dress.

e question of what to wear de- s entirely on what things one s to do, and on what scale. Dress shipboard presents a pitfall to a many women. It is only on the t elaborate and expensive liners a dress is even the least bit ntatious. On these ships people dinner parties as they might in restaurant on land and they and r guests dress accordingly.

int from the Experienced.

perienced persons travel with the st compactness. The clever woman will select clothes that are adaptable, don't take up much room, and that will stand the wear and tear of travel. Two piece sports frocks of jersey, which doesn't rumple much, are great favorites. Those who prefer to wear sweaters and skirts select wrap around skirts rather than plaited ones and they bring a variety of sweaters with scarfs and hats that are interchangeable. These scarfs and hats, by the way, are good things to have. One may bring but a few outfits with accessories that will harmonize with each and one can look smartly dressed every day. Shoes are comfortable, low heeled walking or sports oxfords. For the ocean voyage hats or berets are usually of felt. One warm sports coat is an absolute essential for a European voyage.

A great many travelers wear sports things until dinner time. A few, those who prefer the lounge and cocktails to the deck, change after lunch into afternoon frocks. In the evening, as we have said, simple dinner frocks are the rule. On a conservative tour, three dinner frocks will take you to, through Europe and back. One evening wrap of medium weight that may be worn with all evening outfits is the best selection.

On land, sports or tailored clothes are worn while sightseeing. In the afternoon simple frocks are customary and what one wears for evening depends entirely on what one does. In the expensive and lively hotels evening clothes are necessary; in a pension, in which one leads one's own life, one may do as one pleases.

Stewards Require Tact.

On boarding a liner, the traveler sets about immediately to find his stateroom. Here he unpacks the small things in his small bag, puts his wraps away, and then starts out to consult stewards. The bath steward is approached early and diplomatically. If you like your bath in the morning try to get a morning hour that fits your rising schedule. If you wish to bathe before dinner in the evening, or perhaps before going to bed, he is the person who reserves the time and tub for you.

Next one arranges for accommodations on deck. The deck steward is consulted—one can get a chair in the morning sun, in the afternoon sun, or perhaps a sheltered corner. This steward can arrange a permanent place for your chair and you may rent a steamer rug if you haven't brought your own.

Finally one arranges with the dining room steward about a place at table. On shipboard there are first and second tables, one an hour or so earlier than the other. Early risers may take first table while those who rise late and dine late can arrange for the second. Seats at the captain's table are given only by invitation. If one wishes to have parties at dinner the dining room steward will make all arrangements.

As in a hotel, or any place for that matter, consideration for others is the watchword if you'd end your voyage with a reputation for good manners. Children, if you are traveling with them, may have their fun, but they should be restrained if they annoy people who are resting or feeling anything but playful. In the library and writing salons voices should be modulated so as not to disturb others. In the lounges one may be comfortably at home but, as always, good taste demands that one be inconspicuous.

Keep Conduct Above Reproach.

In the evening there is dancing for those who feel gay, and cards for the sedate. Young girls shouldn't be too partial to any one man they meet casually on a boat, and their conduct should always be above reproach, notwithstanding the usual friendliness and informality that prevails on board ship. We know of no place where gossip runs rampant more than it does on an ocean liner. The enforced physical idleness of the voyage insures wagging tongues.

It's a grand and glorious feeling to snuggle into a deck chair—but there is always the bore of the boat who wants to tramp miles, but not alone, or who wants to start something—anything from conversation to deck tennis. Of course, the most far-reaching treatment for this would be education—teaching people not to subject others to their company, or their wishes, unless they get reasonable encouragement. The best pian for the person who wishes to be left more or less alone is for him to adopt a weary look, to keep at hand a book in which he might simulate absorption, or, in extreme situations, to be down right frigid.

It is undeniably true that on shipboard many conventions are relaxed and that formality regarding introductions goes almost entirely by the board, but the well bred person won't take too much advantage of these circumstances.

Next Sunday we will try to make reasonably exact the elastic schedule of tipping, both on shipboard and in Europe.

A DOLLAR FOR YOUR DREAMS

Have you ever had a dream which later came true? If you'll mail us an account of your prophetic dream we'll pay you $1 for every dream published. Address "Dreams," Chicago Tribune.

Dream Saved Her Haviland.

A few years ago I had a most remarkable experience, one which I will never forget. I woke up with a sudden start from a vivid dream in which I saw my precious set of Haviland china dishes smashed into a thousand fragments, caused by the shelf in the china closet becoming loosened and collapsing.

As it was nearing daylight, I hurriedly rushed downstairs to make sure that my dishes were quite all right. I was greatly astonished to find the shelf being held in place by two tiny nails and that these were partly loosened. Thanks to the warning I had received, my dishes are still intact. H. T.

Revealed Good Fortune.

About five years ago I entered a contest held by a magazine. Everybody told me that I would not win anything, but I was determined to do so. The night before the winners were announced I dreamed that I was picking up a number of silver pieces.

The next day I told the family of this. They just laughed, but the laugh was on them, for we learned that afternoon that I had won a prize of fifty dollars. H. V. B.

Received Warning Twice.

In my dreams it seemed to me that the setting of a ring which I wore every day had loosened. Before putting on this ring I examined it and found nothing loose. About a week later I again dreamed that prongs were bent away from the stone. The second dream made me wonder what sort of warning I really had received.

A few days later I discovered a prong had been broken away from the stone, so I am not wearing this ring until the much dreamed of setting is repaired. C. W. W.

Symbolized Disaster.

All day long I had been thinking of my sister-in-law. She lived just a short distance from a bad railroad crossing. That night I dreamed that while going to visit her my car stalled on the tracks as a fast train was approaching. I screamed in my sleep and awoke.

Next morning I told my husband my dream and not two hours later I received a phone call that my sister-in-law and two children had been killed on the crossing. They were on their way to visit me. J. H.

Pennies, Nickels Will Buy Coupe.

My husband and I are both clerical workers. When we were married, about three years ago, we agreed that we would save all the pennies and nickels that either one of us got in change and deposit them in a separate savings account.

The first year our "change" account showed $104.16 saved. Three years later, or April 15 of this year, our total "change" savings amounted to $401.02. This amount has been saved with practically no effort on our part. We are looking forward to a new coupé next year, bought with our "pet economy." E. J. B.

Just Loaning Them Out.

From a friend of mine, traveling extensively in Europe, I received the following postcard today:

"These medieval villages are so fascinating; scenery along the Mediterranean is tremendous. Isn't this card exquisite? I'll be starting home about June 10th. Will you save this postal for me, as it's so artistic?"

Though she could well afford to buy all the duplicate postcards she desires, instead, she, economically, "calls back those she has mailed to her friends. C. R. S.

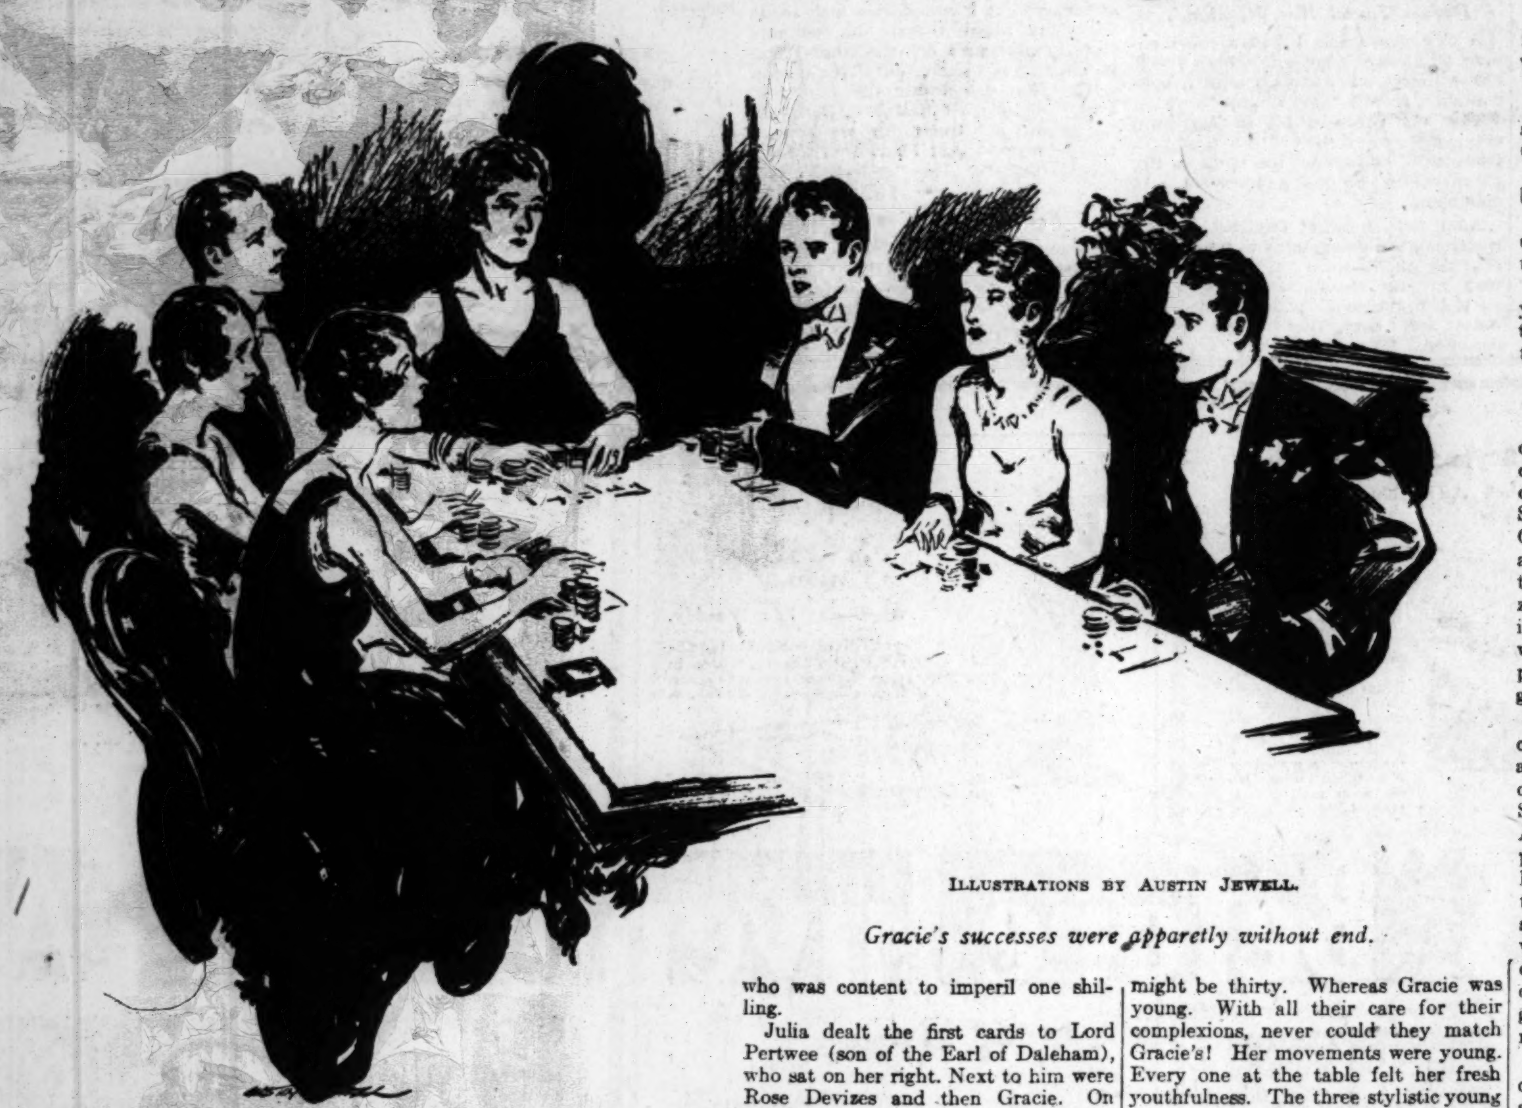
BACCARAT

by ARNOLD BENNETT

A Chance to Gamble with Julia Hobb, Millionaire and Individualist, Was Too Much for Gracie; She Plunged In Head Over Heels, While Young Oliver Stood Grimly By and Waited.



ILLUSTRATIONS BY AUSTIN JEWELL.

Gracie's successes were apparetly without end.

GRACIE and Oliver came round the bend and sat down in a corner of the open air but roofed terrace in front of the café, and Oliver rang a bell in the wall and ordered coffee for two.

"And what about a crême de menthe?" said Gracie.

"I never take liqueurs," Oliver answered. "Do you?"

"Of course I do. I like the colors of them."

"One crême de menthe," said Oliver, recalling the attendant.

"But you must have one, too," Gracie protested.

"No, thanks."

"But I can't drink a liqueur alone!" Gracie protested further.

"Why not? Are you afraid?" And Oliver, smiling at Gracie, repeated to the attendant: "One crême de menthe."

Oliver was a tall and very personable young man, dressed with utter correctness. No frilled evening shirts for Oliver. A shirt starched into convex cast iron. Plain gold cuff links and studs. No fantasy in the buttons of his white waistcoat. No pattern on his butterfly black tie. His dark hair was perhaps a bit long, but not at the back nor at the sides of his fine head. Only a tuft above the forehead. Age twenty-seven or eight.

Gracie wore white, a demi-toilette—early in the fashion—with a diamond covered wristwatch of the tiniest size, an erratic timepiece which even when it consented to go was undecipherable without the aid of a microscope. No rings. A coral necklace. Gracie's brown, shining hair somewhat lacked discipline. Her brown flashing eyes, and her gestures, showed impulsiveness and the will to dominate. She was beautiful—or beginning to be beautiful, for she had barely reached nineteen. She thought she was at life's apogee.

Talk of Speed

They began to smoke, Oliver holding the match. When the attendant returned they drank. They put their heads together and talked with extraordinary vivacity about speed on land, on water, in the air. And little that they said could have had the slightest interest for anybody else. Only the manner in which they said what they said might have been interesting to outsiders. Each was absorbed in the other. They unconsciously divided the world into two parts: themselves—and outsiders. This was a flirtation. That by a previous understanding they had started dinner, at different tables, of course, on the stroke of seven, and hurried through it so that they could escape early and get a few minutes undisturbed together before outsiders had finished eating, was known to every one in the ship.

For they were on board the Ariadne, a fifteen thousand ton affair pursuing what was called a "cruise de luxe" in the Mediterranean, and now, having just left the region of Monte Carlo, on her way to Naples, Syracuse, Athens, Constantinople, Crete, and such legendary places. Six hundred passengers, all at leisure and all saloon. No second class, except for ladies' maids, valets and similar laborious persons. Two hundred and fifty stewards who were on duty at 5:30 a. m. and off duty at 11 p. m., except the swimming pool attendant, whose day began at 3:45 a. m.—because the pool had to be emptied and cleaned every morning.

A stout, tall old lady, waddling with the aid of a stick, appeared round the corner and stopped opposite the pair. Oliver rose.

"Sit down," said the old lady.

Oliver sat.

The old lady was the illustrious Mrs. Julia Hobb, one of the world's richest women, and queen empress of the ship, by reason less of her wealth than of her natural authority. Her aged features and the hair on her upper lip were masculine; and like a man she had made her millions. She had been a widow for over forty years. She was American by birth and by marriage; but she had lost her American accent in world travel, though she had never troubled herself to learn any foreign language.

Julia the Boss

There were two suites de luxe in the Ariadne. Julia Hobb had the starboard suite. She "carried" two maids, one of whom acted, also, as secretary. She was the chief patron of the wireless operator and was continually receiving and sending messages about stock markets. Scarcely a day passed without some increase in her wealth.

On the first morning of the cruise, the breakfast bugle was blown along the corridors at 8 a. m., as it had always been blown on all the ships of the old fashioned line of which the Ariadne was a minor member. The strident bugle woke Julia Hobb. Her maids suffered. She sent for the almighty purser. The breakfast bugle was never blown again during that cruise.

The official time for dinner was 7 p. m., and few passengers dared to begin the meal later than 7:30 p. m. But Julia Hobb would not dine at 7 p. m., an hour which she described as preposterous. Nor at 7:30, nor at 8, nor at 8:30. But at 8:45. The chief dining room steward would wait outside her suite of a morning to take her commands concerning the day's menus.

When she arrived for dinner in the dining saloon the white cloths had been removed from every table but hers. Often she dined alone, with four smiling stewards around her, but sometimes she would invite acquaintances to her table; but such companions were not consulted as to the menu. They ate and drank what was put on their plates and in their glasses. She was a firm old monument.

The Ariadne had stayed twenty-eight hours in the region of Monte Carlo. In that space of time Julia Hobb had taken 1,300,000 francs out of the coffers of the International Sporting club, at chemin de fer or baccarat. One million three hundred thousand francs was nothing to her. Still, she took it away, as a matter of form. No wonder she was the queen empress of the ship. No wonder she held the purser under one foot, and the commander himself under the other.

"Gracie," said she now, in her deep, rich voice. "Rose Devizes tells me you would like to play baccarat."

"I should simply love to, Mrs. Hobb," said Gracie, with girlish ardor.

"Do you know how to play?"

"I think so."

"What do you mean you 'think so'?"

"Well, I watched you play at the Sporting club; and I do believe I've got the hang of it."

"You may have got the hang of it," said Julia Hobb. "But have you got the money to lose?"

"Yes, Mrs. Hobb."

"How much?"

"A hundred pounds," said Gracie calmly.

"To spare?"

"Yes, Mrs. Hobb."

"Your father spoils you. How's your aunt today?"

"About the same—not worse."

"Very well. You come to my room at 10 o'clock tonight. Rose Devizes will be there, and some others."

"It's awfully good of you, Mrs. Hobb."

Didn't Care a Tuppence

Julia Hobb waddled away—tap, tap, tap on the deck. Beyond telling him to sit down she had taken little notice of Oliver, who was nobody in particular and belonged to no "set." Gracie was perhaps somebody. Her father had a very brilliant if slightly precarious position in the city of London. And Gracie, with her invalid aunt and one maid, occupied the other suite de luxe on the port side of the ship. The invalid aunt was rarely seen—and never at meals.

Oliver resumed the flirtatious duologue, pretending that Julia Hobb's demeanor had not snubbed him, and that if Mrs. Hobb imagined he cared tuppence for her she was wrong.

"I touched 80 on the Oxford road last week but one, and it's pretty narrow," said he.

Gracie sniffed. "That's not much. I've done a whole lap at Brooklands at nearly 100," said she.

"Yes," said Oliver, stung. "But Brooklands isn't the Oxford road; and, besides, your father gets special cars for you."

To which Gracie retorted: "I can scarcely wait till 10 o'clock. I'll have another crême de menthe"

"You will not," said Oliver with force. "Have an orange juice instead." And he smiled to soften his force.

"You are a darling," said Gracie.

People began to stroll in from dinner, replete.

"Let's play ping-pong in the gym," Oliver proposed.

Gracie nodded. Entirely ignoring the soft beauty of the Mediterranean night through which the Ariadne was steaming, the pair ran off, Gracie first, down to B deck, down further to C deck, across a bridge, and into the gymnasium.

Gracie, having defeated Oliver at ping-pong by means of a new serve which she had learned from the gym steward, entered somewhat triumphantly the precincts of Julia Hobb's suite at two minutes to ten. One of the two maids was waiting in the corridor. Julia always had a bodyguard.

"Am I late? Who's there?" Gracie whispered to the maid.

"Lady Devizes, Mr. Leopold Cheddar, Mr. Sacheverell Cheddar, Lord Pertwee, and Mrs. Penkethman, miss"

Timidly and yet audaciously, the young girl peeped round the open door and went into the sitting room, which had many flowers, an electric fan, a long table, a sofa, and six chairs

"Come along, child," Julia greeted her.

Ten Shillings the Limit

"This is no place for you," said the tall, beautiful countess of Devizes. "But what's the good of a girl who doesn't know how to play baccarat?"

Rose, and the beautiful Mrs. Penkethman were busy shuffling nine or ten packs of cards, an operation which they concluded with prestigidatory finger movements as rapid and sure as those of a conjurer. The handsome young Cheddars, brothers of Rose's absent husband, looked on. Julia Hobb sat with her legs spread and her broad ringed hands on her knees: a customary pose with her.

"I'll be banker," said Julia, and dragged her chair up to one end of the table. "You'd better sit three a side."

The cards were inserted into the "shoe" with sundry preliminary manipulations which Gracie did not understand. Out of a large silver box the banker distributed counters marked from £1 to 1/-, to the total value of £5 per player. Julia ranged the "shoe" in front of herself. The game was about to begin, and Gracie was as excited as she had never been—not even at Brooklands with the wheel of a racing car under her hands.

"Smithson! Smithson!" growled Julia. The maid appeared. "Stop that fan."

Smithson stopped the fan, and then the wash of Mediterranean waves against the ship's sides could be faintly heard.

"Now," said Julia, looking at Gracie. "The maximum stake is ten shillings."

Murmurs of protest. "O, Julia!" "O, Julia darling!" "Do make it a pound, sweetie."

"The maximum stake is ten shillings," Julia repeated. "I know what private barracat is, or can be. It's very dangerous. Any one can lose £50 on a couple of shoes with a 10/-limit, and that's quite enough. You know you haven't a cent, Rose. Neither have Leo and Sachy. And Perty depends on his father. The only people here with any money worth mentioning are Nancy and Gracie and me. Ten shillings maximum. Put down your stakes."

There were five British aristocrats at the table, and Julia pleasantly treated them all like dirt, and they all accepted the treatment. Julia's place of origin was a village street in Kentucky. She had a fancy for aristocrats because they had style and because it amused her to demonstrate that aristocrats by birth were the scum of the earth in the presence of the autocracy of great wealth—backed by a powerful individuality. Everybody put down a 10/- counter except Nancy Pankethman, who was content to imperil one shilling.

Julia dealt the first cards to Lord Pertwee (son of the Earl of Daleham), who sat on her right. Next to him were Rose Devizes and then Gracie. On the left side were Leo Cheddar, Nancy Pankethman, and then Sachy Cheddar. The bank lost to the right side and won from the left.

"Sucks!" said Nancy, gloomily.

"Now, don't touch the stakes!" said Julia harshly. "Let nobody touch the stakes. I'm banker." She threw down counters to the right side, and with a rake gathered in the stakes from the left side. The game had fairly begun.

Gracie Wins

Gracie had made the sum of ten shillings in her first gamble. She was intensely excited and intensely happy. She felt that she understood the game; therefore, that she had a head for cards. And she was playing with some of the smartest people in London, people whose photographs were always in the papers (except the plain old millionairess, who would never allow herself to be photographed). Gracie's own name and photograph had several times been printed because of her unofficial feats at Brooklands. But that was different. The others had done absolutely nothing. (Nor did they show by a single word any acquaintance with the fact that Gracie had done something.) They simply were. Their mere existence entitled them to publicity. It was all very wonderful.

She won another ten shillings. Then she lost ten shillings twice. Even! Then the cards came to her. She started with a nine. Then she called for a card and got nine again. Then she drew an eight. Then she won on a seven. Then, miraculously, she won on a four. Then she drew a nine.

"You little angel! You cherub. Now we trust you. Don't fail us! Be good! Be kind!" These and similar remarks were addressed to her by Rose Devizes at each deal.

Gracie's successes were apparently without end. But the left side of the table had been losing, and Nancy had used the word "sucks" several times, and far worse words. Nobody seemed to mind the Nancy vocabulary. As for Gracie, she admired it. It thrilled her. It demonstrated to her that she was truly in the smart world.

She glanced at the fingernails of Rose and Nancy, which were as red as the lips of Rose and Nancy. Her own fingernails were sadly behind the times. At Naples she would buy the stuff to modernize them.

Then, at length she lost; the sequence of nines was broken. No matter. She collected £5 from her counters and piled the discs separate from the rest. The rest represented her gains. Marvelous! What a life was this life! Her aunt never played cards. Nor her father.

The End of Play

At the next deal Nancy was attending to her complexion and her lips. Both Nancy and Rose inspected their faces about every five minutes. Gracie, who would forget her face for hours together, perceived that she must do likewise.

"End of play," growled Julia.

Every one had staked except Nancy.

"O! Sorry!" said Nancy, waking up from the vision of her face and depositing 5/-.

"Take it back," growled Julia.

"But——"

"I said end of play."

"I know I should have won," said Nancy.

The fall of the cards proved that her instinct had been correct. Nancy's lovely eyes filled with tears.

"If you gave half as much thought to your brain as you give to your body," growled Julia, pitilessly, "you'd get on better at cards and at everything else."

"Yes, darling," Nancy concurred with tearful humility.

Gracie rather scorned Nancy Penkethman for this display of weakness. But she scorned her more, and scorned Rose Devizes, too, because they were old. They were very old. They were at least twenty-nine, and might be thirty. Whereas Gracie was young. With all their care for their complexions, never could they match Gracie's! Her movements were young. Every one at the table felt her fresh youthfulness. The three stylistic young men were obviously fascinated by her scintillating youth.

The game proceeded. Undeniably it was monotonous—Julia slowly dealing cards, Julia continually either throwing down counters or raking in counters. No skill. All hazard. Nevertheless, every moment was thrilling for Gracie, who watched with sadness the gradual diminution of the cards in the shoe. She wanted the shoe to be inexhaustible. The shoe was empty.

"Do let's have another, Julia darling," pleaded Nancy.

"Tomorrow night," Julia answered dryly.

Gracie felt grave disappointment. She would have played all night.

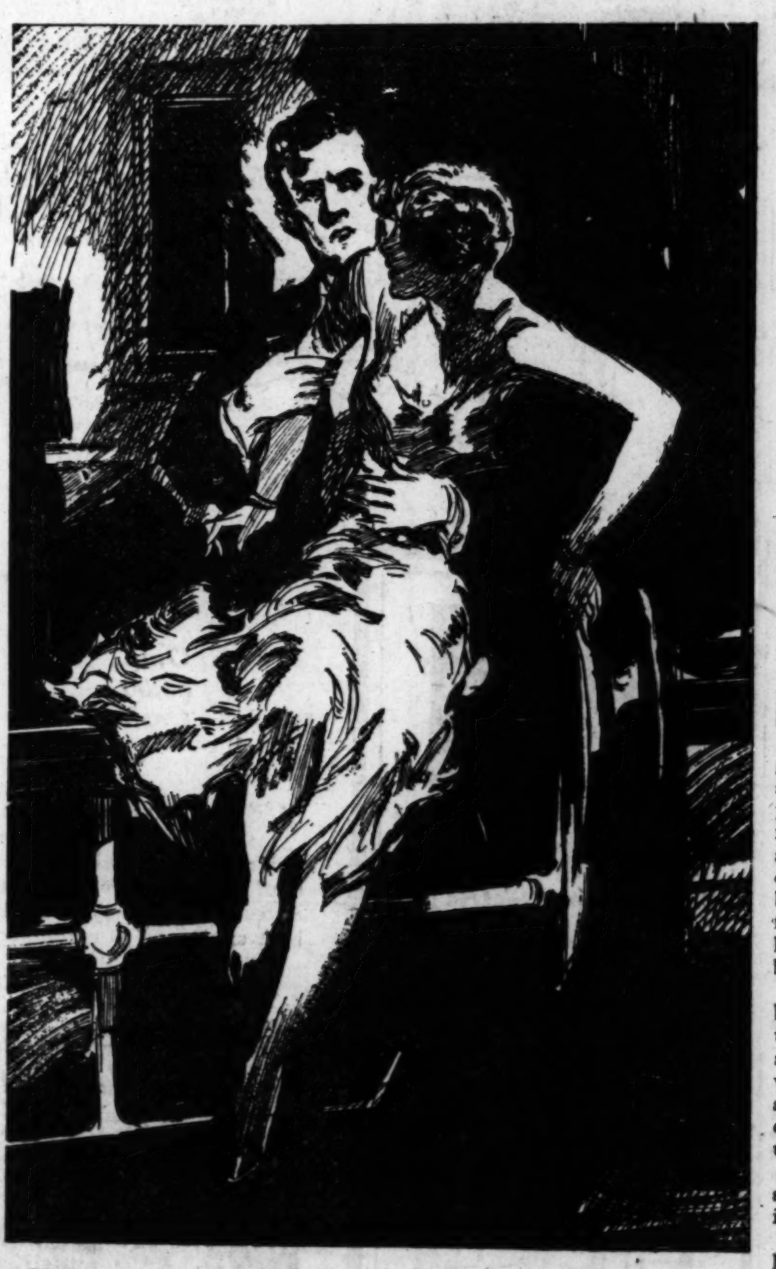
"Julia, dearest," said Rose Devizes. "We're simply frightfully thirsty."

"Well," growled Julia, "you'll keep on being thirsty till I know how we stand," and she took a piece of paper. "Gracie, your counters." Julia reckoned them up. "A hundred and fifty."

Gracie had made £7 10s. Decidedly more than any one else, for she alone had not once staked less than ten shillings. The bank had lost.

"Well," said Lord Pertwee to her, "you are my mascot for ever and ever."

She was the cynosure of the table. She said: "Give me a cigaret—Perty."



She clung wildly to the rail. She used an astounding strength, but he managed to wrench her off.

No Word of Gambling

First time she had ventured to address the viscount familiarly. But in one matter Gracie was disconcerted. Winnings were not paid out, nor losses demanded, by the bank A name or a figure on a piece of paper represented Gracie's gain. She would have preferred to carry the money out of the room. However, they would play every night until the end of the cruise, and then she would receive a vast amount.

The young thing crept like a sinner into her aunt's suite de luxe. But she was heard.

"Gracie, my dear."

The door of the prim spinster's sleeping cabin had been left ajar. Gracie peeped into the darkened room.

"It isn't late, auntie," said the gambler. "I've been with Mrs. Hobb."

"And who else was there?" Gracie catalogued the names, beginning with that of the viscount.

"That must have been very nice for you," said the tired voice, in a tone to indicate satisfaction at the list of these celebrities.

"It was," said Gracie.

Not a word about gambling.

Leaving, she did not leave her aunt's door ajar. She shut it carefully, and crept out again into the large freedom of the ship. Oliver might be about. She had a desire to show herself to Oliver in her glory. And Oliver was about. Oliver had been waiting. He thought her more lovely, more dazzlingly attractive than ever. And she in her turn thought that he had points which neither Perty nor Leo nor Sachy possessed, with all their inherited elegance.

One night the passengers gave a concert. The crew had given a concert; and now the passengers were giving a concert. The travelers had seen Naples, Syracuse, Ithaca (home of Ulysses), Athens, the Parthenon, Delphos, Olympia, Corinth, Milo, Santorin (the loveliest island in all the Mediterranean), the Dardanelles, the site of Troy, Constantinople itself. And now the ship was leaving the Golden Horn. The domes and pinnacles of St. Sophia and other mosques were silhouetted in grandeur against the light of a rising moon. Magic of the east.

But the passengers were giving a concert. The social saloon was packed, and many people on deck were peering through the windows of the saloon and listening to the passengers' concert. Nobody looked at the fading and lessening domes. The ship was an entity in itself. And it was the same entity whether in the Golden Horn or moored to a quay at Southampton. The passengers were giving a concert.

A Deserted Deck

Julia's party objected to the passengers' concert, partly because of their dread of musical amateurishness, but more because it interfered with baccarat, which had been played in Julia's parlor almost nightly. Julia, however, was president of the entertainments committee, and Lord Pertwee and Rose Devizes were two of the vice presidents. Therefore, Julia had decreed that all her associates must attend, and they did attend And they sat in the first row. Even Gracie's aunt heard the first part of the concert.

Julia applauded every item, and everybody else had to applaud every item. And Nancy Penkethman, while applauding, used terrible language under her breath. But even a passengers' concert ends, and this concert ended—at 11:15.

"Do let's have just one shoe, Julia darling," Nancy pleaded.

To the general astonishment Julia agreed. The kindly Rose, exercising due discretion, stealthily summoned Gracie, who had been helping to settle her aunt for the night.

On A deck the band was playing for dancing, under electric Chinese lanterns, and among the dancers was Oliver Skelton, whom all his partners found to be rather absent-minded. Once Oliver retired for perambulation and meditation, and conceivably it was not by accident that he passed along the deck C starboard corridor, upon which abutted the great Julia's apartments. The outer door was closed. But Oliver could catch the sound of laughter within. He could even distinguish Gracie's laugh—a bit too loud, he thought, Gracie's laugh! When, after varied wanderings around the hinterlands of the ship, he regained A deck, the Chinese lanterns were out, the band was packing up, the piano was being made fast, and two minutes later the deck was deserted.

Oliver leaned over the side and gazed far down into the light foam made by the slow passage of the liner through the waters leading to the Sea of Marmora. "One bell" went. Half past midnight. A touch on his shoulder. Gracie's. He had not even heard the sound of her high heels on the deck.

"Hello!"

"Hello!" Gracie began in silence to repair her face, which nevertheless to Oliver seemed to be in no need of repair. Her finger nails were dyed a brilliant red.

"I wish you wouldn't wait for me every night like this, my lad," said Gracie, rather harshly, gazing into her hand mirror.

"I don't, my girl," said Oliver, with a certain hostile firmness. "I thought you were in bed."

"It looks so marked," Gracie continued. "Supposing anybody came along!"

You're Very Rude

"Then why did you come up?" Oliver demanded. "You needn't have done. Nobody asked you to."

"I came up to get a bit of air after all that stuffiness down below. Besides, the whole ship doesn't belong to you, I hope."

"No, said Oliver. "And I hope it doesn't belong to you, either. If I choose to stay on deck, that's my affair."

"And I expect you've been dancing with all the dowdy creatures in the ship," Gracie went on. "Wasn't that chorus of girl sailors at the concert simply frightful?"

Oliver, ignoring the question, said: "And I expect you've been gambling, as usual."

"Well, why not? Every one has a flutter."

"I don't," said Oliver.

"No,' said Gracie, "but you're not normal, my lad."

"Well, if thinking gambling's a silly business is abnormal, I'm glad I'm not normal."

"You're very rude," said Gracie.

Oliver perceived that the conversation was getting out of hand. He foresaw a row. But, animated by the desperation of a young man in love, he cared not. He wished that he had not employed that word "silly." But at the same time he was glad that he had employed it, because it was a true word, and she had deserved it. He blamed her severely in his heart, saying that she was reckless, flighty, idle, good for nothing: a proper specimen of the idle rich girl with no thought but pleasure and caprice, and no manners worth mentioning, and a snob and a snare for fools.

Still, he knew, while he strenuously denied it to himself, that he loved her. She was worthless, but she was marvelous. No! She was not worthless, but she had become involved in the wrong set, and was intoxicated by its superficial charms. He felt sorry for her. He wanted to save her. Nevertheless, he would not yield an inch.

And the conviction that she had come up on deck for the sole reason that she could not keep away from him—him, Oliver—stiffened his attitude towards her. He would not have any of her damned nonsense. He would show her.

So he said, coldly: "And from the look of you I should say that you've been losing at this ridiculous baccarat."

He anticipated that an explosion of girlish violence would be the sequel to a remark so provocative, and he was prepared for it. He thought, as most men under fifty think, that he knew all about women and all about handling them. Gracie's response dashed both his omniscience and his savoir faire. She laughed easily. She lifted her short skirts at the side and did a brief pas seul for his benefit.

Her careless gayety, her young beauty, her smile, were incredibly attractive. He fought within himself against the attraction, and was neither victorious nor vanquished. His face showed that he was at a loss for the correct masculine demeanor in the situation.

"And how did you guess that, sweetie?" Gracie asked in an imploring tone.

"I just guessed it," said Oliver weakly. The truth being that, taken by surprise, he could invent nothing else to say. For he did not know how he had guessed it.

The Shame His Own

"Well," said Gracie, ceasing to dance, and standing up to him close, "you fancy yourself for a very clever youth. And perhaps you are—in some ways. You must be, or you wouldn't be a Fellow of All Souls. You were very remarkable in your discourses at Olympia and Troy and all those places. Nearly as good as a professional guide, and quite as conceited. Do you know that while you were lecturing us you just looked as if you'd made Olympia and Troy all by your little self? Do you know that we winked at one another, Rose and Nancy and I, because you were so wildly funny, without having the least notion how funny you were?

"But as for being able to tell from a person's face whether she's been losing or winning at cards, you aren't worth the paper you've written on. No, my sweetie, you'd better give the face reading stunt a miss in future. Be advised by one younger than yourself. I don't say I've won at c and I don't say I've lost. That's of the things you'll never know— me. But I can tell you this. If won I shan't spend my winnings feeding bottle for you. And if lost, I've got plenty of money to Good night, sweetie, good night!" picked up her skirt again, tripped few fancy steps, blew him a kiss, ran off.

Oliver, alone once more on the covered deck, was warmed by a ture of fury and shame. The was all his own. The fury wa rected equally against her and himself. She was far cleverer tha had ever suspected. She had be him in an encounter. Her speech been effective.

The Ship Slept

What did she mean by the "not worth the paper you've wr on"? Was it a razor blade wrap up in a piece of silk? Or was it a of tissue paper wrapped round no at all? Was she fond of him? she admire him? Or had she playing with him during these my rious weeks? Had she lost at cards had she won?

No one in the ship knew anyth about the financial results of that ate baccarat. Her aunt, he surm did not even know that baccarat the regular evening pastime of the pulsive niece. The baccarat party themselves to themselves, and separate from the rest of the pa gers. They were bound together sort of secret and nefarious soc But Gracie did generally contriv meeting with him before going to Therefore, she must be drawn to But was she drawn to him? Was not merely amusing herself with out of naughtiness, out of a femin desire to make a decent honest fel uneasy in his mind? Oliver was happy, dejected.

"Two bells" went. One o'clo The ship slept, save for the offi and the A. B. on the bridge. The steamed on, asleep, passing shore lig passing now and then a lighthouse winked.

Oliver walked slowly round round the deck (no doubt to the noyance of various would-be slee in the cabins below). Strange na Gracie! So different from the girls women in the University and Lon sets to which he had been accustom He had undertaken the cruise de partly because he had been medic informed that he was in need of cha and rest and partly for archæolog purposes. The archæological purp were being amply fulfilled; and looked forward to the excavated w ders of Crete. Also, he had certa had a change, quite violent. He met people, and especially women a kind entirely new to his experie He had actually learned to play p pong—most absurd of games!—and play it well.

But as for rest—well, no man have rest who has fallen in love. Th was no sense in his falling in love w a girl such as Gracie She had interest in the things which Oliver garded as serious. She was a frivo egoist, interested only in her own pl ures. No proper helpmeet for earnest and resolute man. Likely make a mess of any such man's ca In short, no good!

Up On The Rail

And yet, in her composition th was something that he had found i other girl! He knew not what it He simply knew that she fascina him. He could not eject her from mind. Night after night he would for the conclusion of her evening carat on the chance of a talk—a in which she often showed her qualities and a lot of that impo ness which girls permit themselves young men.

Yes, she was clever. She was formidable. Had she not knocked down with a single speech? Unfor table sentences in that speech! image refused to leave his mind. It habited his mind, filled nearly whole of it. Curse her!

Thus reflecting, he leaned for a time over the starboard rail watchi the white gleams in the dim water slid ceaselessly by. "Five bells." H past two. The deck lights had been tinguished, except one on either He yawned. He must go to bed. yawned. Yes, he must go to bed, not to sleep. Just one more round the deck, and then . . .

As he turned the corner to the side he saw, forward, a girl who peared to be climbing on to the She climbed higher. It was Gr He hesitated. He took a couple seconds to realize the incredible that Gracie was about to cast he overboard, to fall down into the less, careless sea, to commit su He ran toward her at top speed the toes of his almost silent and seized her as she put one foot the broad rail. He seized her the waist.

His heart was thumping. But mere hazard of destiny she would been in the water far below at moment, soaked, struggling in spi herself for breath, perhaps hit maimed by one of the propellers. was furious with her.

"You d——d little fool!" he tered. "What do you think you doing?"

She began to sob. Then tears into his eyes. He was intensely, fully, unbearably sorry for her.

A DOLLAR FOR A DREAM.

A dollar for a dream. Indeed,
I'd take a dollar, too,
In payment for the sort of dream
That comes, or can come, true.
But I shall keep the other kind
And hoard them tenderly . . .
The priceless ones concerned with things
That simply cannot be.

THE REALIST.

Life might be but a gallant quest—
What shall I seek to give it zest?
Here I sit in the sun and muse—
Money—more than a girl can use.
Fur and satin and pearl and lace,
Stately townhouse and country place,
Horses, motors, and stocks, I ask
What should I earn if I had a task?
Motors, horses, and stocks some more . . .
What can I gain that's worth stirring for?
Where is the prize that can make me run?
All of the biggest grandpa won—
Heaping his winnings in my lap.
So I stretch in the sun and nap.

MAMIE HICKEY STRIKES.

Style tied a can to Clara Bow; the work described as dirty,
Discarding flapper charms, revived the modes of eighteen-thirty.
But ere the vogue Victorian had lasted many weeks,
Designers huddled, then put through a play to feature Greeks.
So here I drop behind the times, nor care a tinker's dam . . .
Since I am no chameleon, I'll be just what I am.

Appeal of Rounded Curves

—By Antoinette Donnelly—

Health, Mental Sanity and Male Approval Result from Keeping the Weight Normal.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.] — Somewhere between a lean and hungry female Cassius look and a portly Rubens outline lies the ideal figure for 1930 and a few seasons to follow.

And speaking of Rubens and girls of other days, plump or thin, in a recent weekly, Miss Brenda Ueland called attention to the fact that to our day things figure prominence in reports of beautiful women. When Henry VIII. felt the urge to be off with an old female head and on with a new, his Boy Scouts reported on the "marvelous good brownish face, fair red hair and ruddy cheeks," but no word about the lady's figure. Whereas, a today's Henry, eighth, fourth, or first, would be discontented did a description not begin: "Five feet 5, 118 pounds, perfect legs, etc."

In another periodical Mary Margaret McBride offers a report on findings of the health and mother potentialities of the modern female figure. Rumor had it that future generations were in danger of never coming into existence at all through the national hysteria to keep the weight proportions within rigid control. What actually was proven from medical experiment was that wise and careful dieting where overweight is present is a healthful pursuit, indeed.

Also, in both cleverly rounded articles and in other current contributions to the subject of the female form disstated that the subject of feminine proportions is still a live one.

Reducing Hysterias Are Over.

Out of all the propaganda, spoken and written, sanity on the subject is raising its head. The mode for emaciation has given place to a delicate rounded slenderness. From our immediate lookout station we view the fairly past reducing hysterias with wonder. Just why women started the fashion of pounding and starving their persons into pancakes and reducing their nerves to shrieking discord remains one of the insoluble mysteries of an other enlightened age.

Now that curves are graciously in favor again, there are as many lean women struggling to fill out caverns, pits, and pad plains as there are obese ones panting to subdue their mounds of flesh.

Nervous breakdowns and hurried trips to rest cure places are not fashionable. People are too generally informed these days on food and health. The querulous, petulant, melancholy lady who nurses her nerves and exposes herself more to ill-repressed snickers than to sympathetic glances. Rumor promptly puts her [illegible] down to an unsavory cause—emotional instability or to some abnormality that might have been kept locked away in the closet with the family skeleton thirty years ago, but not today, when things are frankly called by their right names.

Movie Star's Rise and Fall.

A woman has to look decently nourished. The story is told of a former popular movie star who came to this country and conquered because of her great beauty, no small feature of which was the soft, rounded curves that spell the eternal feminine, mysterious, alluring. Her conquest was made in the midst of a deluge of "slat sided flappers and lean mammas with sharp elbows, haggard from dieting," as Winfield Shaffer, a keen observer of Hollywood women, put it.

The beautiful one, however, let a few years turn those curves into avoirdupois, and right here is where the moral of her story comes in for our usage. Curves can't be let turn that way. Not yet! We may be ready for them fifty or a hundred years from now—but not now. So that when we speak of a well nourished figure we do not mean an overstuffed one.

It is conceded that the only safe and intelligent estimate of normal weight is arrived at as the result of a thorough examination by a physician, although few women submit themselves to any such principle of prevention. Most of us never think of a doctor except as a sort of divinely appointed boathook to haul us back to life and safety just as we are going down for the third time. Yet, the simple matter of controlled and normal weight renders one resistant to many diseases which attack those who are materially over or under weight.

A distinguished neurologist states that a person who keeps himself at normal weight or slightly above is not only less susceptible to nervous and mental disorders but is also freer from even the minor disturbances of the mind.

The Allure of Curves.

Examinations of over fourteen thousand children in Massachusetts and similar investigations by the United States public health service in Illinois reveal positive association beand a sad state of apathy and general depression after a while.

Allure, that indefinable charm which is to woman what bloom is to the grape, scent to the jasmine, fire to the opal, and luster to the pearl—allure is seldom brewed in a scrawny, angular body. The emaciated has infinitely less sex appeal than the downright tween underweight and other physical defects and markedly lower levels of intelligence.

I would not suggest for a moment that thin ladies are dumb. On the contrary, they are, as a rule, extremely active, restless, and often keenly intelligent, but cold statistics are at hand to show that when malnutrition is at the root of the thinness the thin one too often shows a high excitability and nervous alertness in the beginning fat one, who may have good humor, tolerance, well balanced nerves, and sound, sweet flesh to serve her in the age old problem of roping the wary, elusive male.

"Curves," as one of them tells it, "remain the dearest dream of the masculine heart and the magnet of his eye."

If you could use a little more of the "rounded" appeal, then, and you don't know how or where to get it, remember these hospitable advisory doors of mine are always open. You have but to knock with the proverbial stamped addressed envelope to receive all the information you will need on converting the angular frame into womanly beauty, a matter always, and at the current moment more so, of gracefully, rounded curves.

Answers to Love Queries

Don't Even Recognize Him.

"Dear Miss Blake: My fellow phoned and said he was coming, but he didn't. Should I ask him to my home again? BROWN EYES."

You should not even recognize him when you see him. Such conduct on his part is unforgivable.

Needs Checking Up.

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl friend says she loves me, but when I go out with her she always leaves me on the street and goes home with some one else. Please advise. J. T. S."

She'd think more of you if you told her what you think of her.

Proof of Affection.

"Dear Miss Blake: The fellow I correspond with stopped writing, then started again, giving a good reason. Does he still care for me? HONEY."

He found out he missed hearing from you, and that's pretty good proof.

What Kind of Wife Are You

—By Doris Blake—

When Up for Inspection Before Your Husband's Employers Are You a Positive or Negative Indication of His Future?

"YES," said the executive whose promotion to an unusually responsible and highly paid position brought on the interview, "I must add, like all the other men interviewed ahead of me, I owe it all to my wife."

"Great Scott!" he caught himself up, "why should I offer her tribute with any such note of apology? I must be touched myself with a bit of the snobbery that sees in a man's confession of his wife's help a Babbitry sentiment.

"Why," he added, growing heated, "should wives be kept out of stories of men's successes? Wives make or break men, regardless of whether the remark is banal or not. Here and there, it is true, a strong character can surmount an unsympathetic wife's attitude, but in my experience with men—and I've handled hundreds of them—the part wives play in their husband's business careers is simply stupendous.

Important in Success Scheme.

"Haven't I seen time and again young men come into this organization equipped mentally and physically for bright futures? We keep a sharp eye on all of this raw material. While wives may never suspect it, we can tell what power it is that destroys the morale of some of these bright young men, and what power it is that makes the ascent of other young men a comparatively easy matter.

"In fact," the interviewed went on, "wives are so important in the success scheme of the business man that a clause could well be injected into the marriage ceremony covering this angle of a union."

Our high executive illustrated his point by taking two men immediately within his observation. One, Drake, he was called, a brilliant fellow, lovable, had shown flashes of rare genius in organizing work, but for the last six months he has not been up to his old form. His wife contributes little in an ecomonic way. The man's income is stretched to the limit to satisfy her needs. She lends him neither spiritual nor physical support. She is not a bad person, but is thoughtlessly selfish and flighty. Every night they must go somewhere. Week-ends it is a succession of places, and there is not the discrmination about friends that would help the husband's career in a social way.

Black's wife, on the other hand, is a conservative about money, about friends, about good-time occasions. There's nothing old fashioned about her. She is a distinct social asset every way you look at her.

Good Wife Outweighs Brilliance.

"While Drake is the more brilliant man of the two," the executive said, "Black, with the faith, courage, confidence, and the steadying hand of his fine, sane wife, will get a lot further ahead unless my observations on men, wives, and business are all wrong."

We are apt to lay a good deal of stress on the economical feature of the true helpmeet wife. Stress should be laid on it, too. But the executive quoted and other men who have given thought to the subject are not in favor of wifely economies that shred living to the bone. A certain amount of spending has to be counted on to get ahead. And the fate of the too thrifty, self-denying sort of wife is too well known to be commented on. Since big business has an eye on the wife as well as the husband, it would seem that her personal upkeep is as important as the man's, and her social advance as necessary as his. But advance prospects should not be gambled on if it means the incurring of debts, for a continual struggle with bills will break down a man's morale quicker than anything. We have but to read newspaper accounts of forgeries and account jugglings to realize how desperately ruinous debt may become.

The great complaint made against wives whose coöperation in a husband's success is questionable is directed at the habit of nagging their mates into asking for raises because some other woman's husband is making more money. The nagging always takes the tone of criticism about the man's ability. It is not a helpful way to approach the situation. Instead of insinuating by tone or word that your man is a pretty poor fish if he can't earn as much as Maud's or Annette's husband, the formula subscribed by those who have seen its better result is to assume that your husband has it in him (and not to keep the information grudgingly to yourself) and that perhaps there is some added responsibility that could be taken on or some valuable suggestion contributed to prove himself more valuable. Don't encourage him to think that he is not getting a square deal, but build up his self-confidence so that when granted more opportunity to show what he can do he will be equal to the test.

It may be that a man is engaged in an occupation for which he is not so well fitted as is Maud's or Annette's husband. Fear of consequences—chiefly as expressed by the wife—prevent him from making a try at the thing he is better fitted for. An understanding, sympathetic, and helpful wife will make it her business to discover if this be the case and be willing to undergo a period of financial tightness until better times ensue from the proper placing of the man

Faith Reaps Reward

Just such an experiment is under way by a fine young couple known to me. The girl, college bred and one who never had to do a bit of work around home before her marriage, is doing her housework, even to the washing. She is making rather a lark of it and her faith in her man is already reaping rewards in his new line of work.

Wives need to learn that they are recognized by business as an important factor in their husbands' lives. Once women get the feel that their position by their husband's side is more than that of wife, housekeeper, and the mother of his children they will readily enough find the way to help.

Wives have unconsciously grown to accept the version that a man's business life is a thing apart. But, more and more, corporation heads and employers generally are coming to judge a wife's qualifications along with that of the husband's in estimating the business efficiency and future prospects of an employé. Woman's place in the home, in other words, is taking on a "career" angle that ought to have a measure of satisfaction in it for even the most ambitious of wives.

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN

Monroe county, New York, is believed to have the only woman dog catcher in the state. Miss Mary E. Foubister, secretary of the Dog Protective association, was recently appointed to the position.

Two British policewomen are to take up their duties in Alexandria, Egypt, for the suppression of the white slave traffic. Many European girls lured on by white slave traffickers are said to pass through Egypt en route to the far east.

Encouraged by President Mustapha Kemal Pasha of Turkey, women of Smyrna, Adana, Angora, and Caesaera have followed the lead of Istanbul in organizing suffrage societies.

Answers to Beauty Queries

What's your beauty ill? Too fat? Too thin? Shy on hair? Oily hair, oily skin, freckles, pimples, or blackheads? Flat chested or flat footed? Write to me. I have a tonic, a diet, or a set of exercises for what ails you, and you're welcome to them and to all the advice I can give you. If you wish a personal reply send a stamped, addressed envelope. Address Antoinette Donnelly, The Tribune, Chicago.

P. K.: FOR BRITTLE NAILS INsert cold cream under the nails before going to bed and allow it to remain on all night. Or soak the finger tips in warmed olive oil for ten or fifteen minutes at night.

D. L.: CIGARETTE STAINS MAY be removed with powdered pumice which has been moistened with peroxide.

I. H.: A TIGHT SCALP SHOULD be massaged. The scalp should be pliable and move freely over the skull.

A. E.: FOR YOUR FRECKLES try equal parts of lemon juice and glycerin. If your skin is too tender for the lemon juice use pure glycerin, allowing it to dry into the skin. You want to protect your face as much as possible from the sun and wind.

J. J. F.: IN A MILD CASE OF dry hair such as yours you may grease the scalp lightly with vaseline, olive oil, or sweet almond oil. Brush the hair daily even though some of the hair comes out. That is dead hair, and will soon be replaced.

MRS. L. F. G.: THE SKIN SHOULD be thoroughly cleansed before you start your massage, otherwise you work the grime and dirt into the pores. I have massage instruction in printed form, which I'll gladly send you on receipt of a stamped addressed envelope.

MARY G.: YOUR FINGERNAILS break because they are brittle. Insert cold cream beneath the nails at night before going to bed; or, soak the nails for ten or fifteen minutes each night in olive oil which has been slightly warmed.

MISS T. D.: YOU MAY SOFTEN hard water by boiling a pound of bran in a gallon of water for half an hour. Strain and add enough of the bran water to your basin to make the water milky in appearance. This is preferable to borax, as borax is drying to the skin.

K. N.: "WHITEHEADS ARE IMprisoned blackheads. Soften the skin with hot towels, then open each whitehead with a sterilized needle and express the contents. Apply peroxide, and then gently massage with a good cold cream.

E. G.: KEEP A SUPPLY OF POWder puffs on hand. Choose smooth, velvety ones, for if they are of rough texture they do not spread the powder evenly. They can be washed in warm water with soap and used over and over again.

H. B.: THE USE OF CREAMS for cleansing and other purposes should be avoided in acne cases. X-ray is the treatment effective in most cases. However, it is important that such work be done by a skilled operator.

MRS. M.: AN INEXPENSIVE and effective remedy for underarm perspiration is a twenty-five per cent solution of aluminum chloride in distilled water. Apply it every other night until three applications have been made, then once a week to prevent recurrence.

MISS P.: IF YOUR FEET ARE swollen and tired bathe them in hot water to which has been added a handful of borax or washing soda. Then rinse in warm and cold water and dry thoroughly. To soothe the feet rub with witch hazel. My booklet on the feet may be had for a stamped addressed envelope.

E. H.: A MILD CASE OF DRY hair may be corrected by greasing the scalp lightly with olive oil or vaseline.

M. L.: AT LEAST ONCE A DAY scrub your hands with a brush, particularly around the nails and knuckles where the dirt sticks fast. Almond meal or oatmeal will soften and whiten the hands and soothe the skin. It is advisable to use a hand lotion after washing to restore some of the natural lubricant to the skin and prevent chapping.

A Friend in Need

—By Sally Joy Brown—

Sally Tells You All About the First Party of the Summer, a Glorious Trip to White City.

> I want to be the medium through which the friends in need and the friends in deed may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which has not outgrown its usefulness that will make some less fortunate one happy and you would gladly give it. Write to me and I shall be happy to be of service to you. Please write on one side of the paper.

THE end of the school year is fast approaching and with it we are making large and interesting plans for a glorious vacation. These plans will include all the children in and around Chicago whom I am inviting to be my guests at a series of parties at the most exciting and entertaining places of amusement we can find.

The first of these celebrations is to be a particularly thrilling one and I know there isn't a boy or girl for miles around who won't be all agog at what I have to tell you. Mr. Herbert A. Byfield, president of the White City amusement park, has invited one hundred of us to spend the afternoon of Thursday, July 3—that's a week from next Thursday—at the south side park. Needless to say, there will be no end of fun and hilarity, and with all White City has to offer in the way of amusement and excitement I can prophesy a never to be forgotten day.

There are thrilling rides that whirl you away off into space and bring you back to earth with such rapidity that it's a case of "there you are and—there you aren't." You enjoy some of the rides because they are fastest and the highest in the middle west—just imagine that! And others because they're cool and refreshing. Some you will like because they are up above the housetops and others because they are on the ground.

There are merry-go-rounds and Ferris wheels, slides and treadmills, mirrors in which your reflection comes back to you in all sorts of wobbly, insane forms. Out in White City they say, "See yourself as others see you." You'll be hysterical with laughter. And there are so many other grand things to be done and amusing things to see, we'll have to hurry to crowd them all into a single afternoon.

I'm sure you've been wondering just what you have to do to enjoy all this fun and to be one of the hundred lucky guests. Well, here it is and you'll agree with me that it's quite a simple procedure. Write me a letter telling me that you'd like to be included in this party. Now, of course, I want to take the boys and girls who are the most anxious to go and the only way I can tell is by the letters you write. So just tell me in your own way why you'd like to go. Out of the letters I receive I shall select the one hundred best and most enthusiastic. Every letter must be in by Thursday, June 26, because on that day, I shall make the selections and the names of the winners will appear in next Sunday's TRIBUNE.

It's really easy as anything, isn't it? And, O, what fun we're going to have! I can hardly wait, myself. But, now, off to your letter writing! Be sure to give me your name, address and age. Each child must write his or her own letter and address it to Sally Joy Brown, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

I'll have more to tell you about the party in tomorrow morning's paper.

Back Numbers Wanted.

"I would appreciate it if through your column I could secure copies of Photoplay Magazine for March and April, 1924. I am anxious to have them and have not been able to get them anywhere. M. L."

Are you a reader of this publication and do you keep a file of the back numbers? Perhaps, then, you can supply M. L., who will not be able to finish a serial she started until she gets these issues.

Wants Dramatic Readings.

"I wish you would ask through your column for some short readings and books which would help me master the art of expression. I feel I have a talent for this sort of thing and am asked to give readings, but I have almost nothing suitable. "B. H."

Students of dramatic art usually have a goodly supply of such literature, and if there is some which could be dispensed with this reader would like to have it. Copies of recitations, text books, etc., will be gratefully received.

In a Desperate Situation.

"We have four children and my husband, a baker, can no longer work at his trade, as he has heart asthma—that disease dreaded by all bakers. He is willing to do any other kind of work but it is impossible to find a thing. We have been given notice to move because we can't pay the rent and I don't know what we are going to do. If he could get a job or I could find home work our problem would be solved. Perhaps you could help us by getting clothing for my husband. He needs a suit, size 40 or 42, and shirts, size 15½. MRS. E. H."

Here is a most deserving family in a desperate situation. The father is a willing worker but he hasn't been able to secure employment of any kind. Perhaps if he were supplied with presentable clothing his chance would improve.

Asks for Shorthand Book.

"I am in need of a Pitman Dement shorthand book. I learned this system several years ago and haven't used it for a long time because I am married and until now have not worked. But things have been so bad with us that I'd like to find a position and will want to brush up on my shorthand. E. O."

I do not know that this book is still being published, but perhaps one of you who learned this system has kept the textbooks you used in school. If so won't you give it to this housewife so she will be equipped to contribute to the support of her family?

Two Little Kittens.

"I have two lovely little kittens I am trying to find homes for. Do you think any of your readers would care to have them? MRS. N. G."

If you are looking for an adorable pet, one of these kittens should be just what you want. Write me, if you'd like to have it; please do not telephone.

blackheads

The worst destroyers of beauty are blackheads, but there is a safe, simple and sure way of getting rid of them. Get two ounces of calonite powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the skin briskly—wash off, and you will be surprised to find the blackheads gone. Don't tolerate these blemishes any longer. Try this simple method today and enjoy a beautiful, clear skin.

Questions

By Eleanor Jewett.

A little green frog
By the side of a pool—
Were you a tadpole
When you went to school?

Did somebody teach you
To swim and to hop—
Or were you made
In a toy shop?

You look so neat
And you are so spry,
Could there be a key
That would make you fly?

There's nothing at all
That you can't do—
O! Now, you dived!
And I can't see you.

Bright Sayings

The Tribune will pay $5 for every childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune.

Four year old Bobby had had a big black cat named Nippy for his pet for two years, and they were inseparable companions. About Thanksgiving time, however, Nippy found attractions elsewhere, evidently, for he wandered away one day. Bobby was so inconsolable his mother finally told him Nippy must have gone away and gotten married. So after about a week had elapsed and Nippy failed to return, Bobby apparently forgot about his cat.

Christmas morning there was a tree for Bobby and presents galore. When they'd all been opened and exclaimed over, Bobby suddenly sat down and in a worried voice said: "I wonder what Nippy gave his wife for Christmas?"
MRS. J. S.

Little 3 year old Richard was visiting his aunt in the country recently, and going with her out in the vegetable garden, he happened to see her step on a green onion. He remarked: "O, Aunt Mimi, look! You're walking all over the groceries." MRS. J. V.

Money Made at Home

How you have made or are making money at home is of interest to other women. Tell them about it and The Tribune will send you $1, thus piling cash on cash. Address Money at Home, Sunday Tribune.

Earned $200 for Church.

We were raising money for the church mortgage and were trying to see which woman could earn the greatest amount.

During June, July and August I preserved and canned berries, larger fruits and pickles to order. Quart jars of peaches, pears, quince and cherries sold for 50 cents each. Pint jars of preserves, marmalade or jelly were 50 cents too. Jelly glasses filled with either jelly or marmalade brought 30 cents apiece.

It was hot, hard work, but I felt it had been worthwhile for at the end of the summer I found I had earned more than $200. A. W. S.

Newspaper Work at Home.

Our weekly community paper needed a woman to take charge of the church and social news, but lacked desk space in the office, so wanted some one to work at home.

I applied for the position and have been their "reporter" for two years. I do all my writing at home and the office boy calls for the articles. The work is pleasant and I am free in the afternoon and evening. It is a change from housework and also brings me extra spending money.

Lacquers Instrument Cases.

I am a school boy of 15, and one of my favorite hobbies is to decorate tin cigar boxes and various other articles with lacquer. One Saturday, while looking about for something to do, I spied my banjo case in a corner and observed that it was somewhat the worse for wear. I decided to paint the case with black lacquer. When this was done I lettered my name on the top and surrounded it with a design in several colors. I was so pleased with the result that I did the same with my violin case.

When I took my violin to school the next Monday, the other members of the orchestra noticed my case and admired it. Several of them asked me what I would charge to decorate their cases in a similar way. I decided that 50 cents would be a fair price, and so I am now swamped with all sorts of instrument cases to be decorated. I have made quite a surprising amount of money in this way.

Suggestion for Young Widows.

I know a young widow who makes aprons at home. She buys good quality percales, edges them with white rick rack braid, and sells them for 75 cents, or more, depending on the size and style. She makes a profit on them, and gets many orders.

The Irish Beauties

By C. Barrington

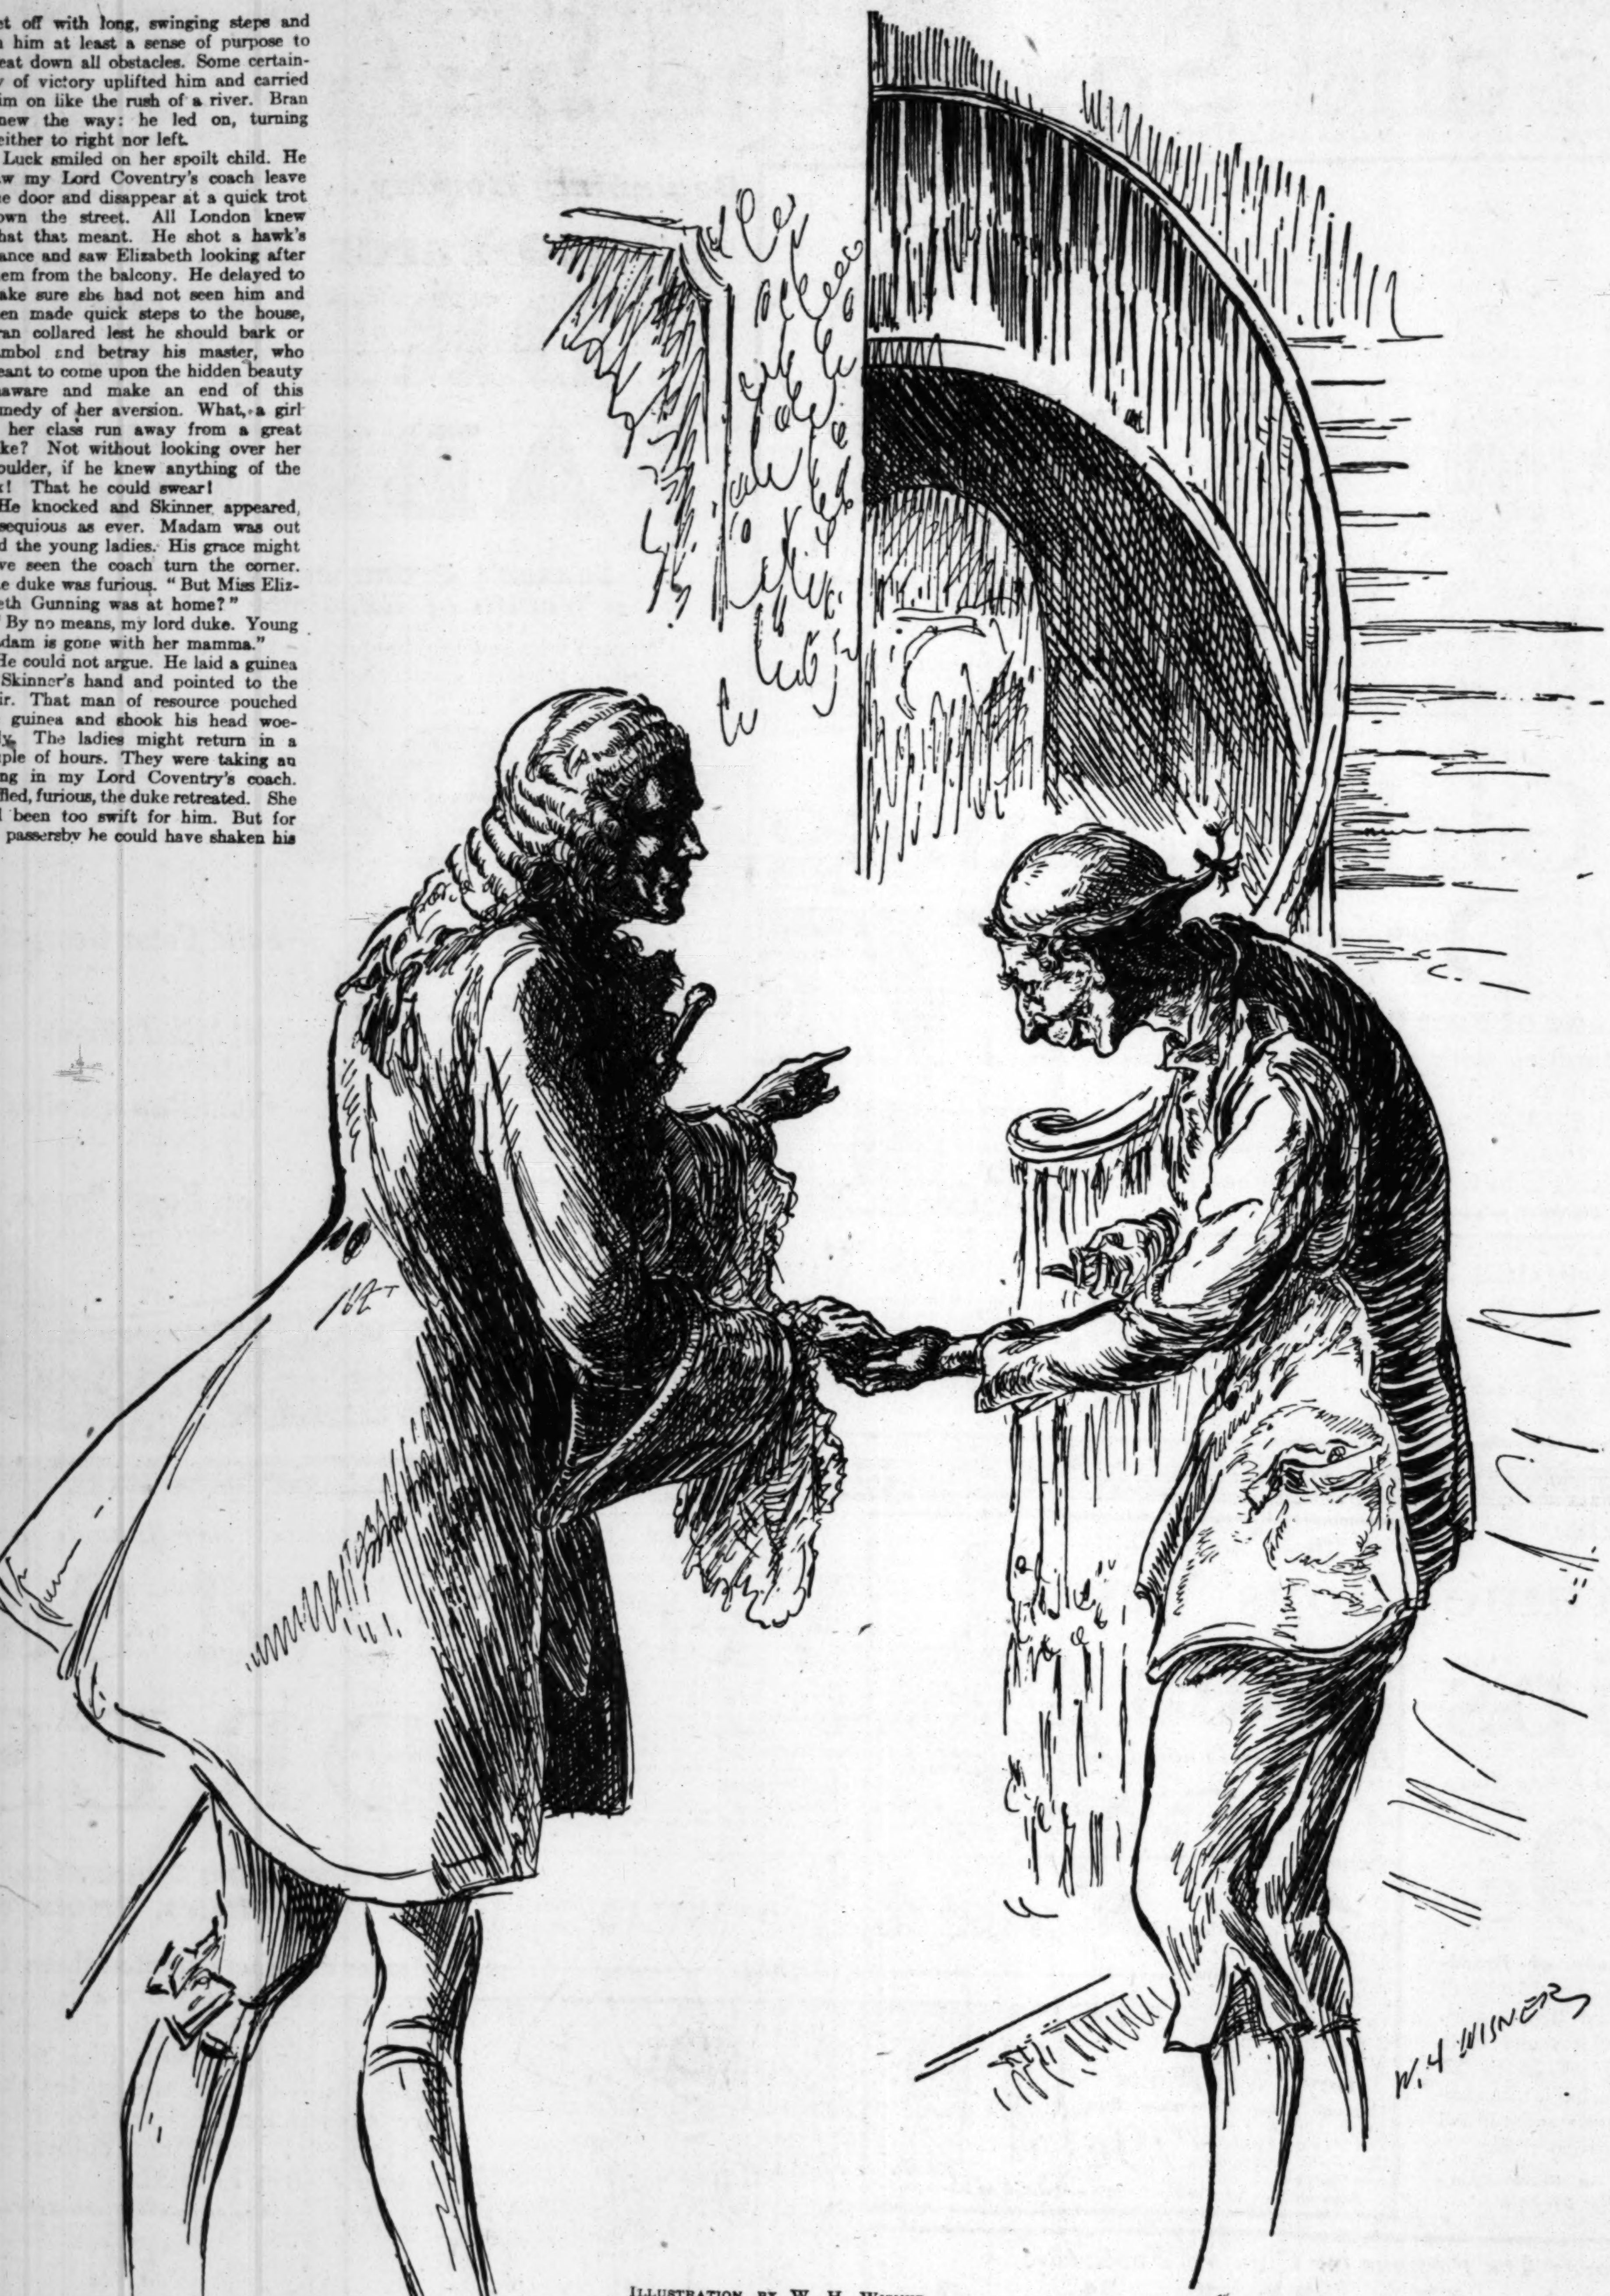

ILLUSTRATION BY W. H. WISNER.

—laid a guinea in Skinner's hand and pointed to the stair.

The Story in Resume:

IN the streets of Dublin, in 1750, Mrs. Gunning and her two young daughters, Maria and Elizabeth, were accosted by Mother Corrigan, who tells their fortunes. The old hag predicts that the girls will inflame the world with their beauty; that Elizabeth will marry one of the first men in England and later the highest man in Scotland and will be addressed as a duchess, and that Maria will marry well, but not in as high a rank as that of her sister. The two girls are saved from the attentions of a bully by a young gentleman who introduces himself to them as Harry Lepel. He asks Elizabeth to marry him and she consents. His regiment is recalled to London. George Anne Bellamy, an actress, upon learning of their poverty, offers the girls jobs in the cast of the "Golden Vanity," which, however, they do not take. The Gunnings become the toast of Dublin. Embarrassed by the gossip caused by Mrs. Gunning and Maria, Elizabeth induces her mother to move to London. In the big city the girls are invited to the house of Lady Caroline Petersham. Horace Walpole calls on them, and the duke of Hamilton is thrilled by their beauty. Elizabeth resents the manner of the duke's attentions. She attends a party at Walpole's home, where she again meets the duke, who later visits her and makes insulting remarks about her friendship with Mrs. Bellamy. Elizabeth is heartbroken and practically cuts herself off from society, spending her time caring for the younger children.

INSTALLMENT XII.

The Duke Learns Something.

AN angrier man that the duke of Hamilton had seldom walked down a London stair.

That the fools should dare to taunt him and jest with him over Elizabeth. Whatever he might think of her himself her name if honored by his faintest preference must not be taken in vain. If he owned so much as a squirrel it should be above comment. And he was angry with Mr. Walpole, who dared to have her sweet company at Strawberry, and angry with Elizabeth, who dared to do these things to draw him on and play upon his jealousy, and most of all was he furious with himself, tied and bound everywhere with a passion he could not satiate. He had taken the wrong way with her, it seemed, but how? What could he do to retrace his steps and try another? No, that was impossible and, therefore, she must break, and bend, and lie bound at his feet, and that should be her punishment. He could not even assure himself that he would forgive her then. He was the more angry because he had thought to make great harvest of the queen's jewel and could not see his way at all. It was impossible that any gentleman should taunt a woman with her poverty, and were he to demand the truth from her she must hate him forever. And even there he was not sure of the facts. Twice he had sent for Mr. McNab and questioned him closely, but never got through his guard. But a third time the jeweler had unconsciously dropped an unconsidered word—he had mentioned Mrs. Bellamy, not indeed as having sold the jewel, not even in connection with it, but when the other subject was hopeless the duke had demanded a little enameled box he had seen, with a lovely head of the famous Madame de Pompadour painted upon it, and Mr. McNab had answered:

"Indeed, my lord duke, I have it not now. 'Twas bought by Mrs. Bellamy, the actress."

What Did It Matter?

A little word, but enough to send his thoughts flying to the day he had seen Elizabeth leaving her house, and the beautiful flame of anger that had swept her away beyond and above him when he cast scorn upon her friend. Fool to have neglected that friend so long! He had never seen Elizabeth since, but now in heaven's name had he failed to see that courtesy to Mrs. Bellamy must inevitably reach her and cause her to believe that he repented of his cruel speech. A beginner would play the game better. He had been minded when he left the drawing room to seek Mr. Walpole and sift the truth out of him, feeding his own passion of jealousy with every look and word he could wrest to the belief that she was selling her beauty to a man who could at least be trusted to know it for what it was. But now he hesitated a moment.

He counted the items in Horace Walpole's favor with sickening iteration. Birth. No one could disparage the Walpole blood. Wealth, Horace Walpole's wife would lack for nothing and might make Strawberry Hill even more a center of wit and fashion with her beauty, were she so minded. Wit also Mr. Walpole could offer, the love of things lovely—the most charming seductions of intellect, combined with grace and breeding unsurpassed in the world. True, he was old enough to be her father and more, but that would not stand in the way of an adventurer's triumphs. He could believe only too well that the affair was fixed and ready to break upon the great world. And what should it matter to him—James Hamilton? Why, nothing! He would go north and forget he had ever seen the jilt, and out on the moors with Bran at his heels and his gun in his hand these sickly fancies would pass and he would be his own man again.

Foiled Again

And at the thought love and desire tore him and he took both for one and that one the latter. He craved for her. But a month would satiate him, he thought, and set him free.

Well, he would go through fire to gain that month and his freedom. She had dared him. She should pay for it. Briefly he was wild with passion, a new experience, indeed, in the careless triumphs of his life. He would postpone Mr. Walpole and see Elizabeth now—why should he delay? Bran stood patiently waiting his decision with worshiping eyes, and now together they set off with long, swinging steps and in him at least a sense of purpose to beat down all obstacles. Some certainty of victory uplifted him and carried him on like the rush of a river. Bran knew the way: he led on, turning neither to right nor left.

Luck smiled on her spoilt child. He saw my Lord Coventry's coach leave the door and disappear at a quick trot down the street. All London knew what that meant. He shot a hawk's glance and saw Elizabeth looking after them from the balcony. He delayed to make sure she had not seen him and then made quick steps to the house, Bran collared lest he should bark or gambol and betray his master, who meant to come upon the hidden beauty unaware and make an end of this comedy of her aversion. What, a girl of her class run away from a great duke? Not without looking over her shoulder, if he knew anything of the sex! That he could swear!

He knocked and Skinner appeared, obsequious as ever. Madam was out and the young ladies. His grace might have seen the coach turn the corner. The duke was furious. "But Miss Elizabeth Gunning was at home?"

"By no means, my lord duke. Young madam is gone with her mamma."

He could not argue. He laid a guinea in Skinner's hand and pointed to the stair. That man of resource pouched the guinea and shook his head woefully. The ladies might return in a couple of hours. They were taking an airing in my Lord Coventry's coach. Baffled, furious, the duke retreated. She had been too swift for him. But for the passersby he could have shaken his fist at her window. But no, he would have a better revenge. He would sift her inmost thought through Mrs. Bellamy. And he would use them to some purpose.

He little knew that a few days after Mr. Walpole's visit Elizabeth had received a letter which made her lonely life lonelier and deprived her of the last remaining comfort on which she could rely.

"My sweet Miss Elizabeth," it ran, "you will not reproach your faithful friend (for sure we know each other's hearts) when I write these sad lines to say 'tis best we do not meet awhile. You will never imagine your George Anne Bellamy does not long to see you. Sure 'twas the chief solace of her days—but I will be as candid as truth's self to the darling of my heart. My dear, 'tis known to you that 'tis very difficult for an actress to bear the high and spotless character of a lady of fashion." (Was Mrs. Bellamy a little ironical here? If so, be sure it was not against Elizabeth's tender bosom her shaft was turned.) "And this being so, I will not have any one fling a taunt at my dear child who is indeed born to keep company with angels were such available. Therefore, my dear, be wise along with me and bide our time. It may be that when you marry the happiest of men will not forbid a crumb to fall from his table to bless the lonely board of your adoring friend, George Anne Bellamy."

Maria Finds Letter

To describe Elizabeth's agony on receiving this missive is impossible. Not only did she love her friend, the only one who knew her unadorned griefs, but to think George Anne's pride and self-respect were so cruelly wounded and for Elizabeth's sake was wormwood to her.

She dashed the letter down, tied on her hat, threw a cloak about her, and all but ran to George Anne's house to heal the cowardly stab bestowed in her name and only reached it, breathless, to be told that Mrs. Bellamy was gone on a visit to the country. She knew it was not true and that it was only love's subterfuge and, standing a moment to look up at the windows where so often they had sat in sweet converse, she kissed her hand with passion to the closed curtains, guessing that her kind friend sat behind them sharing her sorrow, as indeed she most truly did, for it was all George Anne could do to restrain herself from rushing on to the balcony and waving and wailing to her child. But she did not undraw the curtains and Elizabeth crept away broken hearted, resolving to write her a letter which should unbar the closed door.

She returned to much trouble on the matter, for Maria, finding the letter on the bed, thought proper to make herself mistress of the contents and when Elizabeth came in it was to face a fusillade of unusual fury from her mamma and sister.

So this was what her low behavior had led them into! This was what had come of her consorting with disreputable persons and bringing disgrace on a family which heaven knew could not find it over easy to hold its own anyhow. Elizabeth sank silent under these reproaches, too saddened to fight any battle, conquered at last.

Maria's voice, which could be shrill in anger, was heard when the heavier guns of her parent were silenced.

The Duke Is Blamed

"And I know very well who 'tis that has warned Mrs. Bellamy that she'll get herself into trouble if she molests us further. Who but the Duke of Hamilton. He drew the talk to her some days since at my Lady Caroline's and mamma spoke with proper pride of such low characters and he said sarcastically, 'Our hostess has a genius for the extraordinary,' and indeed the extraordinary is the highest fashion nowadays so 'tis not wonderful that Mrs. Bellamy is sought out by ladies of fashion, and any one who condemns her is much behind the times. I could not for the life of me tell what he meant at the moment, but this horrid letter reveals the truth."

And again Mrs. Gunning rushed into the fray: "To think that a daughter of mine should have to be told by a creature like Mrs. Bellamy that she does not desire her company! To think that she should be born completely without proper pride. To think"—but why relate more of the reproaches that drowned Elizabeth, who stood passive with grief and forlornness until, seeing the ill fated letter in Maria's taunting hand, she tore it from her, dealt her a ringing box on the ear, and so away to the attic, the only place where she could sit and eat her heart out and weep in secret. No—Elizabeth Gunning was no saint, but the hardest hearted may pity her many mortifications. It is perhaps easier to face a great tragedy such as the scaffold or the poisoned cup with dignity than to endure the ceaseless daily pinpricking of folly and underbreeding with the devotion of a heroine, and it must be acknowledged that there were moments when nothing but nature's weapons appeared to meet Maria's case.

So it was the duke who had brought this grief upon her and this was his revenge for the repulse she had dealt him. Again and eagerly she read the letter. "No one shall bring a taunt"—why then had he gone to Mrs. Bellamy and taunted her and Elizabeth together until she gave way and wrote it—perhaps even to his dictation! And yet the most terrible thing to her mind was that, with her heart tossing in wild billows of wrath and shame at his behavior, longing to be face to face with him that she might tell him she loathed and despised him if he were twenty dukes, still one-half of her heart cried aloud, "You do not hate him and never can. You are like a woman dragged along by the hair by a conqueror, a woman who cries 'Protect me, Lord, but do not protect me too much.' If at this minute you were assured you would never see him again, what would fill the blank?"

"'Tis the excitement of battle I would miss!" protested the other half. "I go in terror of seeing him, and that is the sole reason why I think of a man I long to forget." "We don't need to long to forget those who are nothing to us," rejoined the first. "We forget and no bones about it!" And there Elizabeth sat arguing with herself and only certain of one thing that, be James Hamilton what he would, interfere in her concerns as he might, she could not get him out of her head night or day.

Mrs. Bellamy at Home

All unknowing of these events he took his way to Mrs. Bellamy's abode. Happening to look out of her window, she recognized him and Bran at once and rushed to fling herself into a rich sacque of violet and rose brocade and to add a touch or two to her fine complexion. She thought as she scurried through these little mysteries of the toilet that not many actresses were favored pour le bon motif by such visitors as Mr. Walpole and his Grace of Hamilton, and she might have prided herself on it but that here rushed in the fatal thought of Mr. McNab and the locket. That—that would be his errand. Well let it! She would like to see the man who would wring a word from her unless with her good will.

Therefore it was a lady resolute and defiant though with the sweetest smile who swam in and performed a jewel of a curtsey to his grace. Her curtsey indeed was so celebrated on the stage as to be considered a model for ladies ambitious to be presented at court, and the duke had it in all its florid beauty.

They sat down and talked awhile comfortably, for they had met often enough in the green room and other gay resorts, and she was presently at her ease, as indeed she must be with everybody from duke to dustman. And still no word of the locket, as how could there when no remotest idea connected her with it in the ducal mind? So she fondly imagined.

"Lord save the man! What's he here for then?" thought she. "He's very pretty behaved—I always said so, but sure he can't have come just to sit with me and drink my claret."

Yet it appeared this was just what he had done, for still the locket was forgotten. Presently he leaned forward to look at a miniature on the table and how could George Anne guess that it had set his heart beating on his first entry?

"I am mistaken, madam, or is that charming picture the younger Miss Gunning? I have heard, as all the town has heard, the pretty story of your benevolence to them when their fortune was less than it is now."

Was it coming—coming? She braced herself for battle.

"No one could be benevolent to Miss Gunning, your grace, because her merit always overtops what one might offer."

Hamilton Is Amazed

This was so stiffly unlike the expansive George Anne that he looked up, crinkling his eyes into a very humorous twinkle and she herself could not resist a smile that would creep through her stiffness. It was so much pleasanter to be easy with a good humored gentleman like the duke that she relaxed.

"Why, I do love Miss Gunning, your grace, and that's the long and short of it, and I wish either she were lower or I higher, for I do delight in her company and yet ill talking persons have made such a bounce of her visiting me that there was nothing for it but to write and tell the darling I must see her no more until she married some gentleman who would not grudge a crumb to a poor actress from his well spread table. And so there it ended and I had to peep out from behind that curtain and see her dear, sorrowful, beautiful face look up like one despairing and see her kiss her little hand and so go away sorrowful. Indeed she has no friends at home and there's some gentleman so persecuting her with his addresses that she shuts herself up with the children and pines for loneliness."

The duke listened amazed and silent. Silent, for where there was a gap George Anne would certainly fill it. She was justly famous for her soliloquies on the stage. Silent also with—could it be dismay?

"She's the loveliest, dearest creature, and would not hurt a fly, and who it is that persecutes her I can't conceive. But she said to me one day when I commended her care of the children, 'Mrs. Bellamy, 'tis with them I find peace and safety. When I go out into the world unless I choose my company I am so persecuted that I know not where to turn.' Sure 'tis a pity that Master John is not old enough to protect his lovely sister. I have no patience with the man who would annoy her."

Judge what were the duke's feelings! But he said no word. He still held the miniature in his hand and was apparently considering the sweet white brow framed in golden brown and the candid smiling eyes that met his own as in life they never did. At last with an unheard sigh he laid it down.

"Miss Gunning is a famous beauty, madam; a position few girls' modesty can resist. Let us hope among her many pretenders she does not choose the one you speak of. I have seen no portrait of her that does her so much justice, though I have searched for one of her and her beautiful sister to add to my collection of miniatures, for they are famous ladies now. By the way, have you heard of my good fortune in recovering the famous Queen Mary miniature, which was for a while a treasure in my family? You may guess I was overjoyed."

A Happy Hour

It had come. George Anne was scarlet. Gemini! With what art he had led up to it. Well, if he was fire, she was water. Not the most burning curiosity should gain an inch. Fanning her burning cheeks, she said merrily:

"How should I not hear? 'Twas the talk of the town, your grace. And what kind soul brought it to light after so long a time?"

"Why, as to that, I question Mr. McNab in vain. But there is a track I may one day examine."

She sat expecting the inquisition, but nothing followed. He talked a while very gayly of her profession and a certain delightful play in which she had shone, after which he rose to take his leave with a remark that George Anne could not but think very odd:

"You have done me a great service, madam, for which I thank you very sincerely. If there is anything in return I can do for you, pray command me."

She looked at him round-eyed:

"You cannot be serious, your grace. What have I done?"

He hesitated, smiling:

"Let us say—you have given me a very happy hour. Is that not much to a man who must spend a part of his time with fools of fashion? Now what shall I do for you in return for so great a boon? I ask your commands."

Something in his expression made it clear he was in earnest, though why she could not for the life of her think. But George Anne's good heart would never let her miss a chance and she saw her way now.

"Why, my lord duke, you are goodness itself, and Lord knows I have earned nothing. But since you ask I will say I hear that one of your servants, a young kitchen-wench, has gone home very sick with consumption of the lungs—what they call a decline—and her aunt who cleans for me says they are as poor as 'tis possible to be and live, for her mother has six children. Therefore if I may be a beggar——"

"Madam, not a word more. Your commands shall be obeyed as generously as your own heart would wish it. Write her name for me on this paper if you will favor me. And now I have the honor to wish you all the good fortune you deserve, which is much."

Wrapt In Thought

He kissed her hand, a thing he had never yet done. She ran to the window and watched him departing with Bran, she herself in a kind of amazement, for never in her life before had she known him abate the careless civility which humors an actress as a toy set up for a moment's amusement, but bids her know her place. And he had kissed her hand! For a moment she seriously considered the prospect of his having fallen suddenly and madly in love with her somewhat autumnal charms, but soon dismissed this from her mind on the ground that there was nothing to hinder his declaring his passion if he felt it.

But the duke went off so wrapt in thought that Bran pursued his own occasions. He had never considered George Anne before as a human being—an amusing puppet was the utmost—but now, behold, she presented herself human, warmhearted, kindly, a true woman—a person whom it could not seem surprising Elizabeth should defend, especially as she owed her all. He had honored Elizabeth's spirited defense, even if she were a little fool taken in by an experienced woman, for his own heart was quick to recognize gratitude, rare and shy in human nature as a January violet. But now he began to believe her in the right, to consider she had discovered for herself what he would not have known without her—a true woman whose faults were incidental to her profession, but her virtues her own. Not, of course, that young ladies whom great men distinguish with even passing favor may consort with actresses, but one may be brought to admit that it might not be a case of birds of a feather so far as morals go.

Whether his good resolutions would have led him to some sort of apology cannot be known, because as ill fortune would have it he had not rounded the corner before he fell across my Lord Villiers, who easily guessed where his visit had been paid and drew his thoughts into a very different sphere, with stories of George Anne and of every beauty in town, not excluding Miss Maria Gunning, for whom he prophesied a career more gay than discreet should she ever succeed in hooking my Lord Coventry.

She Must Surrender

"But that she never will," concluded his lordship, who had some right to a frivolous opinion of the sex. "Cov. knows too much. He takes an inexplicable delight in contemplating instead of handling the lady. For there 'twill end. For my part I consider the younger though artful, the better worth pursuit."

The duke listened, half believing, but also scarcely resisting a desire to kick the gay fop into the gutter. For above all his beliefs and prejudices Elizabeth hovered mute and sad-eyed, pale and passionless, helpless to protect herself against coarse insinuations. There were moments when he could have damned her, she so haunted him and would not let him escape.

He went gloomily home, called his house steward, made lavish provision for the sick girl, wrote a courteous line to inform George Anne her commands had been obeyed, and then sat lost in thought all the evening, forgetting his engagements, his heart and mind circling round Elizabeth as planets about the sun. They had taken to that dance of late, and struggle as he would they had their way. He rose at last sternly resolved to have it out with her. He would no longer be so tormented. He would be damned if he would! And since he would never give in the surrender must be hers.

. . . . .

For a time James Hamilton weighed in his mind with longing the possibility of writing to Elizabeth a statement that he regretted his allusions to Mrs. Bellamy and that, visiting her, he had found her far other than he supposed. But when he put pen to paper the thing became ridiculous and impossible, for what right had he to meddle either in Miss Gunning's or Mrs. Bellamy's concerns? Nor was it possible to issue a certificate of character to either. And, moreover, might he not be putting himself in the hands of the cunning little adventuress the town professed to believe her if he ventured so far on paper? He recalled his father's boast that there did not exist a scrap of his writing to any lady in any capital of Europe—a statement which the late duke had always con-dreadful calamity could it have been that had forced her to affront death? She nineteen! She beautiful, intelligent, clever, brilliant, with a rich father and smart friends!

For a moment he could not speak again. Then he said thickly: "What's the meaning of it?" The narrow expanse of deck seemed to be half a mile long, and he and she were the sole living beings on it. "What's the meaning of it, you d——d little fool?" he repeated.

In his fury he felt happy.

"Why couldn't you leave me alone? I'm no good," Gracie sobbed.

Would Be No Funeral

"Yes, you are some good!" Oliver roughly contradicted her, at the same time contradicting his own previous thoughts concerning her. "A nice thing if you'd gone overboard! It's so selfish and mean to go and commit suicide when you're in a scrape of your own making. What about your aunt and your father and your friends here that you've been spending every night with? How nice for all of them!" He sniffed.

Gracie retorted bitterly: "Auntie! She's the most selfish old woman ever born. Fancies she's an invalid, which she isn't really; and never, never, never thinks of anything but her own disgusting convenience. As for father, he'd have forgotten me in a week after the funeral."

"There wouldn't have been any funeral," Oliver put in.

"Well, after it had been in the newspapers. And shouldn't I have been in the papers! Shouldn't I just! More than any of them—Rose and Nancy and all that lot! And serve them right, too! They led me into it. They did it. They let me play, didn't they?"

"Then you have been losing at your rotten baccarat!" said Oliver.

"Did I ever say I hadn't!"

"How much have you lost? Now, tell me."

Gracie sat up.

"Tell me!" Oliver insisted.

Gracie hung her head.

"Ninety-four pounds, if you want to know."

A Debt of Honor

"But I heard you tell the old Hobb creature you'd got a hundred pounds to play with."

"Well, I hadn't. I hadn't got anything to play with. I've always had everything I wanted except ready money. Father never gave me that, and Auntie took her cue from him."

"Then you jolly well lied?"

"Yes, I did!" said Gracie stoutly. "And why not? I wasn't going to be trod on by old Julia. I won't be trod on by anybody. I'd just as soon be dead as alive. Yes, I would! And you needn't believe me if you don't want to. My life's my own. It's my life I was taking, not anybody else's. And if I choose to be drowned, that's my business. It isn't theirs, and it isn't yours."

She jumped up. Oliver seized her wrist. But he was admiring her.

"I do wish you hadn't interfered!" she exclaimed, facing her savior. "What shucks for them if you hadn't! Don't I know what they'd have felt like!" She gave a terrible short laugh. Then added defiantly: "And what are you going to do about it?"

Oliver replied: "Ninety-four pounds, you say? I suppose you ought to pay immediately. Debt of honor and so on."

"Tomorrow morning," said Gracie. "It's the last of the month tonight, and it seems they have a rule of settling their debts every month. So I said I'd pay up tomorrow morning."

"You shall pay up tomorrow morning," said Oliver grandly. "I've got a packet of traveler's checks, and the purser will cash them. I'll put the notes in an envelope, and hand them over to you on this very spot after breakfast tomorrow."

"But I won't take them!"

"O, yes, you'll take them," said Oliver.

"Who'll make me?"

"I will. You'll take them and you'll hand 'em over to old Julia as if ninety-odd pounds was nothing at all. I'm not going to have any nonsense from you."

"But you can't afford it!"

"You have a nerve to say I can't afford it, I must confess! How the deuce do you know I can't afford it? I undertake to say I'm a dashed sight more solvent than some of your smart friends down there."

You're Not a Rotter

Gracie bent her head again. Tears dripped down her face. She was very beautiful in distress. Oliver seized her other wrist. Then he loosed both wrists and pushed the sinful girl away.

"You get to bed," he ordered her. "Get away now! And no more hanky-panky! Quick!" He wanted to kiss her, but he was too proud, too full of his own chivalry.

Gracie obeyed meekly. But after she had walked half a dozen yards she suddenly turned back and faced Oliver once more. Not a couple of feet between their faces! She was not crying, though her cheeks were still wet.

"What now?" Oliver inquired, in an unsteady voice.

"Do you know what's the matter with you?" said Gracie coldly.

"What?"

"You're too much of a ridiculous English gentleman."

"What on earth do you mean?"

"What do I mean? I mean you're dying to kiss me. But you think I should think you were taking advantage of your noble generosity if you did. And so you won't try."

Her face softened, became heavenly sweet in its relaxing gentleness. She put her thin arms round his neck, and her reddened finger nails met behind him, and she kissed him several times tenderly.

She murmured: "I do love you, Oliver, darling. I do love you, although I am a rotter."

"You are not a rotter!" he swore. "You are magnificent. No girl who was a rotter could be as magnificent as you are." And he clasped her tightly, and returned all and more than all her kisses.

cluded with a fervent "thank God!" Reminiscences of the present duke's confirmed alike the good sense and the gratitude of his parent.

No Training In Love

If James Hamilton be blamed for overcaution, let it be remembered that he was a Scotsman, and not only so, but he carried the honor of his great house in his hands like a jewel of price. He thought himself bound in honor, both to the past and future, to respect it and pass it on to his son's hands, when the time came to lay down his own charge, always setting aside such honor as men keep with women. Furthermore, the man, though experienced in many love affairs, had had no training in love. Of that he knew as little as the veriest virgin, and could not, search his heart as he would, determine whether the bitter need and longing for Elizabeth's sweetness, which now possessed him night and day, was a temporary disease of the senses, common to all sensual men, shortly to pass and leave him cold and indifferent, or that true passion of which he had read which unites man and woman as two halves of a perfect whole through life and death and out into the dark beyond. How is a man to know? He was sorely perplexed, so great was the hunger.

Also, in condemning him, it must be remembered that he had been trained to believe that in his marriage, as in those of princes, great requirements should be made. He owed it to his house that the lady should be beautiful, well born, nobly made in mind and body, fit mother of a great line. Her reputation, new-fallen snow, cold and pure. Her family such as he could pride himself in displaying as his own. She must be candid, courageous, with a noble sense of her own dignity and his. She—but why prolong a list of perfections? All that can be said is that the notion of marriage with Elizabeth had never entered his head. She tortured him. Never for a moment did she relinquish her prey. His heart was held in her hand, and still he madly hoped his passion might be either assuaged by possession or else blow away like a tempest and leave him in peace again to find the noble young woman of his dreams—the perfect princess. But he craved to see her and thirstily haunted all who could give him news of her.

Her Alarming Beauty

Mr. Walpole spoke of her delightful visit to Strawberry, but his perfect self-possession repelled questions. It fluttered through the town talk, and drove the duke half mad, that there was a friendship between Miss Walpole and Elizabeth and that both were again to visit Mr. Walpole at Strawberry, and this confirmed the rumors (which that gentleman much enjoyed and was not himself guiltless of nourishing) that he might be expected to lay Strawberry and all its treasures (including the most valuable—himself) at Elizabeth's feet. They were on those terms now that he could tell her of the town talk with relish, and she ridiculed it with him, and with Maria Walpole as the chorus.

"I told the Duchess of Queensberry, my dear, who is insanely truthful and will therefore find herself in Bedlam one day, that I had sooner face the day of judgment than marriage, when she replied: ''Tis the day of no judgment your friends fear for you, Mr. Walpole, and the madness brought on by Miss Elizabeth Gunning's alarming beauty. If a man will keep a siren in his pocket, what must be the consequences? 'Tis the greater pity, because we have found the very She to adorn yourself and Strawberry.' I begged her to condescend to mention the lady."

"And did she?" asked Elizabeth, sparkling, so very much at her ease was she now with Mr. Walpole.

"Why, yes. 'Twas at the masquerade, in the intervals of her games of quinze and quadrille, and she would have said no more but that my Lady Caroline, powdered, with diamonds and crescents for a Turkish slave and gloriously handsome, was near us, and my lady duchess hates her as she does all mankind. But she vouchsafed so much as to tell me, looking down her fan with great softness, that it was known that my Lady Suffolk, though she had no designs on my person, had a great concupiscence to be my soul's concubine, to the exclusion of all others, and could see no way to this consummation but through a wedding ring. Judge if I was surprised. I had expected my kind, jolly Mrs. Clive to be proposed, at the least, in which case the temperature of Strawberry would have mounted sixty degress and I perish, like the phoenix, in love's fires. I beg your kind protection, Miss Elizabeth, from all these huntresses."

Gay Life at Strawberry

"I think Mr. Walpole will always escape the darts and remain a bachelor, and for my part, I like Strawberry as it is and think any improvement would spoil it!" says Elizabeth, and he, laughing aloud, must needs compliment her on a real Irish bull from the lips of an Irish beauty.

Yes, life was gay at Strawberry and a safe harborage from the Duke of Hamilton, whose terrifying image never left Elizabeth, torturing her with the wish that if he were what Mr. Walpole described him she might, if it were but for once, see him as the other gentleman found him.

She heard of him often, as, for example, when Mr. Walpole returned from a great entertainment given to the very cream of the cream of the fashionable mob in London, enriched with experiences which he unrolled for her amusement and Miss Walpole's, and his own relish in description.

"The floor was paved with princes, my dear children. You couldn't move without stepping on a Prince of Wales, a Princess Emily, or a Duke of Cumberland. It totally beat Vauxhall. Great gaiety reigned, for George Selwyn was composing an epitaph for the Duke of Cumberland when he should leave us for the heavenly mansions. It ended thus: 'He had great virtues which degenerated into vices. He was very generous, but his generosity ruined many people, and then his condescension was such that he kept very bad company.' I wish I could remember the whole, for 'twas most sarcastically true. Ah, that is human nature, whether in princes or peasants!"

He paused to reflect on that fruitful theme and Elizabeth asked who else was there.

"The question is who was not!" Mr. Walpole replied gaily. "That is, of course, reckoning only those who have any right to existence. I beheld the Duke of Hamilton leaning in a corner, with the expression of a gentleman whose money has run off with his best friend and whose wife hasn't. Let us soften it into a scowl. George Selwyn, to cheer him, invited him and me to a most charming entertainment, namely, to see a malefactor's head cut off and afterwards sewn on again by the undertaker. 'Twas the greatest pleasure he could offer. But even that gaiety the duke refused, and did not so much as smile when he and I heard our thrifty hostess whisper to her lord, 'Good God, my lord, don't cut the ham! Not a soul will eat it!' Your mamma and Miss Gunning were there, my child—the latter in tremendous beauty—an explosion of fireworks in smiles and laughter and gay glances, all clothed in a most beautiful gown the color of the palest green of spring leaves when first they unclose. My Lord Coventry clung to her like a limpet or, not to spoil my illustration, an earwig."

But this sally produced no laughter in Elizabeth, and on the contrary alarm so great that it showed itself in paling cheeks.

Coincidences

Coincidences in geography, time, and persons are ever fruitful of stories and recollections. Whom from the home town did you meet in a far corner of the earth? Who of the same name looks just like you? Who called you up just as you were about to make the call? The Tribune wants to hear of these experiences, at $1 per. Address Coincidences, Sunday Tribune.

Stepped on Friend's Toe.

Recently while crossing the street I had to take a step backward in order to avert being hit by a passing automobile. In doing so I stepped on the toe of the lady in back of me. Maybe I wasn't surprised when I turned around to utter the usual "I'm sorry" to find that it was a friend that I hadn't seen for about eight years. I had inquired about her often, but was never able to learn of her whereabouts and this surely was a happy coincidence for me. L. B.

Directed by Subconscious.

Every morning for years at 9 o'clock I have gone down to the basement to tend the fire, wash out a few things for the kiddies, straighten up the basement, wash windows, or it seems any one of a hundred tasks. To me it is a strange coincidence that no matter what I have been doing, without a clock, I come up stairs at exactly ten-thirty every morning.

An Adequate Diet Maintains Heatlh at Its Most Abundant Level.

AFTER eating a piece of delicious angel food, we cease to wonder why such an Olympian name has been bestowed upon a cake. Whenever this cake is served there is usually some one present who makes a remark about the name. Only the other day I heard a woman say after she had just finished a delightful piece, "O, I feel just like an angel!" The very appearance, texture, and flavor are suggestive of heavenly qualities. We seem to be unable to associate the beautiful white crumb, the flaky and fluffy texture, the fine and soft grain and the fragile, delicately browned crust with anything but angels.

In whatever way the name was acquired, it sounds most attractive and tempting. Many times has this name sold cake to expectant eaters. And more times has the vision of what this cake should be been an incentive to experimental cooks. They have gone on and on searching for a method that would insure a perfect cake.

Appropriate Warm Weather Food.

To know how to make a perfect angel cake is the ambition of every young girl and bride. Both have a feeling that once they become skillful in making fine cake they have mastered the most difficult task in cooking. This reasoning, of course, is not practical. It is just as difficult to learn how to make excellent biscuits, brew delicious coffee, prepare good tasing vegetables, or poach an egg perfectly. An ability to cook properly all of these foods should be our aim.

There are a number of reasons why I wish to discuss angel cake now. Eggs, the most expensive ingredient, are selling at a low price. Angel food is an appropriate warm weather food. It has the lowest food value of any cake and there is not much danger of eating too much of it. A large portion has no more food value than a small piece of cake made with butter. The size of the portion, however, satisfies the eye, which in turn seems to satisfy to a certain degree the appetite.

Then there is another good reason. Good angel food is a real delicacy. The most discriminating hostess prizes it just as much for serving formal luncheons or dinners as she does when she serves it to home folks at her family table.

Ingredients.

The secret of making angel cake lies in the selection of good ingredients and careful mixing and baking.

Angel cake usually contains just six ingredients—egg whites, salt, cream of tartar, sugar, flour, and flavoring. The egg whites should be fresh. The sugar should be finely granulated. If the sugar is coarse, make it fine by rolling it hard on a dough board with a rolling pin. Flours may vary in kind. Most cooks, however, prefer flour specially prepared for cake baking. Perhaps it is well that the amateur uses special cake flour. But once skill is acquired, the ordinary pastry flour sold in bags—the all-purpose or family flour—is quite satisfactory. In fact, we find that all-purpose flour gives good results. And one feature about cakes made with all-purpose flour is that they keep moist longer than those made with pastry flour. If angel cake does not remain long enough at your house to get stale, then this is not of particular interest. If you have a small family and the cake of usual size lasts several days, keeping it moist is important. And the use of all-purpose flour is worth remembering when you mix your cake.

The flavoring used in angel cake, as in all other cake, is more or less traditional. Vanilla has been the most generally used flavoring and pleases almost every one. Another popular flavor is a combination of lemon and almond.

Correct Measuring.

Measure all ingredients accurately. This is most important. Sift flour once before measuring. Then lift it lightly into the cup, being sure not to shake down. Level off the top with a spatula. Measure sugar in the same way.

There is all the difference in the world in the way sugar and flour are measured. Those who push the cup down into the flour or sugar and then level off use much more of these ingredients than the recipe calls for. Careless measuring can never bring good results.

Sift half of the sugar with the flour.

Mixing the Cake.

All ingredients and utensils should be at hand. The baking pan should be ready—clean, but not oiled. A turk's head pan—pan with a tube in the center—is a good type of pan to use. It is essential that the inside surface of the pan be smooth. Light the oven and set it at 300 degrees F. If you have no dependable temperature regulator on your stove, use a portable thermometer, if you can get one. They are no more expensive than an ordinary pot or pan made of good material.

If thermometers are unavailable, then you must remember to bake in what is termed "a slow oven."

Have your eggs in a refrigerator or some cool place. Separate, and measure whites. It is important that a definite measure of whites be used, rather than a certain number of whites. Eggs vary so in size, and the amount of white in each egg also varies. Nine eggs sometimes yield a cup of whites and at another time they may measure one and one-fourth cups. It is just as reasonable to have a definite measure of whites as it is of sugar and flour.

Whip Eggs to Proper Stage.

Put the cold egg whites into the bowl in which the mixing is to be done. Sift the salt and cream of tartar over the surface. Whip with a rotary egg beater until whites will just hold their shape and there is no unbeaten whites in the bottom of the bowl. Whipping to the proper stage is most important. Whites should not be stiff and dry, but soft enough to slip from the bowl when it is tilted. Perfectly beaten whites are shiny in appearance.

In the last two weeks I have made a number of angel cakes. Some of the egg whites were beaten until they would just hold their shape. Others were beaten as stiff as I could get them. The beating of the whites was the only variation made in these cakes. In every instance the cakes made with the stiffly beaten whites were dry and the texture firm and fine. The cakes made with whites beaten until just stiff and no longer were much more delicate in texture, more fragile in appearance, and with that desirable amount of moisture that we find in superior angel food.

Experience also proves that folding the rest of the ingredients into the whites is best done with an egg whip. This process is not a difficult, but a careful one. It is done lightly so as not to break down the tiny air sacs which give the cake fine texture and lightness. Fold in the sugar first (half the sugar, you will remember, is sifted with the flour). Sift about two tablespoons each time over the beaten whites, then fold. To do this folding, hold the bowl in the left hand and tip it slightly toward the right. With the egg whip cut down through the egg whites. At the bottom of the bowl shift the wire whip so that it may be brought up parallel to the other side of the bowl. When the whip comes to the top turn it face down and carry it to the other side of the bowl, holding it just above the surface of the mixture.

Each time the bowl is rotated through an angle of 45 degrees to bring a new portion of the mixture into play. Repeat this process until all the sugar has been used. The rest of the sugar that has been sifted with the flour should be folded in the same way. Only about four tablespoons should be folded in at one time. A flour sifter sprinkles the flour-sugar mixture evenly over the surface. After the flour and sugar are all in, add flavoring and continue folding about two minutes, but no longer. Do not stir at any time.

The main difficulty in producing a perfect product is to get the egg whites and other ingredients well mixed without losing air in the batter. When we stir out the air the cake is heavy. If we do not mix well the cake is coarse. Your success lies in doing careful and gentle folding.

Removing Cake from Pan.

Carefully turn the batter into the pan. Lift out the last few spoonfuls of batter remaining in bowl with a spatula or rubber scraper, being careful not to stir. Place in the oven immediately. Bake for one and one-half hours. In this time the cake should brown delicately and be level across the top, without cracks or humps. Remove from oven and turn upside down to cool. If there are no supports attached to side of pans which allow air to pass under cake, put some support under. Allow cake to remain suspended until cool. Then remove from pan. Loosen edges with a spatula. With a slight tapping on the edge of a table the cake should come out.

This process of removing seems to disturb many cooks. They feel that the cake should be removed more quickly and are led to think that oiling the pan would be better. The characteristic and most desirable crust of an angel food cannot be obtained in an oiled pan. This slow cooling seems to be just the necessary treatment to obtain the desirable crust.

When the cake is removed from the pan it should be put into a tightly covered box until ready to serve.

Good angel cake is best un-iced. This seems to be the opinion of all whom I know. Angel cake sold in the shops is generally spread with fondant or butter icing.

No. 1. Mixing angel food requires a beater to whip whites stiff and an egg whip to fold in the sugar and flour. And there is nothing better than a flour sifter to sprinkle the sugar and flour evenly over the surface of the whites. For fine texture and good grain the folding must be done lightly but thoroughly.

No. 2. Center. Tearing angel food apart with two forks preserves the delicate texture.

Right. Sponge cake baked in two layers and put together with bananas and whipped cream filling is a dainty yet substantial summertime food.

Left. A piece of angel food with a serving of fresh strawberry ice cream makes a most tempting dessert.

RECIPES.

BLUEBERRY MUFFINS.

- 2 cups bread flour
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 4 tablespoons sugar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- 2 tablespoons melted butter
- 1 egg
- 1 cup stemmed and washed blueberries

Sift flour, then measure. Resift with other dry ingredients into mixing bowl. Add milk and butter to beaten egg. Make a depression in the dry ingredients, pour in the liquid, and mix as quickly as possible. Too much stirring results in compact, ill shaped muffins. Add blueberries with last few stirs. Pour batter at once into oiled muffin tins. Bake in a hot oven [425 degrees F.], 20-25 minutes. Yield: 12 medium sized muffins. One muffin: Total, 121 calories—protein, 13 calories; fat, 31 calories; carbohydrates, 77 calories.

ANGEL CAKE.

- 1 cup cake flour
- 1⅛ cups fine granulated sugar
- 1 cup egg whites
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cream of tartar
- ¾ teaspoon vanilla
- ¼ teaspoon lemon extract

Sift flour, then measure. Mix about half of the sugar with the flour. Have the egg whites cold. Put them into mixing bowl and sift salt and cream of tartar over surface. Beat whites until stiff enough to hold their shape, but not until they lose their shiny appearance. Sift about 2 tablespoons of the sugar over whites and fold in carefully. Repeat this folding process for the rest of the sugar. Then fold in the sugar and flour mixture in the same way. Add flavorings and continue folding gently two minutes longer. Pour batter immediately into unoiled cake tin, lifting the last portion carefully from the bowl into the pan, being careful not to stir it. Bake in a slow oven [300 degrees F.] about 1½ hours. Yield: 10 servings. One serving: Total, 176 calories—protein, 15 calories; fat, 2 calories; carbohydrates, 159 calories.

FRUIT CUP.

- ½ cup diced pineapple
- ½ cup canned white grapes
- ½ cup canned stoned white cherries
- 1 cupful canned pears, cubed
- ½ cup diced grapefruit
- 1 cup pineapple juice
- Sprigs mint

Combine fruits and juice and chill thoroughly. Serve in tall sherbet glasses and garnish with mint. Sugar may be added if a sweeter cocktail is desired. Yield: 5 servings. One serving: Total, 110 calories—protein, 4 calories; fat, 7 calories; carbohydrates, 99 calories.

DEVILED FLANK STEAK.

- 1 flank steak [1½ lbs.]
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 slice onion
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- ⅛ teaspoon paprika
- 1 teaspoon mustard
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1 tablespoon vinegar

Cut steak into pieces 3 inches long and 2 inches wide. Dredge lightly in flour. Sauté in butter to which onion has been added. When well browned remove meat from pan. Add salt, pepper, paprika, and mustard to fat remaining in pan and stir until well blended. Add boiling water. Replace steak, add vinegar, cover closely, and simmer gently until tender, about 1 hour. Serve on hot platter with gravy around meat. Yield: 5 servings. One serving: Total, 355 calories—protein, 187 calories; fat, 158 calories; carbohydrates, 10 calories.

BEST RECIPES

Have you a special favorite dish that you and your family particularly enjoy on occasions? Perhaps handed down in your family for generations; perhaps developed and perfected by yourself? If you have one, simple or complicated, that is so good you would like to share it with the world, write it out in detail and send to "Pet Recipes, care The Sunday Tribune." If selected as worthy and published, you will be paid $1 for it.

"Grandmother's Molasses Cookies."

Two cups of sugar, one cup of lard and butter mixed, two eggs, ginger to suit taste, one teaspoon of salt, one cup of cooking molasses, two teaspoons of soda dissolved in one-half cup of hot water, about six cups of flour. Mix real stiff. Roll out, cut, and bake. Once these are tried, I am sure this will be one of your favorite recipes. C. G.

Sandwich Bread.

1½ cups sour milk.
½ teaspoon soda.
½ cup rich sweet molasses.
½ cup brown sugar.
2 cups white flour.
5 teaspoons baking powder.
⅛ teaspoon salt.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
1 cup whole wheat flour.
1 cup pitted dates [or seedless raisins] cut fine.
½ cup broken nut meats [preferably black walnut].

Beat sour milk and soda together until foamy; add molasses and brown sugar and continue to beat until blended. Sift flour, baking powder, salt and cinnamon together; mix whole wheat flour lightly into this; add about one-third of this mixture to the cut fruit and nut meats, and mix these lightly together till well floured [so they do not stick together].

Add milk mixture slowly to remainder of the flour mixture, beating constantly to keep light. Add floured fruits and nut meats, and beat. Pour into greased loaf pan and bake in moderate oven [325 degrees F.] 50 to 60 minutes. Remove and allow to become cold. Cut into thin, even slices, butter one slice for each sandwich, and cover with an unbuttered slice. This bread is so rich and delicious that no sandwich filling is necessary.

F. G.

Kentucky Stew.

1 medium slice smoked ham.
1 package macaroni.
1 can tomatoes.
1 green pepper.
1½ cups celery [cut fine].
½ cup grated cheese.

Remove the seeds from the green pepper, let stand in boiling water a few minutes, then cut in small pieces. Cover the macaroni with boiling water to which ½ teaspoon of salt has been added, and boil for ten minutes.

Cut the ham in several small pieces, fry quickly for about five minutes [not hard]; add to the macaroni. Then add the celery, tomatoes, and green pepper. Put the mixture in a buttered baking dish and bake slowly for one hour. Just before serving mix in the cheese.

May be served with hot biscuits and pineapple salad. O. H. T.

Rhubarb Marmalade.

Wash 3 pounds rhubarb, cut in small pieces; do not peel. Wash and slice very thin 1 grapefruit and 1 lemon. Measure and put into preserving pan for 1 hour. Allow 1¼ cups sugar to 1 cup of fruit. When it comes to a boil on slow fire, boil quickly until transparent—about 20 minutes. Let cool and put in jars. This is delicious. E. M. R.

Mayonnaise.

Into a mixing bowl place:

1 unbeaten egg.
¾ cup of your favorite salad oil.
¼ cup of vinegar.
2 tablespoonfuls sugar.
¼ teaspoon salt.
⅛ teaspoon white pepper.
⅛ teaspoon paprika.

Mix two level tablespoons corn starch with ½ cup cold water and add to ½ cup boiling water and cook until translucent. Pour into mixture in bowl, beat with an egg beater for a few seconds.

This is delicious, easy to make and economical. Since I found this recipe two years ago I haven't bought a jar of mayonnaise. S. H. B.

Powder Won't Hide Disgusting Pores

Now don't worry over large pores, unsightly blackheads, wrinkles and perspiration that makes the skin shiny and oily. Out in Hollywood they have the recipe for an amazing lotion that quickly corrects these flaws and makes the skin beautiful. It succeeds even where the finest special soaps and creams fail.

The very minute you put it on your face and neck it gets down deep into the skin and cleans out the dirt that solidifies in the pores and forms blackheads. Gently it tightens up the skin, erases wrinkles and closes the pores.

Soon, very soon, this lotion makes the skin smooth, good-looking and attractive, keeps it youthfully fresh. You'll notice, too, that oiliness has disappeared and perspiration doesn't bother you.

Get 3 ounces of Orchard White from any druggist, mix it with the juice of 2 lemons. This gives you a full quarter pint of the finest preparation you have ever used. Try it.

Note: In the summer this lotion keeps the skin soft, free from freckles and guards against that leathery look caused by wind and sun.

Needlework

By Clotilde

Practical Articles for Use in the Home Win Ready Appreciation as Bridge Prizes.

What is your sewing problem? Do you have trouble in following a pattern? Do you find difficulty in making a skirt hang evenly or making a sleeve that doesn't twist? If there is anything you would like to know about these or other problems of needlework, write to Clotilde, The Tribune, Chicago, inclosing a stamped, addressed envelope if a personal reply is desired.

FOR bridge prizes some practical articles for use in the home would be certain to win appreciation from many women. Have you ever seen the packages of pieced cheesecloth dusters, folded, laid on top of one another and attractively tied together with ribbon?

Buy one yard each of green, blue, lavender, pink, and two shades of yellow—one light and one deep. Even the edges of these yard pieces of cheesecloth by pulling a thread at each end and cutting by it. Then lay a quarter inch wide hem at each end and stitch on the machine, carefully fastening the threads.

When these are pressed and evenly folded they are most attractive in appearance and certainly are useful. Of course, some women would prefer having every duster in white. All white ones would make an acceptable gift and these could be tied together with colored ribbon.

Then there are the cute wall pockets to hang near the kitchen range to put the holders in that are used when cooking. These hangers are about seven inches across at the widest part, running from the bottom up to the top about twelve inches. The pocket is about six inches deep. Glazed chintz will make up attractively, and you could make the holders of the same material. Four thicknesses will make a holder that will not be too thick to wash easily. Six inches square makes a good size for one of these holders, and they may be quilted and prettily bound with a contrasting color, using the color that binds the wall pocket.

You may like to make these articles so much when making them for some one else that you will want some of them for yourself.

Answers to Sewing Questions.

MRS. H. M.: To thoroughly shrink wash materials before cutting, open the material and put in a tub of boiling water. Let it remain until the water is practically cold. Then put through a wringer and hang on a line so evenly to dry. It will be easier to iron well if you do so before the cloth gets too dry.

MISS B. S.: If you will write to the circulation department of THE TRIBUNE, inclosing 10 cents for each copy, giving the dates—the papers will be sent to you.

Believed in His Honest Eyes.

Some years ago while I was in North Dakota I attended a show wherein was exhibited some petrified articles found in the far west. At the time of attending the show or lecture, I was wearing an Indian ornament found in Illinois. The lecturer noticed this ornament and asked me about it when he had finished his talk.

We chatted for a few moments and I left. Upon arriving home I found that my ornament was missing. My hostess laughed and said that doubtless the man had deftly taken it without my knowing about it. I had liked the man's eyes and felt that this was not true. Next morning the man was gone.

Eleven years later while motoring through a small Wisconsin town I saw a street show in a county carnival. Pausing, I saw that it was the same show that I had seen out west. And on a card in a tiny show case was my Indian ornament. I listened to the man explaining his various items and heard him say of mine:

"This is not mine. A young woman who once attended my show dropped this on the way out. Luckily it caught on the canvas that had been stretched on the floor and I found it. Some day I hope that she will attend a show of mine again and claim her ornament."

Thus it was that after elevtn years my faith in that man's honest eyes was justified. L. M.

Playing Jokes on Himself.

One morning upon arriving at my office I found that I could not move the door after unlocking it. Thinking that my staff of men had arrived and were holding the door shut, I continued to push and called in a childish voice, "You open that door and lemme in." No response, so I pushed harder and finally got inside. To my amazement I found myself alone, the office in darkness, and upon investigation found that some one in passing through the corridor had accidentally pressed on the door stop, causing the door to hold fast. When I shook off that queer feeling I found it was April 1 and I had fooled myself. D. D. N.

MAURICE CHEVALIER, famous screen lover, has come to the United Artists in "The Big Pond." Claudette Colbert is playing with him. Other screen attractions are "He Knew Women," featuring Lowell Sherman and Frances Dade at the State-Lake; "Midnight Mystery," with Betty Compson and Hugh Trevor at the Woods; "The Lady of Scandal," with Basil Rathbone and Ruth Chatterton at the Chicago; "With Byrd at the South Pole" at the Roosevelt; "The Florodora Girl" at the Oriental with Lawrence Gray and Marion Davies; "The Arizona Kid," with Warner Baxter and Mona Maris at McVickers, and "Not Damaged," with Walter Byron, George Corcoran and Lois Moran at the Palace.

Theater Guild: Its Leaders and Point of View

Eleven Years of Success with Art Ideals.

By Charles Collins.

IT will be written, no doubt, in the histories of the American stage to be published twenty-five or fifty years hence that when the trouble of the talkie came, late in the third decade of the twentieth century, threatening to extinguish the living drama, the Theater Guild was a beacon for the guidance of the bewildered managers. There it stood, safe and shining above the chaos, clearly saying: "This is the way."

A study of this organization is therefore in order. It is no new thing; it is now at the end of its eleventh year; its name is a part of the patter of play-goers. Its records and chronicles are accessible to any one who wants to go to a library and ask for "The First Ten Years of the Theater Guild," by Walter Prichard Eaton and others. Nevertheless, its story is distinctly worth telling, especially at this season-end which seems to mark a transitional period in theatrical affairs.

Just what is the Theater Guild?

For one thing, it is a playhouse in New York which bears a bronze tablet reading: "Within these walls the human mind shall once more celebrate with gaiety, with pity and with truth the divine pageant of the human soul."

For another thing, it is an annual season of play productions, in New York, Chicago and other cities, for audiences organized on a ticket subscription plan.

It is also, in part, the satirical comedies of Bernard Shaw, the vivid, adventurous dramas of Eugene O'Neill, the versatility in acting of Alfred Lunt and Lynne Fontanne.

Six Master Minds.

It is all of these things, and more. It is, fundamentally, a board of governors consisting of six people. They are a remarkable coöperative group. They have worked together for more than a decade without any of the disintegrating quarrels characteristic of the stage temperament. They began, quietly and experimentally, with hardly anything more than an ideal to build upon, and they have evoked the most constructive force the American stage has ever known. They rightly call themselves a guild; they seem to have something of the spirit of the mediævalists who reared the great cathedrals.

Call the roll, then, of the Theater Guild's governors. They are Lawrence Langner, Theresa Helburn, Philip Moeller, Helen Westley, Maurice Wertheim and Lee Simonson. These, however, are merely names; what personalities do they represent?

Mr. Langner is a patent attorney of extensive practice, and also an occasional playwright. He was, incidentally, the actual founder of the Guild. The idea was his; he formed its earliest organization out of the ruins of the Provincetown Players; and at its inception he insisted that it must do what art theaters up to that time had never done—use professional actors and secure the best casts available.

Miss Helburn joined the Guild as a play-reader, assumed the post of executive director in an emergency about eight years ago, and still holds it. She administers the decisions of the board, casts the plays, engages the players and supervises all the business details of the organization.

Mr. Moeller is a dramatist and stage director. As an author, he is easily recalled by his "Mme. Sand," "Molière," and "Sophie." Of recent years, however, his career has been devoted mainly to stage direction, although he often adapts plays and prepares "acting versions." The Guild's productions of "Volpone," "The Guardsman," and "Caprice" illustrated his methods of stagecraft and decoration.

"Soul of the Guild."

Helen Westley is a "character" actress of vigorous talent, and a veteran of Guild casts. She has acted in about forty plays on the Guild's catalogue, specializing mainly in picturesque harridans and vixens. She

Revues Leave No Play for Imagination

Current Models Clothed in Confidence and Sex.

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Well, sir, we do have fun in the summer time. At least the producers of revues have fun. Trying to outsmart each other. Trying to match shock for shock and nude for nude.

The Messrs. Shubert, who were early in line this year, had word from their scouts, so the saying goes, that Earl Carroll, who is in rehearsal with his projected summer show, was preparing [1] to reveal a Rumba the like of which had never rumbled in these parts and [2] display a march of models that should leave less to the imagination than usual. A wasted ambition, really. There is nothing the Broadway imagination has not long since encompassed.

The Messrs. Shubert, not to be outdone, hired themselves a Rumba band, with rumblers attached, and six or eight models who were willing, even eager, to pose as nudes descending a staircase, lightly clothed in confidence, trimmed with sex.

Show Is Coarse and Dull.

The Shubert exhibits are introduced in what they call the Paris-Riviera edition of their "Artists and Models" series—or Paris-Reveera edition, as it is pronounced on the stage.

It is, I think, both a coarse and a dull show. The Rumba, as the news pictures probably have taught you, is the latest adaptation of the hip-and-torso-tossing diversion which originated with the Kanakas as the hula-hula, and has as many oriental variations as there are oriental countries from which to import. All ugly.

As for the nudes, they are there, coyly—well, as coyly as you might expect girls who stand 5.8 in their scanties to be—coyly hidden back of diaphanous drapes, and brassieres furnished by the Model Brassiere company, a firm which is at least economy conscious.

The chief performers include Phil Baker, his accordion and his friend in the balcony. The friend is the nitwit who enjoys his corned beef and cribbage almost as much as he does his cheese and checkers. Mr. Baker is one of the brighter burlesquers, but not always dependably pure in thought. The others include Aileen Stanley and George Hassell.

That European Tour.

May I interrupt this morning's conference long enough to answer a few of those correspondents who seem to be laboring under the impression that I am to be the courier rather than the leader of our forthcoming Drama league junket in Europe. I never could be a courier. Of course, I have never been a leader before, either. But I am prepared to try that—once.

J. M. G., Sacramento.—If you will send your queries to the travel bureau of the Drama league, No. 289 4th avenue, New York, they will give you full information; sailing July 5; landing Plymouth; thence London, Paris, etc.; Munich, Aug. 7; Oberammergau Aug. 10; yes, tickets reserved; don't know locations.

Mrs. C. F., St. Louis.—See above; four evening gowns are quite sufficient, so far as I am concerned; I'm not taking any; no, student second; perhaps student third; we're fearfully democratic and we want to save the money to spend in Paris and Munich; yes, I have promised not to talk—much.

John Cozens, Ypsilanti.—I'm taking a dinner coat, but don't expect to wear it except for ambassadorial receptions; it will be out of place there, too; Gordon Craig, St. John Ervine, the Capeks, Mr. and Mrs. Flower, Max Reinhardt, maybe; British Drama league; you don't know G. B. S.

Miss Babs, Detroit.—You make your own selections; you can go to the movies if you prefer; or the opera; yes, you buy your own tickets; no, the courier does that; I keep my French in my wife's name; about fifteen, maybe eighteen, unless the market breaks again; no, student; no, very informal; $1,200, I'd say, unless you want to do a lot of shopping.

H. I. P., Chicago.—Hip, hip! I'm for that, if the others agree; no history; you can get that in books; I'm for the live drama; see above; my guess is about fifteen; yes, mostly; between 18 and—it isn't polite to ask ages; no, they will have to furnish their own chaperons.

No Names to Be Mentioned.

Miss B. J. M., Middle college.—Yes, I shall keep up my letters, but I've promised not to mention names; certainly not; in Paris, probably; you could join there, I think; see answer to J. M. G.

Harriet M., New Haven.—"Parsifal" is promised; extra, I think; see answer to J. M. G.; I don't either, except "Vas iss los?" and "Yeh Lieber Dicht"; sure, go to the movies if you like.

Mrs. Horace G., Pittsburgh. — I haven't any control over the boat; one stateroom rocks as much as another when it rocks; write Mr. Robbins, Holland-America line; perhaps he'll switch you; no fur coat necessary unless you expect to stay out very late.

The courier, as I understand it, will do all the buying of theater seats and see to all the luggage, except the overnight bags. Couriers are sensitive about overnight bags, they tell me. Often get into trouble with overnight

Talkies Buried Under Mass of 'Entertainment'

Too Many Curtain Raisers Before the Film.

By Tom Pettey.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK.—[Special.] — Some day, and it cannot be many moons away, somebody is going to run a big town movie house where the picture is the thing. This adventurer in the talkie cultural world is going to be moved toward shorter and better programs because of an economy wave, but the public will greet his innovation as a magnificent gesture toward conservation of time and reward him with a silver shower.

We may be wrong—but until someone trims about an hour off the popular programs no one is going to know whether Mr. Public goes to the talkie theaters to see the picture or to kill an afternoon or evening. Here in New York in the film palaces the picture is only a minor incident. There are short subjects, news reels, stage presentations and, eventually, the film. The houses vie with one another to see which can provide the longest program.

Too Many Curtain Raisers.

Anyone who wants to see a certain movie is up against the problem of taking the afternoon off or giving up an evening to curtain raisers before the "big show." It works the same way in the two-a-day top price houses. Mr. and Mrs. Talkie fan read enthusiastic reviews and advertisements in their favorite newspapers, park the babies with a neighbor and catch the 7:40 into town. Along about 8:50 the lights in the theater where the "epic" is playing grow dim. Then the fun begins.

Instead of the six-dimension, nine color made-under-water feature that was advertised to begin at 8:50 there flashes on the screen a short subject in which a couple of ham vaudeville singers pound one another and the audiences' ear drums for about fifteen minutes. Then there will follow, in all probability, a picture reproduction of some tin-panny orchestra. This goes on for an indefinite period and then comes the "epic."

The result is that Mr. and Mrs. Talkie Fan miss the 11:43 and do not get home until after 1 a. m. The neighbors get mad and there is the making of a new movie plot in some suburban block.

The talkie is crowding the legitimate stage for honors, but what would happen if some music or drama hit was preceded by a couple of acts of small time vaudeville? It just wouldn't happen for the legitimate stage gives its public two hours and a half of one show and it usually is honest entertainment.

Magnates, Stars on Their Annual Seaward Trek

Chicago Girl Wins Part in London's 'Sea Wolf.'

By Rosalind Shaffer.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HOLLYWOOD, Cal.—[Special Correspondence.]—About this time each summer the ideas of movie producers and actors turn to the cooling waves, and films with ocean sequences beckon to the attention of movie magnates who never would think of going to sea at any other time.

Harold Lloyd and John Barrymore started the seaward trek, John taking his wife, baby, his brother Lionel and his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Cawthorn, on a pleasure cruise. Harold Lloyd sailed with his wife, Mildred Davis, and a troupe of fifty actors, actresses, gag men, and technicians to Honolulu. Lloyd's company filmed scenes going, coming, and on the islands for his next talking comedy, "Feet First."

Last week the Fox studios sent another company, including Milton Sills, Raymond Hackett, and Jane Keith, out on the billows with Director Al Santell, to make a talkie based on Jack London's "Sea Wolf." They left on an old sailing vessel.

Miss Keith is a blonde Chicago girl new to motion picture prominence whose real name is Jane Keithley. She did minor parts in "Whoopee" and "Floradora Girl," and recently was offered a contract as a Fox actress. A few years ago she attended the University of Chicago.

Rift at United Artists.

One girl can get away with things that another girl can't put across. Constance Bennett in a recent issue of a movie magazine told how she would handle various men in the film colony from Ronald Colman to Jack Gilbert. Now Constance has done quite well with marriage and divorce and it was not long ago that Phil Plant, her ex-husband, settled a million dollars on her as part of the divorce arrangement.

But Constance's sister, Joan Bennett, who recently signed a contract at United Artists with John Considine, executive, whereby she became a star, is the girl who has just learned that what one woman can do another cannot. Joan has been involved in a close friendship with John Considine. In fact, it was said that Considine and Carmen Pantages terminated their engagement because of the unexpected intrusion of Miss Bennett as a prominent element in affairs at Considine's studio.

But now it seems that all has not gone so well. In fact the advice, whatever it was, prescribed by Constance for Joan did not meet the situation, for Connie's sister and John Considine are now noticably much at outs. Just how this will affect Joan's contract with the United Artists company remains to be seen.

Talkie, Accident, Divorce.

Lydell Peck, husband of Janet Gaynor, has been announced by Paramount as an assistant producer, who will supervise the pictures of Clara Bow and Bill Howe.

Marjorie Rambeau openly declares she is simply crazy about Hollywood and likes making films much better than doing stage plays. She is working on her first film, "Her Man."

Corrine Griffith is leaving for England, where she intends taking speaking lessons. Now that Corrine has a lot of cash laid away she wants to get a nice broad English "a" affixed to stamp her as a real and perfect lady.

Thelma Raye, in private life Mrs. Ronald Colman, is reported by friends from Paris as being on tour in vaudeville in the provinces. The rumors that Colman made a secret visit to England to sue for divorce are founded on the fact that two years ago when Colman was considering such action a question arose as to the legality of two English citizens getting a divorce with one resident in France and the other in Hollywood. Mrs. Colman, before her marriage to Colman, was a London stage favorite and a great favorite in Australia where she resided for some time.

Lively Week in Prospect at Ravinia Park

Seven Operas, Two Concerts Scheduled.

By Edward Moore.

WHENEVER it becomes the duty of the music department to print operatic schedules it is a sign that a new season has begun. Wherefore the sun has reached its height in the heavens, both astronomically and musically, and a new season is under way at Ravinia. The first performance took place last night, and an account of what went on will be found in the news section of this paper.

With the opening disposed of and out of the way, a good lively week is in prospect. Seven operas and two orchestral concerts are scheduled, Gennaro Papi and Louis Hasselmans dividing the operas between their batons, Eric DeLamarter directing the concerts, of which one will be general in character this afternoon, with Joseph Vito as harp soloist, the other being devoted to the children on Thursday afternoon.

Of the operas, four will be Italian, "L'Amore dei Tre Re," "Madama Butterfly," "Aida," and "Il Trovatore," and three French, "Marouf," "Manon," and "Louise." Of the leading artists, Elisabeth Rethberg is booked for three appearances, Lucrezia Bori, and Yvonne Gall for two each. Edward Johnson, Giovanni Martinelli, and Mario Chamlee will have two tenor rôles apiece confronting them and Armand Tokatyan one.

That is a fair sample of the way things will happen out north from now until Labor day. Just how many operas are planned to be given during the ten weeks and three days has not yet been told, but there is considerable likelihood that about thirty-five different ones will be sung, which will bring the number into the neighborhood of what has been done there during the last few seasons. If the present season keeps up the rate of the first week—that is, seven performances a week—it will not be difficult to figure how frequently the attractions must be changed in order to meet the schedule.

National Concerts on Sundays.

Most of the Sunday afternoon concerts will be, as they were last year, national in character. The first of these will be on July 13, coming as near as may be to Bastille day, July 14, and consequently the program will be of French music. The Sunday following will be devoted to German music, and the one after that to Italian. An interruption to the series will be found on Aug. 3, when the program will consist of solo numbers by members of the orchestra, but there will be a program of Bohemian music Aug. 10, the Polish Arts club will have its annual Ravinia outing Aug. 17 and, incidentally, listen to music of its own country, and Aug. 24 has been set aside as Swedish day.

The final Sunday, Aug. 31, will consist of ballet numbers, and Ruth Page, Blake Scott, and the company of dancers will have charge of the program. It is told that the programs of June 29 and July 6 will be general in character. July 6 comes as close as any Sunday could to July 4, but there is no need of adding another commentary to the way Americans regard their own music. Today's program will be made up of music by Weber, Dvorak, Schreker, Glinka, Liszt-Stock, Schumann, and Tschaikowsky. Mr. Vito's solos will be Debussy's Second Arabesque and his own scherzo. No charge for seats is made at any of these concerts, the general admission charge covering everything.

Summer Courses in Ballet.

The ballet school of the Civic Opera company begins its summer courses tomorrow under the charge of Laurent Novikoff. A new studio has been acquired, located on the ninth floor of the opera house building, 20 Wacker drive, and there are promises that the new quarters will be a considerable improvement over the old. Floor and equipment space is larger, the studio is light and airy and is equipped with comfortable dressing rooms and shower baths. The former ballet premises were reported as the weak spot of the new opera project, and it would seem that consideration has been given to improvement thereof.

An innovation in the summer courses will be a series of lectures prepared and delivered by the technical staff of the Civic Opera company. They will cover the field of stage technique, arrangement of dances, scenic, costume, and lighting plots—in fact, every element which enters into a successful understanding of and training in ballet work.

The courses are designed to meet the needs of students and teachers of the dance. They will last for four weeks and classes will be of two hours daily except Sunday. Mr. Novikoff will teach six days in the week.

Organists Meet in July.

The National Association of Organists, or as many of its members as care to make the trip, will journey out to Los Angeles for a convention which begins July 28 and ends Aug. 1. It is the twenty-third to be held by the organization and the first to be held on the Pacific coast.

Several musical events have been scheduled for the convention week, Warren D. Allen, organist of Stanford university, will give a recital at the university at Palo Alto on the Sunday afternoon preceding the convention, and on the Sunday afternoon following the convention another special invitation recital for convention delegates and their friends will be played by Dr. H. J. Stewart on the outdoor organ in San Diego. Besides Mr. Allen and Dr. Stewart, the convention recitalists will include Palmer Christian of Ann Arbor, Mich.; John Doane of New York; Lillian Carpenter of New York; Frank Asper of Salt Lake City; Clarence Mader of Los Angeles; Richard

Opera Official Tells of Music in Germany

Herbert M. Johnson Makes Annual Trip.

HERBERT M. JOHNSON, business manager of the Civic opera, is in Europe on his annual music jaunt and quest for singers. He writes the following letter from Wiesbaden, Germany:

We left Paris on a Sunday morning and motored through the battlefields and cemeteries. Throughout the day we encountered American war mothers, who, through the courtesy of the American government, are visiting the graves of their sons buried in France. We lunched at Chateau Thierry and slept at Verdun.

The next day found us in Metz for luncheon and at Karlsruhe—the home of Theodore Strack—for the night. Mr. Strack is in Barcelona singing a few guest performances, so we were unable to see him. He is most popular in Spain and has sung there for several seasons.

We were at Heidelberg for luncheon and in Frankfort for the evening. The weather has been everything we could ask and the roads good. We were much impressed throughout our drive in France by the apparent wealth and contentment of the country. Inquiry revealed that there are only 3,000 unemployed in all of France and that a large number of laborers have been brought in from the colonies.

Those of you who have loved ones sleeping in the American cemeteries in France must feel grateful to the American government for the care which is lavished on our American cemeteries. All are beautifully looked after and every grave is marked with a marble cross.

During our stay in Paris we found time to visit the memorial to members of the Lafayette escadrille beyond St. Cloud. It is an impressive monument in a beautiful setting.

Too Modern for America.

We arrived at Frankfort too late to hear George Antheil's "Transatlantique," but were interested in what he had to say of the work. He does not think it would do in the United States. "It is too modern for America," was his comment. Mr. Antheil believes that opera must be as interesting as a play. "It needs movement, a skillfully arranged libretto, and music as good as the best. It ought to be the quintessence of all that the stage can offer."

He feels that the cinema and the stage will make the older musical tradition more pliable and more susceptible to newer ideas and more modern stage forms. Six years ago Mr. Antheil was called the noisiest of the moderns. Now he believes he has successfully begun a period in which he will compose melodious, simple and easily understood scores. "I scarcely know the fellow who wrote the 'Ballet Mechanique,'" is the way he reviews his work and progress in the last few years.

The opera at Wiesbaden is alternating grand and light opera during the summer months and it is quite good opera, too. Americans are few here at present, but, as everywhere else, we find acquaintances. July and August are the favored months for American visitors.

Operas at Munich.

We go on to Cologne, then to Cassel and Hamburg, where we shall see Egon Pollak. He soon goes to St. Moritz for his vacation and then conducts during the Munich festival. Announcement of the Munich operas for the season discloses the usual Wagnerian répertoire, including "Die Meistersinger," "The Flying Dutchman," "Parsifal," "Lohengrin" and the "Ring," all to be given at the Prince Regent theater from Monday, July 21, to Monday, Sept. 1. There is also Strauss' "Der Rosenkavalier" and Hans Pfitzner's "Palestrina," an ultra modern "musical legend" which had its first performance in Munich during the war year of 1917.

At the same time at the Residence theater will be given the Mozart performances, including "The Marriage of Figaro," "Cosi fan Tutte," "The Magic Flute," "Don Giovanni" and "The Elopement from the Serail."

Among the artists engaged known to the American public are Gertrude Kappel and Elizabeth Ohms, sopranos; Marie Olszewski, contralto, and Alexander Kipnis, basso. We are also much interested in the work of Hans Herman Nissen, young German baritone, who is highly recommended to us.

The music world of Chicago will find unusual interest in the fact that the only symphony concert of the festival is to be conducted by Frederick Stock. This concert is scheduled for the evening of Aug. 20 and Mr. Stock will have under his baton the complete Bavarian state orchestra. Prices charged for the festival are considerably higher on an average than those for our Chicago opera. For the performances at the Prince Regent theater the best seats sell for $6.00 and the cheapest seats for $3.75. The prices at the Residence theater range from $8.00 to $1.50.

Our mail, which caught up with us at Wiesbaden, told of the three principals in Maestro Polacco's performances of "Pelleas et Melisande" at Covent Garden. Maggie Teyte was the Melisande, Bourdon of the Opéra Comique the Pelleas, and John Brownlee of the Paris opera the Golaud.

Attention to Detail.

An amusing clipping from one of the London newspapers conveys the information that Dennis Noble, who was to sing the Sharpless in tonight's performance of "Madame Butterfly" with Edith Mason at the Covent Garden opera, is a most conscientious person. He is always insistent upon scrupulous accuracy in the clothes he wears in his various rôles, according to this clipping.

As Sharpless, he decided he must wear a real American necktie, so he visited his outfitter and was supplied with a magnificent tie in the authentic Yale colors—blue with a silver stripe. "He told me with great pride that this will be the first time that Sharpless has paid such strict attention to detail in this respect," said the reporter of Mr. Noble.

A letter to the editor of the London Daily Telegraph, reproduced in a recent number of that paper, suggests that London should follow the example of Chicago and build a skyscraper opera house, with offices helping to pay the expense of producing grand opera.

OF MEDIEVAL ITALY

EDWARD JOHNSON.
[Moffett Photo.]

THIS greatly gifted American artist is appearing at Ravinia tonight for the first time this summer, and the picture represents the character in which he appears. It is Avito in "L'Amore dei Tre Re," a part in which he has no equals. With Lucrezia Bori, Giuseppe Danise, and Virgilio Lazzari as the other artists, the cast of this lovely operatic symbolism of old Italy promises to be about as near perfection as opera going ears are likely to hear.

Lively Week at Ravinia with Seven Operas, Two Concerts

By Edward Moore.

Keys Biggs of Hollywood, and Arthur Poister of Redlands.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Barnes of Chicago, who have made a specialty study of music for organ and piano, will give a novelty program of music for these two instruments together. An orchestral concert will be given in Hollywood bowl, and there will be a special performance at Los Angeles of the Brahms "Requiem," sung by the Smallman chorus.

Chamber Music Festival.

Chamber music and much of it is to be heard in the Simpson auditorium of the Field museum for five days beginning next Oct. 12. Mrs. Elizabeth Sprague Coolidge is sponsoring it, and it takes the name of a festival. Among other features, Harriet Cohen, pianist, and the Brosa String quartet of London will make their first American appearances.

On Sunday, Oct. 12, the artists will be Olga Averino, soprano; Georges Barrere, flute; Iwan d'Archambeau, cello; William Kroll, violin; Emma Luebbecke-Job, piano; Marcel Honore, oboe; Nahoum Benditzky, cello; Ernest Liegl, flute; Joseph Vieland, viola, and a chamber orchestra conducted by Hugo Kortschak. The program will be of Bach and Hindemith, the first with the unaccompanied cello suite in E flat, the suite for piano and violin in E, and the suite for piano and flute in the same key; the second with a sonatina in canon form for two flutes, a cantata for soprano, oboe, viola and cello, and the piano concerto with chamber orchestra.

Miss Cohen and the Brosa quartet will appear in a program consisting of Beethoven's quartet in C-sharp minor, Bridge's trio for piano and strings, Arnold Bax's "Legend" for piano and viola, and Szanto's "Choreographic Suite" for string quartet.

On the Tuesday program the artists will be Miss Averino, Mr. Barrere, Mr. d'Archambeau, Rudolph Reuter, pianist, the chamber orchestra, and the Brosa quartet, and the music will be Malipiero's "Ritrovarie" for eleven instruments, Pilati's sonata for flute and piano, modern Italian songs by Pizzetti, ancient Italian songs by Monteverde, Locatelli's sonata in D for cello and piano, and a string quartet by Castelnuovo-Tedesco.

The next day will present Jacques Gordon, violinist, Lee Pattison, pianist, Mr. Barrere, Mr. Vieland, and Mr. d'Archambeau in Strube's sonata for cello and piano, Kricka's sonatina for violin and viola, Loeffler's partita for violin and piano, and Roussel's trio for flute, viola and cello.

The final program on Thursday will call for the Gordon String quartet, Mr. Barrere, Mr. Pattison, Mr. Honore, Lucile Lawrence, harpist, a bassoon, horn and double bass from the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and they will play the Mozart quartet in F, Salzedo's "Preambule et Jeux," Frederick Stock's quintet for piano and strings, and Beck's concerto for string quartet and orchestra. Mr. Stock will conduct the last number.

An Unfortunate Experience.

Elisabeth Rethberg arrives at Ravinia with a detailed statement about her late unfortunate experience in Dresden. Somewhat too long to reproduce in full, the facts boil down to this:

The State Opera of Saxony invited her to come to a special Rethberg week at the opening of the International exposition of hygiene at Dresden, where, among other happenings, she was to give a charity benefit concert for suffering children.

She arrived there May 4, and gave a concert May 6, though suffering with tonsillitis at the time. Upon leaving the concert hall she was accosted by a process server assisted by a squad of police, who demanded 82,000 marks or her arrest. Not carrying that amount of money with her at that time, her jewelry was removed from her, and she was refused permission to change from concert costume to warmer clothing or to call a lawyer or physician. At 2 o'clock in the morning a court physician arrived, confirmed the fact of her having tonsillitis and of not being in fit condition to be taken to prison, whereupon she was taken to a clinic.

The injunction had been asked by a concert agent named Aufrecht claiming the sum as commissions dating back to 1921. Mme. Rethberg states that he brought suit in 1925, the trial court ruled that the claim was without merit, and the Court of Appeals sustained the decision of the lower court. Through further representations in a Berlin court he procured the injunction, having it served at a late hour on the night of the concert, although it had been in his hands three days before. Mme. Rethberg adds that the League of Concert Artists of Germany had, through trade papers, warned artists against using his services and that the government had withdrawn his license as agent.

The next day Mme. Rethberg deposited the 82,000 marks in a Dresden court, but by the time her attorney arrived from Berlin Aufrecht had disappeared. The minister of justice and minister of culture of Saxony called upon her and expressed their regrets, and the police chief of Dresden gave her a bodyguard during the remainder of her stay there. A few days later she was appointed honorary member of the Saxon state theaters, the highest honor that can be granted an artist in Saxony.

While in Paris on May 29 she was about to go down into the tomb of Radames in "Aida," and thinking, as she says, of all the injustice of the world. At that moment she was handed a Berlin newspaper carrying the news that the court had found judgment in her case, ruling that her arrest was rejected as was the attachment of her valuables, with costs to be paid by her opponent.

Music Notes.

Through something of a coincidence the names of the Chicago Musical college and the Uptown theater have been twice connected recently. Ralph Richards, pianist of the theater, was one of the soloists at the commencement concert of the college last Wednesday evening, having previously been a winner in the grand piano contest held by the college. He is a native of Portland, Ore.

Lorena Anderson of Chicago is singing at the Uptown theater this week, having worked her way through the Chicago Musical college by operating a telephone switchboard, doing clerical work, and winning a scholarship. In the meantime she won first prize in the Atwater Kent amateur singers' radio contest.

Ruth Crawford of Chicago, the first woman to win a Guggenheim fellowship in musical composition, sailed for Europe last Wednesday for a year of study. She plans to divide her time between Berlin, Paris, and Budapest, studying with various masters in those cities and perfecting some compositions in the larger forms which she now has in manuscript.

News of Plays and Players at Season's Close

ROBERT E. SHERWOOD'S play of the crusades, "Marching as to War," has been acquired by Kenneth MacGowan and Joseph Verner Reed, who plan to produce it in December with Colin Keith-Johnston, seen last season as Capt. Stanhope in "Journey's End," in the leading rôle. "Marching as to War" has been previously announced by two or three managements and was controlled by Winthrop Ames at the time of his retirement last fall.

Harry J. Powers, managing director of the Blackstone theater, announces that contracts have been received from the Theater Guild for the first two presentations during the Chicago engagement. Shaw's "The Applecart" will open on Monday, Oct. 6, for three weeks, and will be followed with Turgenev's "A Month in the Country" on Monday, Oct. 27, for three weeks.

Alfred Lunt of the Theater Guild's acting company, was given the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters by Carroll college at Waukesha, Wis., Monday, June 16. Mr. Lunt attended Carroll college before he went east to go to Harvard, which he foreswore to enter the Castle Square Stock company in Boston.

Mr. Lunt is now vacationing on his farm in Wisconsin with his wife, Lynn Fontanne. They will return to New York in August to begin rehearsals for Maxwell Anderson's new play based on the story of Elizabeth and Essex and called "Elizabeth, the Queen." This production opens at the Garrick theater, Philadelphia, Sept. 29, and goes to New York immediately thereafter.

Grace George recently gave her 200th performance of "The First Mrs. Fraser" at the Playhouse, New York, thus reaching a milestone in her run on Broadway that has been passed by only a few feminine stars. Here are the New York records in the case: Katharine Cornell in "The Age of Innocence," 207 performances, and in "The Green Hat," 231; Ina Claire in "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney," 252; Ethel Barrymore in "The Constant Wife," 298; Jane Cowl in "The Road to Rome," 440; Leonore Ulric in "Kiki," 600; Jeanne Eagels in "Rain," 648; Laurette Taylor in "Peg o' My Heart," 692.

"The Long Road," a play by Hugh Stanislaus Stange, dealing with the effect of the world war on an American family, is scheduled to be tried out by Herman Gantvoort for two weeks, beginning July 14. The play, which is listed for September presentation on Broadway, will have a cast numbering twenty-five. The leading rôles in the tryout engagement will be acted by Otto Kruger, Sue Macmanamy, Paul Kelly, and Claude Cooper. Another of Mr. Stange's plays, "After Tomorrow," will soon be produced by John Golden.

"It's a Wise Child," the second production and the first hit of the theatrical season just ended, will close at the Belasco theater, New York, Saturday, June 28. This comedy by Laurence E. Johnson was presented by David Belasco on Aug. 6, 1929. "It's a Wise Child" will begin a tour on July 5 in Atlantic City, going from there to San Francisco, where it will be seen on July 21. The comedy is expected to remain on the Pacific coast until Sept. 27. It has been booked until June, 1931, and will end its tour in Boston.

George Grossmith has been engaged for "Princess Charming," in which he will play the rôle taken by him in the London production of this operetta.

"Tattle Tales," a summer revue of Pacific coast origin, will soon be placed in rehearsal by Alexander Leftwich. The dances will be staged by Ned McGurn. The tryout opening is announced for July 14.

"The Lawless Lady," a play by Samuel Ruskin Golding and Paul Dickey, is scheduled for mid-August presentation in New York with Helen MacKellar as the star.

Portuguese Outwit Anti-Dueling Law, but Satisfy Honor

LISBON.—(AP)—Dueling is frequent in Portugal despite statutory prohibitions because there is a loophole in the law through which most of the fighters wriggle, if caught.

The law provides imprisonment for a year if the duel results in a fatality and the seconds face a possible three months in prison. The joker lies in the fact that there is no penalty if no one is hurt.

Ring of Swords.

The consequence is that there is many an expedition by automobile or by horseback just before dawn to green fields on the outskirts of the capital. There in some secluded spot swords ring and "honor is satisfied."

The newspapers generally are "tipped off" to these affairs but the censor never permits mention of the names of the participants. Sometimes if he is good natured he passes a brief item at the foot of a column, but it records only the fact that two anonymous gentlemen "met."

Resort of Army Officers.

Until popular indignation forced passage of the anti-dueling law, the practice was open and widespread. Furthermore it was the accepted duty of an army officer, if he considered himself insulted by a civilian, to draw his weapon immediately and silence the offender.

A section of the army still agitates for return of the duello to the code of army officers. They are willing, however, that it should be prohibited to civilians.

Play Producer with Faith in Stage's Future

BROCK PEMBERTON, the theatrical manager who produced "Strictly Dishonorable," is broadcasting his views on the stage and the talkies, present and future. He says:

"A six weeks' trip across the continent and back with a company of 'Strictly Dishonorable,' half of the period spent in Hollywood, has led me to certain definite conclusions about the theater and its future. I offer them here as one man's view.

"Business is bad from here to the Pacific coast, and naturally show business is bad, too.

"The legitimate theater has lost some of its patronage to the talkies not because the majority prefer the latter but because it cannot afford the former.

"The cinema was dying when the oxygen of speech revived it.

"The effect of the stimulant has begun to wear off and panic has seized the movie makers.

"The silent picture represented little art, taste or intelligence. In a quarter of a century of photoplay making the industry created less than a dozen pictures worthy of consideration from any intellectual standpoint. The legitimate theater counts it a dull season that doesn't develop this number of worthy plays.

"When the picture makers gave the screen a voice they at once paid the stage the greatest compliment and mined their own position. For the talkie is a pallid imitation of the stage and must compete with it on its own terms.

"A distinguished American dramatist gave a dinner recently in Hollywood in honor of a visiting British playwright. Fifty-four authors, all writers of repute, were his guests and in the shop talk that filled the whole evening it developed that not an author was happy in Hollywood. The British author contracted to write a picture, but a week later, to the consternation of his new employer, he was London bound. He would write the story at his convenience, he left word; he couldn't write under pressure.

"The Englishman was Frederick Lonsdale; the host, Arthur Richman.

"Good plays are generally written on inspiration, not on order. The good dramatist, if he is worth his weight in royalties, is a sensitive soul who cannot work under the lash. Most of the fifty-four dramatists and many of their comrades doing time in Hollywood will be back on Broadway before long.

"I talked to scores of dramatists, actors and directors who have been lured by gold to Hollywood. This was the burden of their song: 'I'm doing it for the wife and kiddies. Will I be back? Just wait till the last option's over.'"

MUSIC NOTES

Three recitals will be given this week at the Central theater. Edward Collins, pianist and composer, will appear on Tuesday afternoon, and Estelle Liebling, mezzo-soprano of New York, on Thursday afternoon, both at 5 o'clock. Julia Rebeil, head of the piano department of the University of Arizona, will appear Saturday morning at 11 o'clock.

Commencement concerts of the week include the Belle Bender ballet school at the Chicago Woman's club theater this afternoon at 3 o'clock and the Illinois College of Music at Kimball hall Tuesday evening.

Winifred Christie, Scotch pianist, will return to this country next season to give some novel concerts on a double keyboard piano. It is the invention of Emanuel Moor, the Hungarian pianist and composer, and the idea harks back to the clavicembalo. Two manuals are ranged the one above the other, as in the case of the clavicembalo or organ. The upper manual sounds an octave higher than the lower, and, by means of a coupler, both can be sounded simultaneously. It is claimed that the new instrument has possibilities of sonority, contrast, and color surpassing those of the present piano while perserving the piano's technical peculiarities.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Do you know that just beneath that soiled, discolored, faded or aged complexion is one fair to look upon? Nature causes the normal skin to peel off in tiny, unseen, flour-like particles, a little each day, renewing the complexion of youth naturally, but there comes a time when this skin shedding slows up. Worry, overwork, sickness, inactivity are reasons that cause the face to be blotchy, discolored, pimply and old looking. The thing to do, if you wish to look your prettiest at all times, is to assist nature in the process of absorption by using pure Mercolized Wax. Get an ounce at any drug store or beauty counter and use as directed. It gently but surely peels away the outer scarf skin, removing freckles, pimples, blackheads or a muddy complexion. The underneath skin, now in evidence, is clear, pink, fresh and velvety, and the entire face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty.

To quickly remove wrinkles and other age lines we recommend a face lotion of unusual merit. One ounce powdered saxolite and one-half pint witch hazel.

Oberammergau Pilgrims

APPROXIMATELY 20,000 Americans will attend the Passion Play at Oberammergau this summer. This is about four times the number attending the last production of this spectacle in 1922, according to J. I. Young, general manager for Thomas Cook & Son.

In 1922 scarcely 5,000 Americans visited the village of Oberammergau during the entire season, whereas Cook's advance sale of tickets in America for this season has already touched the 10,000 mark, with several weeks to come before the sale will end. As official agents for the sale of these tickets, Cook & Son announce:

"Seats for one production of the play cost $5, $3.75, or $2.50, depending on whether they are of the first, second, or third class. However, one can not buy an admission ticket alone, but must buy two nights' lodging in the village of Oberammergau as well, which cost an extra $12, $11, $9.75, or $8.25.

"There are three performances a week during July and August, on Sundays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. In June and September the play is given only on Sundays. The entire season includes 41 performances.

"This means that one should arrive in the village of Oberammergau the night before any given performance, get up early (the play starts at 8 a. m.), have two hours for lunch, and return in the afternoon till 6 p. m., spend another night sleeping in the village, and leave the next morning.

"The lodgings and admission tickets are sold together; the first class lodgings are only for those holding the $5 tickets. The next production of the Passion Play is scheduled for 1934, which will be the 300th anniversary of its founding.

Bare Arms Become "Immoral" Conduct in Cleopatra's Land

CAIRO, Egypt.—(AP)—Women who appear in short sleeves on the streets of this land of Cleopatra would be liable to imprisonment for "immoral" conduct under a bill presented in parliament.

The bill stipulates that the offending woman may be warned twice by a husband or guardian, but upon the third offense must be prosecuted.

Conviction will bring a fine of $10 or seven days' imprisonment. All women over fourteen years of age come within the bill's provisions.

Theater Guild: Its Leaders and Point of View

Eleven Years of Success with Art Ideals.

By Charles Collins.

also an omnivorous play-reader always searching for the unusual and ...al. She calls herself, humorously and with some right, "the soul of the Guild."

Maurice Wertheim is a banker of high standing in the realm of finance and a life-long patron of the arts. His business advice has been of great value to the organization, and he also is an ardent searcher for new plays. Lee Simonson is a scenic artist whose achievements in stage decoration give him rank with Robert Edmond Jones. Although a specialist in scenery, he has a wide knowledge of all phases of the theater.

Serving under this board of governors are the executive heads of the various departments. Warren P. Munsell, business manager, is a box office graduate of the Washington Square Players. Kate Drain Lawson, technical director, watches the details of costuming and settings with a scholarly and artistic eye. Cheryl Crawford, recently from Smith college, assists Miss Helburn in forming casts. The play-reading department really covers the entire organization, but its three formal members are Barrett H. Clark, Harold Clurman and Anita Block.

Play Reading System.

This department reads more than a thousand plays every year, and is required to submit a report on every one. When it comes across a play that might be considered as a possibility for the Guild, no matter how remote its chances of production, the manuscript is sent to the board of governors, each member of which reads it. About 250 manuscripts are referred to the board every year in this manner; not more than two or three of them are accepted. These readers, of course, deal only with the flotsam and jetsam of manuscripts that come to the Guild. The governors themselves hunt the big game among established dramatists.

The Guild controls the rights to all of Bernard Shaw's plays in the United States and Canada. It has options on the work of Eugene O'Neill, Sidney Howard, Maxwell Anderson and various other dramatists. It has representatives in London and Paris who watch the European theater closely.

The Theater Guild's principal achievement in organization was the creation of audiences that would steadily subscribe for season tickets. It was the pioneer of this system, as a practical business arrangement, in the professional legitimate theater. It started in New York eleven years ago with 150 subscribers—recruited mostly from the friends of the board of governors. It now has about 34,000 subscribers in New York and a waiting list of 5,000. Its subscribers in Chicago, after its third season here, number about 15,000.

Its growth in New York compelled the abandonment of its first home, the old Garrick theater, and the building of the present Guild theater, which has one of the largest stages in New York. This was done in 1924 by means of a bond issue of $500,000, which was oversubscribed in two days. These securities were income bonds, not to pay interest unless it was earned. No interest payment has been missed, and the bonds, sold at par, are redeemable at 115. The buyers found them an excellent investment. After the theater had been built, the popularity of the Guild's plays compelled the leasing of another house in New York, the handsome Martin Beck, which shelters the productions that turn out to be long-run hits, and is profitably operated.

Paradox of Profit.

Thus it seems that a paradox has been perpetrated by the Theater Guild. Art has been made to pay. Miss Helburn has something to say on this point, and her remarks define the Guild's position and point of view with accuracy. She writes:

"It has been my privilege to be associated with what we call without shame 'an art theater'; an art theater which, while it started in the traditional poverty and humility, has now grown up under the stigma of success. I have been asked to explain this success, for it is undoubtedly rare. I feel I must also justify it.

"Let me then frankly confess that there are none of us posing as pure artists in the theater. We know that we cannot pretend to the experimental, individualistic, absolutely aristocratic position of the artist for whom nothing matters but his art. For us there are many other things to be considered—good acting, good producing, important things like an audience, trivial things like salaries, rents, and labor.

Purpose and Place.

"We found the theater frankly commercial. We found in the commercial theater a few beautiful and worthwhile efforts, but very few. We found experimental theaters, small, uncertain, of primitive execution, of limited appeal, as such enterprises must be—but of supreme importance. We said to ourselves: There is a place for things that are sincere and beautiful in the theater, a place wider than the experimental theaters can fill, a place less wide than the commercial theater, even if it wanted to, could hope to occupy—that is our niche.

"Our public is not necessarily a small public, but it is a special one. It is the public which buys Edith Wharton and Bernard Shaw rather than Ethel M. Dell and Robert Hichens. A public large enough to worry about, you may say. Quite so, but the difficulty is to get them all together in time. A book may percolate slowly to its public, starting with a small sale and gaining momentum as time goes on. A play must get its right audience all together under one roof at 8:30 of the evening of its first week. It cannot afford to wait, especially in an 'art theater' which has no capital to waste in 'nursing' a play.

"The Guild is not and never has been run for private profit. After rent, royalties, and salaries are paid, the profits go back into the organization to stabilize and make it secure, if anything can be secure. . . . While the money of our subscribers is classed as a liability rather than an asset, it stands to us as the only endowment we have ever had, an endowment which carries with it no traditional control, no influence, no red tape; an endowment that means a sympathetic audience, ready to receive and judge our productions with intelligent interest."

The Guild's frank recognition of the fact that the theater is a business as well as an art, as stated by Miss Helburn, contains the clew to its success and may be taken as a guarantee of its future. It has been courageous enough to compete with the commercial stage, in its highest forms, without lowering its artistic standards. The Guild has many gifts, but the highest of them is its intelligence.

RETURNS IN FALL

LESLIE BANKS.

When the Dramatic League of Chicago staged "The Infinite Shoeblack" last winter, this young actor from London, playing a stubborn, romantic Scotsman, revealed the personality and gifts of a star. He will return next fall for new activity with the Dramatic League. One of his assignments is the stage direction of "The Devil's Diary," by Maurine Watkins, author of "Chicago." He may act in that piece, but it is more likely that he will appear as leading man in A. A. Milne's "Success," also on the league's schedule.

THE ARMCHAIR PLAYGOER

By Fanny Butcher.

AT RAVINIA.

With the major novelties of the stage in Chicago at the moment to be found at Ravinia park, armchair playgoers turn their reading again into the literature of the opera. Of the seven operas to be presented this week three have definitely literary backgrounds: "Marouf," Monday night's offering, "Madame Butterfly," Tuesday's, and "Manon," Wednesday's.

JOHN LUTHER LONG.
[Cartoon by James Montgomery Flagg.]

"Marouf, or the Cobbler of Cairo," is a jaunty piece out of that treasure chest of tales, "The Arabian Nights." You will find it in either the Burton or Lane translations—they are the two with the most academic laurels about their bound brows. Just in case some armchair playgoer might expect to find it in the family Arabian Nights owned by little Geraldine, we hasten to add that unless little Geraldine's edition is that by Frances Olcott called "Haroun el Raschid," Marouf will be conspicuously absent. His adventures are rather more adult in their appeal, although the good old geni is present.

Marouf ran away to sea from a complaining wife. He was a poor man, in spirit [up to the moment of his escape] as well as in purse. A shipwreck finished what life had already started. But when he met an old friend, that friend, who had himself become wealthy, introduced him as the wealthiest merchant in the world, and Marouf was soon enjoying the favor of the sultan, who suggested that he would make a good son-in-law.

For forty days Marouf lived in the palace so high and handsome that the sultan's treasury was flat. In the meanwhile the sultan's daughter was such a beautiful and charming gal that Marouf had a twinge of conscience and confessed everything to her. She loved him for himself alone, she said, and disguised herself as a boy and they fled together. The convenient geni, rewarding such nobility (perhaps), provided a caravan of vast proportions and all was well, not to say swell.

"Madame Butterfly" is one of the most popular of the operas. Few remember, perhaps, its origins. Years ago, in 1898 to be exact, John Luther Long, a lawyer in Philadelphia, published a volume of short stories which contained the story of "Madame Butterfly." David Belasco saw in the story such dramatic material that he made a play of it, which enjoyed a large success. It was brought to the attention of Puccini, who, by 1900 (at the age of 42), already had "Manon Lescaut," "La Bohème," and "Tosca" to his credit.

In 1904 he produced at La Scala in Milan "Madama Butterfly." He revised it in 1905, and ever since then it has been on the top layer of every successful repertory. John Luther Long will live as its literary creator long after "The Fox Woman," "Billy Boy," and "Felice" are forgotten, as they are already.

"Manon" is a dramatization and orchestration of one of the classics of French literature, "Manon Lescaut," by l'Abbé Prévost, or, as it is called in its entirety in French, "Histoire de Chevalier des Grieux et de Manon Lescaut." It was written in 1733, and so vivid and timeless a tale it was that it is read to this day with avidness not only by those interested in literature but by the censors, who are always discovering that some hoary classic is corrupting the morals of an age that is, if not incorruptible, at least well equipped with shock absorbers. It is amusing, suppressing books that have been read for a couple of hundred years.

"Manon" is a classic story of love, so much so that many critics claim that other classics have derived directly from it, "Paul and Virginia," "Atala," and "Carmen," for instance. It is the story of a young man about to enter holy orders and his love for a young girl about to become a nun against her will, their elopement and their subsequent ups and downs, mostly downs of tense tragedy.

You may read "Manon Lescaut" in many editions, from a handsome one published by Knopf to the excellent modern library edition at the more popular price.

New List of Champions

After studying the statistics of the theatrical season on Broadway and the adjacent streets, the dramatic editor of the New York Times produces the following list of championships in the various departments of the stage:

THE BUSIEST PRODUCERS—The Shuberts, fifteen productions (exclusive of the eleven revivals by the Jolson's Theater Musical Comedy company and other shows in which the Shuberts had only a financial interest). The Theater Guild, eight productions. Erlanger & Tyler, seven productions.

THE BUSIEST DIRECTORS—Milton Aborn, eleven productions (operetta revivals). Arthur Hopkins, five productions. Philip Moeller, Eva Le Gallienne, and Walter Greenough, each four productions.

THE BUSIEST AUTHOR—Martin Flavin, three plays. (For one brief sequence during the season, all three of Mr. Flavin's dramas were performed synchronously. They were "The Criminal Code," "Cross Roads," and "Broken Dishes.")

THE MOST FREQUENTLY SEEN ACTORS—George Barbier, five plays. Walter Connolly and Otto Kruger, each four plays.

THE MOST FREQUENTLY SEEN ACTRESSES—Mrs. Fiske, Spring Byington, Mary Fowler, Phoebe Foster, Ara Gerald, and Eda Heinemann, each three plays.

THE BUSIEST COSTUME DESIGNERS—Aline Bernstein, five productions. Charles Le Maire, three productions. Kiviette, three productions.

NUMBER OF PRODUCTIONS DERIVED FROM FOREIGN SOURCES (imported directly or adapted)—England, seventeen; Russia, five; France, four; Germany, three; Spain, three; Italy, one; Hungary, one.

Cohan Revival Fails to Click; Drama in East

NEW YORK, June 21.—[Special.]—Although its title rôle is one of his favorite parts, George M. Cohan's revival of "The Song and Dance Man" has not met with the success that attended his resuscitation of "The Tavern," and will be withdrawn at the end of this week. At that time Mr. Cohan will officially close his 1929-'30 season which began on a warm night last August with "Gambling." Incidentally he seems to have dropped his project of going to London. One of the town's solid successes, which has been running profitably since early in August, will likewise go on its way at the end of this week. This, of course, is Belasco's production of "It's a Wise Child" and after a week's layoff it will start upon travels which, according to expectations, will carry it through June, 1931.

There is talk of organizing a Chicago company of "Lysistrata" in September with Fay Bainter again in the title part which she played in Philadelphia. For touring purposes the production would be less sizeable than the one now, a roaring success, in 44th street.

"Almost a Honeymoon," one of the several English plays which Lee Shubert acquired abroad, is booked for the Brighton theater the week of July 21. It is a farce by Walter Ellis, which London liked. Another Shubert booking down by the seashore at the Brighton is "The Three Graces," something musical with Walter Woolf in it. This will be seen there the week of Aug. 4 and a bit later will come "The Second Little Show."

Lyn Harding, according to an item in the London Daily Telegraph, says that his winter season will begin at the Fulton theater, New York, on Oct. 6. Since he is to appear in Horace Liveright's importation of "Frankenstein," this doubtless means that the play is scheduled for Broadway at that time.

Earl Carroll's eighth issue of the "Vanities" will be displayed tomorrow night in Atlantic City and will, if all goes well, come to the New Amsterdam a week from Tuesday. The play called "Jungle Love," which appears to lean heavily on atmosphere, will be at the Brighton theater this week, but its next stop is unknown. It may go to Chicago, or it may come here. Harry Rosenthal, who became a Broadway actor one hectic evening last October in "June Moon," will be featured in the tour of this comedy.

It is now Messrs. MacGowan and Reed who will do Robert Sherwood's "Marching as to War," a play of the Crusades which has been on the verge of a hearing several times previously. Mr. Ames had it last October when he suddenly decided producing plays was not worth all the bother.

The second play by Marcel Pagnol, author of "Topaze," to be seen in New York will probably open the season at Henry Miller's theater on Labor day. This is "Marius," and two English adaptations of it are said to repose in the Gilbert Miller offices. Alexander Kirkland is the only one thus far engaged for the cast.

Asbury Park will see a tryout engagement of "Reunion," the S. K. Lauren play with a college background, on July 21. The play will give a second week of testing performances before Bela Blau and his associates decide its eventual fate.

Once in a while there comes a new idea for a revue, and the latest, which should be looked upon with favor by the managers, at least, is to eliminate most of the scenery. Alexander Leftwich is the one who is planning this innovation, and it will be used in the show he is now making ready, "Tattle Tales." This production will open at the Wilbur, Boston, on July 14 and expects to come to a Shubert playhouse here in August. The magical Mr. Keating and Val and Ernie Stanton will be in it.

Among the proposed productions for early in the new season is an underworld play which will be related entirely as comedy and will contain not so much as a trace of melodramatics. At least its producer, who should be in a position to know, says such will be the case. The play in question is "The Up and Up," by the Miles. Madison and Flint, and one person engaged for it at the moment is Dorothy Stickney.

Noel Coward will return to the stage in his new play which Mr. Cochran will bring forth in London in the autumn. The play is a comedy requiring five characters. One of them will be acted by Gertrude Lawrence, who has given up her plan to appear in the new Charlot Revue. . . . A theatrical event to which London is looking forward with some degree of interest is the appearance together of Gerald Du Maurier and Gladys Cooper. They are to start acting any minute now in a play by H. M. Harwood and R. Gore-Browne which Lee Shubert has already acquired for this country. The theme of the play is to be found in the line of Ernest Dowson's "I have been faithful to thee, Cynara, in my fashion."

Barbara Bennett will appear in the coast production of "Rebound," wherein Ina Claire will be starred. . . . Philip Barry's "Hotel Universe," which put up a good fight and got ten weeks at the Martin Beck, departed last night. On the other hand, "Ada Beats the Drum" and "Change Your Luck" did not wait until Saturday night. Because of Miss Boland's illness, the comedy at Mr. Golden's theater closed after the Tuesday evening performance, while the Negro show slipped out of the Cohan on Thursday.

Arthur Hopkins will begin his new season with the Kenyon Nicholson play, "Torch Song," which is booked for an Atlantic City tryout on July 28 and plans to spend the following week in Asbury Park. Thus far, according to Mr. Hopkins, the actors have not been definitely chosen, although there are intimations that Don Cook may be in the play.

BRIGHT YOUNG MAN

OWEN DAVIS JR.

He plays the gin-dazed but charming young man from the north who woos and wins a southern flapper under the pistol of her wild-eyed uncle, in "Solid South," at the Harris theater. He was with Richard Bennett in "The Barker," also. The matinee audiences adore his dimples, but the aisle-seat first-nights say he's a good actor in spite of them. His father is a dramatist with more than one hundred titles, including a Pulitzer prize winner, on his record. Mr. Davis Jr. is a possibility as guest-player with the Goodman repertory company next season.

bags. And I suppose when the crowd divides they go with the majority. Perhaps they please themselves. We will find that out.

There seems to be a great curiosity as to how we are to travel. Most of us are going student, if you know what that is. Used to be called second class. Very comfortable and a lot more fun they tell me. I never tried it before. Don't have to dress for dinner and all that stuff.

"Garrick Gaieties" Is Clever.

Now, to get back to the theater: A third edition of the "Garrick Gaieties" has also entered the Broadway revue competition. These are the juniors of the Theater Guild, assisted by guest stars, and I understand you Theater Guild subscribers are to see them next season. Because of a shortage of dramas the Guild plans to send its music show on tour.

The boys and girls of the "Gaieties" put intelligence above sex. At least in a physical sense. They like to talk sex, but they are not strong for its more fleshly exhibitions.

Thus their new show amusingly satirizes the abysmal ignorance of the talkie magnates in Hollywood; the Junior leaguers who sell their indorsements of the Persimmons bed to the advertisers; the peculiarly falsetto art of Mei Lan-Fang, and such like local activities.

The young matrons of the Junior league who indorse the Persimmons bed are subjected to the most rigid test. First they must take a sip of coffee to clear their consciences; then they must be blindfolded; then they must find their way to their favorite bed unassisted by anything more definite than a guide rope, and finally they must tell what the bed has meant in their lives. Walter Damrosch's daughter, Gretchen Damrosch Finletter, wrote this one.

I liked a bit, too, in which Albert Carroll, suffering an attack of acute indigestion, tries desperately to buy a little bicarbonate of soda at a drug store soda counter. The sandwich and coffee lunchers crowd him out so completely that he faints before he can get relief.

Philip Loeb is director and one of the chief caricaturists of the "Gaieties." Albert Carroll, whose imitation of Mei Lan-Fang is perfect, is the chief guest star. Julius Tannen's son, William, is a singing juvenile of promise and Edith Meiser does the smarter talking songs.

B'way Openings

The summer shows have not begun to pour into Broadway in any abundance. A diligent survey of the New York stage reveals only two openings for this week [one of them an incidental entertainment], as follows:

"The Greenroomers' Revel"—Tonight only, at the George M. Cohan theater. Among those announced to appear at this performance on behalf of the theatrical club are George M. Cohan, Blanche Ring, Will Mahoney, Sophie Tucker, Grace George, Erin O'Brien-Moore, Jay Velie, James J. Thornton, Bobby Arnst, Harriet Hoctor, Harry Rosenthal, J. Fred Coots, June Day, and two or three well known orchestras.

"Mystery Moon"—Opening tomorrow night at the Royale theater. They designate this as a musical comedy with a mystery plot. Its book is by Fred Herendeen, who has suddenly turned up as the author of two incoming summer shows. Carlo and Sanders have fashioned the music and lyrics, and the cast will include Frank Shannon, Frances Shelley, Charles Lawrence, and Kitty Kelly.

Critic Selects Honor Roll of B'way Players

Stephen Rathbun, dramatic critic of the New York Sun, thinks that if All-American football team selections are interesting, an All-Broadway company of actors and actresses for the season of 1929-30 should be in order. So he goes to work, with the following results:

Leading man and woman—Alfred Lunt and Lynne Fontanne of the Theater guild, who last acted in "Meteor."

Leading juvenile—Glenn Hunter of "Waterloo Bridge." Honorable mentions for Raymond Guion of "Young Sinners;" Eric Dressler of "Lysistrata;" and Roger Pryor of "Apron Strings."

Ingenue—Mirim Hopkins of "Lysistrata." Honorable mentions for June Walker of "Waterloo Bridge;" Sylvia Sidney of "Cross Roads;" Dorothea Chard of "Let and Sublet;" and Sidney Fox of "Lost Sheep."

Character actors—Frank Morgan of "Topaze;" Sidney Toler of "It's a Wise Child;" Leo Bugakov of "Street Scene!" Osgood Perkins of "Uncle Vanya," Walter Kingsford of "The Criminal Code."

Character actresses—Mary Boland of "Ada Beats the Drum;" Ruth Gordon of "Hotel Universe;" Helen Broderick of "Fifty Million Frenchmen;" and Beulah Bondi of "Milestones."

For vampires and women of passion: Helen Morgan of "Sweet Adeline," Honorable mention for Suzanne Caubaye of the "Plutocrat."

For "straight" comedy rôles—Ernest Truex of "Lysistrata." Honorable mention for Harry Rosenthal of "June Moon."

Mr. Rathbun continues in this vein until he has a company large enough to supply the Theater Français, the Moscow Art theater, the Shakespeare Memorial theater of Stratford, Drury Lane of London, the Empire of New York and the Blackstone of Chicago with mummers for a full season. He selects high comedians, male and female, English comedians of both sexes, fantastic actors, sweet mothers, reporter actors, hostesses, butlers, villains, society actors in trousers and skirts, etc. He names, altogether, 58 players, which is not a company, but a crowd.

Sophie Sails.

Sophie Tucker will sail on June 26 for London, where she is to open early in September in a musical show entitled "Follow a Star."

Burning Hotel Scene of Play by Galsworthy

"The Roof," John Galsworthy's latest play, which is to be staged in New York next fall, had its first American acting recently as a feature of the commencement exercises at Yale university. It was given by the university's dramatic association under the direction of Alexander Dean, formerly of the faculty of Northwestern.

A staff correspondent of the New York Times described the play as follows:

Like "Escape," "The Roof" is an episodic play, but unlike "Escape," it is not given completeness and significance by a central theme or idea. It is rather a collection of skillfully written scenes, each of which must be taken for itself rather than for what it contributes to the play as a whole.

The roof of the title is the roof of a small Parisian hotel, but before the play arrives on that spot in its final scene it depicts what is happening to a number of Mr. Galsworthy's countrymen in the rooms of the hotel just before they discover that the building is on fire.

The first episode introduces a trio of drunken revelers, along with an English nurse, a French waiter and a Slavic musician. There are words between the patient, kindly waiter and one of the inebriates, and as a practical joke the latter sets fire to the waiter's hat and starts a conflagration with such thoroughness that soon the hotel itself is aflame.

Fire Alarms.

The play then shifts to the room of the youngest of the revelers, Reggie Fanning, where the action happens simultaneously with the fire scene and culminates in the discovery of the fire.

The play subsequently moves to other rooms of the hotel, and in each instance the time goes back to the first scene. In one room, in what is one of "The Roof's" best interludes, two young girls, on holiday in Paris with their parents, are shown at their adolescent pranks, cat calls and pillow fights. In another well written comic episode a man and wife go through a series of petty domestic bickerings.

The next scene shows a rendezvous between a woman, who has run away from her husband, and her lover, and then comes an episode culminating in the death from heart disease of the father of the two little girls, a distinguished novelist. Each of these episodes ends with the discovery of the fire, which has cut off escape to the hotel's lobby, and with hurried preparations for an ascent to the roof.

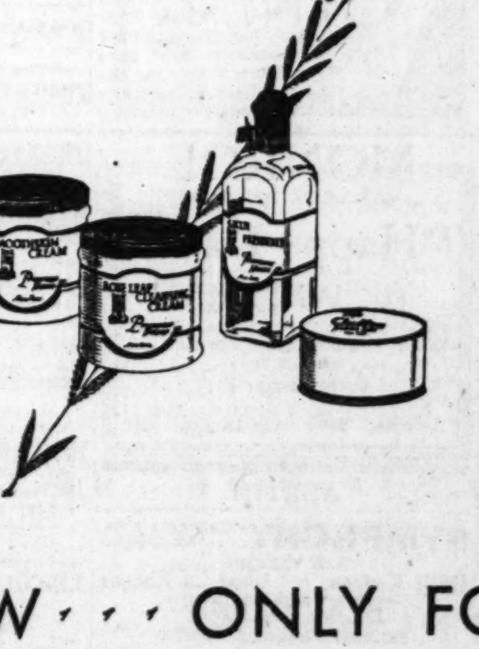
Leaps for Life.

On the roof, then, in the final scene, gather all the characters of the play. There the girls learn that they are fatherless and comfort their mother. The woman who had fled from her husband runs into young Fanning, an acquaintance. Rescue comes with the arrival of the firemen, and the frightened, overwrought people are tossed, one by one, from the roof into lifenets. Only the waiter, Gustave remains, and the man responsible for the fire dashes back to save him. He is successful, but the attempt cost his own life after he has brought Gustave to safety.

Thus the play ends, and rather disappointingly, despite the natural dramatic interest of the rescues. All through it you feel that Mr. Galsworthy is working toward some central theme which will emerge in his final scene. When nothing happens to weld the play into an integrated work, you naturally feel a little baffled.



NOW . . . ONLY FOUR STEPS TO KEEP YOUR SKIN YOUTHFUL

So many bottles and jars, such confusing advice, no wonder the average woman does not know what beauty counsel to follow!

The truth of the whole matter is that only a simple regime is required to bring loveliness to the normal complexion. For the woman whose skin is neither too dry nor too oily, Primrose House has developed a treatment in which only four steps are necessary. And for each step in this exceedingly simple treatment, this famous institute of beauty has created a special preparation:

FOR CLEANSING: Roseleaf Cleansing Cream
FOR NOURISHING: Primrose Smoothskin Cream
FOR BRACING: Primrose House Skin Freshener
FOR FINISHING: Primrose House Chiffon Powder

Discover the wonders this method works

With these four balanced preparations, used according to the celebrated Primrose House Method, any woman with an average skin can see amazing improvement in her complexion in a short time. The Primrose House Method is remarkably easy to follow, and is fully explained in a booklet "Here Dwells Youth", which we will gladly send you on request.

Primrose House offers you its Introductory Box

In order that you may conveniently try these four balanced preparations, Primrose House has made junior sizes available for you—together with Pomegranate Rouge and filmy Cleansing Tissues—in a compact Introductory Box for $1.00. On sale at all leading drug and department stores or send direct to Primrose House, 595 Fifth Avenue, New York.

R-K-O STAR

GEORGE JESSEL.

He was the hero of "The Jazz Singer" and part author of that play, in which he appeared more than 1,000 times. He also helped to write and acted effectively in "The War Song." Then the talkies got him, and he has been industriously employed at Hollywood ever since. He has emerged, however, for a vaudeville tour, and he leads this week's program at the Palace theater.

VOICE OF THE FAN

If you would like your letters printed in this column please write on ONE side of the paper ONLY. If you want a personal answer send stamped, self-addressed envelope—PLEASE!

Review Misinterpreted.

Dear Miss Tinee: I, too, read your writeup on "One Glorious Night" and did not see where you criticized Miss Gish unduly, but you did point out that the title given her picture did not fit in with the average person's conception of the fair Lillian and that it sounded more like the title of a story that they would dish out to Greta Garbo. Am I not right?

Then, why do you let excited folks like "A Fan" hop all over you because they misinterpret some of your reviews? I am sure if "A Fan" read the offending article again she would find she was just a little wrong and unjust to you, that time.

I am a great admirer of Miss Gish, and also of Miss Garbo. I resented the disparaging tone of "A Fan's" letter concerning Miss Garbo. I don't blame Greta for having that "Help me, Heaven" expression because it is no secret that she has not been overly happy over the rôles assigned to her. I have never cared for a single story she has had—I don't like lanky females—I hate masculine voices in women—and yet in spite of what would ordinarily make me lose interest in any other actress with even one of these "faults," I find Greta Garbo intensely fascinating and lovely.

I can't always get the same slant you do about pictures, but as a rule I think you are pretty fair and square about your reviews, and FEARLESS in being yourself. You simply give us your version and if we don't like it we can just stop reading your reviews. If you try to write to please the dear public you will get yourself into an awful mess because they just can't be pleased, as a whole, anyhow—so just keep on being yourself, Mae.

Sincerely,
ANOTHER FAN.
E. T. CARLSON.

Editor's note: I'll try. Thank you, sir.

Praise for War Story.

My dear Miss Tinée: Have you ever felt as if you just had to tell someone your inner feelings about something? You are, if you don't object, going to be the "someone."

Yesterday I saw "All's Quiet on the Western Front." Ordinarily I don't care for war pictures, but this one! Words are inadequate to describe the powerful thrill I still experience each time I again review this tremendous drama mentally.

My mother is German and my father French-English. Both of them remember distinctly the youthful boys who were soldiers. It seems as if I can't get those pain racked faces erased from my mind—nor the words of Mr. Ayers: "War—it is not beautiful to die for one's country."

As always, your most faithful adherent,
MARIE.

Words About Gary Cooper.

Miss Mae Tinée: "Gary Cooper pulls at your heart strings—the lonely capitulating Kenneth." Judging from the writeups you have been passing out to this bird he apparently has been pulling at your heart strings for some time. This great stone face must have captured your heart months ago — you get sentimantally sloppy every time you write about him.

I used to think he must split his gate receipts with you or something of that sort for these gushing remarks you have toward the countenance of this frozen faced William S. Hart type of performer, but now I am convinced he simply has pulled at your heart strings and you want to tell the world about it.

There is one certain rôle in which Cooper really would do very well—that of acting the part of one of these usher boys who stand like pillars of solid matter [both mentally and otherwise] at the theater entrance.

Yours truly,
J. A. BOND.

Editor's note—Says you.

Wrath-Provoking Letter.

Mae Tinée: I have never written to you and never expected to. I read you always and whenever I visit a movie it's one you've advised, as I have absolute confidence in your judgment.

But that disrespectful letter from "Respectfully [?!] a Fan" rouses my ire! That letter should be handed to Doris Blake with the head line: "Why we have Divorces."

How I'd hate to live in the same house with that venomous disposisch!

E. H.

Editor's note: O, I like you!

PROTECTING THEIR HEALTH AND HAPPINESS

ANNOUNCEMENT
This advertisement has been submitted to and been approved by the Medical Advisory Board which has been formed at the invitation of the Trustees. It is published by a health agency established for public service to inform the public of the dangers of "social diseases," of the importance of securing good medical care, and of the facilities whereby this can be obtained.

SERIOUS SICKNESS and disability are often caused by "social diseases." Why are they called "social diseases"? Because they strike directly at the basis of society—the family. They are no respecters of color, creed, age or sex. Their prey is the unborn child, the promising youth and the mature man and woman, married or single. The "social disease" we shall deal with in this educational series is syphilis. In attacking the home this disease attacks the nation. Dr. Osler, the wisest physician of modern times, called syphilis "the greatest killing disease."

Like many other foes of mankind among diseases, the tiny germs responsible for this menace to health and happiness are too small to be seen without the use of the microscope. But they can destroy the strong and the weak, the trained athlete and the helpless infant. Nor are their damages confined to any single part of the body. Every part and tissue is subject to damage, particularly the heart, brain, eyes, skin and bones.

Fortunately science, through years of research and practice, has discovered methods of detection and treatment which will prevent these disastrous results if given a chance. But even the best trained doctors are powerless unless the infected person is brought to their attention. The discovery of syphilis must precede its cure. The soundest advice that can be given to anyone who has reason to think himself infected is "Seek Competent Medical Advice Immediately."

Syphilis often exists without the knowledge of the individual and no health examination can be thorough and complete without blood and other laboratory tests for its presence.

First rate treatment and care of syphilis can be secured within your means from an experienced family physician or from the Public Health Institute. Treatment is available also through the Institute and many free clinics, for those without funds.

The Institute was organized more than ten years ago to combat "social diseases" in Chicago. Its medical staff are experienced and are registered by the state. All treatment and advice is given by these men and women physicians.

The fees are within the reach of all. Treatment is available to those without immediate funds—no one is turned away because of inability to pay.

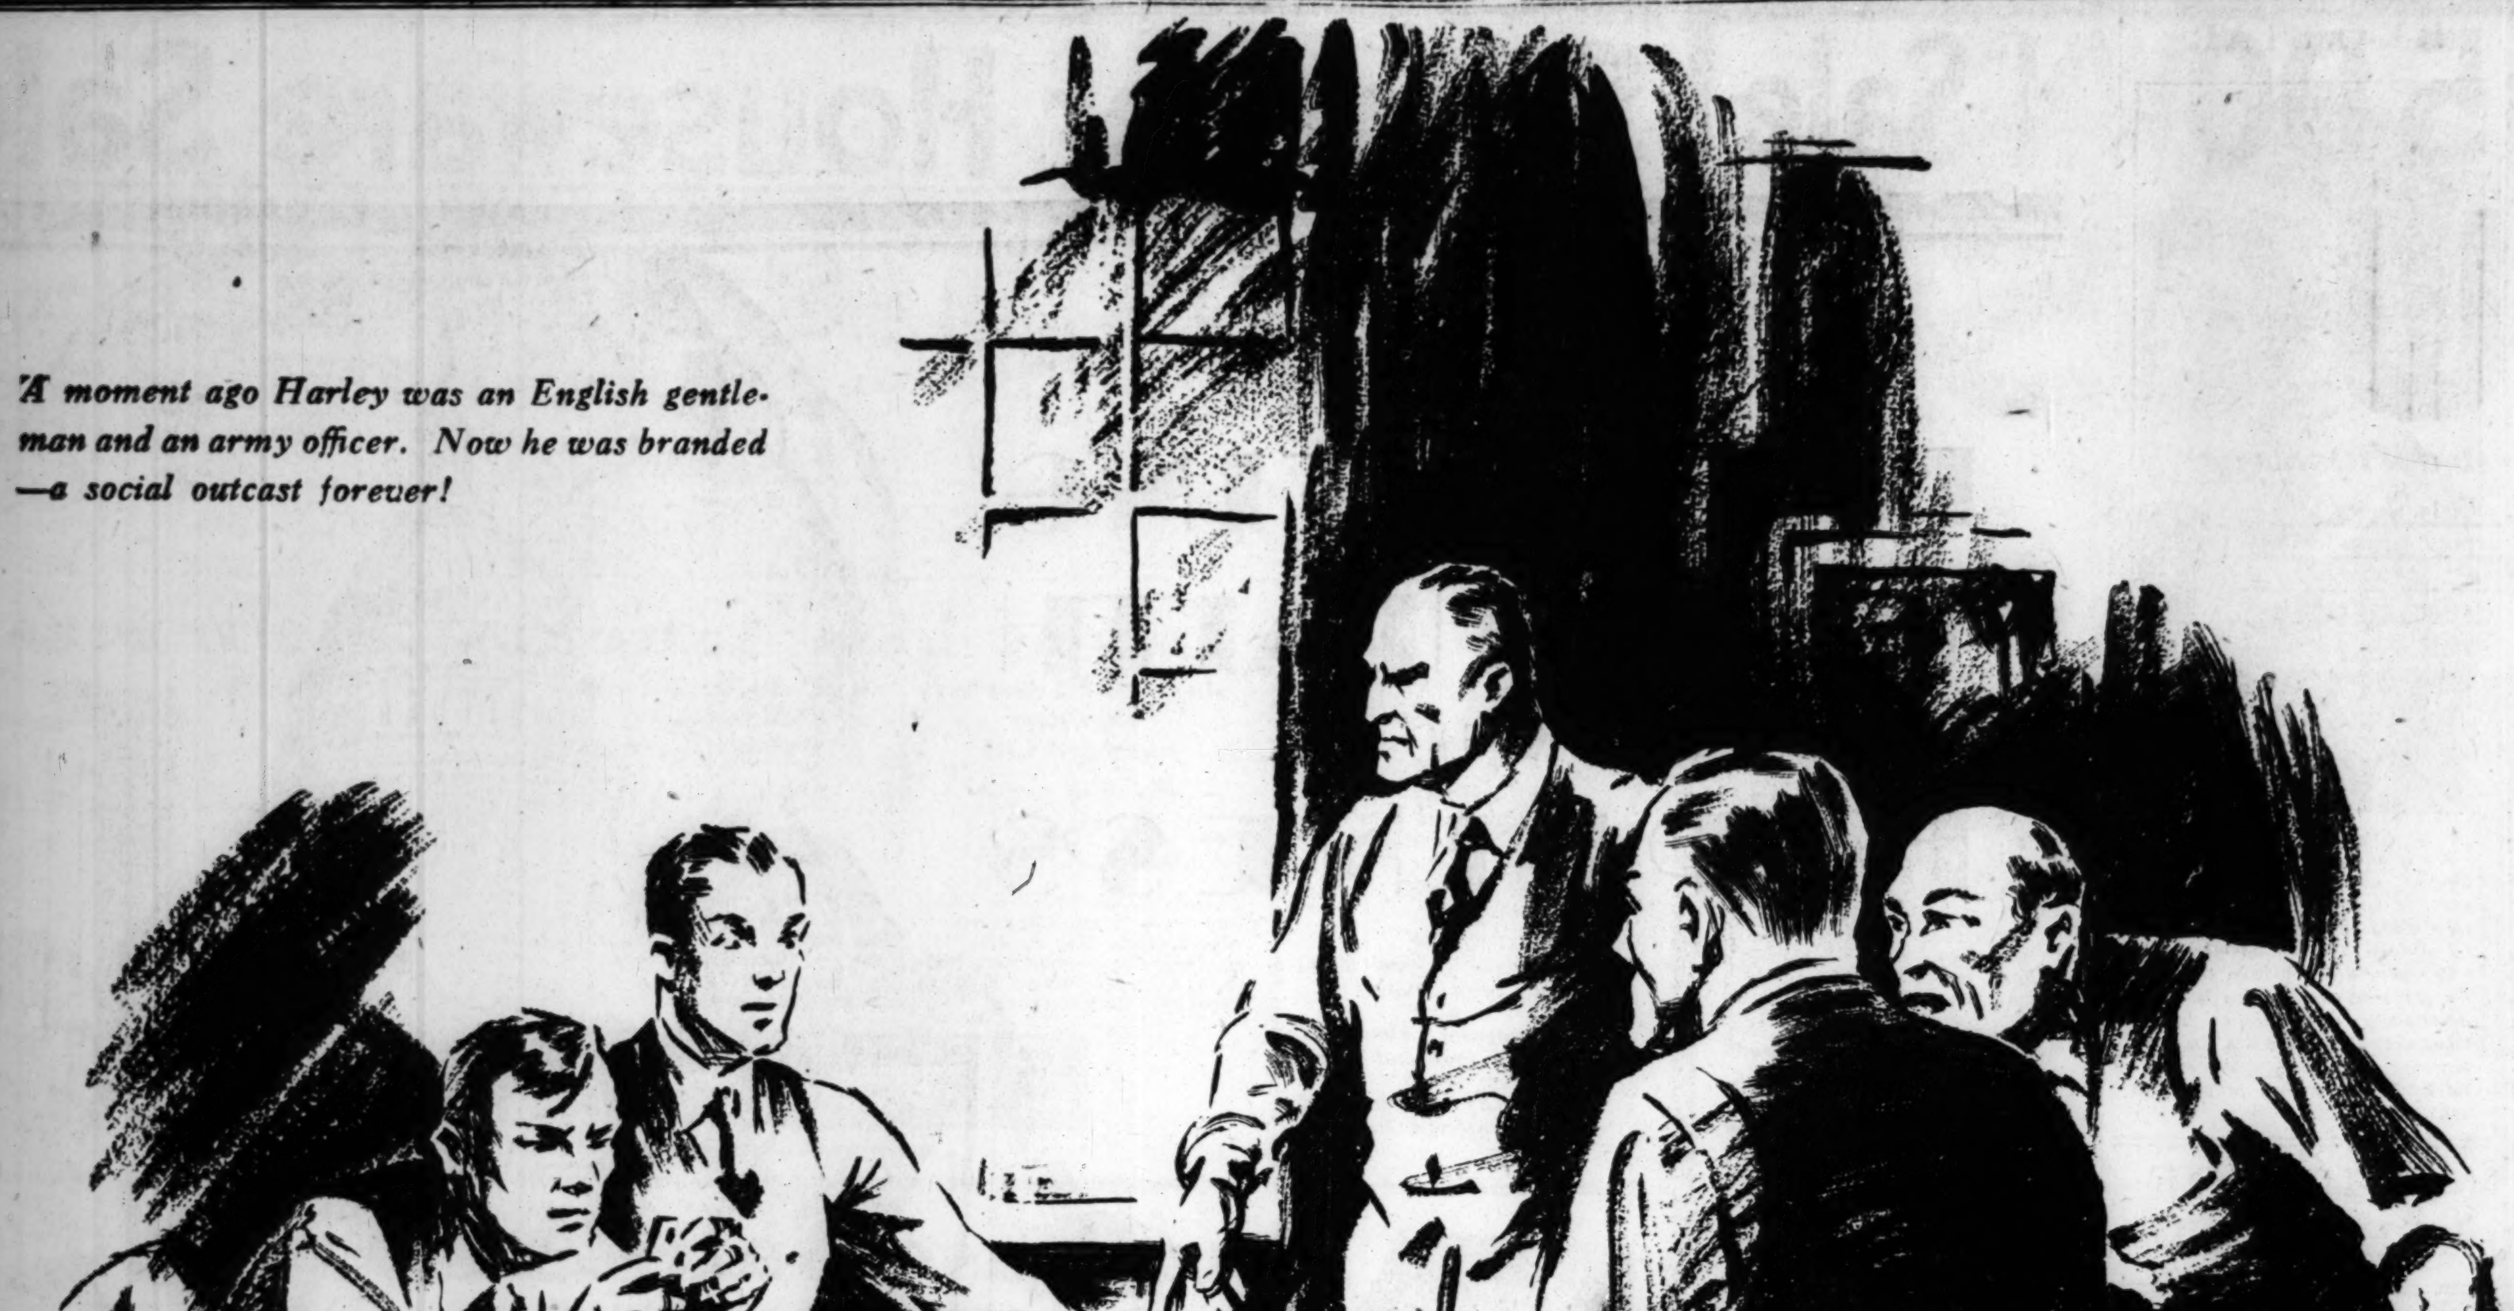
A moment ago Harley was an English gentleman and an army officer. Now he was branded—a social outcast forever!



He forgot the fury of war... forgot the folly of youth

In the tragic drama of this one moment!

Be sure to begin "Harley and Joan"—NEXT SUNDAY!

INTERMINGLED with the drama of war is the deathless courage and deep despair of youth . . . the mad glamour of love and the sinister fire of hatred and villainy.

The action of the story takes you from the heart of London to the wilds of Africa—from the frenzy of the battlefield to the vividness of peace that exacts an accounting of war.

And through it all runs the enthralling tale of a love that laughed at fate.

A brave young army captain—with the fierce danger of battle behind him . . . and the high adventure of love ahead—sees his life shattered by the turn of a single card.

Harley Trevelyan's friends were gathered about him in his bachelor apartment for a friendly poker game. There was much bantering . . . and laughter. Harley's luck ran high. Contentment filled his soul. For Joan, loving and beloved, was within sound of his voice. Then one card was turned! The faces of the men about the table grew tense—then grim—finally threatening.

Harley's honor was at stake. A moment ago he was an English gentleman and an army officer. Now he stood branded—perhaps a social outcast—forever.

A new Sunday Tribune serial story, brimming with excitement, and woven about one of the most intriguing plots you've ever read—

HARLEY and JOAN

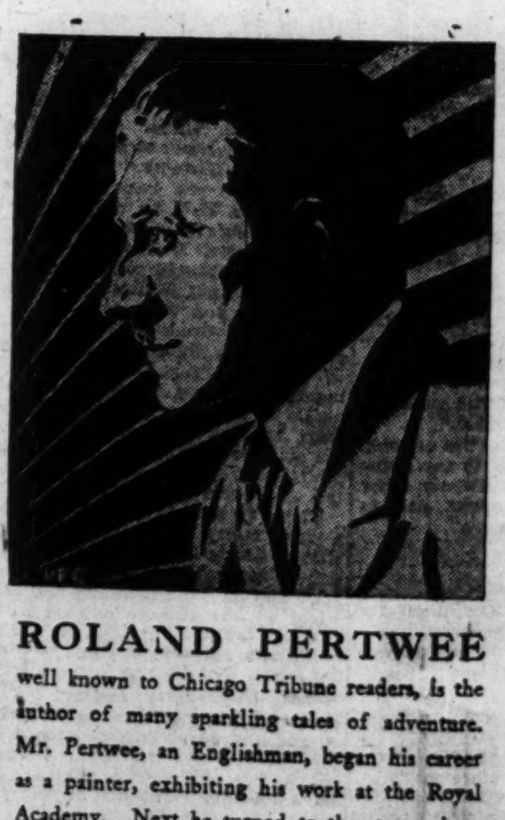
By Roland Pertwee

Begins in NEXT SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE



ROLAND PERTWEE well known to Chicago Tribune readers, is the author of many sparkling tales of adventure. Mr. Pertwee, an Englishman, began his career as a painter, exhibiting his work at the Royal Academy. Next he turned to the stage where he achieved success as an actor. But it is in writing that Mr. Pertwee has won fame—and in "Harley and Joan" he has surpassed his former literary efforts.

Military Tournament Opens; Ravinia Starts Annual Season

By Mme. X.

MIDSUMMER'S day and the longest in the year with the shortest night to follow! From now on the days grow shorter and the nights longer, though we won't notice it much until autumn comes. Then the early twilights interfere with the complete enjoyment of that colorful and delicious season and send the city folks back to town. But that is far off yet, thank heaven!

The military tournament, which opened its seven day exhibit yesterday at Soldiers' field, is the most generally stirring event of the moment, though the first night of Ravinia's beautiful grand opera last evening is of greater artistic importance. A military pageant is always thrilling to most of us mortals. This one includes the several divisions of our defense arms, including cavalry, infantry, coast and field artillery, and the airplane service.

The week's program will consist of sham battles, smoke screens, riding stunts, reviews, flag ceremonies, grand entries and air bombings. In the evenings a stunt is offered that sounds the most extraordinary of all, namely, throwing pictures of famous men on the night skies by fireworks. There will also be military reviews and parades by Danes, Norwegians, Swedes, English, French, Poles, Germans and Italians.

This program should draw crowds both because of the thrills offered and because of the cause and the fact that the lives and abilities of these several thousand army men are dedicated to our safety and defense. The requirements of this service are numerous and onerous; the pay for this is, compared with that of men in any other walk of life, ludicrously small, so it is up to their contemporaries to meet them more than half way when they offer such a splendid entertainment as the present one. The money raised by this enterprise will go to the various requirements not included in government allotments, though necessary for the welfare and upkeep of the morale of the army.

Self-Control Demonstrated.

Such a show demonstrates the acme of self-control and discipline. The orderly maneuvers, the spirited riding, the accurate gunmanship and all the other features on the programs are a lesson to the rest of their kind in the value of selfless submission to authority. It is a side of the training of the individual almost entirely omitted from our educational curriculum. We don't want it overemphasized as it was in the days of the Hohenzollerns, but it is, nevertheless, an important part of the equipment of man to prepare him for tne business of living with his kind.

A stern medico having condemned the conductor of this pillar of polite piffle to lie abed for three or four weeks in complete exile from daily life, with no contact with even the closest family connections, all that can be furnished its readers today is a few random bits of news that have come in by mail. Mrs. Forsythe Sherfesee, formerly Mrs. Arthur Ryerson of Chicago, for instance, writes that she and her husband have been taking the cure at Carlsbad. [Isn't this famous, teutonic watering place now in Czecho-Slovakia?]. It must be a strenuous cure, as she says they have had nothing to eat for twenty-one days except two glasses of milk daily and eighteen glasses of the water that makes the place famous. This spare diet is combined with total inactivity, just rest, rest, rest, no walking. She reports that it has made them both over and that they feel twenty years younger.

Starvation Brings Benefits.

I cite this chiefly to show what benefits starvation confers on those who endure it under doctor's orders. There is much dieting and self denial today by the young and healthy who practice it simply to gain the good looks that lean hips are supposed to impart, which kind of starvation, however, quite often harms the person undergoing it more than it helps her—it is always a "she" who undertakes it.

One thing about the modes of today is good, ugly though they be; they do not require such gaunt emaciation as the styles of yesterday. The modern frock, long skirted and shapeless, with the belt just below the bust and the trying shoulder cape, permits of what seems like a large waist when compared with the girdles of a decade or so ago. That this is only a temporary fashion and that it will soon develop into an ever tightening waistline, with the stiff, enclosing corset returned to us, is prophesied by the gloomy minded.

To return to Mrs. Sherfesee; she is sailing on the steamship, La France, for the U. S. A. June 26, leaving Mr. Sherfesee on the other side of the ocean. He does not return to this country until next autumn, when the Society Elects to Remain Here for the Summer

Chicago Yearly Grows More Desirable.

By Mildred Jaklon

THIS business of boosting Chicago as a summer resort doesn't entail any great strain on the imagination and seems to be growing to the proportions of a habit with a great many of our so-called best people.

Observe the large quota of fashionables who may be presumed to have their choice about where they shall be for the hot months but who prefer to remain in this vicinity, and even he husbands whose families have hied themselves to less citified surroundings for the benefit of the youngsters don't seem to be complaining.

Unequaled on the Riviera.

A prominent matron who has done a good bit of traveling remarked the other day, "It's so nice and peaceful in Chicago in the summer, I'm glad to stay at home. My friends in England can't believe it when I tell them that I can look out of my apartment window and see the Oak street bathing beach almost in the heart of town. Why you can't do that on the Riviera or anywhere else in the world!"

The series of gay horse shows being held this month and next, the races, closing this week at Washington Park and opening a week from tomorrow at Arlington Park, the military tournament and exposition at Soldiers' field, week-ends in the country with golf, tennis, and outdoor dancing, the air races in August, visits to the interesting planetarium, dining on the Tavern roof terrace—all these and many more attractions are enjoyed by the stay-at-homes.

Complete June's Wedding Quota

There are several more weddings to take place this week before June's quota of wedding bells have rung out their romantic tidings. The marriage on Tuesday afternoon of Miss Marion Montgomery, daughter of the John R. Montgomerys of Hubbard Woods, to David Hudson Corkran Jr. of Winnetka is to be an outdoor affair in the gardens of the Montgomery residence.

Miss Elizabeth Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. S. Lee of Evanston, and Gerrit Davis Foster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Patterson Foster of New York City, are to be married on Wednesday evening at the First Presbyterian church in Evanston, with a reception at the Evanston Country club following.

On Saturday there are to be three more North Shore weddings. Miss Florence Boyd is to become the bride of Gordon T. Beaham Jr. at 8 o'clock in the evening at the Highland Park Presbyterian church, and the weddings of Miss Paisley Ball, daughter of the Sidney Young Balls of Indian Hill, to Dr. Stuyvesant Peabody Butler, son of the Hermon Beardsly Butlers; and of Miss Katherine Harrison Brown to Robert Lindsay Scott Jr. of Evanston are to take place in the afternoon, the former at Christ church in Winnetka, with a reception following at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Ball, and the latter at St. Luke's Episcopal church in Evanston.

WHEN CHICAGO WAS YOUNG

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend, Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, March 23, 1873.

DEAR JULIA:

Life goes on about as usual here. We have seen some good plays the last season, and this week Edwin Booth has thrilled us with his acting in "Julius Cæsar" at McVicker's theater. He gave Marc Antony's funeral oration magnificently, from the opening, "Friends, Romans, Countrymen," through to the closing syllables. I was disappointed in a critic's estimate of him, which I saw in a recent paper, for to my mind, Edwin Booth is a truly great actor.

I hope Charlotte Cushman will come out here soon. I was so much interested in what you wrote of the sensation she made in New York. Too bad she lost all that money, isn't it? Yet her loss is, I suppose, the public's gain, for she will need to remain on the stage now, and will not be able to retire, as she had hoped to.

I want to beg you not to think too hardly of Chicago, nor to believe all you read about us in the newspapers, with all our recent crimes. We do have too many murders, it is true, and one of our papers recently used the headline over the description of a homicide: "Give Us This Day Our Daily Murder." But art, music, and religion flourish here, as well as vice and crime, and you must think of us as trying to eliminate crime, though we aren't entirely successful.

Thank you for pricing Spanish combs at Tiffany's for me. I should like to buy the one you describe, and I think twenty dollars is not too much for real tortoise shell, but I have just bought a satin [hand-painted] fan, with pearl sticks, and I am in a somewhat impoverished condition. So I believe I'll give up the idea of the Spanish comb at present, though I know I shall feel very dowdy with my plain old one.

We have just had a dressmaker in the house, making up some things for young Martha and me. I really don't know what the younger generation is coming to! Martha wants the most ridiculous clothes. The latest thing here—designed for spring and summer wear, if you please—is a light-weight polonaise, worn over a black velvet underskirt. The polonaise is all right when made of the same material as the underskirt, but an ecru silk or linen polonaise over a black velvet skirt for summer seems to me the height of absurdity.

I notice that the polonaise is now called the "redingote" in many fashion magazines. We have had the polonaise so long, I presume it makes it seem more of a novelty to be called by a new name. I hope we shall be permitted by the fashion dictators to wear the polonaise for a good while, for it is comfortable, convenient and graceful.

My dressmaker made me a wrap—a cashmere Dolman, which turned out very well. It is entirely covered with embroidery and braid, and finished with a deep fall of lace. She also made me a handsome black cashmere fichu. It has three deep embroidered ruffles edged with lace, and is closely studded with beads. The tab ends are similarly trimmed. They are carried around to the back and fastened below the waist with an ornament.

I was interested in an estimate I saw today of the expense of a lady's dress for a year. Could you estimate what you spend yearly for clothing and sundries? I suppose you could, since you always were methodical, but I can't. Here is a list, called a low estimate, which I saw in today's paper. What do you think of it?

1 silk dress [made by herself]	$ 60.00
1 nice walking suit, Irish poplin	35.00
1 common walking suit	10.00
1 grenadine suit [summer]	15.00
1 Swiss dress	10.00
1 organdy	7.50
Fans	5.00
2 muslins	7.00
2 light calicoes	2.50
1 evening wrap	4.00
2 light poplins for spring and fall	9.00
1 summer bonnet	10.00
1 winter bonnet	10.00
1 spring hat	5.00
1 fall hat	5.00
False hair	15.00
1 velvet cloak	80.00
1 set furs	25.00
1 shawl	10.00
1 lace shawl	30.00

Facts Wanted on Goodman Row

Feeling that the Well Known Band of Competent Players Has Been Treated Unjustly Is Running High.

By Eleanor Jewett.

BY all odds the most important thing we have facing us today is the attitude of the Art institute, mirrored in the acts of its director and trustees, toward art. This is a question not only of paintings and sculpture, of exhibits and schools, but of the Goodman theater and keeping faith. It is a question of ideals and of standards. It is a question of vision and of values. Art, in the broadest sense, is an adjustment of one's self to action on the highest plane conceivable to the individual. In the present instance, this matter of the future policy governing the Goodman, that adjustment is being tampered with.

For five years the Goodman band of players under Thomas Wood Stevens has worked steadfastly and patiently. In comparatively the same number of weeks their work is undone. All at once caps must be thrown over the windmill, an entire company disbanded, a glorious ideal abandoned, because credit and not art is today the goal of the Art institute. Money has been set upon a pedestal. Poetry, imagination, fellowship, effort, the ups and downs of artistic achievement, have been thrown upon the rubbish heap. Visionaries are not wanted. Adding machines, clever ones with brains, are in demand.

Indictment of Players.

The most cruel part is that apparently the Goodman players have been working without the approval of the Art institute management. They are allowed to go with the following scathing indictment written by Robert B. Harshe, director of the Art institute, as their only reward. I quote from a letter which was sent to me: "Mr. Harshe writes me [the one to whom the letter is addressed]: 'The statement that practically the entire acting cast of the Goodman has resigned is not true. All the best actors have been retained and none of those who have resigned were people whom we consider worthy of remaining with the company.'" Read that last sentence again, please. Mr. Harshe says, "All the best actors have been retained and none of those who have resigned were people whom we consider worthy of remaining with the company."

The letter goes on: "As Messrs. Paine, Kane, Bohnen, Caldwell, Grandall and Marzolf, as well as Miss Ostertag and Miss Johnson, have resigned, I understand, or at least are not to be there—I take it Mr. Harshe has not held this company in high regard during the past season."

Do you realize exactly what Mr. Harshe has said? He has in writing permitted possibly personal prejudice, possibly professional foresightedness, to get in the way of a fair statement of facts. All the best actors have NOT been retained when Whitford Kane is going; Neal Caldwell is going; Roman Bohnen is going; Bernard Ostertag is going; Bess Kathryn Johnson is going; Iden Paine is going; and the others. Those men and women were the backbone of practically every play staged by the Goodman during its life. Again Mr. Harshe has written "and none of those who have resigned were people whom WE consider worthy of remaining with the company." Is this an editorial "We," or is Mr. Harshe one of a group who feels in this way toward those actors? If he is one of a group, who are the other members of the group? Are they the same who, according to reports, are to preview our future plays for us? Are Arthur Aldis, Percy Eckhart and Charles Worcester, all admirable men, among this "We"?

Do we want admirable men and sterling citizens and financial successes to predigest our theater for us? Like a banner of glory the fact that Hubert Osborne collaborated on "Hit the Deck" in a younger period of his career and that "Hit the Deck" jockeyed up into a musical comedy (though by no means approaching "No, No, Nanette") has made money, has been on tour in four separate companies, has been put in the movies and is still bringing in money—this fact, this offspring of Mr. Osborne's brain, is waved at us as a good and sufficient reason to use his methods on the Goodman and raise a crop of little "Hit the Decks" if we are that lucky. Admirable men, business men, financial wizards, will they promote this admirable ideal?

Offers New Stars as Bait.

The Art institute is also throwing out as bait the suggestion that, with the going of the company whom we all know, the Goodman will now be able to bring in stars from the commercial stage. Was this, by any chance, impossible under the former régime? The museum's open letter reports that "the following guest artists have announced their willingness to act with the Goodman repertory company during the year: Patricia Collinge, Rosalind Ivan, Harriet Sterling, and Owen Davis Jr." It is charming of them, but did the Goodman company as it stood need their help? Would not the introduction of an outside element make for the destruction of teamwork in the company? And do people care so particularly for stars? Also, are the four names suggested to be classed among the stars? If the letter had said "Ethel Barrymore and Ed Wynn and Marilyn Miller and Alfred Lunt," then indeed we might have had a marvelous occasion to look forward to, especially if the four could have been enticed upon the stage in the same vehicle at the same time.

As it is, stars no longer make plays. Jane Cowl could not make "Jenny" any the less of a disaster last winter. Mr. Insull in the Chicago Grand Opera company has discovered the value of a good all round lot of leading parts, a good chorus and a conscientious production. Are we so little schooled that we can be led into the new Goodman by names which really do not belong there? It would seem a false premise and a weak foundation on which to build up an audience.

The Art institute open letter goes on to say: "The Theater Guild of New York has expressed a desire to coöperate with the Goodman. (Isn't that delightfully kind of the Guild?) It is probable therefore that plays controlled by it will be produced during the forthcoming season at the Goodman." The significance of the remark is rather obscure because the Guild brings its plays here to a loop theater and those of the public who wish see the plays there. Should we be given some earlier plays to enjoy? Guild plays themselves are not infallible. They sometimes lose money. They often play to small houses. Why does the Goodman concern itself with the Theater Guild when we have two feet of our own to stand on—or had?

Local Playwrights' Chance.

One worthwhile bit of information comes out of the Art institute open letter: "The committee especially desire to produce noteworthy plays by Chicago playwrights and welcome manuscripts from local authors." This could just as well have been enforced or encouraged under the previous management. It is a good move. Alice Gerstenberg and other dramatically able persons in Chicago have urged the idea before. The Goodman season is long enough to permit plays from Chicago pens to be seen on its stage every so often during a winter.

This Art institute's open letter starts: "An advisory play reading committee has been organized by the trustees' committee of the Goodman theater among the dramatic critics and writers of Chicago. [What they have let themselves in for! and what the audiences may have to suffer!] The purpose of the organization is to secure the best counsel available in the selection of a balanced repertory of eight plays to be chosen from, which at the same time possess entertainment value." Do you get the full weight of "possess entertainment value"? When did the company just disbanded forfeit entertainment value? Do you remember last year the sidesplitting scenes in the revival of "The Critic" and this year have you forgotten the many and many a hearty laugh the Goodman gave us? Then why bring in as something new this question of "entertainment value"?

The letter continues: "The committee is considering at the present time 'Hedda Gabler' by Ibsen [we had the "Lame Duck" a year ago]; 'The School for Wives' and 'The Would-Be Gentleman' by Jolière [but I feel sure Molière is meant], 'The Father' by Strindberg, 'Milestones' by Edward Knoblock and Arnold Bennett, 'The Firebrand' by Edwin Justus Mayer, 'The Goat Song' by Franzen Werfel, 'Rebound' by Donald Ogden Stewart, 'Anna Christie' by Eugene O'Neill [she's in the talkies now], and 'The Harlequinade' by Granville Barker." None too exciting a list, do you think?

"Not Profit, but Service."

The children's Saturday performances get off a little better, though "Treasure Island" was a Junior league production of last year. The others suggested are "The Lost Prince" by Frances Hodgson Burnett, "Robinson Crusoe" by Daniel Defoe, dramatized by Louis Laflin Jr., and "Aladdin" dramatized by Muriel Brown. "The Lost Prince" dramatized by Hale McKeen is the only new name on this list.

The Art institute's open letter closes: "The Goodman Civic Repertory theater is operated not for profit but for service [but, isn't all this upheaval we are living through caused by a desire for profit?] The same standards will be maintained in its productions as obtain in all other departments of the Art institute of Chicago. [And when were standards ever lowered under Mr. Woods' directorship?] Hubert Osborne, formerly assistant professor of drama at Yale, will direct the Repertory company, assisted by a producer whose name will be announced in the near future."

In the numerous letters that have come about this innovation at the Goodman, one bit of praise is directed again and again to Mr. Stevens, that he built "a lot of individuals into a working group of actors." Salaries were limited; obstacles many. He and his company worked like one man. It will be an extraordinary man who can better his record and a superlatively unusual company that can make us forget the players we are losing. Mr. Stevens can only be compared with Theodore Thomas.

The pity of it—with Chicago full of money—that the Goodman should not be endowed sufficiently to do away with this need for popularity. The box office standard! Can that help but affect the art standard? Meanwhile let us have an exact report on what members of the Goodman company whom we have known are considered of sufficient merit for the new management to have retained. The drive for First Night club memberships was begun with the public feeling they were to enjoy again the acting of Roman Bohnen, Bernard Ostertag, Whitford Kane, Neal Caldwell, Katherine Johnson, Ellen Root, Katherine Krug and the others. If the committee has let the majority of these go and is getting in substitutes, whatever their reputation, it is the only fair thing to publish the fact and the names of those we may hope to see.

Desire Reinstatement.

I have listened to a great number of people and the consensus of feeling apparently is that they subscribed last year and again now thinking to enjoy the actors whose names I have just given. Speaking as a private individual and not a member of the press, because as a press representative I have had passes many times, but as a private individual my subscription went in last year because I was interested by a letter from Sarah Fenton and another from Roman Bohnen, both members of the theater company. The players were people to me, not distant, unapproachable figures alive only behind the footlights. This friendliness, which was not confined to me, was a great tie between the audience and the stage. The atmosphere in the Goodman theater the last five years was such as could not be duplicated in another theater in the country.

And now, as one who has written to me about this says, we shall have to learn another group of players; sit through the breaking-in of another strange lot; be formal where we were informal. It almost seems better for the committee to scrap all the old organization, audience and company, and start anew. It will be poor fun to sit through next winter's program and see new people usurping the rôles of our favorites. Let us resign from the First Night club pro tem—until Mr. Osborne and the various committees to make drama profitable have proved themselves.

Of course what we really want is to have Mr. Stevens and his gallant company reinstated. Popular demand might enforce this. Write to Mr. Harsche or to this column if you would like to see the present change abandoned.

At the Chicago Galleries.

There is extremely little gallery news this week. The various galleries seem chiefly to be concerned with the coming of summer and the consequent either closing of their quarters or the installing of summer shows of a general character. The specific newsy exhibits may be looked for not earlier than next October.

The Chester H. Johnson gallery in the Fine Arts building has had an attractive group of paintings by Survage and Pruna on its walls the last several weeks. The exhibit closes Tuesday and Mr. Johnson is sailing for Europe June 30.

Malcolm Franklin, director of the Carson Pirie Scott galleries, is sailing for Europe June 25, to be gone two months and to cover England and France rather carefully. An interesting American show, general in character, will hang in the gallery during the summer weeks.

The Knoedler galleries announce the anticipated opening of an American group of paintings for July and August.

Remarkable Crayon Portraits.

The sculpture and portraits in crayon by Richmond Barthé, which have been shown at the Woman's City club the last two weeks, made a remarkable exhibit. The artist is a young Negro, marvelously talented. He is gentle, unassuming and sincere. His character may be read in his work. It is full of dignity and purpose, honesty and virility. It rings true. It is unaffected and craftsmanlike. Here is no slip-shod work, neither is there sensationalism nor sky-rocketing. Barthé is a genius if ever we have seen one, young, little schooled, but owner of a feel for texture and a flair for modeling.

Almost unheralded his power with clay was forced upon him. He meant and studied to be a painter and suddenly woke up to the realization that his ability to paint was no greater than his ability to create from clay. He has not yet been abroad, but is working and saving toward that end. He is eager to go to Europe. Just now the youthful artist plans to settle in Chicago for a year. We do not often quote prices but if you should want a charming portrait of a woman or child or a striking portrait of a man, go to Richmond Barthé—you may find him through Mr. Frank P. Breckinridge, The Tavern, 333 North Michigan boulevard—because just now Barthé is doing portraits for $75.

The Walden Book shop opened a new gallery in the Palmolive building last Tuesday for the showing of paintings and the graphic arts.

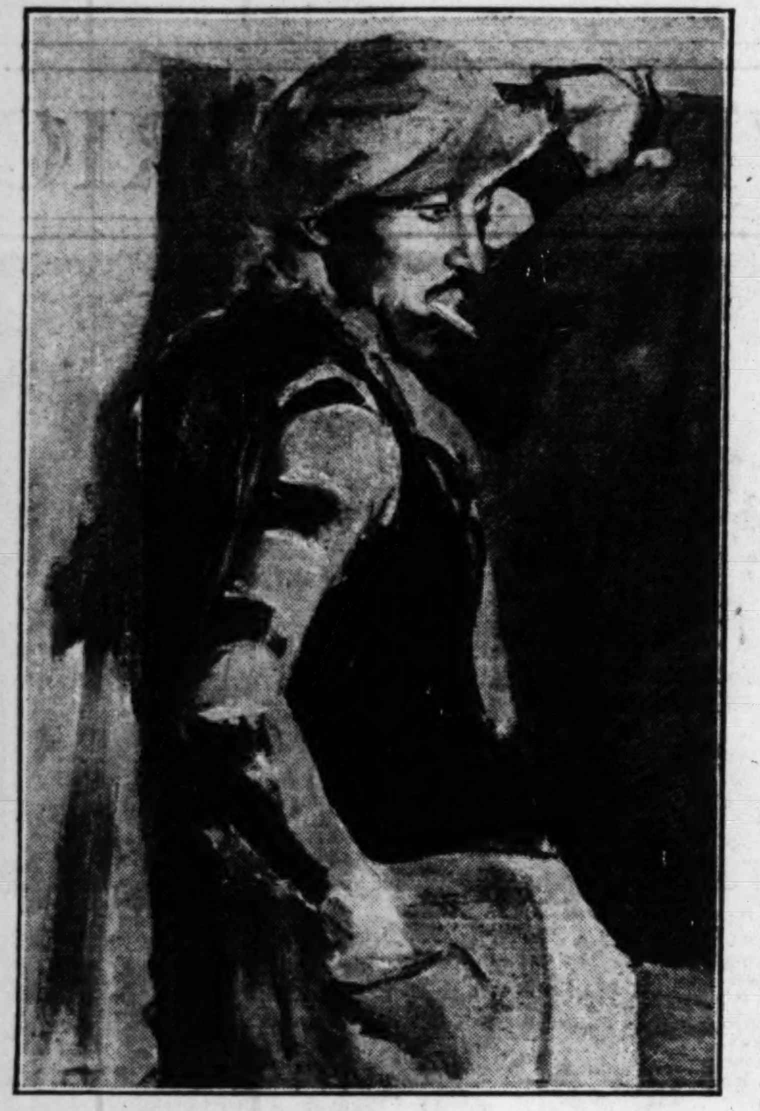
The annual exhibition of work by students in the Art institute art school is current in the east wing galleries of the Art institute. It is an interesting exhibit. In the Children's museum may be seen the work of the Saturday juvenile classes.



"PORTRAIT," by Merlin Pollock, awarded the Anna Louise Raymond Traveling Fellowship of $1,500 this year on the merit of his work in the annual competition offered by the Art Institute art school to its advanced pupils. Pollock's painting is characterized by its dash and verve and apparent nonchalance. He sweeps in his figure and its consequent details with a superbly broad brush. His various canvases stand out in the gallery given over to figure painting.

The exhibition will continue into July. It is the annual event of the students in the Art Institute art school, who see their efforts hung in the east wing galleries of the museum as introductory to what they may hope for after graduation—hanging space and a prize.

Two of Princes Train for Return of Kingly Days

Claim Thrones, but Live as Exiles in Brussels.

By Ann Somers Hoose.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, June 21.—Three young potential kings, Otto, Henry, and Louis, have started training here for the return of monarchial days in Europe. Each one is being "drilled" differently for the job of being a monarch. One of the three princes is barely of age, the other is a freshman in law school, and the third just got his first pair of long trousers. Two of the youngsters want to rule over France and one over Hungary, and, if he gets a chance, over Austria, too. They came to Brussels because their parents picked this town as a spot where exiled princes have never been unduly bothered by politicians, the press, or the police.

One of those embryonic kings, Prince Otto, last offspring of the once mighty Hapsburgs, who governed Austria, Hungary, and half a dozen Balkan countries, moved into a private home on a forlorn side street last fall. He is the son and heir of the late Emperor Charles, deposed Austrian ruler, and arrived here after former Empress Zita and her seven other children had fixed a home.

Their presence was made known by the noise the Hapsburg children made as they played in their back yard. Their shouts were interrupted only by sudden awed silences when the servants announced, "Der kaiser!"

Call Him "Der Kaiser."

The "kaiser," as his mother, Zita, and his three sisters and four brothers call him, is 17 years old. To outsiders he is a "duke of Basle." As such he registered last fall at the law school of Louvain university. He speaks English with a slight German accent. Prince Otto also speaks Hungarian, and now and then entertains Hungarian royalists who hope to bring him back as their king as soon as he's 18. Next November, on his eighteenth birthday, Otto hopes that Admiral Horthy will call him to the throne. Hungary still is officially a kingdom, but for lack of a king Admiral Horthy acts as regent.

Three blocks away lives Louis Napoleon, pretender to the throne of France. Louis is 15 and a high school student. Though a great-great-great-grandnephew of Napoleon Bonaparte, has has but a slim chance to rule France some day.

Louis Napolion Rich.

Louis Napoleon is the youngest throne pretender in Europe. His father died three years ago. His mother is a Belgian princess, who at 38 married Prince Napoleon. Louis was born when his mother was 42, and from that day on the princess has devoted her life to making the boy fit to become an emperor. She is rich, but she is raising him like the plainest commoner.

When Louis Napoleon meets his rival pretender to the French throne, young Henry, prince of France, son of the Duke de Guise, the two boys try to avoid shaking hands. Henry is 21, and also hopes to be king of France. He lives on the Guise estate in a smart Brussels suburb. His father is still alive, but is more interested in chickens and date palms on his Spanish-Moroccan farm than in the crown of France. While Louis Napoleon styles himself "imperial highness," Henry of France calls himself "royal highness."

Neither Louis nor Henry can ever see "gay Paris." No French throne pretender is allowed to step on French soil. Louis and Henry will travel all over the world when they get older, but these boys will probably never know France.

Woos Rich Princess.

Up to recently young Henry was considered a "pauper prince." His family is known to lead a more than simple and modest life in their suburban home. Prince Henry is said to be wooing Isabelle, princess of France, whose father has millions worth of land and stocks in Brazil.

How are you impressed with the progress of woman suffrage? It seems to be dead here. Will says that that agitation is almost over, and women had better stop thinking of getting the ballot and be satisfied with what they have won. He points out that in Boston the state legislature has been occupied during its recent session with the suffrage question, but that the vote ended in the serious discomfiture of the suffragists, who got a smaller vote in its favor than last year.

I do admire some of these radical women very much, but I almost hope we shan't be given the ballot, for I don't want the responsibility. Will says: "Look at the advance women have made—if you talk of their rights—in ten years. They administer postoffices without number; they stand in pulpits; they have doctors' diplomas; they sit on magistrates' benches [as justices of the peace]; they hold commercial and federal clerkships; and, as teachers, their pay is higher. In all these occupations" [I quote my husband] "they have made their opponents admit that they are competent and faithful. Why aren't they satisfied?

Well, I am satisfied, for I have a wonderful husband and a dear little daughter. But there are women who, I suppose, long for a political career, and in my inmost heart, I believe they will one day have it.

It is late and I must close.

Lovingly yours,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

Foot Notes.

This space may profitably be occupied today in a "Beg Your Pardon" paragraph. In this column, for the issue of June 8, a lapsus typewritorum [NOT the compositor's fault but the author's] made Martha Esmond date her letter, supposed to have been written a year after the fire, as of Oct. 12, 1873. It should have been, of course, 1872, as the fire occurred in 1871.

Also, in the issue of June 15, the first letter should have been dated Nov. 6, 1872.

Will school children and other readers who are keeping these letters for their historical value, please correct these dates in their files?

Clubs Carry On Seasonal Work

Picnics, Outdoor Meetings, and Open House Planned for Coming June Days.

By Roberta Nangle.

THE summertime lull has settled down on the world of women's clubs. From October until early May a club editor's desk is littered with hourly deliveries of mail and her phone is buzzing with calls from industrious press chairmen. Toward the end of May the mail count is about half its regular quota, and by mid-June it has dwindled down to a few slim packs.

The communications received concerning the coming week's activities are for the most part from clubs that pursue one or two extra-seasonal activities after the official club year has been concluded. A brief mention of the more interesting meetings will constitute a bird's-eye view of club doings all over the country at the present moment.

The Woman's National Republican club of Chicago dropped its serious political considerations for the time being and has invited all its members to attend its annual outing on the grounds of Villa Turicum, the Lake Forest estate of Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick. The affair will duplicate the one held in the same setting last year, when many of the leading feminine supporters of President Hoover's party got together for a good old fashioned picnic and box lunch.

An Out of Doors Meeting.

The Chicago Woman's Aid is to have an out of doors meeting on Tuesday, when the president, Mrs. Arthur M. Oppenheimer, is to give a garden luncheon for past presidents, officers, and directors at her residence in Highland Park.

Another event of a less frivolous nature on the same club's calendar is the industrial workshop exhibit to be held on Friday, from 11 to 4 o'clock, at the Northmoor Country club in Glencoe. The affair is being sponsored by the industrial workshops committee, of which Mrs. Norman Felsenthal is chairman. The workshop, located at 1800 Selden street, provides employment for handicapped men and women. The exhibit will include samples of all crafts and both hand made and machine made garments will be on sale. Ten of the young women of the committee will model beach pajamas and negligees.

Holds Open House.

The Woman's City club also has a comparatively full schedule for the week. The first evening open house is to be held on Wednesday from 8 until 10 p. m. in the club's new quarters at 6 North Michigan avenue. Members will be given an opportunity to view the Buckingham fountain in full play from the club windows. Mrs. Royal W. Irvin is in charge of the program.

Other events of the City club for the week include a visit to the House of the Woods, the summer camp of the Northwestern University settlement, by the 40th and 41st ward branches of the club on Friday, and a luncheon of the joint committee on motion pictures on Friday at the club, with Mrs. Thomas G. Winter of Hollywood as the speaker.

The National Patriotic association is another club in the ranks of summer time workers. The citizens' committee of the association is sponsoring a luncheon and fashion show to be held tomorrow at the North End club for the benefit of the athletic equipment fund of the citizens' military training camp of the Chicago area. Mrs. J. Gordon Martin is chairman of the committee in charge.

The Chicago Woman's club has inaugurated a summer program for its members who spend the warm weather months in town. A special dinner is to be served every Thursday evening in the club dining room and during the month of June there have been luncheons on Thursdays, followed by trips to local points of interest. Last week the members toured the Shedd aquarium and the Adler planetarium. Next Thursday they will tour Chicago's underground railway. Mrs. George M. Shirk of 3650 Sheridan road is chairman of summer activities.

MRS. MARY A. WALL of Murphysboro, Ill., the newly elected president of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs, presided at the post convention meeting of the board of directors last Thursday at the Chicago headquarters.

Mrs. Arthur M. Oppenheimer, presiding officer of the Chicago Woman's Aid, will give a luncheon for past presidents, officers, and directors of the club on Tuesday in the garden of her Highland Park residence.

Miss Emma L. Lee has retired from a three-year term as president of the Norwegian Woman's club. She is to be succeeded by Dr. Helga Lund.

MISS FAYE M. LEVANT.
[Fred Fox Photo.]

The Daughters of the Helping Hand will give a benefit dance and Spanish fiesta on Saturday evening at the St. Clair hotel. Miss Faye M. Levant, president, is a member of the committee in charge.

BRIDE

MRS. CHARLES W. ROSE.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmor Davies of Kenilworth, formerly of Oak Park, announce the recent marriage of their daughter, Harriette, to Charles William Rose, son of Dr. and Mrs. John Rose of Chicago. The former Miss Davies is a graduate of Northwestern university and a member of Phi Omega Pi sorority. Mr. Rose was graduated from Crane college. After a wedding trip to the east the bride and groom will reside in Evanston.

Club Notes

The hearing aids committee of the Chicago League for the Hard of Hearing announces a card party to be held on Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the league rooms at 64 East Lake street. Proceeds will be used for the purchase of head phones to be used with the phonophor recently installed in the Goodman theater. The equipment will permit the attendance of twenty-four persons with impaired hearing for each performance.

A reception and luncheon for Mrs. Grace Wilbur Trout of Jacksonville, Fla., will be given on Tuesday at 12:30 o'clock at the Chicago Woman's club. Mrs. Trout was state president of the Illinois Equal Suffrage association in 1913, when the franchise was granted to Illinois women. Mrs. Harriette Taylor Treadwell is chairman of the luncheon committee.

The Independent German American Woman's club will hold its first summer outing on Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. at the Humboldt park refectory. Proceeds will benefit the harvest festival of German group of the woman's division of the World's Fair committee.

The Pen Women's Guild will give a cabaret dinner dance on Saturday evening at the Knickerbocker hotel. The dinner dance will be preceded by a series of teas to be held each afternoon this week at the Knickerbocker. Proceeds of the affairs will be used for the new Pen and Pencil clubhouse, to be located on the near north side. The clubhouse is to be the permanent headquarters of the Pen Women's guild. Mary DeLaney Holden is president of the guild.

The Chicago Culture club will have a garden party tomorrow at the residence of Mrs. Justus Chancellor at 333 Fairview avenue. Mrs. Edward Harris is chairman of the committee of arrangements.

The Chicago Woman's Ideal club will hold its annual summer outing on Wednesday at the Medinah Country club. Luncheon at 12:30 p. m. will be followed by bridge or golf.

The Women's League of the United Synagogue of America will give its closing musical and tea tomorrow afternoon at the Covenant club. Mrs. Nathan Goldblatt is chairman of the committee in charge.

The fourth bridge party in a tournament for the benefit of the Oakhaven home will be given on Friday at the residence of Mrs. Charles Hoff of 5641 Woodlawn avenue.

CLUB ETHICS

By Maude Swalin Evans.

THE suburban member was helping the secretary check over the the new committee lists.

"I understand Mrs. Rigby is going to ask you to serve on her committee," the secretary said. "Will you?"

"Not if I can run faster than she can," answered the suburban member.

"Now, now, what's the matter with Mrs. Rigby?"

"Not a thing, only that she irritates me and it's much easier for me to be happy when I'm somewhere she isn't," explained the suburban member, "and I want to be happy."

"You're a funny one," commented the secretary.

"You don't mean that you'd advocate my deliberately seeking unpleasantness, do you?" inquired the suburban member.

"Why no, I can't say that I do. I believe in a member getting as much joy as she can out of her club relations, of course, but although I don't know a great deal about Mrs. Rigby I've never heard her referred to as an irirtant."

"She probably isn't to most people," the suburban member returned, "but she certainly has been to me the few times I've met her, and so I don't meet her if I can help myself. I guess I'm like my father that way. He used to strongly advise my mother to keep away from those who disturb her."

"But sometimes our impressions of people aren't correct and if we make the effort to look for their good qualities——"

"Yes, yes, my mother used to argue just that way with my father and he used to answer, 'What's the use of bothering when there are plenty of people in the world whose company will give you pleasure?'"

"It's a fine thing to be able to work with any one, and at times it's necessary," persisted the secretary.

"O, necessary! That's another matter," opinioned the suburban member.

Question.

"Should the incoming or the outgoing president represent a club at the state convention? P. N. T."

Reply.

A club may vote to send either one as a representative unless the bylaws are definite in regard to the matter.

Chicago Women Rent Chateau on the Riviera

Villa Is Property of Lord Aberconway.

By May Birkhead.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—One of Chicago's public spirited women, Mrs. Charles H. Chadwick, who spends part of each year in France, has just arrived on this side for an extended stay. Attracted by the beauties of the Riviera, especially the peninsula extending south from Antibes to Juan Lespins, she and her friend, Mrs. Jacob Baur, have decided to rent a villa near Antibes and were fortunate in being able to secure the Château del la Garoupe belonging to Lord Aberconway.

Mrs. Chadwick took the southern route and arrived at Genoa a few days ago, where she was met by Mrs. Baur and her daughter, Rosemary. The party then motored along the Italian Riviera into France and directly to La Garoupe.

Lord and Lady Aberconway usually spend the winters there, but rent the château and grounds for the summer. Last year it was occupied by Lady Mendl, formerly Elsie de Wolfe.

Unforgettable Panorama.

The view from the villa is one of the most striking on the Riviera. Not far in back, it is said, Antibes has fallen in decay, but the natural beauties in recent years have made it a place much like a resort. The panorama unrolling from the high ground of the château and the adjoining lighthouse is unforgettable. La Garoupe comprises some 150 acres of wild vegetation as well as fine gardens. Olive groves and a vineyard find their places beside the more decorative beauties of flowers which are many and of gorgeous coloring. Lord and Lady Aberconway are keen gardeners. The house itself is of Provencal style architecture, built by the Aberconways some twenty years ago. It has superb salons, with a stately hall, furnished by Rose du Barri, in the same color scheme as the dining room.

The main drawing room is furnished in shades of green and contains fine pieces of old Italian furniture and magnificent mantlepieces, one capped by the famous Della Robbia.

Another notable feature of the house is the pillared loggia having access to four bedrooms and which faces south, with views around the cap from which the Italian frontier can be seen on a clear day. About a mile to the southeast lies the Villa Filen Roc, occupied in recent years by the American Commodore Beaumont, whom Clarence Darrow visited several months ago.

Dinner for Friends of France.

Mrs. John May, one of the recent Chicago hostesses, is giving a large gala dinner for the organization of the Friends of France. It is to be one of the most fashionable affairs of the June season. Among the guests will be Mrs. Paul Healy and the Carlton Holdreges. Mrs. James T. Harahan will also give a dinner the same night.

Isabel Neilson, the gifted sculptress, well known in Chicago, has just given a short showing of her recent works in her new apartment, which is all done in handsome marble. At the public exposition next week she will show a bust of her father, Francis Neilson, who resided in Chicago for many years and who was married there to Helen Swift Morris, widow of Edward Morris and daughter of Gustavus Swift.

ENGAGED

MISS VIRGINIA COTHRIN.
[Birdsall Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Ira A. Cothrin of Oak Park announce the engagement of their daughter, Virginia, to Gale Robert Blakeslee, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Robert Blakeslee of Oak Park. The wedding will take place in August.

Activities of Women

TWENTY-THREE per cent of the passengers on American air lines are women.

The desire of the women to retain slim figures is given as a reason for a slump in the potato demand in England.

Among the important subjects to be discussed at the National Conference of Labor Women, to be held in London, England, June 3, 4, and 5, will be equal pay for equal work.

The Rev. Lucy B. Merwin, believed to be the only ordained woman minister living in Omaha, has been a Methodist minister for 12 years and has had charge of a number of churches during that time, all in the Nebraska conference.

A large number of women in New York City are entering into the real estate business, either as operators or owners. About 40 per cent of the licenses issued to operators this year are to women.

One of the few women to have the privilege of practicing law before the bar of the Supreme court of the United States is Miss Harriet Buckingham of Osgod, Ind. She is secretary to Senator Watson.

Japan has upwards of 26,000 women telephone operators. In spite of the increasing installation of automatic systems, the number of women employed in private and public exchanges increases yearly.

Miss Anna Semenuk, who operates a pig farm in Secaucus, N. J., drives a five ton truck to New York City every day and picks up refuse to feed her stock. She has more than 40 hogs on her farm.

Miss Morilla Del Carveth, a member of the bar of Illinois, is the first of her sex to enter the business end of aviation. She is general manager of an airplane distributing corporation of New York City.

Miss Gladys Pyle, who is serving her second term as secretary of the state of South Dakota, is a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor at the May primaries. Four men already are in the race.

Changes in women's dress styles have added space to college football grandstands. In 1910, the correct width for a stadium seat was [illegible] inches. Some of the colleges now want to reduce the size of the seat to [illegible] inches.

The first group of Gold Star Mothers, 5,000 in number, to visit the graves of their sons in France, will sail from New York, May 7. The movement to France will extend to the latter part of August and the westward movement will last until the middle of September.

NEWS OF CHICAGO SOCIETY

...will pack up their trunks once again for a prolonged sojourn in the orient, including China, the Philippines and the South Sea islands. The Sherfesees belong to that ever increasing tribe of wandering Americans, who in mighty caravans, roam about the globe, testimony to our country's enormous prosperity. Also, to its lack of interesting resources and occupations at home for people of leisure.

Orchids of Civilization.

These errant Americans are the orchids of our civilization, their only nourishment is air, their contribution to our national life is that element of restlessness which was one of the factors that brought our ancestors here. These wanderers often find it hard to take root anywhere, when the days of migration are no longer possible. They do not realize that it is only by living long and patiently in a community that one becomes a real part of it.

I am not writing now about Mrs. Sherfesee, who has in times past been a valuable member of our social life here and contributed much to its gayety and elegance. I am merely discussing the entire question of the ever larger armies of Americans who take the world trails. Is it going to make them better fitted to serve the best interests of their native land, or is it going to unfit them for any steady existence here, when the necessity to earn the daily bread is past? That remains to be seen. A cultured leisure class should be a valuable asset to American life. It has proved so in England.

Mrs. Sherfesee mentions the fact that Mrs. Hugh J. McBirney of Chicago was also taking the cure at Carlsbad and was much improved in health thereby. Mrs. McBirney plans to spend the summer abroad, meeting her daughter, Mrs. Henry Stimson Jr., and the latter's three children in Switzerland. They will all come back to the U. S. A. in the autumn.

Fewer Tourists in France.

A lately returned traveler describes Paris and, in fact, all France, as being largely denuded of American tourists. This is attributed, by this observer, to the gradually increasing suspicion among Americans that that nation has been discriminating against Americans in prices and much else. There are special taxes for them, and the cost of everything is doubled and trebled for them.

A woman who has lived long in Paris was asked a certain large price for something. She protested and said, "I live here; you mustn't ask me so much."

"Ah, madame," was the reply, "we did not know that. Of course for you it is less."

This same returned tourist described a visit to a celebrated Parisian dressmaker at Cannes, one much patronized by my countrywomen. When she entered there was absolutely no one there except the employés, who were, as she expressed it, "lolling about as if they hadn't had a customer for so long that they had ceased to expect one."

England, on the other hand, has a larger list of American tourists than for many a year. They fill the hotels, the restaurants, the shops, and the streets, and are enjoying all the sights of London and of the nearby countryside. The most sought after country, however, for the more enterprising travelers today is Sweden. My fellow countrymen have only recently discovered the charms of this exquisite, delightful, intelligent country, and are flocking there in droves. Most of them also get a glimpse of Russia just across the Baltic sea. Excursion boats stop at Leningrad, and send their passengers in personally conducted groups to Moscow.

They arrange so that they do not have to encounter the hardships of a night in a Moscow hotel, by making the trip from the bolshevik capital by night in one of the modern sleeping cars which have been cherished by the powers that be, when so much of the old, luxurious régime of the tsars was swept away. A night going and a night returning, with a day in which to inspect the Kremlin and the rest of the sights of Moscow, is the allowance of the travel bureaux.

Mrs. Clyde M. Carr, Mrs. Howard Shaw, and the latter's daughter, Miss Theodora Shaw, and a friend, are sailing day after tomorrow for this trip, taking in Iceland and the North Cape on the way. Mrs. Carr, who goes with the Charles Boyden's of Rockford, expects to return by the middle of August. Mrs. Shaw and her young people may stay longer on the other side of the ocean.

Republican Women's Outing.

The Woman's National Republican club of Chicago is arranging for a grand box lunch, picnic and rally on June 25, which is next Wednesday. This will be given at Villa Turicum, Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick's celebrated estate on the brink of the bluffs at the south end of Lake Forest. A bus line will convey the members to the site of the picnic, starting from the Chicago Woman's club at 66 East 11th street at 10:30 a. m.

Those who do not take this way of arriving there can go either by the North Shore electric line, or by the North Western railway. Probably the majority will go by their own cars. The speakers for the day will be Congressman Ruth Hanna McCormick, Republican nominee for United States senator, and Cornelius J. Doyle, chairman of the state central committee.

The president of the club, Mrs. Jacob Baur, is away at the present time. Mrs. Harry C. Holloway is chairman of the affair; Mrs. Lloyda Smith Shaw is co-chairman. A board of twenty-four directors is representative of many city elements in its membership. The occasion promises to be interesting and important.

A week from tomorrow is the date set of another event of a different kind of importance; towit, the opening for the season of the Arlington Park race track. At the same time, that chic institution, the Post and Paddock club, opens its doors to members. The season for these two institutions runs until Aug. 2. This is always a gay rendezvous for horse lovers and race enthusiasts. Many important folk are bringing or sending their mounts here to compete for the prizes offered. Among these are the Mesdames Helen Hay Whitney, Henry C. Phipps, Graham Fair Vanderbilt, Charles Amroy, F. Ambrose Clark, R. Penn Smith, William Zeigler, Samuel D. Riddle, Walter M. Jeffords, Thomas Somerville, and Louis Kaufman.

Among the box holders are the Mesdames Robert R. McCormick, Laurance H. Armour, Silas Strawn, Earl Reynolds, Alfred Ettlinger, and the Messrs. James Simpson Jr., E. N. Hurley, John D. Hertz, Gustavus Swift, Vincent Bendix, Harold Foreman, Weymouth Kirkland, Roy D. Keehn, A. D. Lasker, Otto and E. J. Lehman, H. H. Lobdell, Charles F. Glore, Warren Wright, J. N. Camden, and Charles A. McCulloch.

Laurance H. Armour is president of the association that runs this race track, succeeding Paul Gardner. The enterprise including the horses, promoters, crowds, and general equipment is one of the picturesque and striking features of summer life in this vicinity.

Letter from Mrs. McCormick.

Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick writes asking me to correct a statement this col. made recently as to the plans and whereabouts of her daughter, Miss Muriel McCormick. To assure accuracy I quote her verbatim:

"May and part of June of 1929 my daughter spent six weeks at the Eastman school studying singing under a Flemish master. She spent the summer months into the late fall at her camp on the Upper St. Regis lake in the Adirondack mountains. She has been at Miss Bennett's school at Millbank, N. Y., studying dramatists this entire fall, winter, and spring, taking two short vacations of less than two weeks altogether, at Christmas and Easter, in Florida. She is now in Boston and intends to visit friends, Dr. and Mrs. Waterman, in Maine before going to her camp.

"As a woman nearly twenty-eight years of age, of means and family, who has not married early, my daughter enjoys her own habitat. She has spoken of taking an apartment in Chicago. I know that she would like to do so, as she has in the past. These are the facts."

Chicago "Reformer" in Article.

It is probably confessing to crass ignorance to proclaim that I am not familiar with the name of Leslie Llewellyn Lewis [was there ever a more lovely, lilting cognomen?] who contributes a snappy article about a self styled "savior of Chicago," Samuel Powers Thrasher, in H. L. Mencken's June American Mercury. I don't know whether Leslie is male or female, but the style of writing is animated and it moves with a swift tempo to tell the tale of "Pap" Thrasher and his career here in the decade from 1910 on.

Pap was a reformer of the old, violent style, the style that has led to the present power of almost all that is evil and criminal today. In credibly unintelligent, obtuse and self-confident, he bulldozed and threatened the good and the bad alike. His final undoing was the work of that band of fine women that, headed by Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, has done so much for the welfare of Chicago.

Leslie Llewellyn Lewis treats her and her cohorts as lightly as he does Pap Thrasher, and quotes the nickname the "Iron Pansy," given her, he says "by some of her fellow lady board members." Just what his authority for this bit of information is seems a question, as she had not heard it until she read and laughed over the article. She it was who called my attention to the sobriquet, which caused me to look up this contribution to this periodical.

These enterprising and intelligent women ultimately proved Pap, what he was, a worthless ranter, and an end came to him and his works. It reads not unlike history being made today. Isn't Chicago ever going to be rid of this stench, which rises, a noxious fume, as a background to her splendid towers? Probably not until the present city régime is pulled up, root and branch and burned on our largest refuse heap. The present outfit was in power during the time when Pap Thrasher was discovered by the above mentioned inquisitive women, led by Mrs. Bowen, as having taken money from Fitzmorris, the then chief of police.

Except at the start of his, or her story, Leslie speaks of Mrs. Bowen as Louise DeKoven which, considering that she has been Mrs. Bowen for over four decades, is going back pretty far for a name. He, or she, thus concludes the tale of Mrs. Bowen and Pap Thrasher: "'No wonder Mr. Thrasher praised the chief' cried Louise triumphantly, and proceeded to spill the beans all over the front page of Chicago newspapers."

Leslie, your literary style is buoyant and fresh, but, withal, just a bit frivolous when treating of historic events.

Bowen Memorial Country Club.

It was at her charming cottage at the Joseph T. Bowen Memorial Country club, on the northern confines of Waukegan, that Mrs. Bowen showed the writer the above mentioned article. There she and her friend, Mrs. George R. Deane, spend week-ends during the spring and autumn, before and after their summer sojourn at Bar Harbor. It is a lovely spot. The club grounds are spacious, seventy-two acres in all, on a sloping piece of land looking out over the lake, a well wooded, flowered and grassy paradise. In the various cottages it shelters and provides for some 250 boys and girls and a few mothers, all from the neighborhood of Hull house.

There is a central building where excellent meals are served and there are provisions for sports and other outdoor entertainment. A lovely swimming pool is handy, which makes it unnecessary to provide a way to the lake for the youngsters to get a dip on hot days. Waukegan, with what seems like a serious oversight, many years ago dedicated its whole lake front to business, thus cutting it off from the residents as a pleasure ground. This much beloved country club and a fund for its maintenance was Mrs. Bowen's gift to Hull house, some years ago, in memory of her husband.

Her place in Bar Harbor must be spacious, as she says that she often has a family of thirty sitting down to meals. She has one or more guest houses, but their occupants all gather under the roof of the main mansion three times a day. All of her four children are married and all have families, so that the assemblage of her descendants alone would make a numerous household. Besides which she generally has a number of other nonfamily guests. Miss Jane Addams, to whom she is devoted, has a cottage near by, which she occupies during the summer in company with Miss Mary Rozet Smith. You will look far before you find a finer quartet of women than four creators and supporters of Hull house. In fact, I don't think you can find any such elsewhere on this globe. There's no knowing what Mars or other planets have.

COMFORT FOR FEET THAT LIKE TO BE SMART

Look again at the smart Adapto model sketched above. It doesn't look at all like the type of shoe you associate with the phrase "comfort shoes"—does it? And it isn't! That's the very secret of Adapto Shoes. They are supremely restful and comfortable to wear, without having the word "comfort" written all over the outside. Their comfort is a matter of inner construction. Their appearance is a matter of the smartest mode of the moment ... Sizes up to 11, widths AAA to EE—in styles to complement any costume, and satisfy every taste.

Daily Vacation Schools Will Enroll 25,000

Children from 4 to 14 Study Religion.

By the Rev. John Evans.

DAILY vacation schools of religious education will enroll 25,000 boys and girls of Chicago between the ages of 4 and 14. This was announced by leaders in the department of religious education of the Chicago Church federation. Fifteen denominations and more than 200 congregations will be represented in the summer school program.

The children will attend school in the mornings of five days a week. They will have various religious subjects and participate in religious dramas. Recreation and handicraft work will also be available as provided by individual churches. Among the leading churches conducting the schools are Hyde Park Baptist, Kenwood Evangelical, First Presbyterian, Englewood Methodist, Berwyn Congregational, Irving Park Congregational, Ebenezer Lutheran and Diversey Parkway Evangelical.

Oak Park churches will unite in one large school. The Evanston churches are conducting six schools, most of them in public school buildings. At Glen Ellyn the registration, two weeks before the opening, will tax the capacity of the school in which many churches have united. Waukegan churches, in coöperation with the Chicago Church federation, are conducting five schools.

Other suburban sections such as Oak Lawn, Brookfield, Villa Park, Park Ridge, Downers Grove, Des Plaines and Cicero are organizing schools and have been sending groups of teachers to attend special loop training conferences.

The Rev. Thomas Mackin, former Chicagoan, who was reared in the Holy Name Cathedral parish, and who is now the pastor of the Catholic church in Spartanburg, S. C., is preaching at the Holy Name cathedral during the novena in honor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus which opened on Thursday evening and which is to close on Friday evening, June 27. The exercises of the novena, including a sermon by Father Mackin, are held every evening at 8 o'clock.

The congregations of the United Lutheran church of America are combining in a celebration of the 900th anniversary of Pentecost, and the 400th anniversary of the Augsburg confession this afternoon at 6:30. The celebration will be held at the Des Plaines camp ground. A choir of 1,000 children's voices will sing and the Rev. Orlando Ingvolstad, Wicker Park, and the Rev. Edwin Moll, Luther Memorial church, will be the speakers.

The Rev. Dr. John Timothy Stone, president of the Presbyterian Theological seminary, will preach this morning at the Seminary church, Fullerton and Halsted streets. The church has been recently taken over by the seminary and has been placed in charge of the Rev. L. W. Almy and the pulpit will be filled consecutively by members of the seminary faculty. The vacation school of the church has been turned over to the Presbyterian College of Christian education, and will operate as a demonstration school under the leadership of Miss Lucille Des Jardins.

Twin brothers were ordained to the Catholic priesthood last week. They are the Revs. Clair C. Drummy and Clarence C. Drummy. They are assigned to the archdiocese of Dubuque. Their home was at Ryan, Ia.

Prof. John Shapley, department of art, University of Chicago, will give an illustrated lecture at Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston, Wednesday evening, on the subject "Early Christian Paintings in the Catacombs."

A tree in memory of Walt Whitman will be dedicated in the Garden of Memory of St. Stephen's Episcopal church at the end of the road, 3533 North Albany avenue, this afternoon at 4:30. James Weber Linn, professor of English, University of Chicago, will deliver the address and the University Madrigal choir will sing. This was announced by the Rev. Irvin St. John Tucker, rector.

Several hundred delegates are attending the second annual student spiritual leadership convention at the Palmer house. The convention closes today.

Congregational Camp Open at Sawyer, Mich.

Young People's Conference in Session.

ILLINOIS Congregationalists opened their summer camp at Tower Hill June 18 with their first young people's conference. The camp is situated at the lake at Sawyer, Mich., and includes fifty acres upon which the denominational forces have erected about $100,000 worth of buildings. The first session is given to a young people's conference lasting a week; the dates of the second young people's conference are July 10-17 and immediately following that, July 19-26, a standard leadership training school will be conducted.

Two hundred have already registered for the first young people's conference and the registration for the other conference is large. The courses offered in the young people's conference include: Bible appreciation, life of Christ, messages of the prophets, Jesus and the problems of life, what and how to teach, story telling, hymnology, building a program for young people, methods for leaders of children, religious dramatics, religion and present day thought, and world problems as found in the mission fields.

The teachers are outstanding leaders of Congregational church life in this section. They include Dr. Wilfrid A. Rowell, Hinsdale; Dr. Philip A. Swartz, La Grange; the Rev. T. A. Goodwin, Waukegan; Miss Miriam Heermans, Evanston; Miss Elsie Hodgson, Ottawa; Dr. L. M. Isaacs, Byron; Dr. V. V. Loper, Wilmette; the Rev. W. E. McCormack, Champaign; Dr. Walter A. Morgan, Chicago; Dr. Frank L. Moore, Chicago; the Rev. Walter Spooner, Chicago; the Rev. H. W. Stiles, Princeton; Miss Bertha C. Wheelock, Wilmette; Miss Miriam L. Woodberry, New York; the Rev. Wayne L. Waters, Jacksonville; the Rev. Victor E. Marriott, Chicago; Mrs. A. E. Fenn, Hinsdale; Miss Cora E. Barnard, Oak Park; Mrs. H. Louis Auten, Oak Park; Mrs. Joseph W. Black, Chicago; George E. Drew, Galesburg. Dr. Robert W. Gammon, of Oak Park will direct the conferences and Miss Sallie A. McDermott is registrar.

A novena to the sacred heart, which opened last Thursday at St. David's Catholic church, 32d street and Emerald avenue, will close Friday evening, June 27. Rev. John B. Bradac, Viatorian missionary, is conducting the services, which are held each evening at 8 o'clock. The Rev. Joseph McNamee is pastor of St. David's parish.

The Rev. Charles W. Gilkey will be the preacher this morning at the University of Chicago chapel. At the vesper service this afternoon Paul Pence, baritone, and Edward Eigenschenk, associate organist of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, will offer special music. The afternoon service is at 4:30.

French Officer Who Disappeared Is Now a Moslem Chief

PARIS.—A 30 year mystery of the Sahara desert, involving the fate of the French column under Maj. Voulet, which explored the Lake Chad region of the Sahara in 1899, has just been explained. The story is told by Lieut. Col. Zeltir, a Latvian officer, now in Paris.

The expedition was composed of five French officers and about 1,000 native riflemen. In 1902 two white officers returned with the story that Maj. Voulet had suddenly lost his reason. They said that he had tried to lead his men against a French patrol, but had been shot down and his followers dispersed.

Lieut. Col. Zeltir has twice explored the scene of this event since 1920, and he tells an amazing story to the effect that Maj. Voulet was living in 1924 in the depths of the Sahara, having married a Targui woman and become a Moslem chief.

He declares that, contrary to reports current at the time, the major escaped into the desert with his Targui bride and the majority of his native riflemen. He made his way to the oasis over which his bride's father was chief and took over the rulership of the tribe.

New Party Rises to Ask Freedom for Porto Rico

Young Generation Back of Move to Cut U. S. Ties.

By Harwood Hull.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, June 21.—A variety of causes are back of the latest recurrence of agitation for Porto Rican independence, more than thirty years after the island was transferred to the United States by Spain and more than thirteen years after the granting of American citizenship. The independence forces are by no means united and their very disunion is indicative of the varied causes which at intervals give new vitality to the issue.

When the Unionist party, ten years ago, won its most sweeping victory with independence as the chief issue it was largely a professional politicians' movement. Thousands of Porto Rican soldiers, returned to their homes in the hills, had not worn out the khaki uniforms of the national army when they cast their ballots, piling up the biggest vote the traditional leaders had ever received. Since then the older leaders have commenced to have harder going.

Youths Sponsor Movement.

Influenced perhaps by both years and reason most of the older leaders have been getting away from forcing independence as an issue until recently. Today, however, independence is largely sponsored by the younger generation, men of perhaps the same age the older leaders were when they were won to it. Essentially it is a white collar if not wholly an intellectual group. Most of the more ardent independentistas today are young professionals.

New life has been given to the Nationalist party, the out-and-out independence party, by Pedro Albizu Campos, recently chosen president of the Nationalists. This is by far the most orthodox independence group in the island. While inviting independence believers in other parties to join with them the Nationalists have determined not to be swallowed up, as in the past, by other parties. The Nationalists will have none of statehood; they want complete political independence, severing all ties with the United States, including citizenship.

The present independence revival started last summer when Senator Barcelo reorganized the Unionist party and put independence back in the platform. The general explanation for this is that Dr. Barcelo found his old power slipping from him and, the party having been most successful when advocating independence, reversion to it seemed the surest way of regaining its former place. The Alianza, not to be outdone, also put independence in its platform for whatever purpose it might serve.

Socialist Opposition Weak.

The only opposition is from the Socialists under the leadership of Senator Santiago Iglesias. Nationalists, however, assert that even some of the younger Socialists are now with them or about to be.

For the last month independence has had much newspaper space in the island. Paradoxical as it may seem, Gov. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt has both delayed and hastened the latest independence recurrence. His coming to the island last autumn absorbed a considerable part of the attention of the leaders and those who wanted to be leaders. A considerable part of their future success depended, in their opinion, on their ability to be favorably considered by him. Until his departure for the United States to confer with President Hoover a month ago the island's mind has been kept pretty well occupied. With his departure the stage was free for local talent. Independence, with a new cast, is an attempt to revive a once popular favorite.

Believe Self-Help Possible.

Possibly unconsciously the very name and personality of the governor have served the advocates of independence. No name could more completely typify the United States. Yet whatever success he has had in getting mainland aid for island needs has strengthened the independentistas in their conviction that the United States can do nothing for Porto Rico that the island can not, or could not, once independent, do for itself.

Albizu Campos expresses the belief that the old leaders of the older parties cannot long deny the demands of the younger group who are pressing for independence. He says the leaders will yield reluctantly what he calls the perquisites of colonialism. He charges that the older politicians want to benefit from independence talk and yet stand sufficiently well with the administration at Washington and its representative here, the governor, to continue themselves in power and control patronage.

'Radionuity' Is New Fad for Listeners

NEW YORK.—[U. P.]—A new game called "Radionuity" has been discovered and is being played on numerous radio sets during the morning hours when so many feminine voices are on the air. The voices, exuding the stereotyped radio sweetness, are found on various dial positions. By quickly turning from one conversation to another, the one who in the opinion of the referee produces the best continuity of sentence wins the sodas. It goes like this:

"x x x x x x two tablespoons of buttah, one of lard, the whites of six eggs—six yards of crêpe de chine, a roll of blue ribbon with flower rosettes—have simply slain the ultra critical in Paris."

Auto Hits Cow and It Lands on Roof

MILES CITY, Mont.—[U. P.]—This cow didn't quite jump over the moon, but the top of an automobile was easy.

Vernon Jones and Ed MacLean were speeding down a country road returning from a dance. The cow was in the center of the road. Just before the crash the animal leaped into the air.

At that instant the car hit her and the impact boosted the animal still higher. She completed a neat arc and landed on top of the machine, dead.

Bullets from Hill Billies' Guns Keep Census Taker Away

MISSOULA, Mont.—[U. P.]—The fact that life still courses through the veins of one particular census enumerator is not the fault of that conscientious and courageous person. It's the fault of the poor shooting eyes of unknown "hill billies."

Three times did this enumerator strive to gain access to the Binkham country in northwestern Montana and three times was he made the target of bullets fired from ambush.

Evidently the district is populated by a nest of moonshiners, who display a persistent desire to discourage visitors.

In the meantime there are still a few "noses" in Montana that haven't been counted.

New Reindeer Farm.

ARCHANGEL.—(AP)—Soviet authorities on Kolguev island in the arctic have stocked a new reindeer farm there with 10,000 animals as a starter and have notified private ranchers that the government will buy their herds so as to "collectiveize" the industry.

STEAMBOAT PICNIC DAYS are here at last!

GOODRICH TRANS
GOODRICH STEAMSHIP LINES

Excursions start today to St. Joseph and Benton Harbor, Mich.
Next Saturday Afternoon, June 28, to South Haven, Mich.
—also to Michigan City, "Big White Flyer" Theodore Roosevelt.
10 A.M. Sunday, June 29, S.S. Christopher Columbus to Milwaukee

THIS SUMMER snap out of the old routine. Taste the joys of ocean travel in your own front yard. Walk up a gang plank. See what a ship's cabin . . . a pilot house . . . a ship's radio look like. Breast the fresh-water breeze on a half-mile of promenade decks. Listen for the moaning signals of passing ships.

Daily, the big steel steamers of the Goodrich Line breeze up the panoramic lake shore to historic Milwaukee. Over the blue, cool water to the broad beaches and dancing casinos of South Haven. To the bizarre attractions of old St. Joe and Benton Harbor. And the children's fairyland at Michigan City. Choose the steamship picnic you prefer.

IF YOU'RE LOOKING FOR HIGH JINKS, you'll find boat loads in the glass-smooth ballrooms—pride of the lakes. Dancing free with the privileges of the ship, of course, to the searing syncopation of the Goodrich Melody Makers. Below decks, there's next thing to a three-ring circus! Golf games, football games. Ice cream, soda water and pop. All kinds of candy—cigar and popcorn stands, too—cafeterias and restaurants. And don't forget to pack your picnic baskets twice as full to take care of "sea-air" appetites. Go often this summer. Take the whole family!

Soviet Restores Moslem Glories in Samarkand

Preserves Tamerlane's Famous Tomb.

SAMARKAND, Uzbekistan Soviet Republic.—(AP)—In order to preserve Samarkand as a memorial of Modammedan life at the pinnacle of its might, the soviet government has begun to strengthen and restore the principal monuments of this old Asian capital of Genghis Khan and Tamerlane.

The city reached the zenith of its power in the 13th and 14th centuries and for 500 years has been slowly dying. Already restoration work has been completed on the tomb of Tamerlane the Conqueror, which in its interior resembles somewhat the mausoleum of Gen. Grant on Riverside drive, New York.

Tamerlane's Inscription.

The Russian archeologists have brought out in bold relief the Arabic inscription over the portal of Tamerlane's tomb. It reads:

> "This is the resting place of the illustrious and merciful monarch; the most great sultan; the most mighty warrior, Emir Timour Kurgan, the Conqueror of all the Earth."

Under the largest single slab of nephrite ever hewn, Tamerlane rests in his eternal sleep, surrounded by his grandson, Uleg Beg, the famous ruler and astronomer; by his favorite prime minister and others. Like the Egyptian pharoahs of old, Tamerlane built his own tomb in order that his fame might not perish.

In its construction he employed sculptors, artists, painters, and artisans from Persia, India, and China. It is one of the best preserved relics in Samarkand of his mighty reign.

Favorite Wife's Tomb.

About a mile from his own mausoleum Tamerlane also built a gigantic mosque in honor of his favorite wife, Bibi Khanum. Although this is in a sad state of decay, the cupolas, columns, and minarets, which are embellished with superb mosaics, porcelains and tiles, still remain to give the beholder an idea of its original grandeur.

Not far from the ruins of the mosque of Bibi Khanum is a noble series of huge mausoleums built by Shah Zendah and containing the bodies of a number of Tamerlane's relatives and several conspicuous Mohammedan figures of the last five centuries. This is in an excellent state of preservation. In close proximity to these mausoleums is the ancient Mohammedan necropolis contining the bodies of thousands of national heroes.

Surpassing all other memorials of the past in size, beauty and originality of execution is the historic registan, or public square, with its enormous minarets, fountains, schools of divinity and towers. Architects and historians have pronounced this one of the noblest public squares in the world.

Prevent Disintegration.

Whether due to earthquakes which frequently visit this territory, or to the natural subsidence of the soil, the massive minarets in each corner of the great square are leaning at a precarious angle, like the tower of Pisa, and the soviet government has had to anchor the minarets with enormous steel cables and iron girders to prevent them from toppling.

The soviet authorities realize they can never hope to retrieve all the vast ruins of Samarkand, which cover many square miles, because only a limited amount of money is available for the purpose, but they expect to be able to prevent the present archeological and historical treasures from disintegrating altogether.

Underneath the vast heaps of debris and masonry are the monuments and memorials of a thousand years of Turkestan's history which, it is estimated, will take at least fifty years to excavate.

Talkative Barbers Put to Patriotic Use by Frenchmen

DIJON.—(AP)—Hairdressers' and barbers' propensity for talk is being put to patriotic use by the French government.

Gaston Gerard, high commissioner of Tourism, told the national convention of coiffeurs that as they lathered their customers or labored to make permanent waves, they should inject into their monologue some well chosen words about the beauty and hospitality of France.

The hairdressers were flattered to think their gift of gab could be used to encourage tourists to spend more time and money in France.

Teach Turks New Weaving.

ANGORA.—(AP)—To revive Turkey's dwindling rug industry, teachers have been sent to the rural sections to instruct Anatolians in modern weaving methods. They will combat the superstition that each rug must have one glaring imperfection to ward off jealous spirits.

Bans Birth Control Books.

DUBLIN.—(AP)—The Free State committee of censorship has published its first list of banned books. It contains thirteen titles, ten of which are birth control books, circulation of which is forbidden in the Free State under penalty of $280 fine or six months in jail.

Public Library at Mecca.

JEDDA, Arabia.—(AP)—Mecca, holy city of Islam, is to have a public library, the funds having been given by a rich pearl merchant of Bahrein who recently made a pilgrimage to the tomb of Mohammed. The library is to contain works on science and art.

BRIDE-TO-BE

MISS OLGA HOFSTETTER.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hofstetter of Arlington Heights, Ill., announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Olga, to Dr. Edward A. Garbarski of 5256 Newport avenue, to take place on July 2 at St. Peter's church at Polk and Clark streets. After a trip to the east the bride and groom will reside at 5256 Newport avenue.

Criminal Camorra Vanquished After Century of Power

NAPLES, Italy.—(AP)—The camorra, dreaded slaying, robbing and blackmailing society of Naples and southern Italy, has about vanished on the hundredth anniversary of its inception in this city. The society was founded in 1830.

Simultaneously local authorities announce a decided decrease in the number of crimes of blood. For the fiscal year just ended hospitals reported admitting 256 wounded or dying persons, whereas in 1925, only five years ago, the number was 460.

Moreover the figures of 1925 included only Naples, while those of 1930 include the whole province and embrace a greater population for the city itself.

Has Taken Eight Years.

The determined work of the Neapolitan police, inspired by the stern orders of Premier Mussolini, has in eight years wiped out the camorra almost completely. Their latest arrest was in May — when they caught Gennaro Aiello, who fled to New York in 1926 after the killing of Antonio Amendola and lived there for four years before being discovered.

Aiello was known in camorra circles as "Capariello." Accused with him are seven other camorrists. All are held in the Naples prison.

The camorra history furnished a fascinating chapter in Italy's varied life. But the better citizens of Naples felt that the early color and romance of the society were small compensation for its later icy grip of terror upon the city.

The camorristi are gone, but their influence is still felt by the ordinary crooks and criminals. These latter, for instance, use many of the camorristic signals—a cat's mew for the approach of a policeman; a cock's crow for the approach of a victim; a long whistling sigh if the victim is accompanied; a sneeze to show that the victim was not worthwhile.

The camorra originated in the prisons of Naples. Its first members were victims of oppression by the Bourbon rulers of Naples. Prisoners whose terms had expired carried the society into the city in 1830, and there is was born into the open.

Obtained Official Employ.

It grew in power and wealth until it leagued itself with princes, churchmen and statesmen. Then it abandoned politics and turned to robbery, smuggling, blackmailing and illegal lotteries.

Because it was so powerful and the police of Naples so enemic, merchants hired camorristi to superintendent the loading and unloading of merchandise to prevent thieves from stealing the goods. Members of the camorra even were taken into the police service for special work, the philosophy of setting a thief to catch a thief.

Attempts to stamp out the camorra were made without effect in 1862 and again in 1877 and 1900. In the last year a suit in the courts revealed such astounding power of the camorristi that the national government dissolved the municipality of Naples and appoint a commissioner to rule the city.

Rule Husbands Are Not Responsible for Their Wives' Debts

WINNIPEG.—Husbands are not responsible for debts of their wives in Manitoba except in a restricted sense.

This was the decision of the King's Bench recently, but the decision applies only in so far as it relates to a contract signed only by the wife for purchase by installments.

Mrs. Donald Eiler bought a washing machine on the deferred payment plan. The company accepted the contract with her signature. On default the husband was sued.

The court decided that the company relied on the wife's security alone and were estopped from holding the husband responsible.

Drafts New Chinese Code.

SHANGHAI.—(AP)—F. J. Schuhl, an American attorney and former naval officer, has been appointed legal advisor of the legislative department of the Chinese government to assist in drafting a new code of Chinese civil law.

More Wine, Less Beer.

LONDON.—(AP)—Drinkers of Great Britain in 1929 spent $5,000,000 more for wine than in 1928 and decreased expenditures for beer by $3,625,000, according to figures issued by the United Kingdom alliance.

Uncle Sam Is Still Spending for 1812 War

Nine Widows Collecting Monthly Pensions.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 21.—June 18 was the 118th anniversary of the formal declaration of war by the United States against Great Britain, yet Uncle Sam is still paying for that conflict at the rate of $500 per month. There are nine widows of soldiers of that war yet living and who are each drawing a pension of $50 per month, while there is a daughter of such a soldier, Esther Ann Morgan of Independence, Ore., who is drawing a similar sum. The nine widows include Lydia Ann Graham, Brushy Run, W. Va.; Emma Arnout, Ashville, N. Y.; Marion Clark, Iowa City, Ia.; Mary Williams, Philadelphia, Pa.; Arminda Anderson, Cedar Grove, Ga.; Mary Coleman, Claudville, Va.; Mary Isgrigg, Cincinnati, O.; Caroline King, East Aurora, N. Y., and Emma Mann, Greenbush, Mass.

Nearly all of these widows are above ninety years of age, some have reached the century mark and most of them are feeble physically. Mrs. Graham of Brushy Run., Va., is 91, the youngest of the group which remains the last living link connecting the present with the war of 118 years ago. She was the second wife of Issac Graham, a fifer in the Virginia militia.

Mrs. Williams Is 96.

Mrs. Williams of Philadelphia is 96. Her husband, John Williams, was studying medicine at Baltimore when war was declared. He enlisted in Moore's militia company, fought with Andrew Jackson at New Orleans and then resumed his studies. He practiced medicine until his death in 1864 at the age of 70.

John R. Clark, husband of Marion Clark of Iowa City, Ia., was a private in McClellan's militia company of Massachusetts.

Samuel Arnout, husband of Emma Arnout of Ashville, N. Y., was a private in Parker's company of New York militia.

Cost $6,000 a Year.

Naturally, the beneficiaries of these nine soldiers represent marriages contracted by the veterans late in their lives, while the brides were young in years. The fact that the treasury of the United States is still paying out $6,000 per annum to these pensioners reveals in a lucid manner the persistence of war costs of this nature, long after the conflict has ended and the lives of the participants are no more.

The government of the United States has paid out in pensions since 1790, the sum of $8,000,000,000. The war of 1812 has cost so far $47,000,000. There were 60,000 claims filed, of which 30,000 were by soldiers and 35,000 by widows. The last soldier of the war of 1812 was Hiram Cronk, who died in 1905, yet twenty-five years later nine widows are still living and it may be several years yet before Uncle Sam can close the books on that conflict.

Croatians Strike for Cheaper Beer

ZAGREB, Jugo Slavia.—(AP)—Almost all the adult population of Croatia has quit drinking beer, not because of any temperance ideal but in an effort to force down the price.

Posters have been placed in all towns and villages urging drinkers to forswear malt and assuage their thirsts with native wines.

About one-third of the saloon keepers have joined the movement. The others do not dare get into it because they are in debt to the brewers.

A Week's Wonderful Holiday

AFTER you book passage from Detroit to Duluth and return, aboard one of the big three, S.S. "Noronic", "Hamonic" or "Huronic" we attend to the details. We plan to give you a wonderful holiday every minute you are our guests.

We organize dances every evening, and a grand masquerade the last night at sea. You will meet everybody aboard ship, including the captain. It will be your floating home. Long tramps on cool decks will rouse your appetite. Delicious full course meals will satisfy it. Social hostesses will keep the hum of activities at fever pitch.

There are long trips ashore at interesting points (Sarnia, the "Soo", Port Arthur, Fort William and Duluth) and picnics, motor drives, golf, if you wish, and other pleasant amusements. Book now and look forward to a glorious week.

Hay fever sufferers find this cruise most beneficial.

Sailings from Brush Street Dock, Detroit, 11 p.m., Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

MOUNT RAINIER

FIRST PACIFIC NORTHWEST "HOUSE PARTY" LEAVES TODAY

—and another like it will leave every Sunday until August 24th. Won't you come join us for the finest vacation trip of your life?

At 11 o'clock this morning (daylight saving time) the first 1930 House Party Tour to the Pacific Northwest will leave Chicago's Union Station via the Milwaukee Road. Northward to the city of Milwaukee it will go ..and then to the Dells and across the rich dairy lands of Wisconsin toward the West. A happy, jolly group of passengers will be on board . . . gaily they'll dance in a special recreation car as the train speeds along . . . tonight there'll be movies and a bridge tournament. And thus, luxuriously, this House Party on Wheels will travel through the Wonderland of the West—on a special train equipped with bath-manicure-valet service . . . commodious lounge-observation cars, and open observation cars in the mountains . . . dining cars like a fashionable cafe, with meals by Rector of Broadway fame! The trains travel on a "sightseeing" schedule, through the scenic regions by daylight . . . and at every stop there are delightful motor trips to be enjoyed, special entertainment plans, a royal welcome to the West!

House Party Tour members have no tickets to buy . . . no reservations to make . . . no travel arrangements to worry about . . . no bother with baggage. The Travel Guild couriers and escorts do all the WORK—you have all the FUN! It's the ideal vacation! Ask today for our booklet.

Dance in special recreation car as your train speeds west.

Play bridge, attend movies . . . right on your special train!

Everywhere in the West, motor along scenic mountain highways in luxurious automobiles.

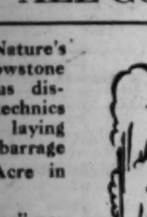
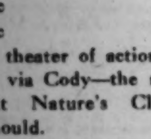
YELLOWSTONE PARK IS ALL-COLOR, ALL-MOTION



Have you seen Nature's Circus in Yellowstone Park—her marvelous display of water pyrotechnics—roaring mountain laying down its "smoke" barrage—Hell's Half Acre in action?

"Dreams come true" are the stuff of which the ideal vacation trip is made. But imagine this place which offers many things you never even dreamed about! Wonders never cease in Yellowstone Park. On a dramatic Northern Pacific tour you enter its theater of action via Gardiner and exit via Cody—the route so arranged that Nature's Climax comes where it should.



Yellowstone is all-color, all-motion! Geysers—Old Faithful and 99 others—shoot clouds of steam and tons of boiling water skyward hour by hour. Colored hot springs hiss and foam. Painted mud boils like porridge. Thermal waters flow in a shimmering sheet over tinted terraces they have been building for ages. The Grand Canyon gleams with lurid gold. What a procession of wonders! And how magnificent is the setting in which they are revealed to you, as big sight-seeing automobiles carry you to every point of interest!

Magnificent mountains, thundering water-falls, ice-cold rivers, quiet lakes and refreshing pine-scented forests present enchanting pictures at every turn of the road. Interest never wanes.

Even the bears add their welcome, while buffalo, elk, antelope and deer roam unmolested in their original wild state

At night and mealtime you are a guest at rustic modern hotels or comfortable lodges. Evenings are gay with dancing, theatricals and singing by the park employes ("savages"). Almost as remarkable as the scenery is the Yellowstone spirit of hospitality.

Something else, too, about a Yellowstone trip will surprise you. It's the cost! Only $155.23 all expenses from Chicago.

We'll gladly plan your entire trip and arrange every detail if you wish. Our office is conveniently located—call personally, telephone or write for free booklets and full information.

The New Morrison, when completed, will be the world's largest and tallest hotel—46 stories high, with 3,450 rooms

A Soda and a Sandwich in the MORRISON COFFEE SHOP

EVEN with train-time approaching, you can enjoy your meal at the Morrison Coffee Shop and Soda Fountain. You get the quickest of quick-lunch service, but the quality of the food is more like that of a table d'hote dinner.

The Tastiest of Ready-Dishes

Many of the most appetizing dishes are ready-to-serve, which makes it a pleasure to "lunch against the clock." The special summer menus and the tempting ice cold drinks at the fountain are especially welcome on warm, sultry days.

1950 Rooms, Each With Bath

Throughout the summer, the Morrison guest-rooms are delightfully cool and well ventilated. Each of them has bath, running ice water, bed-head reading lamp, telephone and Servidor. Guests bringing their own cars receive the most up-to-date service in our private garage.

Rooms $2.50 Up

A hotel so centrally located would, normally, charge nearly double the rates effective at the Morrison. But, here, the large income drawn from subrentals has established an impressively economical scale.

Through the Switzerland of America

In America's finest Motor Coaches—equipped with washroom and lavatory, high back deep-cushioned seats and ice water containers. The most comfortable and easy riding cars ever built.

If you are fed up on the "usual" tour offerings, here's a two weeks' vacation trip that will thrill you—it has that romantic "something" we call adventure, it has scenic beauty, real natural scenery, points of historical interest and many other things that no other vacation suggestion has to offer.

NEXT TOUR
June 29th
and Weekly Thereafter

Every minute will be an interesting one. You'll love the Thousand Islands, the forested ranges of Adirondacks, beautiful Lake Placid, and you'll be thrilled with your visit to Ausable Chasm and your trip across Lake Champlain. Your journey thru the Green and White Mountains, over the Berkshire Trail, thru the Berkshires, along the Hudson River on the Storm King Highway, over the Poconos, thru the Delaware Water Gap and Watkins Glen, will provide scenes you'll never forget and things to talk about, for the rest of your life.

And Gloucester—you'll never forget your half day on romantic Cape Ann, you'll enjoy Salem, the witch city, and you'll never forget your visit to Marblehead, that brine-drenched town by the sea. Then there's a day in Boston—two full days and three glorious nights in New York—with a heavenly night and an enchanted day at Alexandria Bay and the grand climax—a trip across Lake Erie.

All of these scenic thrills are packed into the greatest vacation trip ever offered, the result of seven years of successful operation and experience.

VARIETY gives spice to Life and to vacations

Come to

The LOG LODGE HOTEL

where infinite variety awaits you

LUCERNE IN QUEBEC

SPONSORED BY THE CANADIAN PACIFIC

This unique log-built Hotel (open July 1st) with its beautiful, 80,000 acre Laurentian mountain setting and its romantic old World atmosphere, offers an infinite variety of sport and recreation. Easily accessible too, just 75 miles west of Montreal and 40 miles east of Ottawa.

The spirit of cordial hospitality pervading this forest mansion is sensed upon entering the great lounge where cheery, flickering light radiates from the six hearths of a giant circular fireplace. The balconied dining room—fountain Grill—old English Tavern—flowered terrace gardens—each intrigues with unusually distinctive appeal.

And, for hours of repose, tastefully appointed sleeping chambers whose beds induce childlike slumber. The Log Lodge has 180 of these rooms, each with tiled bath—15 three room suites and one two room suite.

Here is the ideal setting for varied social and recreational diversions. For the first time in the history of a pleasure loving world, all the sports of your heart's desire—gathered together in one magnificent place for your joy and indulgence. Golf on fairways cut through the Canadian woods. Or perhaps you'd rather play tennis, ride, fish or shoot. Then there's swimming, yachting, badminton, aquaplaning, speedboating and even that's not all. Make your reservations now and by all means, bring the family to the Log Lodge this summer.

Write for the illustrated booklet that tells you all about this rustic Hotel. Write for it today!

BUILDINGS MANAGER.

Exceptional Opportunity for One of Chicago's Best Office Building Lease Men.

This advertisement is directed to the man who has had an outstanding successful record leasing office space during bad conditions of the past year, and.

1. Who, understanding renting conditions in Chicago, has plans or ideas he thinks will enable him to take an older building occupying one of the Loop's best corners and containing many fine tenants, and then fill the remaining vacancies this building now has, and.

2. Whose past performance proves he meets difficulties with an enlarged backbone and sufficient creative ability to overcome apparently insurmountable situations, and.

3. One having acquaintanceship with local rental firms who control office leasing for outside companies, and.

4. Who can give entire time to our problem.

Such a man filling our requirements will be required to spend at least from now to November 1 in personal solicitation work, and if he solves our present problem by November 1 he will then be assigned to the complete handling of one large and two smaller office buildings, also to laying the plans for the development of a mammoth outlying theater and a new downtown building to be erected along decidedly different lines.

The parties seeking this man own all of these properties, but are interested in other concerns which they control and which demand their time. Therefore, they offer a connection that is not only permanent, but which has excellent opportunities for unusual returns later.

Good salary plus a bonus for accomplishment will be paid to right man.

All correspondence strictly confidential. Give complete information covering past connections, including results and earnings of each. Also what you are seeking and why. All members of our organizations are advised of this advertisement. Address N M 322, Tribune.

Real Specialty Salesmen Follow a PROVEN PLAN and Make $30,000 per Year

This proven plan in this business is the shortest cut and the surest way you have ever seen to make $30,000 or more per year.

We recently developed a national organization to sell a specialty which has a field bigger than the automobile. Four hundred of these devices were tested out over a period of a year before any were sold. We started to market them nearly a year ago. Without any definite plan, salesmen made up to $400 and $500 per week intermittently.

Last month we started a national campaign. Already orders are pouring in from one hundred up to several hundred at a time from twenty-one different states. Sales operations are started at the present in several other states.

Our sales plan is now thoroughly tested and proven. Our state managers who carry out this plan are sure of making a minimum of $30,000 per year and we give a five year contract on state territory.

The minimum commissions for a state manager making his quota are over $200 a week from the start.

The last three men out of four who started for us have earned $200 per week or more the first week in the field. $500 or $600 the first week is possible.

Every state manager who will carry out our proven plan can soon have twelve to twenty-five distributors in his territory building up a huge income for him in addition to his own sales.

We require daily sales productions from every state manager. This is a business for real seasoned salesmen only. It is a business of hard work and big money. At our present rate of production, within ninety days we will have a big national advertising campaign in full swing.

Our business is the sound, legitimate merchandising of a wonderful specialty with the biggest field and filling perhaps the biggest need of any specialty in the history of selling.

Please do not reply unless you are a worker and a producer who has made $10,000 per year or more over a period of time, ready and willing to pay the price in hard work necessary to make money in a big way.

Call 10 to 12 a. m. or 2 to 4 p. m. only, or write or wire

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

NEWER GARDEN TOOLS BECKON FOLK OUTDOORS

Array Is Challenge to Better Gardens.

BY PAUL POTTER.

The possessor of a back yard who has refrained from putting in a vegetable garden because he bemoaned the hoeing, weeding, pest-ridden job must undoubtedly lack familiarity with the modern implements which at small outlay can equip him for garden production in all its efficiency.

The spade, rake, hoe and specially tonged tools which ordinarily go with gardening have been augmented recently by an interesting assortment of mechanically or motorized operating equipment. Many of them will be found suitable for flower, tree or shrub as well as the garden patch.

There are the miniature walking plows, pushed along like a wheelbarrow, and which can be easily changed to provide cultivator, seeder, weeder, pulverizer and many other needy operations. Some of them are motor powered for larger gardens.

Drop Seeds as Desired.

The seeder attachment will drill practically all vegetables in rows or drop them in hills of varying spaces, just as the full sized modern farm implements do. Blade cultivators shave off weeds just below the surface. A double wheeled combination makes straddling of the rows possible, cultivating both sides in one operation without danger to the plants.

A mulcher which functions somewhat the same as larger field pulverizers works admirably, and a small rotary hoe attachment tears out tender weeds. Truly, such little varipurpose machines pique the interest of the gardener and challenge his mechanical ability.

One's curiosity seldom fails of arousal at the sight of an assortment of garden pumps and sprayers with which to insure freedom from insects and diseases, except for those hereditary or underground. A small patch of berries, grapes, fruit trees or shrubs about the home prosper only when some such means of protection is provided.

Names Three Types of Sprayers.

The average home gardener has a choice between three types of spray pumps, according to T. J. Charles, implement authority in Chicago. The knapsack pump, bucket pump and compressed air pump are all well suited to such limited use, and last many years. Their capacity for spraying fluid, amount of pressure and how well they are built must be considered by the prospect, as well as how much use he will have for a sprayer.

Gardeners or orchardists are finding the recently developed sprayers mounted on wheelbarrows valuable where the trees, shrubs or berry bushes cover considerable area. They have capacity for 10 to 15 gallons, and pressure is developed by means of a long handle operated from between the handle bars. A short hose gives this outfit considerable range, with as much as 200 pounds pressure behind the stream of spray.

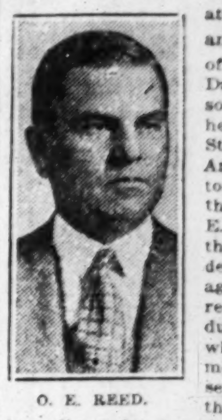
Compares Sprayers, Dusters.

Barrel sprayers constitute an intermediate division between the small sprayers and the large power-driven pumps. Such rigs require little space to operate, and provide 50 gallon capacity, with greater pressure and more nozzles than the wheelbarrow sprayers.

Dusters which may be slung over the shoulder, operated by hand much like a hand fire extinguisher, and larger ones which develop more capacity, will also be found in the array of fortification materials ready to aid the gardener.

Such equipment may not have the appeal of a bag full of shining golf sticks, but the thrills, the outdoor exercise, and the gains in fresh, cheaply produced vegetables, find many an ardent fan these days.

SCIENCE IN DAIRYING TO FEATURE PROGRAM AT AMES JUNE 24-26



O. E. REED.

Outstanding scientists and leaders of the dairy industry are expected to attend the 2[illegible] annual meeting of the American Dairy Science association, to be held at the Iowa State college at Ames on June 24 to 26. Among them will be O. E. Reed, chief of the United States department of agriculture, bureau of dairy industry, from which department will be presented some of the most important discussions on the three-day program, including herd improvement, better quality dairy products, and papers on by-products.

The scientists have invited scores of business men to sit in this council, including manufacturers of dairy products, dealers and economists. R. R. Graves, chief of the federal department's division of breeding, feeding and management investigations, is secretary and treasurer of the association. Other officers are J. M. Sherman, Cornell university, president; H. C. Jackson, University of Wisconsin, vice president, and A. C. Dahlberg, association editor, New York experiment station at Geneva.

Some of the subjects to be offered by various experts are "Packaging Cheese Withotu Processing," "Significance and Use of Body Measurements of Dairy Cattle," "Properties of Casein for Paper Coating," "Precipitation of Gelatin in Chocolate Ice Cream," and "The Economic Situation if the Dairy Industry."

QUESTIONS

WORMS EAT GLADIOLI.

My gladioli tops are being eaten off during the night. Digging around the side of the plant I find a brown backed worm about an inch under the surface. Please advise before plants are all eaten. P. O. G.

REPLY:

Cutworms are the pest that do this damage at night. Digging them out is a good plan where they infest a few plants, but where they are general throughout the gladiola bed, a thorough control measure is obtained by mixing up a poison bran bait and sprinkling this between the rows in the afternoon. The poison is mixed with bran sweetened with molasses and moistened enough with water to make the mash stick together, but not sloppy.

BORER DAMAGES ELM.

I would like some advice in regard to one of my trees. It is an elm, probably 20 years old. Last year the leaves started falling in July and this year they are falling already. Could you advise me what the trouble could be? C. D. E.

REPLY.

Evidently the tree is being girdled internally by an elm tree borer. Sometimes they can be taken out by inserting a long and thin bladed knife into the wound. A tree expert may be able to give you aid in this trouble which probably will lead to the loss of the tree if it is not corrected soon.

CARE OF PANSIES.

What sort of care should be given to pansies to make them bloom freely? My pansy plants get the morning sun and I water them frequently. The plants are fine and healthy but the blossoms are few and small. G. A. E.

REPLY.

When pansy plants come into bloom in the heat of summer, the flowers will be small at first, but will increase in size and beauty as the weather becomes cooler. Pansies need to be shaded somewhat and given sufficient water either through rains or artificial watering or both.
